REPORT

OF THE

DEPUTY POSTMASTER GENERAL

1919-1920

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,

OTTAWA, November 11, 1920.

To the Honourable
PIERRE EDOUARD BLONDIN,
Postmaster General of Canada.

I have the honour to submit the following report of the operations of the Post Office Department for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1920, as shown in summarized statements covering the various branches of the department.

I have the honour to be, sir,
Your obedient servant,
R. M. COULTER,
Deputy Postmaster General.

NUMBER OF POST OFFICES

STATEMENT showing the number of post offices in operation in the several provinces of the Dominion on March 31, 1919, the number of post offices established and the number of post offices closed during the year from March 31, 1919, to March 31, 1920, and the number in operation on March 31, 1920.

Province	Number of Post Offices in operation at end of fiscal year, 1919	Number of Post Offices established from 31st March, 1919, to 31st March, 1920	Number of Post Offices closed from 31st March, 1919, to 31st March, 1920	Number of Post Offices in operation on 31st March 1920
Ontario	2,588	32	48	2,572
Quebec	2,279	34	25	2,288
Nova Scotia	1,865	11	31	1,845
New Brunswick	1,157	8	20	1,145
Prince Edward Island	145	.....	8	137
British Columbia	808	36	18	826
Manitoba	790	17	13	794
Alberta	1,195	26	30	1,191
Saskatchewan	1,440	23	33	1,430
Yukon	23	.....	.....	23
	12,290	187	226	12,251

Total number of post offices in operation on March 31, 1919	12,290
Number of offices established from March 31, 1919, to March 31, 1920	187
Number of offices closed to March 31, 1920	226
Total number of post offices in operation on March 31, 1920	12,251
Net decrease	39

NOTE.—The closing of post offices has in most cases been due to the fact that the establishment of rural mail delivery routes has rendered the offices unnecessary; consequently, although there are fewer post offices in operation than at the end of the previous fiscal year, the postal service has been considerably extended.

RURAL MAIL DELIVERY

There were 32 additional rural mail delivery routes established during the year ended March 31, 1920, and the number of boxes served was increased by 7,576.

GENERAL FINANCIAL STATEMENT, 1919-20

The net revenue for the year, including war tax, amounted to $24,449,916.97 and the expenditure to $20,774,385.20, increases of $2,847,204.32 and $1,500,831.56 respectively. The surplus of revenue over expenditure for the year was $3,675,531.77. Excluding the war tax, calculated at $7,312,534.97, the expenditure exceeded the actual postal revenue by $3,637,003.20.

The following statements show in detail the revenue and expenditure for the year:—

REVENUE

SUMMARY

The above shows a gross increase in the expenditure for 1919-20 over that of the previous year of.....		$304,792 78
Deducted from this amount should be excess moneys returned to the Treasury over that in previous year—for the sale of equipment and moneys paid to other Departments.....		78,334 17
which would result in a net increase of.....		$226,458 61
This increase is explainable as follows:—
Increased cost of material for bagging and fittings and making up bags.....	$141,469 79
Increase in the cost of material and making up of letter carriers' and transfer agents' uniforms..	8,299 29
Increase in moneys paid the letter carriers for boots	16,119 05
New equipment not issued previous year such as shirtwaists, felt hats, and new style fur caps..	18,517 25
		$ 184,405 38
Leaving a comparatively small balance chargeable to growth of service, amounting to.....		42,053 23
		$ 226,458 61

ASSETS

Against this increase credit should be taken for,—
Increase in value of equipment issued.....	$ 111,923 38
Actual increase in value of stock on hand.....	114,535 23
		$ 226,458 61

REPORT

OF THE

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

1920

Hon. ARTHUR MEIGHEN, K.C., M.P.,
Minister of the Interior,
Ottawa.

I have the honour to submit the 47th Annual Report of the Department of the Interior for the twelve months ending March 31, 1920.

The reservation of the most desirable homesteading lands for soldier settlement has kept down the number of entries granted to civilians, but nevertheless the amount of land business transacted is very satisfactory and it is anticipated that with the rapid completion of the work of settling returned soldiers upon the land the reservations will be discontinued at an early date and the lands then made available will be taken up rapidly by incoming settlers and by those at present resident in cities who desire to take up farming and are not willing to go any distance from established settlements.

Owing to the fact that free homesteading land immediately adjacent to transportation facilities was not available, private owners were enabled to dispose of a great deal of desirable farm land. In this they were assisted by our Natural Resources Intelligence Branch, who prepared a list of unoccupied land giving the names of the owners. These lists were widely distributed and resulted in a great many farms being procured by those who were able to pay for them.

The reported discovery of oil in the Mackenzie district of the Northwest Territories means that we may expect a rapid influx to the far north, and the department is now formulating regulations whereby the resources of the Northwest Territories may be developed along lines that are in the best public interest and at the same time endeavour to protect the welfare of the native population and the animal life of those districts.

The educational work of our Parks Branch is bearing fruit and we have to report a very gratifying influx of American tourists. Each and all are enthusiastic about the advantages of our national parks, and it is confidently expected that the movement which has been established will be a permanent asset.

The increasing price of coal to the Canadian consumer has focussed the public eye upon our water-power resources, their availability for economic development and more extensive utilization.

Immediately following you will find a brief synopsis of the work of the various branches which has been prepared as a preface to the more detailed statements submitted by the head of each branch.

The Dominion Parks.

As predicted last year the season of 1919-20 saw an immense revival of tourist travel to the national parks. In fact for part of the season the volume of traffic was almost greater than could be accommodated. Banff, lake Louise, Emerald lake, Glacier, and Jasper were crowded to capacity during July and August, and visitors who had not made reservations in advance found it difficult to secure accommodation. The most marked feature was the increased length of time spent by visitors in the parks. Formerly the majority stayed over for a few days only at each point. Now large numbers spend their entire holidays in the parks, remaining weeks at a time and often the whole season. While this necessarily lowers the number of registrations by decreasing the available accommodation it indicates that the parks are becoming national playgrounds in the true sense of the word.

The continued increase in wild life in practically all of the parks is most gratifying and affords the best evidence of the value of sanctuary protection. Reports from the various superintendents show that in the three parks on the eastern slope of the Rockies both big game and game birds are coming back in large numbers. The superintendent of Jasper park reports that this year the bighorn, which a few years ago in that park had been reduced to very small numbers, now total 5,000. In the Southesk hunting country contiguous to Jasper park last season there were reported to be 2,000 bighorn, evidently an overflow from Jasper park. Similar reports of better hunting come from practically all districts outside park boundaries indicating that the protection afforded by the parks is not only increasing the wild life within their boundaries, but it is resulting, as predicted, in a natural overflow of game which is restocking the hunting areas.

A notable addition to the wild life of Jasper and Rocky Mountain parks was the introduction of a herd of 300 elk secured from Yellowstone National park in Montana. These animals were brought in during the winter and in spite of very severe weather in transit suffered only small loss and are reported to be in excellent condition.

The buffalo herds in Elk Island and Buffalo parks continue to thrive and now number almost 5,000. In view of the large increase the question of the commercial disposal of surplus males is under consideration. From investigations which have been carried on it would appear that a very satisfactory revenue can probably be obtained in the near future. Last March a number of mounted buffalo heads were put up at auction at the Canadian fur sales at Montreal, where they brought prices ranging from $325 to $1,025. Robes sold for as high as $125. The utilization of the wool and hides for manufactures is also being investigated and it has been found that the former can be utilized commercially for the manufacture of carpets, belting, mitts, heavy clothing, etc., while the latter, when properly tanned, can be converted into strong flexible sole leather.

At Point Pelee which was created a national park only two years ago, the results of protection are already apparent. The superintendent reports a noticeable increase of bird life during migration, especially of duck and geese. A gratifying feature is the number of quail now to be found in the park. The increase in muskrats is also very satisfactory. During the past winter it was estimated that there were 2,000 dwellings with an average of six inhabitants each, or a total of 12,000 muskrats in the park. At the prevailing high price of skins, the value of this form of wild life represents over $50,000.

The work in connection with the protection of migratory birds has been vigorously prosecuted during the year. A number of the provinces have amended their wild life legislation so as to make it conform with the terms of the treaty. In the Maritime Provinces, where this has not yet been done, a temporary staff of migratory bird wardens was organized. A staff of honourary game wardens, which at present numbers nearly 200, is also being formed throughout the Dominion to serve primarily as an observation service. In addition the Royal Canadian Mounted Police throughout the Dominion have been made special wardens under the Migratory Birds Treaty Act. The existence of a colony of from fifty to one hundred trumpeter swans in Western Canada was discovered and reported to the department by a western ornithologist. Up to the time of the discovery of this flock only a few isolated specimens of this species were believed to exist on the continent. A special warden has been placed in charge of the colony and it is hoped that under protection this valuable species may be perpetuated. An educational campaign involving the publication of a number of pamphlets both in English and French, special articles, lectures and moving pictures was also carried on.

In connection with the protection of wild life in the far north a Royal Commission was appointed to investigate the question of the domestication of caribou and muskox, and the introduction of reindeer for commercial purposes. A number of sittings have taken place and an important volume of evidence has been collected which will shortly be issued in the form of a report.

An advisory board composed of several of the most prominent Canadian historians was appointed to assist the department in the work of the preservation of our historic sites and monuments. A survey of the important sites and remains throughout Canada is now being made and data collected which will form the basis of a future policy in connection with their preservation and memorialization.

Natural Resources.

Owing to the increase of inquiry regarding the specific resources of all the provinces and the outlet for these resources abroad, it has been found advisable to publish a map localizing minerals, cereals, fish, fruits, timber or water-powers and indicating foreign trade routes. Sets of coloured slides with descriptive notes also have been placed in Australia, France, and Great Britain, and accounts of the latest developments in all the provinces continue to be spread by means of technical articles and "illustrated pamphlets." Every legitimate effort is thus made to increase the supply of three of Canada's pressing needs, population, capital, and foreign trade.

EASTERN CANADA.

Outside interest in Quebec, Ontario, and the Maritime Provinces continues to grow. During the past year attention has been especially focussed on the following items of interest: pulpwood areas, iron deposits, the further domestic refining and manufacture of the raw material of asbestos, nickel, pyrite, platinum, mica, graphite, chromite and of the other products of the rich and varied deposits in southern Quebec, and in eastern and northern Ontario, the rock salt and potash deposits of Malagash, N.S., and the oil shales of Gaspé.

NORTHERN ALBERTA AND THE MACKENZIE BASIN.

Increased facility for transportation is a natural result of the continued influx of settlers to the Peace river and other regions of northern Alberta, combined with the discoveries of coal, gypsum and other resources described in the 1919 report. The ballasting of the last few miles north of Leismer of the railway to McMurray will facilitate connection with the Hudson's Bay Company's ss. Mackenzie River, which in 1920 is scheduled for three trips from Fort Smith to Fort McPherson, and assist the many drilling outfits attracted to the Mackenzie basin. It is gratifying to note the encouragement given to such explorers by the drilling at Fort Norman, which struck an eight barrel flow at 80 feet. The bituminous sands of North Alberta, which may be surface indications of an oil basin, are themselves a subject of much consideration.

The present cost of transportation making competition with other sources of asphalt impracticable, it is suggested that a reduction plant might be erected in their neighbourhood as the basis of a new chemical industry, whereby varied by-products could be put on the market without the hauling cost of deadweight.

SASKATCHEWAN.

Among natural resources to which attention has of late been called there may be mentioned the occurrence of oil and gas at Alameda and in the south, of oil near Dewar lake on the western border and of bituminous coal at the eastern edge of the lignites in the Lampman district. The success of the experiments in briquetting lignite at Bienfait is resulting in the erection of a plant of considerable capacity. That Saskatchewan, which has been proved to have very large and valuable clay deposits, should import brick and tile products from abroad is an anomaly which cannot last long. The large deposits of sodium and magnesium sulphate at Fusilier, Dana, Ceylon, and other localities in the south have been subjects of inquiry, and the prospect of an industry derived from the evaporation of salt from the brine springs of Senlae is to be noted.

MANITOBA.

The products of the northern Manitoba copper mines continue to be shipped to the smelter at Trail, B.C., where this ore is found to be specially suitable for fluxing with those of Rossland. It is not mere conjecture that the mineral areas of northern Manitoba and Saskatchewan lie on a belt surrounding the Canadian shield and that outcrops in any part of that belt may indicate considerable mineral deposits. Smelting facilities in these northern parts depend on the completion of railroad lines and the attraction of capital looking for use.

UNOCCUPIED AND UNCULTIVATED LANDS.

Among the natural resources of Canada agricultural land is by far the most important, and its development is essential to the prosperity of the country. The day of the free homestead within easy reach of a railway is rapidly becoming a thing of the past and means other than free grants must be looked to as an inducement to rural development.

There are tens of millions of acres of good accessible lands in private ownership which are now unoccupied and uncultivated owing to the non-residence of the owners. The information already published by the department as to the location of such lands in the Prairie and the Maritime Provinces was so useful in meeting the requirements of those wishing to purchase land in the more settled districts that further lists have been prepared giving certain useful particulars, such as area, character of soil, distance from markets, price, terms, etc. This information is now being printed in booklet form for general distribution, and thereby an important step is being taken to put the man who wishes to go on to the land in direct touch with the owner of idle lands, and thus enable him to get placed in the more settled localities, with their better transportation, market and social facilities, where his efforts will be of more economic value to the country and of greater profit to himself.

Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Victoria, B.C.

This is the second annual report upon the work of this observatory, in which actual observational work was begun on May 6, 1918. As the details of the work are presented in complete form in the publications of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, of which eight numbers are already issued, it will only be necessary here to present a brief summary of what has been accomplished.

The work of the observatory during the past year has mainly consisted in the continuation of the programme of observation and measurement of the spectra of some 800 stars of magnitudes between 5.5 and 8.0 selected from Boss's Preliminary General Catalogue. This work was commenced as soon as the telescope was completed and will be continued energetically until the radial velocities of these stars have been determined, which it is estimated will take about another year. This programme was compiled, after consultation with several eminent astronomers as to the most necessary and useful work for the new telescope, in co-operation with the Lick and Mount Wilson Observatories, the only institutions besides our own with instrumental equipment sufficiently powerful to attack these relatively faint stars. It was so arranged and divided that the velocities of all the stars, which are within reach at Victoria and Mount Wilson, in Boss's catalogue in which the radial motions are especially important to be obtained on account of their proper or cross motions being known, would be completed at about the same time.

Good progress has been made on this important work, which is now about two-thirds completed. In the year April 1, 1919, to March 31, 1920, 2,275 star spectra, between the numbers 1727 and 4001, have been obtained on 199 nights. On some 20 additional nights the dome has been opened and an exposure on a stellar spectrum started, but owing to clouds or other bad conditions this could not be finished and no complete observation was secured. On 29 of the 199 nights only one or two plates were obtained and only on about 150 nights was the sky continuously clear throughout. One clear night could not be used while the mirror was being resilvered and one was taken up by the refiguring and testing of the Cassegrain mirror. Otherwise it may be safely said that the telescope was engaged in actual observations on every usuable night, including Sundays and holidays, in the year.

Since the staff has been increased, although it takes about three times as long on the average to measure and reduce a plate as is required in obtaining it, the measurement of the spectra have been kept well up to date and the final velocities of nearly half the stars on the programme have been determined. None, however, will be published until the whole programme is completed. In the course of this measurement 56 spectroscopic binaries have been discovered, as compared with 54 in the first year, and our first list of 100 new spectroscopic binaries is now being published.

In addition to and in a sense complementary to the main programme, a number of independent investigations have been carried through by the members of the staff. These include the determination of the spectroscopic orbits and consequently also of the absolute linear dimensions and separations, and of the densities and masses of the eclipsing variables U Ophiuchi, R.S. Vulpeculæ and T. W. Draconis by the director; of the determination of the orbits of the spectroscopic binaries, Boss 4507, Boss 5026 and Delphini by Mr. W. E. Harper; of the determination of the orbit of Boss 4669 by Dr. R. K. Young. There are besides numerous uncompleted investigations in process by each of these astronomers and also by Mr. H. H. Plaskett, recently appointed, which will be reported next year.

The testing of the optical properties of the telescope was continued by the director with the result that although the figure of the principal mirror was practically perfect it was felt that the results with the secondary or Cassegrain might be somewhat improved by a slight refiguring and it was deemed advisable to take advantage of the clause in the contract requiring the optician, if necessary, to refigure the secondary mirror after installation, without additional cost outside his travelling expenses to Victoria. This was done in August, 1919, resulting in considerable improvement in the image given by the Cassegrain combination as determined by later tests by the Hartmann method. Continued operation of the equipment has only served to confirm and strengthen the favourable opinion of its completeness and accuracy, and of the convenience and ease of operation previously formed and there is no doubt that it forms a decided advance over existing instruments in all these particulars.

The privilege extended to the public of viewing celestial objects through the telescope on Saturday evenings between eight and ten o'clock has been fully taken advantage of with an average attendance during the tourist season of about 200 which is reduced during the winter months to about 50. In addition every week day visitors are admitted and have the operation of the telescope explained to them and this is also fully taken advantage of and appreciated, the daily attendance in the summer months being between 50 and 100. Visitors are registered here from all over the world and the situation of Victoria, direct in the path of Oriental travel, and the pride which the local authorities take in the institution cannot fail to make it and the enterprise of the Government in establishing it increasingly known and appreciated.

The scientific staff of the observatory which consisted at the beginning of the year of the director and Dr. R. K. Young was increased by the transference of Mr. W. E. Harper from the Dominion Observatory, Ottawa, about the middle of April and by the appointment of Mr. H. H. Plaskett and his reporting for duty early in October. These additions have enabled the telescope to be more efficiently used and the work to be more nearly kept up to date. The original estimate of a director and four astronomers being required will not likely be exceeded and an additional astronomer should be appointed as soon as possible.

It is a matter of great regret and of loss to the work that the additional buildings so urgently needed have not yet been provided. The temporary office quarters on the ground floor of the observatory building are now very crowded and entirely inadequate to properly and efficiently carry on the work and a suitable office building, which need not be expensive, is essential if full advantage of the possibilities of the telescope is to be utilized. Equally necessary are residences for the astronomers engaged in night observations as the present arrangement whereby they have to travel seven miles by train and climb a mile and a half to the observatory for night work is not only unfair to them but obviously prevents, on many occasions when the weather is uncertain, full use of the telescope. In view of the large capital cost of the undertaking and the value of the work, this should not be permitted and both residences and office building should be erected as soon as possible.

Besides numerous papers in different astronomical publications by members of the staff the following numbers of the publications of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory have been issued during the year.

Vol. 1, No. 1.—Description of Building and Equipment, by J. S. Plaskett.

Dominion Observatory, Ottawa.

During the fiscal year 1919-20 work with the meridian circle was prosecuted on the same programme as in recent years; observations were obtained on 99 nights, the weather on the whole being rather unfavourable. The present observing programme, which has been somewhat delayed on account of the prevalence of poor observing conditions in our climate during the winter months, is now approaching completion; the computations necessary for the reduction of the observations, however, which were almost at a standstill throughout the war, are still in arrears. Some preliminary work was done on the measurement of the division errors of the two large graduated circles, which require to be determined before the reductions can be definitely completed. It is hoped to complete the greater part of these measurements during the present summer.

Field observations for latitude and longitude were carried out at one station in eastern Quebec. The longitude was determined directly from Ottawa by electric telegraph; the latitudes, as usual, by Talcott's method.

The time service has been maintained as in previous years. There are nine secondary master-clocks synchronized continuously from the observatory, these in turn control 386 clocks and dials of various kinds, including the tower-clocks at the observatory and the city post office. In the near future the system is to be extended to the Hunter building and the new Parliament Building. Relays beating seconds are maintained in three offices in the city, one clock is synchronized every hour, time signals are sent out by telegraph and telephone, and the time is recorded on the various seismographs at the observatory. A comparison is made daily with Washington time by means of the wireless time-signals sent out by Arlington; this enables us when desirable (as, per example, during long periods of cloudy weather) to make use of the Washington observations as well as our own, for determination of clock-error. During each of the past two winters tests have been made of the rates of a number of box chronometers under varying temperature conditions. As a result it has been found possible to very materially improve the performance of several of these chronometers by a readjustment of the temperature compensation.

The large equatorial telescope was utilized as heretofore for obtaining radial velocities of stars. A total of 305 spectrum plates were exposed and about 314 stellar and planetary spectra obtained including about 66 stars, mostly class B, on about 66 nights; of these about 179 spectra have been measured and reduced to date. Three new short period spectroscopic binaries were found.

Successful tests were carried out on a new differential expansion thermostat for controlling the temperature of the prism box.

Vernier scales and their illuminating systems were improved in connection with observations on the two Metcalf comets of August and September, 1919.

The equatorial was available to the public on Saturday nights, and many visitors enjoyed the privilege.

With the coelostat and solar spectrograph 219 plates comprising 1,050 exposures (each of which includes 9 strips of spectra of various combinations of centre, limbs and intermediate points of the solar disc along with iodine and electric arc comparisons) were made. Measurements of rotation, wave-lengths, etc., were continued. Also, 70 photographs of sun-spots were made. Some relationships between variations in the sun and solar system and terrestrial changes were found.

The photographic equatorial telescope has been used entirely for photometric work during the past year. About one hundred plates of various fields have been obtained and most of them reduced by the extra-focal method.

Nova Aquilae No. 3 has been removed from the observing list and the measures of its light up to the end of 1919 are ready for publication. All plates of 12 Lacertae, b Persei and 20 Cassiopeia have been reduced and the results will be published shortly. Five fields in the region of the Pole have been measured for comparison of the magnitude scale with those of other observers and several new stars have been added to the observing list.

The field work, in connection with the magnetic survey of Canada, carried on by the Dominion Observatory, was confined during the past season to stations previously occupied, for the purpose of securing secular variations or annual change data. Sixty-four stations in all were occupied representing fifty-five distinct localities. In the spring and fall observations were taken at Ottawa, as well as a series of comparison observations at the magnetic observatory, at Agincourt.

During the fiscal year 96 earthquakes have been registered as compared with 137 in the last fiscal year. Of these only 28 were sufficiently well marked to permit of a distance being deduced. The whole period has been remarkable for the absence of large and the scarcity of well-marked earthquakes. The deformation instrument continued to function in the study of the tides of the solid earth.

The seismographs of the observatory at Saskatoon and at Halifax continue to supply valuable data.

The undagraph at Chebucto, recording every wave of the Atlantic on the coast of Nova Scotia, correlated its record with the micros noted at the observatory.

Monthly bulletins were issued as usual of the Ottawa seismograms, and distributed to earthquake stations all over the world.

The library contains some 10,000 bound technical books, periodicals and pamphlets which are being catalogued, classified and indexed, requiring some 60,000 cards. The congestion and want of adequate space for the books is again drawn attention to, with the hope that the plans prepared in 1914 by the Department of Public Works for enlargement may soon be proceeded with.

There were issued 23 publications of the observatory, which meant a distribution of some 10,000 numbers amongst 400 observatories and scientific institutions of the world.

The machine shop of the observatory has been busy with constructing instruments and apparatus for the observatory, and has also attended to some repair work for the Geodetic Survey and Boundary Commission.

At the annual meeting of the American Astronomical Society at Ann Arbor, Mich., the Dominion Observatory presented several papers, and was represented by the director, who is a member of the council, and by Dr. DeLury.

With the return of members of the staff from overseas the work of the observatory is again assuming normal proportions and is being pursued with more vigour than ever.

Reclamation.

DRAINAGE.

The Drainage Division of the Reclamation Service, the formation of which was approved in February, 1919, was thoroughly organized in the following spring, so that by June 1 some of the parties were able to take the field.

An important programme of work was carried on during the remainder of the year, the result of which has been to render available valuable information regarding the feasibility and practicability of a few big and a large number of small projects, concerning which the department was being pressed for information and decision.

The new co-operative legislation passed by the Federal Government and the Provincial Governments of Alberta and Saskatchewan to remove certain administrative obstacles standing in the way of drainage development, has greatly facilitated the work of reclaiming swampy and flooded areas in Alberta and Saskatchewan. The province of Manitoba has not yet passed legislation to enable it to benefit by the new arrangement, but four investigations were made in this province by the Reclamation Service, three at the request of the Soldier Settlement Board and one at the request of settlers.

It is anticipated that the movement for drainage development in the West will be very much stronger during 1920 as the legislative and engineering facilities for this work are now becoming widely known throughout the districts requiring reclamation by drainage.

INTERNATIONAL WATERWAYS TREATY.

The flow of the St. Mary and Milk rivers was again divided under the provisions of an interim order made by the International Joint Commission. It is hoped that a final adjustment of this question will be made in the near future by the commission.

HYDROMETRIC SURVEYS.

The years 1917 and 1918 were very dry but 1919 was equally as dry, if not drier, than the two years preceding. The records of stream-flow obtained show that the total discharge of streams is, in almost all cases, the lowest on record. The data acquired are very valuable as they indicate for most streams what is probably a minimum flow.

IRRIGATION.

Had there been stored moisture from previous years in the soil, conditions in 1919 might not have been so serious but without this, those who depended upon dry farming methods for good crops, were doomed to disappointment. On the other hand, the comparatively few holding water rights, were able to supply the much needed moisture at the right time, with results in many cases so splendid in comparison with neighbouring dry farmers, that prejudices against irrigation in southern Alberta and Saskatchewan are largely removed from the minds of all in these localities.

The programme of surveys to determine the feasibility of several large projects, which had to be curtailed during the great war, was again taken up. Very good progress was made with this work but unfortunately the field season was cut short by early severe weather. These surveys will be largely completed in 1920.

Some of the survey work was delayed for a short time in the spring pending an understanding being reached between the Federal and Alberta Governments regarding a division of the responsibility in connection with surveys for and construction of the larger projects. It was finally decided that the Dominion Government would be responsible for survey work and a certain amount of supervision of construction, while the provincial or local authorities would undertake construction of these projects. Survey work was immediately resumed when this understanding was reached.

WATER SUPPLY INVESTIGATIONS.

These investigations in connection with domestic and stock water supplies were continued in 1919 although, owing to the pressure of other work, it was not possible to give them as much attention as in previous seasons. However, considerable information was obtained and several reserves were created in the interest of the Better Water Supply Scheme for Alberta.

MINING LANDS.

The year has been marked by greatlly increased activity in nearly all forms of mining operations. Owing to the increased cost of production the gold industry has been confronted by an operating cost almost as great as the value of the article produced, and since there can be no compensating adjustment of the selling price so long as the integrity of the gold standard is maintained, gold mining has not been as profitable as in the past, and as a result has not been prosecuted with as great vigour.

With the discovery of rich deposits of silver-lead ore in the Mayo district, mining in the Yukon Territory has enterred upon a new era, and much is expected from this discovery as soon as more efficient transportation facilities can be secured.

Mining in northern Manitoba may now be considered an established industry, and in case the results from operations being conducted this season on mining claims in the Flin Flon Lake district are moderately successful, the construction of a railway and the erection of a smelter appear to be assured.

Operations for the discovery of oil in quantity in the western provinces and territories are being prosecuted with great vigour. Machinery of the most modern character is being employed, and wells are being bored over an area extending from the international boundary to the Lower Mackenzie River basin. While natural gas in quantities far beyond the market requirements has been released in different parts of the western provinces, and oil in conservative quantities has been discovered at different points in the province of Alberta, no large flow of oil has yet been found, but it is confidently expected that the intensive operations of the present year will reveal the presence of an extensive oil-field in Western Canada.

WATER-POWERS.

The fundamental importance of the water-power resources of the Dominion is conclusively shown by the results of an exhaustive census and analysis of the developed water-power in Canada, just completed by the Dominion Water Power Branch. The total power installation throughout the Dominion approximates 2,418,000 turbine or water-wheel horse-power, of which 2,215,000 horse-power is actually and regularly employed in useful work. The ultimate capacity of the plants now operating, together with new plants at present under construction, totals 3,385,000 horse-power. The total capital invested in central electric stations alone is $401,942,402.

With a water-power development of 274 horse-power per capital Canada stands well in the forefront with respect to availability and utilization of her power resources. She is only surpassed in this respect by Norway. The enormous water-power resources still untouched form a substantial basis for the progressive exploitation and development of other natural resources, and, if properly co-ordinated with the development and utilization of the enormous fuel reserves of the Dominion, are an assurance of continued industrial expansion and prosperity.

A fundamental necessity to the best development and use of the fuel-powér resources of the country is a definite plan or programme. Satisfactory progress is being made in the evolution of a master fuel-power policy for this purpose. The Dominion Power Board organized on April 25, 1918, and comprising in its personnel engineers of the Dominion and Provincial Government services peculiarly fitted by experience and position to assist in the problem, is charged with the responsibility for working out such a policy.

Through the efforts of the Dominion Water Power Branch very satisfactory progress indeed has been realized in the consolidation and co-ordination of Government efforts in connection with the investigation, the administration and the exploitation of water-power resources. A very important step in this connection is the preliminary arrangements for the establishment of a Dominion Hydrometric Survey. It is expected that this will be accomplished by the consolidation of all the hydrometric survey organizations employed by the Department of the Interior.

Positive progress has been made in the administrative feature of water-power development by the passing by Parliament of the Dominion Water Power Act, (chapter 19, 9-10 George V), which replaces section 35 of the Dominion Lands Act, under which section there have been established by Order in Council from time to time regulations providing for the administration of water-powers under the control of the Department of the Interior in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the railway belt of British Columbia, and the Yukon Territory.

The new Act elaborates, extends and defines in general terms, the power and authority of the department respecting the investigation and administration of water-powers, and provides for the establishment of appropriate regulations by order of the Governor in Council. Substantial progress has been made in the evolution of the new water-power regulations, and it is confidently expected that when these are promulgated they will prove a panacea for most of the difficulties which have been confronting the department in its endeavour to encourage the proper exploitation of the water-power resources placed under its responsible charge.

One very important feature of the water-power efforts of the department, and of great importance to the Dominion generally, is the extensive research in water-power laws, regulations and problems of other countries. This work has been carried on under the immediate supervision of Mr. H. W. Grunsky, a legal expert of much experience in water-power and water resource administrative problems. It is doubtful whether, owing to the great expense involved, the mass of information collected and collated to date can be made generally available in printed form to the interested public, but special arrangements are being perfected for furnishing typed copies to administrative officers concerned with water-power problems throughout the Dominion and the Provincial Government services, as well as to such officers in other parts of the Empire and among countries allied with Great Britain during the great war. The efforts of Canada in this respect have been highly commended by officials of other countries, and especially by those of the sister dominions of the Empire.

The co-operation of the department with other federal and provincial organizations concerned with water-power and cognate problems has been satisfactorily maintained and substantially extended during the year. Formal co-operative agreements have been entered into with the Maritime Provinces (Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island), and with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, whereby the basic water resource investigation, including hydrometric survey work in these portions of the Dominion are undertaken by the Dominion Water Power Branch.

During the past year the return of officers from overseas service has recruited the staff almost up to pre-war strength, with the result that it has been possible to undertake important water-power investigatory and administrative work that had been temporarily suspended during the war.

Forestry

The summer of 1919 was the most disastrous for forest fires since the establishment of the forest reserves. All through the West the spring was early and dry. Spring and early summer, especially in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, were characterized by extreme drought and the weather continued very dry throughout the summer in Alberta and British Columbia. By strenuous exertions the field staff were able to hold the general situation well in hand, but a number of fires got away and heavy damage to the forests resulted. Saskatchewan suffered the heaviest loss of all the provinces, the largest fire occurring in the Battleford fire-ranging district. In Alberta the most serious fires occurred in the Bow River forest. In British Columbia there were a number of fires but the loss was small compared with that in Saskatchewan and Alberta. It may be noted that in the states of Montana and Idaho the losses from forest fires in 1919 were among the most serious ever experienced in that region. The cost of fighting forest fires during June, July, and August in those states was over two and a half million dollars.

There is a considerable increase in the revenue received from Dominion forest reserves, the total for the past year being $127,975, which is five times what was received for the year 1913-14. Such a marked increase in revenue indicates the increasing importance of the forest reserves to settlers and to nearby communities.

The growing importance of forestry and forest conservation to the British Empire has led to the call, by the forest authorities of the United Kingdom, of a forestry conference to meet in London in July of this year (1920). It is confidently expected that the result of this gathering will be to accelerate the movement to apply modern scientific methods to the mangement and development of the forests of the Empire.

The work at the Petawawa (Ontario) forest experiment station of studying the best methods for the regeneration of cut-over and burned-over forests has been continued, and a number of additional sample plots located, marked, and recorded.

Experimental work in setting out and recording the growth of forest tree plantations at Indian Head (Saskatchewan) nursery station has been carried on as usual, the information obtained thereform being of great value in the planting work of the Forestry Branch on the forest reserves, and to the farmers in setting out wood-lots and shelter-belts. The season being hot and dry was unsatisfactory one for tree-growth, and the percentage of loss in the farmers' plantations which had been set out under the supervision of the Forestry Branch was much higher than usual. The demand by prairie settlers for trees for planting which, owing to labour shortage, fell off somewhat during the war years, is again increasing and promises to increase steadily in the future.

At the request of the Forestry Commission of the British Isles a large quantity of Sitka spruce seed was collected by officers of the Forestry Branch, and shipped to Great Britain for use in planting and seeding operations there. This seed was collected in the Queen Charlotte islands, British Columbia.

Very successful moving pictures showing forest fires, how they start and how combatted, were taken, also pictures showing the different operations in tree-planting on the prairies from beginning to end. Canadian moving-picture theatres, lecturers and educational institutions will thus no longer have to depend on pictures of such scenes taken in other countries.

Improvement work in the forest reserves had to be curtailed on account of the fire situation which necessitated the attention of a large part of the field staff throughout the season, and considerably reduced the funds available for this purpose.

The demand for grazing permits increased greatly over last year, 1,653 being issued. This is an increase of 40 per cent over the previous year, and indicates that the grazing resources of the reserves are being appreciated by the settlers on adjoining lands. This is also shown by the increasing number of grazing or stock associations being formed by the settlers. The demand for grazing has made it necessary to ascertain the maximum carrying capacity of the various grazing districts and reconnaissances have been made on several of the reserves. As a result it has been found that more stock can be accommodated on several of the reserves than was formerly deemed possible.

While somewhat hampered by the post-war conditions referred to in last year's report, the Forest Products Laboratories continued their work of assisting Canadian industry by investigating native woods and wood products.

REPORT OF THE CHIEF INSPECTOR OF DOMINION LAND AGENCIES, H. G. CUTTLE.

During the year I held a great many investigations in connection with Dominion Lands, many of which were under oath, authorized by Order in Council. I also visited all the land offices in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta, except Peace River district. During the year I found everything in a most satisfactory condition, the work of the offices well kept up and all the officials giving good service to the department.

During the past fiscal year collections in connection with 1914-15 seed grain distribution amounted to a little more than $1,000,000, which I consider very good taking into account the bad crops prevailing throughout the West during the year 1919.

In reference to the seed grain distribution for the past fiscal year I may say that up to March 31 I approved of 3,661 applications for seed grain advances, which necessitated the furnishing of 146,781 bushels of wheat, 170,575 bushels of oats, and 5,035 bushels of barley. During the year 36 applications were cancelled, the parties making other arrangements.

My assistant is kept on the road very steadily in connection with seed grain and Dominion lands investigations. I also use him a great deal in connection with the relieving of offices, and he has proved a very valuable official.

The travelling auditor is also attached to my office. His duties keep him on the road most of the time checking up the land offices and making reports. I find he has done excellent service during the past year, and I am satisfied head office is now more fully aware of the transactions of the different land offices than formerly with the reports that were made by the ordinary inspectors.

Two homestead inspectors are also attached to my office. Their duties are taking applications for patent in districts not served by sub-land offices, and a great benefit has been derived by the settlers from their work. They have taken several hundred applications during the past year, which has been the means of saving several hundreds of dollars to homesteaders wishing to prove up. They have also held special investigations for me in connection with seed grain and other matters.

Since closing my records for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1920, I was in receipt of a telegram announcing the death of George H. Macdonnell, Agent of Dominion Lands at Lethbridge, which occurred on April 1. Mr. Macdonnell was one of the most efficient officials in the service, and his place will be hard to fill.

REPORT OF THE MINING LANDS AND YUKON BRANCH, H. H. ROWATT.

The total revenue of this branch, derived from all sources during the fiscal year, amounts to $878,747.23, being an increase of $153,199.35 over the previous year. Owing to conditions resulting from the war, it has been found necessary to grant, in a number of cases, extensions of time within which to pay the rental of mining locations acquired under lease.

The statements lettered "A" and "B," showing in different forms how the revenue is made up, will be found at the end of this report. The statement lettered "A" shows the total revenue, and the statement lettered "B" shows the revenue collected at each agency, including the Yukon Territory.

The revenue for the Yukon Territory for the year amounts to $97,468.63.

The reports and statements for the fiscal year from the Gold Commissioner and the Crown Timber and Land Agent at Dawson, in the Yukon Territory, also the report of the Inspecting Engineer of Mines, are herewith submitted.

TIMBER IN THE YUKON TERRITORY.

The total amount of dues collected on account of timber in the Yukon Territory during the fiscal year was $5,651.06. During the year 86 permits were issued, under the authority of which 11,624½ cords of wood were cut. The dues collected on permits issued amounted to $4,362.35.

There are in existence 82 timber berths, held under license to cut timber within the territory, covering an area of 169·96 square miles, which licenses were granted prior to the 10th of May, 1906, on which date the regulations governing the granting of licenses to cut such timber in the territory were rescinded, and regulations for the issue of permits to cut timber substituted therefor.

According to returns received in the department, the number of lineal feet of lumber manufactured under license during the year and sold was 900, and the number of cords of wood cut was 700. Seizure dues, amounting to $511.71, were collected on 783·42 cords of wood cut in trespass. This does not include the very large amount of timber and cordwood cut free of dues for mining purposes.

MINING LANDS OTHER THAN COAL.

During the fiscal year 1,187 entries for quartz mining claims were granted by the mining recorders in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta, and by the mining recorder for unorganized districts. The revenue from rentals of quartz mining claims was $4,800.

According to the returns from the Yukon Territory during the fiscal year, 279 entries for placer mining claims, 258 entries for quartz mining claims, and 3,005 renewals and relocations were recorded. The revenue collected from these sources and from fees for registering documents in connection with mining properties was $58,402.65.

ROYALTY AND GOLD MINED IN THE YUKON TERRITORY.

The total amount collected up to the 31st of March, 1920, for royalty on gold, the output of placer mining claims in the Yukon Territory, after deducting the exemption at one time allowed under the regulations, was $4,754,798.83, of which amount $41,501.12 was collected during the last fiscal year. For the purpose of estimating this royalty, the gold is valued at $15 an ounce, which is much below its real value.

The actual value of gold produced from placer mining operations in the Yukon Territory, up to the 31st of March last, might be safely placed at $156,903,000.

DREDGING.

Fourteen leases to dredge for minerals in the beds of rivers in the Yukon Territory are now in force, covering a total frontage of 66·04 miles. The total revenue derived from this source up to the 31st of March, 1920, amounts to $200,824.27, of which amount $868.19 was collected during the fiscal year just closed.

These dredging leases are confined to the Yukon, Forty-mile and Klondike rivers.

There are in operation in the Yukon Territory six dredges. These dredges are working on the Klondike river and tributaries, also on tributaries of the Indian river, and are operated by hydro-electric motive power. Two of the largest gold-saving dredges in the world are being operated most successfully on the Klondike river-flat.

Sixteen leases to dredge for minerals in the submerged beds of rivers in the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan are now in force, covering a total frontage of 82·19 miles. Of these leases, fifteen are in the province of Alberta and include 75 miles, and one is in the province of Saskatchewan and includes 7·19 miles. The total revenue derived from this source up to the 31st of March, 1920, amounts to $47,727.13, of which amount $1,090.78 was collected during the past fiscal year.

HYDRAULIC MINING.

The hydraulic mining regulations relating to the Yukon Territory were rescinded by an Order in Council dated the 2nd of February, 1904, but leases already granted were not affected by such withdrawal.

There are still in force in the Yukon Territory five hydraulic mining leases, covering an area of 15·52 square miles. Since the Hydraulic Mining Regulations were first established in December, 1898, forty-seven hydraulic mining leases have been issued, all of which have now been cancelled, with the exception of the above number. During the year ten mines were operated by the hydraulic mining process, from which 2,220,000 cubic yards of materials were removed.

HOMESTEADS IN THE YUKON TERRITORY.

Ninety-nine homestead entries have been granted in the Yukon Territroy, of which sixty-four are now in force, comprising a total area of 9,931 acres. Patents have been issued for fourteen homesteads.

PETROLEUM AND NATURAL GAS.

There are now in force under the regulations 5,138 petroleum and natural gas leases, embracing a total area of 1,713,917·87 acres, distributed as follows: In Manitoba, 110 leases, comprising 24,595·40 acres; in Saskatchewan, 104 leases, comprising 52,044·44 acres; in Alberta, 3,875 leases, comprising 1,407,015·87 acres; in British Columbia, 1,006 leases, comprising 185,596·28 acres; and in the Northwest Territories, 43 leases, comprising 44,665·88 acres. The total revenue derived from petroleum lands during the year amounts to $371,005.59.

Natural gas has been discovered and is now being utilized for commercial and domestic purposes in different parts of the province of Alberta. Oil has been discovered, but not in large quantities. Boring operations are being carried on throughout Alberta and in Saskatchewan and the Northwest Territories, with a view to further discoveries.

QUARRYING.

The number of leases now in force, issued under the provisions of the regulations, is 247, distributed as follows: In Manitoba, 79 leases, comprising 2,406 acres; in Saskatchewan, 38 leases, comprising 1,171 acres; in Alberta, 92 leases, comprising 4,753 acres; and in British Columbia, 38 leases, comprising 1,038 acres.

The total revenue collected during the fiscal year on account of quarrying leases, including the application fees, amounts to $9,052.87.

WATER-RIGHTS.

There are now in force in the Yukon Territory 488 grants to divert water for mining purposes, aggregating a total of 120,445 miner's inches. During the last fiscal year six water-rights were issued, comprising 700 miner's inches.

Grants were issued under regulations established by Order in Council authorizing the diversion of water in the Yukon Territory for power purposes. Up to date thirteen grants have been issued, authorizing the diversion of 131,200 miner's inches of water. Four of these grants have been permitted to lapse, but the remaining nine, authorizing the diversion of 66,200 miner's inches of water, are in good standing. Two power plants have been installed, one of which is situated on the north fork of the Klondike river, and it appears that this plant is kept in operation during the winter, the power generated being used for heating and lighting purposes in the city of Dawson. These rights are now administered under the Dominion Water Powers Act.

COAL MINING LANDS.

The regulations authorizing the sale of coal mining lands have been rescinded and all sales made previous to the withdrawal of the regulations have been completed. The total amount of revenue received on this account was $2,108,540.73.

COAL LEASES.

The total number of coal mining leases in force at the close of the fiscal year was 564, including a total of 227,704 acres, distributed as follows: In the province of Alberta, 486 leases, comprising 220,938 acres; in Saskatchewan, 76 leases, comprising 6,686 acres; in British Columbia, one lease, comprising 40 acres; and in the Yukon Territory, one lease, comprising 40 acres.

The total number of leases of coal mining rights issued during the year was 110, comprising 42,957 acres. The total revenue received during the year for rental of coal mining rights was $172,961.86.

ROYALTY ON COAL.

Under the regulations governing the issue of leases to mine coal, the royalty is fixed at five cents per ton of 2,000 pounds on the merchantable output of the mine.

The following is a statement showing the amount collected on account of royalty on coal mined from lands in the western provinces, the Northwest Territories, and the Yukon Territory, respectively, during each year since the regulations came into effect:—

By an Order in Council dated the 16th of March, 1918, provision was made that, owing to the scarcity of fuel in the Yukon Territory, no royalty shall be levied or collected on coal mined in that territory for a period of five years; that is, up to the 7th of April, 1923.

The total amount derived from coal mining lands on account of purchase price, rental, royalty and application fees, during the fiscal year, amounted to $371,788.81.

During the year 1919, gold to the value of $12,404.81 was extracted from ore taken from mineral claims in northern Manitoba, and 3,517,381 pounds of copper, valued at $620,377.28, was obtained from ore mined in the same district.

REPORT OF THE GOLD COMMISSIONER, DAWSON.

The total revenue of the office for the year was $38,162.96, exclusive of rentals paid direct to the department at Ottawa.

A large number of claims, both placer and quartz, are still held free from cancellation owing to the fact that the owners were on military service. When these claims are again brought under the provisions of the Yukon Placer Mining Act or the Quartz Regulations as the case may be, a considerable increase of revenue will result.

PLACER GOLD MINING.

110,693·65 ounces of gold were mined and exported from the territory during the year. Gold production continues to be seriously affected by the abnormal conditions. The cost of production has increased enormously and the value of the product remains stationary.

There are large areas of auriferous gravels which could be profitably mined under more favourable conditions, but which cannot be mined under existing conditions.

Experiments were conducted during the year by both the Yukon Gold Company and the North West Corporation, Limited, with what is known as cold water thawing. As a result of these experiments both companies will, during the present season, thaw their gravels by this process, which consists of introducing water under moderate pressure into the gravels by means of the ordinary points. The water is of course of considerably higher temperature than the frozen gravels and the resultant loss of heat units removes the frost from the gravels in a remarkably short time, although not as quickly as by means of steam.

YUKON GOLD COMPANY.

This company continues to hold first place as a producer. Three dredges were operated continuously during the dredging season of 140 days from May 17 to October 5; particulars as follows:—

Number of dredges and capacity of each.

No.	Make.	Capacity of Buckets.	Located on
1.	Bucyrus	5 cu. ft	Klondike river claims 12 to 15 and lot 90.
4.	Marion	7 cu. ft	Claims 57 to 59 below Hunker Creek.
6.	Bucyrus	7 cu. ft	Claims 17 to 23 Gold Run creek.

A total of 1,959,000 cubic yards of material was removed.

The daily average number of men employed by the company was as follows:—

Hydraulic mines (April to October)	53
Dredges and thawing (April to October)	100
Ditch (April to October)	25
Otherwise employed	59
Total	237

There were ten hydraulic mines in operation at various times during the summer at the following points:—Bunker Hill, Oro Fino Hill, Trail Gulch, Jackson Gulch, Cheechaco Hill, Fox Gulch, American Gulch, Adams Hill, Monte Cristo, Lovett Hosford. A total of 2,220,000 yards of material was removed.

The power to operate the dredges was furnished by the company's hydro-electric plant situated on the Twelve Mile river.

CANADIAN KLONDIKE MINING COMPANY, LIMITED.

The company's pumping plant near the mouth of Hunker creek was operated continuously for 151 days from May 10 to October 10. This plant is operated by power furnished by the hydro-electric plant at the North fork of the Klondike river and pumps Klondike water from near the mouth of Hunker creek, where it is conveyed by gravity to the hills on the left limit of Hunker creek, thence it is conveyed by ditch to hills and benches on Last Chance creek where it is used in hydraulic mining operations.

NUMBER OF DREDGE AND CAPACITY OF EACH.

No.	Capacity	Location
Canadian No. 1	7½ cu. ft	Hunker creek.
Canadian No. 2	17 cu. ft	Klondike valley, lease 18.
Canadian No. 4	17 cu. ft	Klondike valley, lease 18.

Canadian No. 1 operated 101 days from June 16 to September 24 and during that period dredged 179,182 cubic yards of material, employing an average of 20 men.

Canadian No. 2 operated 189 days from July 14 to November 28, and during that period dredged 194,837 cubic yards of material, employing an average of 30 men.

Canadian No. 4 operated continuously through the winter season, shutting down for repairs on April 3. Operations were recommenced on May 12 and continued to November 23, making a total operating season of 289 days, and during that period dredged 2,032,867 cubic yards of gravel, employing an average of 30 men.

These dredges are all electrically driven, power being furnished by the company's hydro-electric plant at the north fork of the Klondyke river.

NORTH WEST CORPORATION, LIMITED.

This company, which is now under the same management as the Canadian Klondyke Mining Company, Limited, continued prospecting and preparatory work on their large holdings on Dominion, Sulphur and Indian creeks; 1,017 claims were represented and renewed. The work performed consisted of sinking 87 prospecting shafts on Upper Dominion and 36 on Lower Dominion; sluicing by means of water under pressure, 246,000 cubic yards of muck overlying gold-bearing gravels on Lower Dominion and 75,025 cubic yards on Quartz creek.

Dredge Canadian No. 1, which was operated by the Canadian Klondyke Mining Company on Upper Hunker creek, was dismantled at the close of the season and during the past winter was hauled to 20 below Lower Discovery Dominion, where it will be reassembled and operated during the coming season.

OTHER PLACER OPERATIONS.

Ordinary individual operations were carried on on about the same scale as the previous year on practically all the well-known creeks in the Klondyke, Indian River and Sixty-mile watersheds. A large number of outfits engaged in hydraulic operations or open-cutting in the summer and drifting operations in the winter.

Thistle and Kirkman creek, tributaries of the Yukon, Black Hills, Scroggie and Barker, tributaries of the Lower Stewart, continue to be producers in a small way.

In the Upper Stewart District operations were carried on on Haggart, Highet and Duncan creeks. A local company purchased a dredge formerly operated on the Stewart river near the mouth of the McQuesten and had the same taken by the river to Mayo where it was dismantled, hauled to Highet creek and reassembled and will be operated there during the coming year.

LODE MINING.

In the Dawson District very little prospecting or development work has been done except on the silver-lead properties on Lookout mountain and Keno hill in what was formerly the Duncan Mining District.

The Yukon Silver Lead Company, Limited, continued development work on their groups of claims on Lookout mountain. A trial shipment of 100 tons of ore was hauled to Mayo for shipment on the opening of navigation.

A rich outcropping of silver-lead ore was discovered in July last by Louis Bouvette on what is now known as Keno hill, situate near the head of Crystal and Lightning creeks, and some 250 claims have since been located in that locality.

The Yukon Gold Company had their engineer investigate the field and on the strength of his report secured working options on Discovery and several other claims adjoining. Twelve men were immediately put to work and development work has been carried on vigorously throughout the winter and preparations have been made to continue. A considerable tonnage of ore is in sight and although sufficient depth has not yet been attained to speak with assurance, the indications are most favourable.

Considerable work has also been done by Messrs. Mackay and Erickson on their properties on the same hill, and a number of other claims in that vicinity will be prospected during the coming summer.

YUKON COUNCIL.

The Yukon Council was in session from May 5 to May 23, both dates inclusive. Fourteen ordinances or amendments to existing ordinances were enacted.

An Ordinance was passed vesting the authority formerly in the City Council of Dawson, in the commissioner; this was necessary on account of the reduction in the size of the council.

Ordinances were passed making provision for an export tax on fur and for a Crown grant tax on mineral claims not operated.

The former Election Ordinance was repealed and a new Ordinance enacted providing for simpler and less expensive election machinery. Under the provisions of this Ordinance an election was held on the 25th February last and the following members elected to the Yukon Council: For Dawson District, Mr. Gavin Fowlie; Klondyke District, Mr. Paul S. Hogan, and for Whitehorse District, Mr. Robert Lowe. At the same time a plebiscite was held in regard to the mode of regulating the liquor traffic. The result of this plebiscite was a majority of 33 against the sale of liquor for beverage purposes.

An Ordinance also was passed terminating all liquor licenses on the 31st August and giving the commissioner authority to take over stocks of liquor then in the territory and providing for the sale of the same under Government control.

HOSPITALS AND PUBLIC HEALTH.

St. Mary's Hospital at Dawson and the General Hospital at Whitehorse, both of which institutions receive Government assistance, met all requirements in their respective localities during the year. The general health of the territory has been good.

ROYAL CANADIAN MOUNTED POLICE.

The police have given their usual adequate service and order has been well maintained.

REPORT OF THE CROWN TIMBER AND LAND AGENT, DAWSON.

The total revenue of the office for the year was $10,779.45, which, compared with the previous year, is a net increase of $2,113.88 in the lands branch and a net decrease of $1,904.57 in the timber branch.

WOOD AND TIMBER.

Seventy-seven permits were issued during the year, under authority of which 10,439 cords of wood were cut. Seizure dues were paid on 264 cords of wood. 700 cords of wood and 900 lineal feet of piling were cut under license.

COAL.

The Five Fingers Coal Company operated their mine at Tantalus and shipped to Dawson sufficient coal to meet all requirements.

REPORT OF INSPECTING ENGINEER OF MINES, O. S. FINNIE.

The output of coal in the province of Alberta for the year 1919, was somewhat less than during the previous year owing mainly to a strike of several months' duration of the miners of District 18.

The output for the province of Saskatchewan for 1919, so far as royalty coal is concerned, was approximately the same as the previous year.

For purposes of comparison the schedule below indicates the output of these provinces for two years, 1918 and 1919. The output is divided into three classes, viz., coal subject to royalty from Dominion lands, coal subject to royalty from school lands and coal not subject to royalty:—

Province.	Calendar Year.	Output Subject to Royalty.		Output Not Subject to Royalty.	Total Output.
		Dom. Lands.	School Lands.
Alberta	1918	2,984,882	383,465	2,758,096	6,126,443
Saskatchewan	1918	60,299	6,043	282,646	348,988
Alberta	1919	2,601,807	271,091	2,131,370	5,004,268
Saskatchewan	1919	43,037	22,062	319,018	384,117

It will be observed that the quantity of coal subject to royalty tax is not materially greater than that not subject to tax. This is accounted for by the fact that royalty is not levied on unmerchantable slack or on coal consumed under boilers at mines or coal taken from road allowances. Neither is it exacted on mines located on Hudson's Bay lands or lands given as subsidies to railways or lands disposed of prior to the introduction of royalty.

The following schedule indicates the total number of coal mines operated during 1918 and 1919, also those which are subject to royalty and those which are not:—

Province.	Calendar Year.	Number of Operating Coal Mines.
		Subject to Royalty.		Not Subject to Royalty.	Total.
		On Dominion Lands.	On School Lands.
Alberta	1918	192	19	49	260
Saskatchewan	1918	52	10	5	67
Alberta	1919	176	10	69	255
Saskatchewan	1919	55	6	3	64

Practically all coal mines subject to royalty were inspected during the year.

In August, 1919, an investigation was made of the coal deposits of the Smoky River District. Large and extensive seams of high grade bituminous coal were found. This coal is especially adapted for steam purposes and in view of the fact that the National System of Railways would at some future time require a coal supply of its own, a report was submitted recommending the withdrawal of townships 55, 56, 57, 58 and 59, ranges 7, 8 and 9, west of the 6th meridian, from disposal under the Coal Mining Regulations. This recommendation was duly approved and an Order in Council withdrawing these lands was passed on the 6th October, 1919. This area of 540 square miles is now set apart as a national coal reserve.

During the year a dispute arose regarding the priority of right between certain applicants for coal rights in township 47, range 20, west of the 5th meridian. It was found impossible with the information at the disposal of the department to determine with certainty the rights to which the respective applicants were entitled. The writer was appointed a commissioner to conduct an investigation under oath with authority to summon witnesses by subpœna and to compel the production of documents and papers. A thorough examination and survey of the disputed area was made early in September and the hearing took place at the Macdonald hotel in Edmonton on the 22nd and 23rd of that month. Both sides were represented by counsel and many witnesses were heard. The evidence was taken by a court stenographer. Eventually an award was issued and approved by the minister. We now have on file statements from counsel on both sides expressing their complete satisfaction with the terms of the award.

Two mining inspectors are located permanently in the west. Their office is in the Dominion Bank building, Calgary, where they make their headquarters. During the year about 250 mines were inspected and reported on, 31 surveys made, 36 plans compiled and about 125 additional plans received and examined.

Owing to activity in the petroleum and natural gas industry in the west and to the number of wells which were being put down in a defective and unsatisfactory manner, it was considered advisable to ask for the appointment of an officer to be known as a petroleum engineer, who, under the direction of the inspecting engineer, would exercise supervision over the sinking of oil and gas wells, and, so far as the practical side was concerned, see that the Petroleum Regulations were being properly complied with.

The position was duly advertised in the Canada Gazette and eventually the Civil Service Commission confirmed the appointment of Mr. S. E. Slipper, who was then in private practice. He was formerly with the Geological Survey of Canada for a period of seven or eight years. Mr. Slipper assumed office in August, 1919. His headquarters are in the Dominion Bank building, Calgary. His duties might be summed up under the following headings:—

1. Inspecting drilling operations in the various oil and gas fields.
2. Reporting on the waste of natural gas from wells drilled on leases administered by the Federal Government.
3. Reporting on defective wells in which injurious water has not been excluded from the oil and gas formations.
4. Reporting on condition of abandoned wells.
5. The systematic testing of the volumes and pressure of gas wells.
6. Supervising the capping of gas wells out of control.
7. Seeing that the provisions of the Petroleum and Natural Gas Regulations and particularly section 29 thereof are strictly complied with.

The petroleum engineer has inspected and furnished reports on the following fields:—

PEACE RIVER FIELD.

The heavy oil and natural gas horizon at the base of the cretaceous (that is at 900 feet depth more or less) has been penetrated by five wells though it has not yet been tested for production, the reason being that two very heavy flows of water are encountered near or actually in the same sandstones as that in which the oil and gas occur. Up to the date of writing none of the wells has successfully controlled this enormous flow of water, so that the possibilities of the known oil sands have not yet been determined. It is hoped that the water will be successfully cased off during the coming summer and steps taken to test the already discovered oil horizon and also to drill deeper to test the underlying limestone series.

CALGARY OIL-FIELD.

An investigation of the Okotoks oil-field was undertaken. In this field a gasolene extraction plant of the absorption type is operating for the purpose of extracting gasolene from the natural gas produced by two wells in the field. The extraction plant is licensed under patents controlled by the Hope Natural Gas Company of Pittsburg. The amount of high gravity gasolene produced by the plant varies from 500 to 700 gallons per day and the residual gas going to waste is about 2,000,000 cubic feet daily. Early in the year a new but very small production was reported by a well in section 12, township 20, range 3, west of the 5th meridian. The severe winter caused practically all operations to cease.

BOW ISLAND GAS FIELD.

This field supplies gas to Calgary, Lethbridge and smaller places, but the supply is rapidly declining. The gas company have been diligently carrying on exploratory drilling in new fields in the vicinity of Burdette and Monarch but except for a small supply at Burdette have had little success.

THE MEDICINE HAT FIELD.

This field which still has considerable vigour is nevertheless showing the usual indications of a declining yield. The pressure now is about 100 pounds less than the original pressure. Investigations being carried on will indicate the probable remaining life of this field. The petroleum engineer is supervising the difficult operation of closing in the Canada Cement Well No. 5. Many attempts have been made to control this well during the past five years without success.

VIKING GAS FIELD.

In the gas field north of Viking, Alberta, nine wells have been drilled and operations are now being carried on on the tenth well.

A natural gas discovery of considerable promise was made near Irma, Alberta, on section 4, township 45, range 8, west of the 4th meridian. Here, the well of the Viking and Battle Creek Oil Company brought in a 6,000,000 cubic feet per day open flow at a depth of 1,900 feet. The closed pressure was some 650 pounds.

Gas wells of minor importance were inspected at Ponoka and Wetaskiwin.

The Northwest Company are extending the exploratory drilling that was begun last year. At present this company have drills in operation at Fort Norman on the MacKenzie, at Windy Point on Great Slave lake, in the neighbourhood of Czar, Alberta, section 17, township 39, range 7, west of the 4th meridian, also in section 14, township 4, range 30, west of the 4th meridian, and in section 29, township 14, range 2, west of the 5th meridian.

REPORT OF THE CONTROLLER, TIMBER AND GRAZING LANDS BRANCH, B. L. YORK.

The total revenue derived from timber, grazing and hay lands during the fiscal year amounts to $687,401.83. This is an increase of $170,463.30 over the revenue for the past year, or about 33 per cent.

TIMBER.

At the conclusion of this report will be found statements A, B and C, showing the total revenue, the revenue from timber by agencies, and other sources of revenue by agencies.

Statements from the Crown Timber Agents at Calgary, Edmonton, Prince Albert, Winnipeg, Kamloops, New Westminster, and Revelstoke showing the revenue collected from Dominion Lands within their respective agencies, and other information, are appended hereto.

The report of the Inspector of Crown Timber Agencies and the reports of the Inspectors of Ranches located at Calgary, Moosejaw and Prince Albert, are also attached.

The revenue from timber, grazing and hay lands received at the Crown timber agencies, also the number of mills operated and berths held under license, and the number of portable saw-mills in operation, are as follows:—

Agency.	Total Revenue.	No. of Mills operating under license.	No. of Mills operating under permit.
Calgary	$ 45,521 18	11	9
Edmonton	111,160 63	21	74

Kamloops	39,653 78	6	—
New Westminster	130,873 72	27	—
Revelstoke	31,718 36	7	—

The return of operations received from the timber agencies show the quantity of timber manufactured and sold under license to be as follows:—

	Manufactured	Sold
Sawn lumber	231,357,170	220,666,218
Railway ties	438,864	109,789
Laths	16,846,958	30,282,685

Mining timber, lineal feet	532,336	2,398,201
Piling and telegraph poles, lineal feet	101,189	—
Fence posts	769,636	15,807

The quantity of lumber manufactured and sold within each agency will be found in the agent's report appended hereto.

The area of timber lands held under license and permit in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia, is as follows:—

	Under License. Square Miles.	Under Permit. Square Miles.
Manitoba	1,078·62	434·61
Saskatchewan	1,525·14	127·48
Alberta	1,930·89	97·92
British Columbia	1,784·30	4·87
	6,318·95	664·88

During the year 129 berths were granted, of which four were license berths, twenty-six permit berths, forty-four cordwood berths and fifty-five portable saw-mill berths. This is an increase of thirty-three berths over the number granted during the previous year.

GRAZING.

There were in force on March 31, 1920, 6,105 grazing leases, covering an area of 6,498,748 acres, as follows:—

	Acres.
Manitoba	126,679
Saskatchewan	2,869,084
Alberta	3,095,955
British Columbia	407,030
	6,498,748

This is an increase of 330,453 acres over the previous year.
During the year 506 new leases were issued.

SCHOOL LANDS DIVISION—W. T. ROLLINS.

Representations having been made to the minister by the officials of the Soldiers Settlement Board that undisposed of school lands should be made available for purchase by the board under the provisions of section eleven of the Soldiers Settlement Act of 1919, it was decided to indefinitely postpone the holding of all auction sales of school lands contemplated for the fiscal year. Consequently only a few small parcels were disposed of for railway right of way and for school site purposes.

The approximate net area disposed of down to March 31, 1920, after making deductions for cancelled sales, etc., was as follows:—

Province.	Area.	Value.	Average.
Manitoba	672,636.01 ac.	$ 6,473,784 67	$ 9 62
Saskatchewan	1,442,240 23 "	26,252,405 81	18 20
Alberta	869,730.48 "	11,563,174 37	13 30

The value of town lots disposed of down to same date was as follows:—

Manitoba	$ 4,808 49
Saskatchewan	13,885 00
Alberta	41,546 00

GRAZING.

By amendment to the grazing regulations authorized by Order in Council dated the 15th December, 1919, provision was made to increase the rate of rental on grazing permits from four to ten cents per acre in the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta and from six to ten cents per acre in the province of Manitoba.

The following statement shows the number of permits and leases issued, the number of leases in good standing and the revenue derived on account of same from the three provinces for the fiscal year:—

Registration Fees.—During the fiscal year the revenue derived from this source for the three provinces was $1,851.

Statements herewith lettered A, B, C, respectively, show the revenue collected from the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta duly classified.

The total net revenue derived from the three provinces for the fiscal year was as follows:—

Manitoba	$ 663,039 84
Saskatchewan	2,190,673 17
Alberta	1,017,830 80
Total	$3,871,543 81

As provided for by several Orders in Council in that behalf the revenue collected from each province for the fiscal year, less principal moneys of sales and less expenditure, was paid over to the Government of the province. The amounts paid were as follows:—

Manitoba—
Revenue other than principal moneys	$282,510 64
Less expenditure	14,759 64
Amount paid to province	$267,751 00
Saskatchewan—
Revenue other than principal moneys	$873,671 73
Less expenditure	38,475 69
Amount paid to province	$835,196 04
Alberta—
Revenue other than principal moneys	$444,699 69
Less expenditure	26,245 71
Amount paid to province	$418,453 98

Statements herewith lettered D, E, F, respectively, show the balance standing to the credit of the School Lands Fund for each province as on March 31, 1920, after deducting amounts invested in Dominion of Canada debenture stock as provided for by Order in Council dated December 1, 1919.

Manitoba—
Total amount at credit of fund	$5,181,774 29
Amount invested in debenture stock	5,181,000 00

During the fiscal year ending March 31, 1920, there were two public sales of Ordnance Lands held, one at Port Maitland and one at Ottawa, the latter being part of the Ordnance Reserve in lots 39 and 40, first concession, Ottawa Front, in the township of Nepean, now within the limits of the city. A more detailed report of these sales is given under the headings of the respective localities.

With respect to the properties previously sold or occupied under leases, in accordance with the provisions of the Ordnance and Admiralty Lands Act, or, under leases originally granted by the Imperial authorities, 11 whole lots or parcels and 4 part lots, situated in one or other of the localities hereunder mentioned and in the accompanying statement marked "A," were paid in full and letters patent issued therefor.

1. Burlington Heights.—Four lots in this locality previously sold and paid in full but, owing to the fact that satisfactory proof of title was not furnished at the time, letters-patent were not issued. During the last fiscal year, however, satisfactory proof of title was filed and registered in this branch and letters-patent for the said lots were accordingly issued.

2. Chambly.—Two lots in this locality which were sold many years ago but not fully redeemed were paid in full and letters-patent issued. The balance of purchase money received was $255.

3. Nepean.—Part of the Ordnance Reserve situated in lots Nos. 39 and 40, first concession, Ottawa Front, township of Nepean, now within the limits of the city of Ottawa, was subdivided into lots and offered for sale at public auction in November last. Of the 22 lots offered for sale 15 were disposed of for the sum of $9,435. Of this sum $3,795 was paid in cash; six lots having been paid for in full letters patent were issued.

There are six squatters in occupation of portions of this land for many years; these were permitted to purchase, at a valuation, their respective holdings and all took advantage of the privilege each paying one-fifth of the purchase price in cash.

4. Ottawa.—Lots in this locality are occupied by tenants in accordance with the provisions contained in the original leases granted by the Imperial authorities, with the privilege of converting their leasehold into freehold upon payment in cash, of the amount of consideration money placed thereon. During the last fiscal year 5 whole lots and 4 part lots were fully redeemed and letters-patent issued. The total consideration money received was $1,195.

5. Port Maitland.—The remaining lots on the Ordnance Reserve situated on the west side of the Grand river at this point, consisting of six parcels, were offered for sale by public auction in August last, and sold at satisfactory prices. The total amount realized was $1,402.20, of which $1,014.04 was paid in cash. Two of the parcels sold were paid in full and letters-patent issued therefor.

The records of attendance covering the staffs of the various branches of this department which were formerly kept in the Ordnance Branch were transferred to the Accounts Branch.

NORTHWEST TERRITORIES.

In the capacity of Commissioner of the Northwest Territories, the work of co-ordinating the records of the Northwest Territories was undertaken and Mr. J. P. Dunne was placed, prior to the close of last fiscal year, in the important office of Secretary of the Northwest Territories in addition to the duties of Superintendent of Ordnance and Admiralty Lands.

PART II.

DOMINION PARKS.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSIONER, J. B. HARKIN.

The reports of the field officers of the Dominion Parks Service appended hereto recite the particulars of the work carried on during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1920. In all the parks many activities which had necessarily been suspended during the war were renewed and while labour conditions were nowhere normal, considerable progress was made in many lines of work.

TOURIST TRAVEL.

Tourist travel to all the parks showed a marked increase during the year, the outstanding feature being the revival of travel by rail. As was anticipated the cessation of the war with all its attendant anxieties produced in many the desire for change and recreation and, possibly because of the part she had played in the conflict, hundreds of thousands turned their eyes towards Canada. In consequence the parks had the best season since 1915—the year of the Pacific Coast Expositions. While the total number of visitors did not reach the figures of that or some preceding years, this was due to the fact that large numbers of visitors, instead of remaining for only a few days in the parks, stayed for weeks at a time and many for the entire season. This necessarily limited the available accommodation. During July and August there was scarcely a day in which visitors who wanted to stay over but who had not made reservations in advance, were not compelled to go on to other points. The great hotels at Banff and Lake Louise were crowded practically up to the end of September and the smaller hotels were almost equally taxed. Every cottage available in Banff was occupied and several lodging-houses added tents to their accommodation. Similar conditions prevailed at Emerald Lake, Yoho Camp, Glacier and Jasper.

I think we may look forward to this large volume of travel being maintained and even increased for several years. Limited accommodation and high prices in Europe will undoubtedly restrict travel abroad for some time and in the meantime the attractions of the Canadian Rockies are becoming more widely and favourably known. The most pressing problem would appear to be one of increased accommodation. This is particularly urgent in Yoho and Jasper parks. Both of these parks possess scenery worthy of attracting as heavy a traffic as Banff but owing to the limited accommodation they receive only a small percentage of the travel which they otherwise might. It is greatly to be hoped that first class hotels will be built at both these places in the near future.

While the number of visitors by motor to Rocky Mountains park did not show any marked increase over the large traffic of the previous year, this was no doubt due to the unusually dry season which rendered motoring unpleasant on account of the dust and to the fact that the road to Lake Louise is not yet open. Waterton Lakes park, however, which can be reached only by motor, had the biggest year in its history and Buffalo and Elk Island parks, which are attractive objectives for prairie motorists, also showed large increases.

There are many signs that Canadians as a whole are realizing more clearly the immense potential values of tourist traffic. The campaign inaugurated by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the organized efforts being put forth by the provinces of British Columbia and New Brunswick and the Victoria Island Association are important steps in this connection and will undoubtedly help to stimulate travel and thus increase the prosperity of the country. As I have pointed out before, the benefits from tourist traffic are not confined to any one place. Once the stream of travel is set in motion it enriches many shores. Thousands of tourists, for instance, who are attracted to Canada by the fame of the parks, visit Calgary, Vancouver and Victoria en route, and vice versa, many who visit these cities learn of the parks and go on to see them. Figures compiled by the Canadian Pacific Railway passenger department in Winnipeg and published in the Winnipeg Tribune of February 9, 1917, showed that 42 per cent of the total number of visitors to the parks in that year, or 43,470, came to Winnipeg and spent there on an average $10 apiece or $434,700 in all. Other cities would benefit proportionately.

TOURIST BUREAU.

In previous reports it has been stated that the magnitude of the revenues involved in tourist travel warrant the creation of a tourist bureau on the part of the Federal Government. In this connection it is interesting to note that the Secretary of the Interior at Washington in his latest report says: "I cannot too strongly recommend the establishment of a travel division in the National Park service. It is vitally important to the nation and our bureau is certainly the place for it because no other agency of the Government is so interested in or closely connected with the touring public as is this service." He goes on to point out the advantages of bringing the tourist industry under Government supervision and says: "A division of touring could co-operate closely with the resorts of the nation, whether in a national park or not, and by issuing promotive literature under the stamp of the approval of the department and the Service could more effectively stimulate travel in the United States than any other agency because its data would not be selfish or exaggerated and would have the confidence of everybody using it."

The Office of Touring, the special bureau organized by the French Government for the development of tourist traffic to France, has developed a very active policy. At the last sitting of the Chamber of Deputies, a bill asking for a vote of 30,000,000 francs was brought down, the money to be applied to the construction of tourist hotels and the purchase of 220 sight-seeing automobiles. France has realized that the development of a large tourist revenue will be one of the easiest means of defraying part of her national debt. She hopes, it is said, to attract not less than a million tourists next year and their expenditure will undoubtedly do much to restore prosperity to the devastated regions.

It is well known that tourist travel follows the line of greatest stimulation. No matter how many attractions a country possesses a large tourist traffic will not develop unless some effort is made to attract it, but as I have pointed out before there is no industry in which a comparatively small investment will bring such enormous returns. Canada possesses undoubtedly, as our orators often declare, a "wealth of natural scenery," but this wealth is at present only potential and whether we draw large revenues from it or not depends entirely upon a policy of development. It seems probable that the time may soon come when the tourist industry will not only be organized but standardized. This has already been done to a certain extent on the continent where the traveller is practically assured of finding certain standards of comfort, cleanliness and refinement wherever he goes. In this country, however, there is still much to be done in the way of establishing standards.

There are several reasons why the development of an organized policy respecting tourist traffic should be of interest to Canada to-day. In the first place, she possesses an unfavourable balance of trade, and, as I have pointed out in previous reports, one of the best methods of offsetting an unfavourable trade balance is by bringing foreign money into the country through tourist traffic. She possesses, moreover, on the one hand an immense potential wealth of natural scenery—she has an ideal summer climate; she has over 3,000 miles of salt-water beach; she has her great inland mountain and lake regions; her immense Rocky Mountain area and her Pacific coast, all of them capable of attracting traffic to an almost unlimited degree. She has the raw material, but her industry is not developed. On the other hand, she has a winter climate which causes large numbers of her own people to seek more southern countries for several weeks each year. This loss is inevitable, as is the loss caused by the expenditure of Canadians abroad at other seasons. The organized efforts made by other countries to attract tourist travel tend increasingly to augment both these sources of loss. She can only counteract it by developing her own resources. Undoubtedly the conditions in Canada for such development are right, but the industry needs fostering. As an example of what may be done, take the record of the city of Los Angeles. In 1892 the population was approximately 60,000. It is to-day actually 575,000, and its growth has been almost entirely caused by tourist traffic. Tourist traffic to Canada is capable of a similar development, and as I have said in previous reports, I believe that the best results can be obtained by the creation of a Federal Tourist Bureau working in co-operation with provincial governments, municipalities, motor associations, etc., as well as with the railways and large transportation interests.

BANFF GOLF LINKS.

Early in the year the services were secured of Mr. Donald J. Ross, who is considered one of the best golf course experts in America, to advise regarding the best plan to be followed in enlarging the Government golf course at Banff from a nine to an eighteen hole course. Complete plans of the layout, showing the position and details of the traps, bunkers, tees, etc., were received in September, and an immediate start was made on the work of enlarging the course. While the work is not yet completed, considerable progress has been made. The course, when finished, will be one of the finest on the American continent. In order to provide the necessary water supply for the links a 4-inch water main was laid early in the year to connect the 6-inch main at the Spray river bridge with the existing distributing main at the golf course.

NEW BOW RIVER BRIDGE.

During the year plans were prepared for a new bridge over the Bow river at Banff. The old steel structure which is no longer adapted to carry the traffic is to be replaced by a concrete bridge of artistic design which will add much to the general appearance of the town. It is expected that construction operations will be commenced during the coming year.

CASTLE-LAKE LOUISE HIGHWAY.

Tenders were called and a contract awarded for the final eleven miles of the Castle-Lake Louise highway and the construction of necessary bridges. Clearing and grubbing operations were carried on over the entire contract, but owing to the great difficulty experienced in getting and keeping labour, certain sections were not fully completed when the early fall put an end to operations. The same conditions interfered with progress work on the Mount Revelstoke motor road and the Mount Edith Cavell highway. On the latter road tenders were called and the contract awarded for the construction of the section from Station 308x00 to Station 864x00. Clearing operations were carried on to Station 630, and grubbing to Station 493. Partial grading operations were undertaken on miles 7, 8, 9 and 10 of the contract. Most of the grading work done was on mile 9, where the steep side-hill is travelled by means of a series of switchbacks. Owing to the early winter the contractor suspended operations on October 31 without completing all the work covered by the contract.

ATHABASKA RIVER BRIDGE.

Plans were prepared for a new steel bridge over the Athabaska river near Jasper. Concrete abutments for the bridge were designed and construction started during the winter months. Part of the rock cut forming the approach to the bridge site was also removed during the winter.

BANFF-WINDERMERE HIGHWAY.

Under the terms of the agreement entered into between the Government of the Dominion of Canada and of the province of British Columbia, the Dominion agreed to complete the unfinished portion of the Banff-Windermere highway within four years from the conclusion of peace in the Great War in return for the province transferring to the Dominion a strip of land within the province of British Columbia extending five miles on each side of the said highway, and containing an area of approximately 590 square miles. As a considerable portion of the highway constructed by the provincial government had been destroyed by high water, tenders were called by this branch for the reconstruction of the portion of the Sinclair division of the above highway from Station 106 to Station 282, and a contract for the work was awarded. Work on this contract is still in progress, and it is expected this section will be completed during the coming summer. Repair work was also undertaken by the department on portions of the old roadbed above and below the contract work, and log jams which had formed in Sinclair creek and were a menace to the roadway were removed. On the northern or Vermilion end of the road some necessary maintenance work was carried out in order to prevent further damage to the constructed portion of this section of the highway. With a view to future construction work, surveys were undertaken northerly from Kootenay river crossing to the present graded portion of the Vermilion division of the highway. Twenty-eight miles of highway comprising the unconstructed Simpson and Vermilion divisions were located and are now ready for construction operations.

The completion of this road will undoubtedly mean much to the future of Rocky Mountains park. It opens up a loop route through the Canadian Rockies which will contain more scenery to the square mile than probably any other motor road on the continent. The eastern end of the road is already connected via Calgary and Macleod with the road to the United States Glacier park and thence with the National Park-to-Park highway. The western end leads via Cranbrook and Bonner's Ferry to Spokane, where it connects with the Sunset and Pacific Coast highways by direct route to California. What this will mean to the Rocky Mountains park it is difficult to estimate. The through travel on the Columbia river highway is said to be about 500 cars per day. At Crown Point, according to Herbert Nunn, State Highway Engineer for Oregon, the number of machines one way has reached 2,500 in one day. C. A. Collins, Field Secretary of the Evergreen National Highway Association, at the annual meeting of the trustees in Tacoma last summer, presented some interesting figures showing what such motor traffic had meant to California. According to the Victoria Times of June 21, 1919, he said: "Four thousand two hundred and forty cars were brought into California in one year over a single road! Allow an average of four passengers to the car, an average daily expenditure per person of five dollars for accommodation and entertainment, figure that these people stayed in California from one to three months, and the result will show why California gives so much attention to road signs, auto clubs and publicity work for tourists."

The Canadian parks can confidently look forward to a steadily increasing volume of motor travel. The director of the United States park service in his report for 1919 comments upon the astonishing increase in the number of cars visiting the United States national parks. In 1918 the number of private cars totalled 53,966. In 1919 there were 97,721 cars, or an increase of nearly 80 per cent. He goes on to say: "The unprecedented travel of the season just closed demonstrated to cities and towns far distant from the national parks that these great playgrounds were the most powerful magnets for motoring tourists that the western country possessed." That the Canadian parks are not inferior in attractions to the United States parks was evidenced by an incident which occurred last summer. A party under the auspices of the Brooklyn Eagle made a park-to-park tour by train through several of the United States parks and included the Canadian Rocky Mountains park in its itinerary. At the conclusion of the tour a vote was taken as to the respective merits of the various parks and hotels which they had visited. Here is the result of the vote:—

Most popular park.	Vote.	Most popular hotel.	Vote.
Canadian Rockies (Banff, Lake Louise)	24	Banff Springs	21
Mount Rainier	19	Glacier Park	17
Glacier	17	Canyon (Yellowstone Park)	17
Yellowstone	9	Chateau Lake Louise	10
Rocky Mountains	8	Antlers (Colorado Springs)	9
All National Parks	3	Old Faithful Inn	5
Canadian and Glacier	2	Metropole (Denver)	2
Yellowstone and Glacier	1	Edgewater Beach (Chicago)	1
Yellowstone and Rainier	1	Thermopolis (Carter Sanitarium)	1
Rainier and Glacier	1	Davenport (Spokane)	1
Rainier and Canadian	1	Many Glacier	1
		"Pullman Train"	2

As soon as the Vermilion-Sinclair road is completed the Canadian parks will automatically become part of the United States park-to-park system of highways forming a link in what will be an international park-to-park route unequalled in the world. There is I believe no room for jealousy between the two park systems. The aims of both are identical and they cannot help rendering an international service to each other. Everything that is done by the United States service to make its parks more attractive will help to swell the tide of travel which will eventually touch the Canadian parks and vice versa every improvement in the Canadian parks will have a similar effect where the United States parks are concerned.

FOREST PROTECTION.

Owing to the very dry season much anxiety was felt in the parks on account of the danger from fire. A considerable number of fires broke out but owing to the vigilance of the warden service and to the portable fire engines with which all the parks are now equipped, the damage was in almost all cases confined to a small area. One thousand three hundred and ninety-six miles of trails were patrolled by the wardens during the year. The forest protective system now includes:—

EXPERIMENTAL WORK.

A good deal of investigation work was done with regard to the development of further modern equipment for forest protection. The use of gas in the Great War suggested its possibilities as an extinguisher of forest fires. There are several well known gas producing chemicals in liquid form but the problem of transportation in the mountains made it desirable to discover a material in the form of a powder. Experiments were made with tetra-chloride and several other chemicals but it was found that in the open air the resulting gases became diluted so rapidly that their effectiveness was lost.

The branch has developed a chemical mixture of its own known as "Pyrox" in liquid form, which appears to be an excellent fire quencher and possesses great fire-resisting properties as well. The liquid can be readily and cheaply manufactured and the experimental tests which have been made showed it to be most satisfactory for the purpose. It is believed that this liquid can be reduced to powder form and experiments will shortly be made in this connection. The use of chemicals to destroy vegetation along railway rights of way, fireguards, etc., was also investigated and experiments were made with two different liquids—light oil and acid sludge. Both of these it has been shown will successfully destroy vegetation for one year but it is hoped that they will prove effective for two or three years in succession. This would materially lessen the present labour and expense entailed in the ploughing of fire-guards particularly at Buffalo and Elk Island parks and would be an additional protection along railway rights of way.

WILD LIFE IN THE PARKS.

The continued increase of practically all forms of wild life is very gratifying. It affords incontrovertible evidence of the value of sanctuary protection. The superintendent of Jasper park reports that at the close of last season there were estimated to be 5,000 bighorn now within the boundaries of that park. A few years ago their numbers had been reduced to a minimum. As was anticipated there is already a natural overflow into the areas contiguous to park boundaries. Reports received from sportsmen show that there were last fall approximately 2,000 bighorn between the Forks of the Macleod and the Southesk rivers. A British Columbia authority recently estimated that each head of big game was worth $1,000 on account of the money brought into the province through the wealthy sportsmen it attracted. On this basis the increase from Jasper park into the Southesk country alone has added $2,000,000 to the value of the natural resources of Alberta. This is only one district. Similar reports are received from practically all hunting areas.

A notable addition was made to the wild life of the parks by the introduction of a herd of elk which was secured through the courtesy of the United States Government from Yellowstone park, Wyoming. Owing to the severe winter the elk herd in that park were threatened with starvation and an opportunity was offered the Canadian Government of obtaining several hundreds of these animals. The elk were brought over in very severe weather but suffered only a small percentage of loss. They were liberated in Rocky Mountains and Jasper parks and up to the present appear to be doing well.

Buffalo.—The main herd of buffalo in Buffalo park by actual count numbered 4,868 at the end of the fiscal year. The decrease for the year was 41. Of this number 21 were slaughtered to save valuable heads and hides and 20 died, mostly through injuries caused by fighting. The superintendent reports that fully 50 per cent of the main herd are bulls. As the proper proportion between the two sexes in a buffalo herd is one bull to every two cows, there are at least 1,000 surplus males. This tends to weaken the strength of the herd. During the past year investigations have been carried on with a view to the commercial disposal of the surplus males in the immediate future. A test lot of mounted heads was sold by public auction at the Canadian fur sales at Montreal last March and brought the following prices: Small buffalo bull head, $300; medium buffalo bull head, $610; and large buffalo bull head, $1,025. Owing to the use of limousines by the wealthy there is less demand for robes than formerly; however, good hides dressed for robe purposes sold last March in Montreal for $120 each.

It has also been demonstrated by practical tests that, when properly treated, excellent sole leather for boots can be made of the buffalo hides. The leather is both strong and flexible and is said to be as valuable as good cowhide. Owing to the present scarcity of leather it appears that buffalo hides will find a ready market for this purpose if unsuitable for robes or other purposes.

Experiments in a small way have also been carried on with a view to the utilization of buffalo wool and the results are very promising. There are some difficulties in manufacture through the admixture of coarse hair but inquiries indicate that existing machinery can be adapted to handle this problem. One of the outstanding features of the yarn is its extraordinary strength. While it may not be suitable for the finer grades of woollen products there seems a good future for it with respect to coarser articles.

The Department of Agriculture in connection with its cattalo experiments, last winter submitted samples of buffalo and cattalo meat of the same age and condition to twenty-six householders with a view to securing opinions as to the palatability of these meats compared with domestic beef. Only three persons declared the domestic beef superior in taste, the preponderance of opinion favouring the buffalo beef. There is reason to believe, therefore, that a market may be developed without great difficulty by the sale of buffalo for meat purposes.

A request was received during the year from Prof. A. N. Shaw, of the Department of Animal Husbandry, University of Saskatchewan, to take six buffalo calves from those born this season with a view to making experiments in domestication. As is well known, attempts to tame buffalo have been successful in individual cases in the past but it is the hope of the Animal Husbandry Department to continue the experiments until a domestic strain has been produced. Permission for the granting of the necessary calves has been granted and the experiments will be watched with much interest.

PARK FARM.

The farm maintained in connection with Buffalo park continues to prove a financial asset. Last year about 400 acres were seeded to oats and 200 acres were summer fallowed. The season's operations resulted as follows:—

Oat crop—8,000 bushels, of which 1,700 were fed to animals, remaining 6,300 threshed, value 90 cents per bushel	$ 5,670 00
Hay—500 tons at $35 per ton	17,500 00
Total (exclusive 1,700 bushels fed to animals, and straw)	$23,170 00

Antelope.—The Government prong-horned antelope herd at Nemiskam, Alberta, continues to thrive and attracts many visitors. Under the supervision of a caretaker who keeps fences in repair and patrols the reservation, the original 42 antelope have increased to about 100 and, owing to the fact that the reserve contains practically everything needed in the way of vegetation and saline deposits no indication of disease has appeared. So far as known this is the most successful attempt which has yet been made to breed antelope in captivity.

Point Pelee Park.—The results of sanctuary protection are already apparent in Point Pelee park. Although this area was set aside as a park only two years ago it already shows a large increase of animal and bird life. The superintendent reports an abundance of birds during the season and also large increases during migration. The few coveys of quail which were within the park upon its establishment have increased to over 100. The increase in muskrats is also very satisfactory. During the past year it was estimated that there were 2,000 dwellings with an average of six inhabitants each or a total of 12,000 muskrats in the park. At the prevailing price of skins of from $4 to $5 the value of this form of wild life represents over $50,000. Wild rice and celery are being planted along the shores of the lake with a view to increasing the supply of bird food and efforts are being made to assure the maintenance of normal water levels in order to preserve plant life which forms the food of both wild fowl and muskrats. The destruction caused by carp has also been investigated and steps are being taken to eradicate these fish which have proved to be a dangerous enemy to several forms of wild life.

HISTORIC AND PRE-HISTORIC SITES.

The work with respect to the preservation of historic and pre-historic sites, which had been laid aside on account of the war, was resumed during the year and an important step taken in this connection. This was the formation of what is known as the Historic Sites and Monuments Board. In carrying on this work it had been found that the development of a policy covering so wide a field demanded expert knowledge with regard to practically all the historic sites in Canada and their relative value. The Government, therefore, thought it advisable to endeavour to secure the assistance of experts intimately acquainted with these matters and a number of prominent Canadian historians kindly consented to serve as members of an advisory board. The board, which serves without remuneration, is composed of the following: Chairman, Brigadier-General E. A. Cruikshank, Ottawa; Dr. James H. Coyne, St. Thomas, Ontario; Dr. Benjamin Sulte, Ottawa; Archdeacon W. O. Raymond, St. John, N.B.; W. C. Milner, Halifax, N.S.; and the Commissioner of Dominion Parks. The initial meeting was held in Ottawa in October, 1919, when it was decided that the first matter which required to be undertaken was a comprehensive survey of Canadian historic sites. This is now being made by the members. When this survey is completed the board will be in a position to advise the department as to which sites should receive attention from the Federal Government and what work in connection with them should be undertaken. In addition to the meetings of the general board which it is expected will not be held more than once or twice a year, the members resident in Ottawa meet to discuss details when occasion arises.

The co-operation of historical societies and other associations, public libraries, etc., interested in the preservation of the Dominion's historical remains was solicited and the response received was very gratifying. A design for an artistic tablet to be used in connection with the marking of existing remains as well as of a cairn which is to be erected at sites where there are no remains are in course of preparation.

PUBLICITY.

Owing to the restricted appropriations no new parks literature was issued during the year. The large number of requests for pamphlets, however, has practically exhausted all our editions and fresh publications will have to be considered for the coming year. Material for some of these is now in course of compilation. A series of news items was furnished for the British press and a number of articles prepared for Canadian and United States magazines. In co-operation with the Exhibits and Publicity Branch of the Department of Trade and Commerce, several films taken in the different parks were edited. Over a thousand coloured slides were loaned for lecture purposes and lecture material supplied. Illustrated lectures were also given by officials of the branch and several hundred photographs and enlargements were sent out on request.

ST. LAWRENCE ISLAND PARKS.

An important addition was made to the St. Lawrence Island parks by the purchase of what was formerly known as Doran's or Sheep island, directly opposite the town of Morrisburg. This island which was originally part of the St. Regis Indian Reserve, had been leased by the Indians for a term of years to a private individual. At the expiration of the lease the Department of the Interior requested the Department of Indian Affairs to be allowed to acquire it for parks purposes. The island has been named Broder park in memory of the late Andrew Broder, who for many years represented Dundas in the House of Commons. It is one of the finest of the island reservations, covering about twenty acres, well wooded and possessing a good bathing beach as well as suitable grounds for baseball and other sports.

VISIT OF THE PRINCE OF WALES.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales with his staff spent five days in the parks on his tour through the West in September. On his arrival at Banff he was met by guards of honour composed of local war veterans, Stoney Indians and Mounted Police. In reply to the address of welcome on behalf of the English residents of the park His Royal Highness said in part:—

> "It is a very great pleasure for me to be setting foot for the first time in this wonderful park, and I thank you most sincerely for your cordial welcome which has touched me very much.
> "I have long looked forward to seeing for myself the wonderful scenery which surrounds you here. Its grandeur and its beauty have drawn visitors for many years from all parts of the world and I am glad to think that a very large proportion of those visitors has come from the British Isles. The numbers who come here in future must continually increase and you may rely on me not only to spread the knowledge of your attractions in Great Britain when I return, but to come here again myself whenever the opportunity occurs.
> "I thank you for your warm expression of loyalty to my father, the King, who retains the happiest memories of his visit to Banff. The Canadian Government has deserved well of the people of Canada in preserving this wonderful district in all its natural beauty for generations to come. I hope that it will be a place of rest and refreshment within the reach of increasing numbers of every class as the years go on."

After the ceremony in English an address of welcome in the Stoney language was presented and His Royal Highness was made a chief of the tribe with the title "Chief Morning Star."

PROTECTION OF MIGRATORY BIRDS.

The organization for the enforcement of the Migratory Birds Convention Act in Canada was gradually expanded to meet existing conditions during the fiscal year 1919-20. Obviously the localities requiring the most attention were those in which provincial law was not in conformity with the treaty with respect to the protection of migratory birds. For this reason, the first steps in the development of the federal service were taken in the Maritime Provinces. The province of New Brunswick repealed its laws protecting migratory birds about the time that the federal Act was passed. The province of Nova Scotia, although making its law conform with the treaty in other respects, provides no protection for the sea ducks, and although the province of Prince Edward Island concurred in the Migratory Bird Treaty, its laws do not yet conform with that treaty, nor with the federal law.

A temporary staff of migratory bird wardens was organized in the Maritime Provinces in March and April, 1919, consisting of nine full-time and two part-time men. Of these men, one was placed in charge of the migratory bird work in each of the Maritime Provinces. Returned soldiers were appointed to fill all the full time positions and although not specially familiar with the birds, their work was uniformly of an excellent character, both with regard to publicity concerning the law and law enforcement.

During the fall of 1919, examinations were held by the Civil Service Commission, and the migratory bird warden staff in the Maritime Provinces was made permanent.

A staff of honorary game officers is being appointed throughout Canada to serve primarily as an information service. These officers are given the authority of game officers with the power of police constables under the Act and can consequently enforce the law in their own localities. At the present time many districts, especially those surrounding the larger cities, are well patrolled by this staff which now consists of about sixty-three officers and which it is expected will be augmented until there will be a bird friend in practically every community. Persons interested in the protection of our native birds can render a great service by undertaking this work. Although the positions are purely of an honorary nature, these officers are entitled by law to one-half of the penalty imposed in cases which they may bring to court.

The extension of the jurisdiction of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to the whole of Canada will prove, without doubt, an important factor in the operation of this bird protective measure. Steps are now being taken to have all members of this force made game officers under the Act. The Department of the Naval Service has also offered to assist by having officers on its patrol boats made game officers, and it is believed, that this will prove of great assistance in having the law observed in such localities as the north shore of the gulf of St. Lawrence where many complaints have originated in the past.

Officers of the branch have co-operated with the preventive officer of the Department of Customs, which department is in charge of the enforcement of the prohibition which has been placed upon the import of wild bird plumage. An officer of the Department of Indian Affairs has also assisted the Parks Branch by acting as a game warden on the Quebec Labrador coast.

The trumpeter swan, which has long been considered almost if not quite extinct, was found to be wintering in numbers in southern British Columbia, and a temporary part-time game officer was appointed to see that these birds were unmolested. This appointment has been justified and it is a pleasure to report that the birds have now returned to their northern breeding ground without mishap.

PUBLICITY.

The work of educating the public with regard to bird protection has been carried on vigorously during the year. Seven pamphlets in English and six in French have been distributed. In almost all cases these have been sent first of all to the press throughout Canada and the press have reprinted them so widely that they have reached an enormous number of people. The number of each pamphlet printed has ranged from five to fifteen thousand, and they have been distributed where it was believed they would do the most good. Special care has been taken to place schools and educational institutions on the mailing list. The titles of the pamphlets already distributed are as follows:—

Canada's Feathered Friends, by Hoyes Lloyd.
Vanished and Vanishing Birds, by P. A. Taverner.
Why Canada and the United States Combined to Stop Spring Shooting, by J. H. Fleming.

No Spring Shooting Means More Migratory Game, by Hoyes Lloyd.
The German Badge of Cruelty, by Hoyes Lloyd.
The Brant of the Atlantic Coast, by Dr. R. M. Anderson.
Protection of Bird Neighbours, by Hoyes Lloyd.
Les Oiseaux Amis Du Canada, par Hoyes Lloyd.
Les Oiseaux Disparus Et Ceux Qui Sont A La Veille De Disparaitre, par P. A. Taverner.
Pourquoi Le Canada Et Les Etats-Unis Se Sont Unis Pour Mettre Fin a La Chasse Du Printemps, par J. H. Fleming.
La Prohibition De La Chasse Au Printemps Assure Une Plus Grande Quantite De Gibier Migrateur, par Hoyes Lloyd.
La Bernache Commune De La Cote De L'Atlantique, par R. M. Anderson.
Les Oiseaux Savages, par Hoyes Lloyd.

The total distribution to date has been 70,500 numbers and a supply of about 50,000 of these pamphlets still remains in stock.

Whereas the pamphlets have been written from a general point of view, many articles have been furnished the press which deal more particularly with local conditions. These have usually been printed by the press, which has given excellent support in this work whenever asked. Press articles of this nature have been furnished on such subjects as the destruction of crops by geese, the abolition of spring shooting, the band-tailed pigeon of the Pacific coast. An extract of the Canadian federal game laws was furnished the press of Newfoundland so that Newfoundland fishermen would be familiar with and observe this law when in Canadian waters.

A very successful series of lectures was given at the Canadian National Exhibtion at Toronto, and the Central Canada Exhibition, Ottawa, and in addition a number of lectures were delivered to various societies. These have all been illustrated by motion pictures or lantern slides, and occasionally both have been used. The total number of lectures by the head office staff of the division during the year has amounted to more than thirty.

In co-operation with the Exhibits and Publicity Bureau of the Department of Trade and Commerce a number of motion picture films have been prepared. These include a very interesting picture of the pelicans and other birds at Johnson lake, Saskatchewan, which has been widely distributed under the title of "A Bird City." Another film, which shows the wonderful results obtained by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Middleton, of London, Ont., in feeding wild birds will shortly appear under the title "Our Wild Life." The year's work in this line was closed by a picture which may yet prove to be one of the most wonderful of recent wild life pictures. After overcoming great difficulties because of the wariness of the birds, a splendid film showing the trumpeter swans wintering in British Columbia has been taken and is now being prepared for distribution.

BIRD SANCTUARIES.

Much time has been spent in listing the lands to be included in bird sanctuaries in the West and, now that these lists are practically complete, the creation and control of this great series of sanctuaries should go forward at once. Sanctuaries to protect the breeding grounds of the waterfowl of North America are certainly essential, especially when we consider that the United States is providing similar sanctuaries to protect our birds on migration and on their winter feeding ground.

PROSECUTIONS.

Although most of our efforts have been centred upon acquainting the public with the law and with the desirability of protecting our valuable bird life, it has been necessary upon some occasions to take court action against offenders under this law.

Officers of the branch have prosecuted sixteen cases, one of which was appealed, and sixteen fines have been imposed by the court amounting to one hundred and seventy dollars ($170). Confiscations of arms, plumage for millinery purposes, and game in cold storage amounted to eight lots. It is hoped that the publicity given these cases will have a beneficial effect in preventing further breaches of the law in the same localities.

INVESTIGATIONS.

Several investigations have been made, because birds were reported to be seriously damaging crops. In one locality, during the spring of 1919, complaints were very numerous against Canada geese, which were said to be destroying the growing fall wheat. After the fall wheat was well grown, an officer of the Department of Agriculture inspected the fields reported to be damaged, and he placed the total damage done by the birds at eight dollars ($8). Similar complaints were received concerning the band-tailed pigeons in British Columbia. As the band-tailed pigeon is one of the species given special protection by the treaty, it was not felt that any action should be taken upon such complaints, unless the damage caused was really serious. As a matter of fact, one permit was issued to take these birds, but none were taken under it. Fifty-one permits were issued to take migratory birds for scientific purposes, although no birds were taken under many of these permits. It is felt that there are still many persons who do a certain amount of ornithological collecting who have not taken out permits.

WOOD BUFFALO PATROL.

The wood buffalo patrol to protect these animals in northern Alberta and the adjoining section of the Northwest Territories in the vicinity of Fort Smith was maintained throughout the year. Wolves are apparently a serious menace to this herd, and it is possible that special action should be taken to control them on the Buffalo Range. Trails have been cut and cabins are being built by the officers of the patrol, so that they can make frequent trips through the main area occupied by the buffalo. Their equipment is being improved, and horses furnished them, so that the patrol will have means of transport and remain at a maximum efficiency.

NORTHWEST GAME ACT.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police have continued to administer this Act throughout the year, and, now that the inhabitants of the territory have been made acquainted with the provisions of the law, its effect should be felt. Licenses under the Act have been issued, as follows:—

LICENSES ISSUED.

Resident Hunting.	Trading.	Non-Resident Hunting.	British Trading.	Non-Resident Hunting.	Non-British Trading.
21	71	2	1	6	1
40	10	11	1	5	0
5	18	1	0	1	1
18	9	0	0	5	6
15	8	1	1	0	1
131	153	18	4	22	9

The fur returns for the year ending June 30, 1919, are yet far from complete, but the summary reported to date is given below:—

Moose	80	Lynx	161
Caribou	55	Skunks	162
Deer	4	Ermines	2,850
Otter	122	Bears	430
Beaver	3,257	Foxes	847
Marten	5,539	Red Fox	34
Fisher	47	Blue Fox	24
Mink	1,311	Cross Fox	5
Muskrat	50,578	Silver Fox	3
Wolves	193	Black Bear	15
White Fox	4,764	Brown Bear	4
Wolverines	370

In connection with the general interest in fur farming, it may be of interest to mention that one such farm is being operated in the vicinity of Great Bear Lake, Northwest Territories. The regulations under the Northwest Game Act have been amended to prevent hunters and trappers other than Indians and Eskimos from operating in Banks Island, Northwest Territories, and a further amendment to the regulations allows the remission of fees for hunting licenses to members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police when on duty in the Territories.

An amendment to the Act itself has been proposed, as it appeared that the open season for muskrat, north of latitude 64, closed on the 14th day of May, and the new amendment allows this animal to be taken until June 14. At the same time, it is proposed to amend the Act so that similar adjustments in the open season for any species may be made by Order in Council.

The wolf bounty paid during the year amounted to fourteen hundred and eighty dollars ($1,480), and the gross revenue received for licenses during the year amounted to twenty-four hundred and forty-one dollars ($2,441).

MUSK-OX, CARIBOU AND REINDEER.

Further investigations with respect to the caribou and musk-ox emphasized their probable future importance as factors in developing the far north of Canada. The question of preserving and utilizing the millions of caribou as a future meat supply was gone into, as was also the domestication of the musk-ox and the development of musk-ox herds both for food and fur purposes. It is claimed that musk-ox meat is quite as good as prime beef, while the wool, which is somewhat similar to buffalo wool, is well adapted for many kinds of manufactures. The physiological identity of the Barren Land caribou with domestic reindeer also appeared to indicate the possibility of successfully establishing a reindeer industry in the far north. The whole matter involved so many considerations and appeared to be of such importance to a future policy of development that the minister decided to appoint a Royal commission to investigate it. The commission expects to conclude its sittings in the near future and its report will no doubt form a valuable basis for a future policy with respect to the various questions involved.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF ROCKY MOUNTAINS PARK, J. M. WARDLE, BANFF, ALBERTA.

As was expected the end of the war resulted in a large increase in the tourist traffic to the Rocky Mountains park, the season of 1919-20 being generally conceded the best Banff has yet experienced. This increase was largely due to the revival of tourist travel by rail. While the total numbers did not reach the figures of 1915—the year of the Pacific Coast exhibitions—it was noticeable that visitors tended to make a much longer stay in the parks than formerly. At Banff and Lake Louise an increasingly large number of people remained from one to two months. During July and August and a good part of September accommodation in the hotels and lodging-houses of the park was taxed to the limit.

Owing to the exceptionally dry summer motor traffic from the prairies showed no increase over the previous year, the number of outside cars visiting the park remaining about the same. About ten miles of road in the Morley Indian reserve were graded by the provincial government in July and August and as the weather was unusually dry, this road was very soft and dusty until the fall and this no doubt reduced the number of motorists to the park from Calgary.

The season throughout all the western provinces was a particularly trying one for all types of earth and gravel roads owing to the absolute lack of rain during the spring and early summer. The park roads were similarly taxed and a great deal of maintenance work was found necessary, week-end traffic being particularly destructive to the dry and dusty road surfaces. Despite the many difficulties experienced, all the park roads were kept in good condition. The few days' rain in August improved matters greatly and from that time to the end of the season the roads were in better condition than ever before. The difficulty of road maintenance in dry weather resulted in the decision to apply light road oil to the surface of sections of the main road in the park next season.

AUTOMOBILES.

While there was no increase in the number of cars entering the park as compared with last year, the motor traffic was large and, as usual, the officials registering the cars at the Entrance Arch were rushed during the week-ends.

The following is a summary of the licenses issued:—

One thousand nine hundred and seventy-eight transient licenses (1,181 from Calgary, 87 from Edmonton, and 710 from other points); 64 park residents auto licenses (including Government cars); 85 park auto livery licenses; 5 motor-cycle licenses (including free license for R.C.M.P.); 74 non-resident season auto licenses; 17 auto license transfers; 123 chauffeur licenses.

BANFF TOWNSITE.

Considerable improvement was effected in the streets of the town during the year. Several streets, including portions of Muskrat, Rabbit, Bear and Caribou streets, were graded or regraded and surfaced with gravel, a steam roller being used for consolidation purposes. The rocmac surface of Banff avenue, Caribou and Lynx streets was treated with 60 per cent liquid asphalt. This work was completed in June and gave very satisfactory results. It is hoped to re-coat these streets each year until a good wearing thickness of asphalt mat is obtained. The surface of Cave and Spray avenues and the Golf Links road was improved and repaired by scarifying and rerolling. The latter road was treated with 40 per cent road oil, and a portion of Cave avenue with 60 per cent oil. Spray avenue was given one coating of waste fuel oil with satisfactory results.

A much needed sewer main on Grizzly street, between Cariboo and Wolverine streets, was laid during the year, and both water and sewer services were extended to several private houses.

FIRE BRIGADE.

The fire brigade, which had suffered in personnel and efficiency during the war, showed considerable improvement by the fall of the year. Some very useful equipment was added to the fire hall, including new hose, fire hooks, gas masks, extension ladders and a life net.

LIGHTING AND TELEPHONE.

Owing to a lengthy general strike at the Bankhead Mines, Banff was without electric power in the daylight hours from May until September. This was a great inconvenience to the people of the town and to business houses. The experience was another argument in favour of the construction of a power plant by the department as soon as finances permit.

A very busy year was experienced by the telephone service, the volume of business handled taxing the system to its utmost. Late in the year authority was granted to have an expert survey made of the present telephone system and plans prepared for new and more up-to-date lines and exchange.

A complete report was made on the present and proposed systems, and steps have already been taken towards the early establishment of an enlarged system.

ANIMAL ENCLOSURES AND ZOO.

Increases were reported during the year in the number of moose, elk, yak, Rocky Mountain goat and sheep confined in the various paddocks. All the above animals are thriving in their roomy enclosures. Through the courtesy of the 31st Battalion, C.E.F., of Calgary, a Siberian pony was added to the other interesting animals at the buffalo park. This pony was captured by the Germans in one of the Mazurian lakes engagements, and was in turn taken from the Germans by the above battalion at Amiens in 1918. A noteworthy fact was the importation of 192 elk from Yellowstone National Park, U.S.A. Owing to the severe winter and lack of feed many elk in Yellowstone were dying of starvation, and an opportunity was afforded the Dominion Parks Branch of securing several hundreds of these splendid animals. The elk for the Rocky Mountains park were brought in by rail and liberated at Massive and Duthill.

ZOO.

Through the courtesy of Superintendent Pennefather, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, of Lethbridge, a swan was added to the collection of birds. A badger, beaver and mink were secured during the season and two baby porcupines were born in captivity.

The following animals are at present confined in the animal enclosures and zoo:—

Enclosures.—6 buffalo, 13 moose, 29 elk, 1 Persian sheep, 11 Angora goats, 22 Rocky Mountain sheep, 6 Rocky Mountain goats, 49 four-horned sheep, 17 yak, 1 Siberian pony.

Zoo Animals.—1 polar bear, 2 grizzly bears, 3 black bears, 1 cinnamon bear, 1 timber wolf, 3 coyotes, 2 wolverines, 3 porcupines, 2 bobcats, 4 red foxes, 2 badgers, 2 Rhesus monkeys, 4 pine marten, 1 mink.

Zoo Birds.—2 owls, 2 ground owls, 1 bald eagle, 1 golden eagle, 1 pea fowl, 1 Amherst pheasant, 1 ring neck pheasant, 2 Canada geese, 1 swan, 1 common duck.

GOVERNMENT BATHS.

The past season for the two Government bathing establishments was one of the most successful ever experienced. During June, July and August both the Cave and Basin bath-house and the Upper Hot Springs had as many bathers as could be handled by the present staff. For several weeks the Cave and Basin averaged 600 bathers per day, and on July 19, 896 bathers passed through the turnstile. The number of bathers at the two bath-houses during the past year was as follows:—

	1919-20.	1918-19.
Cave and Basin	38,917	32,238
Upper Hot Springs	24,221	24,698

GOLF LINKS.

Seeding and regular watering of the fairways of the golf course were done for the first time during the past season. The result was very satisfactory. Without the regular watering of the fairways the course would have suffered greatly during the long dry summer. In the fall of the year construction was commenced on the eighteen-hole course as laid out by Mr. Donald Ross, the well-known golf architect of Chicago, and was carried on throughout the winter. When completed the new course will be one of the best in Canada and unequalled as regards location and scenic advantages. From a golfing standpoint the past season was undoubtedly the most successful yet experienced. The excellent condition of the greens during the season and the marked improvement in the fairways was a source of expressed satisfaction to all golfers who visited the course. The links were particularly honoured during the season by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales who, with his staff, played several rounds, and, later, by the Governor General's party. The following figures indicate the increase in the number of visitors to the golf course as compared with the previous year:—

Receipts	$2,941	$2,064
Season tickets	88	76
Tourists' tickets	3,839	2,312
Rounds played on season tickets	3,761	2,985
Total rounds played	7,510	5,281

FIRE AND GAME PROTECTION.

The dry summer of 1919 gave cause for a good deal of anxiety as regards forest fires. Numerous fires occurred in the park, but fortunately, due to prompt action, little damage was done. The month of July was a particularly bad one for fires, four breaking out and being fought at one time. Owing to the preparedness and promptness of the fire and game wardens, the majority of fires were checked before well started.

Owing to the fact that the park wardens were continually on fire patrol, trail maintenance work was not as extensive as usual.

No serious infraction of the game regulations was discovered during the year although there were several minor convictions.

The telephone line to the Kananaskis cabin via Canmore and the Deadman's cabin, which was begun in the fall of 1918, was completed early in the season.

FISHING.

Experienced park anglers and others report that the fishing season of 1919 was an exceptionally good one in all park waters. The fishery inspector also reports that more game fish were taken this year than any other. On several occasions when conditions were favourable, fishing in the Bow river near the golf links was excellent, the limit of catch being taken in two or three hours with the fly. In May and June, fishing was very good at lake Minnewanka, a large trout weighing over twenty-six pounds being taken by the troll. The Dominion Fish Hatchery, under the direction of the Department of Naval Service, continued operations during the year. A summary of its work is given herewith:—

TIMBER AND GRAZING.

More dry timber permits were issued than in previous years, several parties being engaged in cutting out dry timber for mine props and firewood at Castle and in the vicinity of Banff.

Twenty-five permits were issued during the season covering approximately 308,378 lineal feet of dead timber. In addition cordwood cut in the park totalled as follows:—

For residents' use	150½ cords.
For government use	60 "

Eighty-one grazing permits were issued during the year, covering the grazing of 175 horses and 204 cows.

ROADS AND BRIDGES.

Improvement work on the Banff-Castle road and the Banff-Kananaskis road was continued during the season. Several miles of the former road were gravelled and improvements in alignment and grades were made on the east road. Maintenance work required was very heavy and was carried on in addition to improvement work. On the Tunnel Mountain road a diversion of 1,700 feet was constructed around the "Corkscrew" drive so that this road could be thrown open to one-way motor traffic. With the building of this diversion one of the best drives in the vicinity of Banff is opened to motorists. Maintenance work was done on the other roads in the vicinity of Banff, including the Loop drive, Hot Springs road, and Sundance canyon road. Construction on the new road from Castle to Lake Louise was carried on by contract under direction of park highway engineers. Owing to a late start only a small portion of the road was built.

CANMORE TOWNSITE.

The road from Canmore townsite to the Canadian Pacific Railway station was gravelled, and minor repairs were made to the main street. One or two stretches of sidewalk were also repaired.

LICENSES AND BUILDING PERMITS.

The following licenses were issued in the Rocky Mountains park during the past year: 50 rowboat licenses, 3 motor-launch licenses, 1 steamboat license, 5 boatsman licenses, 24 guide licenses, 17 horse livery licenses, 19 driver licenses, 21 tea room licenses, 4 pool room licenses, 1 bowling alley license, 102 dog licenses, 32 peddler licenses, 3 gum machine licenses, 9 butcher licenses, 2 moving picture theatre licenses, 3 moving picture operators licenses, 2 tent circus licenses.

During the past year 59 building permits were issued in the park and the estimated cost of the work done amounted to $32,250.

HEALTH.

During the busy season Banff and all other points in the park were particularly free from sickness and contagious diseases. The medical health officer reports that he has never seen a season more free from sickness.

GENERAL.

The Rocky Mountains park had more than the usual number of distinguished visitors during the season of 1919-20. First among these was H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, who stayed three days in the Rocky Mountains park, September 17, 18 and 19. Arriving in Banff on the morning of the 17th—a perfect day—His Royal Highness was welcomed at the station by the whole population of Banff and Bankhead and guards of honour of local War Veterans, Stoney Indians, and Mounted Police.

Accompanied by a mounted escort, the Prince was then motored to the buffalo park, where a formal address of welcome on behalf of the citizens of Banff and the officials of the Dominion Parks Branch was tendered by the superintendent of the park. After his reply to the address of welcome His Royal Highness was made a chief of the Stoney Indians by other chiefs of the tribe with the title of "Chief Morning Star."

The Stoney Indians, of whom there were about 200 present in full native costume, then staged a number of contests in honour of their new chief, including horse racing, broncho busting, foot racing and archery.

After the formal morning ceremony His Royal Highness spent the afternoon on the Government golf course. The following morning His Royal Highness also spent on the links, leaving by the Royal train for Lake Louise on the afternoon of September 18.

On October 20 and 21 the Rocky Mountains Park was further honoured by the visit of the Duke of Devonshire, Governor General of Canada, accompanied by Her Grace the Duchess of Devonshire and Lady Dorothy Cavendish. The Vice-Regal party was taken in motor cars to Johnston canyon and Moraine Lake, and by special request conducted to the top of Sulphur mountain. The splendid view from the Observatory at the summit of the mountain was much appreciated and the members of the party declared themselves well repaid for the climb.

As usual, Banff was visited by numerous conventions and delegations during the summer months, among these being the Fire Chiefs' Convention, Druggists' Convention, Industrial Congress, and Associated Press Delegates.

Several touring parties also passed through the park, the chief among these being a party under the management of the "Brooklyn Eagle," of Brooklyn, N.Y.

This party, which also toured through all the national parks of the United States, voted on the parks they considered best—Rocky Mountains park of Canada heading the list, while the Banff Springs Hotel was considered the best hotel.

WINTER CARNIVAL.

The Banff Winter Carnival, which closed on the 14th January, was very successful. A record number of entries in the various competitions was received from outside points. The Banff ski-jump for men is stated to be the fourth best in America and the boys' ski-jump is the best in America. The longest jump made at Banff was 187 feet. On the boys' jump, a world's record of 114 feet 6 inches was made.

APPENDIX No. 1b.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF THE ALPINE CLUB OF CANADA, BANFF, ALTA.

The Alpine Club House at Banff was open to members and their friends during the entire summer season. In spite of the very high rates of travel the attendance was good and the average visit of some duration. Visitors from Europe as well as from Canada and the United States came for varying periods and the number of seekers for information was as large as ever.

Mount Norquay continued to prove the most attractive of the neighbouring climbs. Mount Edith was climbed by at least one lady member as well as by men as training for more arduous work to come later on.

The usual ascents of the mountains surrounding lake Louise were made by members, and Mr. Val. A. Fynn was indefatigable in hunting for new routes. Dr. and Mrs. Stone climbed Pinnacle in part by a new route.

First ascents were made in the country to the south by club members. Dr. J. W. A. Hickson made the first ascent of Mount Sir Douglas and Mr. Fynn of Mount King George. As soon as new country is mapped in the Canadian Rockies members of the Canadian club find their way to the peaks and the accounts of their expeditions, related with authority in the Canadian Alpine Journal, are read all over the world, and serve to create new interest and attract new visitors to Canada's national parks. In Glacier park, Mr. and Mrs. MacCarthy not only ascended but descended Mount Sir Donald by the northwest arête without a guide.

During the winter the club took much trouble in organizing its delegation to the Congress of Alpinism summoned to Monaco by the Club Alpin Francais. The mountaineers of Europe will learn much of the wonders Canada has to show. The club again presented a cup for competition at the Banff Winter Carnival. In pursuance of its declared policy of bringing the mountains of Canada before the notice of Canada and of the world at large, its director, as director of events, again lent powerful aid to the success of the meeting.

The visitors to the club house were drawn from the following:—Canada—British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec, and Nova Scotia. United States—Connecticut, Indiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF YOHO AND GLACIER PARKS, E. N. RUSSELL, FIELD, B.C.

Yoho Park.

In Yoho park during the past season the need of a large tourist hotel, which we have hitherto had, was much felt and the lack of one prevented many tourists and visitors from staying in the park. The Mount Stephen Hotel, which up to this year has been run as a first-class hotel under the able management of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, was recently turned over to the management of the railway workers, who completely occupy this large building. This left us almost without accommodation for the travelling public in Field and made it necessary for all persons wishing to stop off, to drive out either to the Emerald Lake Chalet or to the Yoho Camp immediately upon arrival, and as the accommodation at both these places was fairly limited, many were disappointed who wished to stay over. In spite of this, however, the park was well patronized and our drives and trails were all well used.

The Alpine Club of Canada held their annual camp towards the end of July, the main camp being pitched in Yoho pass on the shores of Summit lake, with an outlying camp near the mouth of the Upper Yoho valley. The camp was called "Victory Camp" and the site chosen was that where the first camp of the club was held in 1906. Slightly over one hundred members attended, amongst whom were many members of the club recently returned from overseas. The camp next year which is to be held at mount Assiniboine will be called "Welcome Home Camp" in honour of the returned soldier members of the club who, it is hoped, will then all be able to attend.

For the first time motor-cars and vehicles were allowed to run on certain of the roads in Yoho and Glacier parks and a number of residents availed themselves of this privilege, and brought in cars both for their own use and for hire. All roads in the Yoho park were open for use with the exception of the upper portion of the Yoho road, which the department has decided to throw open next season. The work undertaken in the park during the past year was largely in the way of maintenance and repairs. Some new road construction work was contemplated, but owing to the extreme shortage of labour it was not deemed advisable to undertake this, as the greatest difficulty was experienced in securing even enough men for work of a more urgent nature. This labour shortage became more acute as the summer progressed, absolutely no local labour being available. The new work contemplated was the construction of a motor drive from Hector to the eastern boundary of the park, to form another link on the Field-Banff highway which is now nearing completion. The completion of this road will mean much to Yoho park, rendering all its beautiful scenery and drives accessible by motor to visitors from Alberta and other outside points. It is hoped that during the coming year we may be able to complete this highway.

No new trail work was undertaken but fairly extensive repairs were made on a number of existing trails. The Ottertail, McArthur, lake O'Hara, Burgess pass, Twin falls, Little Yoho and several others were given special attention by a small trail gang, while all the other trails were properly cleaned out by the wardens of the various districts.

In the fall of the year an exchange of land was completed between the Dominion Government and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, whereby this department acquired a portion of the Canadian Pacific Railway block situated within the townsite of Field, in exchange for some bottom land to the west of the townsite. The portion taken over by the department will prove a most valuable addition to the townsite, and will fill a long-felt want for suitable building lots. A new roadway was at once constructed through this land connecting the townsite with the bridge crossing the Kickinghorse river, which is now the main road out of the town, the old railway crossing having been closed by order of the Board of Railway Commissioners.

On account of the unusual dryness of the season, the fire hazard was greater than has been the case for many years past, and the wardens were kept constantly on the alert. During the months of June and July particularly, fire alarms were very frequent, but due largely to the efficiency of the warden staff and to the thoroughness of the equipment supplied them, we were able to suppress all fires before they assumed large proportions. A total of eleven railway fires and six general fires was reported, and the largest area burned over by any single fire was thirty acres. Our fire pumping units were in constant use and were undoubtedly the means of saving many hundreds of dollars. With the fire engines on the job we could always be certain that a fire was completely out before leaving it, whereas without means of thoroughly soaking the ground, watchmen would have been necessary in some cases for long periods. For next season the department has approved the purchase of a power speeder for use on the railway track, which will greatly facilitate the prompt dispatch of fire-fighting equipment to the scene of any fires which may be situated in the vicinity of the railway. On the completion of the fire season, the warden staff, under the supervision of the chief warden, started to work on the construction of a number of cabins and stables in different parts of the park.

The policy of the department in retaining the services of the wardens during the winter months in this park is a new one, but now that it has once been started I feel sure that the result of this winter's work will show that the expenditure was well justified. The policy of making a warden's position permanent cannot be too highly recommended as other necessary work can always be undertaken during the winter months and an efficient staff cannot be organized or expected unless these positions are for the year round.

VISITORS.

During the summer we were honoured by a visit from His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales and staff, who spent a full day in the park, and by his democratic manner and winning personality captured the hearts of all who were privileged to meet him.

Glacier Park.

The season in the Glacier park is now practically governed by the opening and closing dates of the Glacier Hotel, one of the oldest hotels belonging to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's system. In the old days before the completion of the Connaught tunnel, when the main line passed by the doors of this hotel, the house was kept open the year round, but now that it has been side-tracked by the diversion of the main line, it is only open for a few months during the summer, when it is usually crowded to capacity. The year past proved no exception to the rule, and from the time the Glacier House opened on June 1, up to the end of the season, it was almost impossible to secure accommodation unless a reservation had been made beforehand.

ROADS AND TRAILS.

During the month of May our wardens were placed on duty and at once commenced the work of cleaning out the trails in their districts. The road from Glacier station to the hotel was also gone over and repaired as was the road to the Nakimu caves. Later in the season a start was made towards converting the abandoned railway grade between Glacier and Rogers pass into a carriage or motor drive. A little over 50 per cent of this work was completed when it had to be discontinued owing to the lack of labour. It is hoped that we may be able to complete this work early next year. It will prove a most popular drive. This section of the new driveway will be about three and a half miles to the summit of Rogers pass, which was the highest point in the Selkirk range on the old main line of the Canadian Pacific railway previous to the construction of the famous five-mile tunnel running through the heart of Mount MacDonald.

TELEPHONES.

The first telephone line to be constructed in this park by the Department was completed this season, a forest line being run from the warden's cabin at Glacier to the cabin of the caretaker at the Nakimu caves, a distance of about six miles. The last mile and a half of this line lies over a snow-slide-swept area, and it was not considered feasible to erect a permanent line over this portion. A permanent line was therefore constructed to the end of the timber where the snow-swept-area commenced and from this point connection was made with the caves by insulated military wire laid along the ground. This wire was taken up again in the fall, one warden easily re-winding the one and a half miles in half a day. It will be relaid again each spring, thus eliminating all chance of loss or destruction to material by slides. The line worked most satisfactorily and was a great convenience both to the caretaker at the caves and to the travelling public.

VISITORS.

The number of persons visiting the Nakimu caves showed a considerable increase over the last two years, the registrations being nearly double that of the previous year.

Registrations at Glacier House were more than four times greater than in 1918. The total for 1919 was 2,238 visitors as against 521 in 1918.

APPENDIX No. 2a.

THE ALPINE CLUB OF CANADA.

CAMP IN YOHO PASS.

The Fourteenth Annual Camp of the Alpine Club of Canada was held in Yoho pass on the shore of the lake from July 22 to August 5. It was felt that after the long years of war no more appropriate place could be chosen from which fresh inspiration could be drawn than the site where the very first camp of the club was held in 1906.

The camp was rendered of exceptional interest by the presence of soldier members who had greatly distinguished themselves during the war. The attendance was larger than at any camp since the fateful one of 1914 and vital interest was maintained until the end.

In the midst of a very dry summer the camp experienced a spell of broken weather, rendering plans difficult of execution at any definite date. The sunshine was appreciated and the afternoon thunderstorms accepted with equanimity.

In 1906 the climbs of the Vice-President were made by a most interesting route from Yoho pass but in the intervening years the glacier had shrunk and conditions entirely altered. Though some climbs were made by this route it was found advisable to lead the novice up from the Little Yoho, either by the rocks or by the snow.

Other peaks ascended, several more than once, were President, Des Poilu (formerly Habel), Marpole, Kerr, Michael's Peak, Burgess, Wapta and Field.

In addition to the easy ordinary route, Mount Wapta was twice climbed on the northeastern face without a guide, a most interesting and worthy climb.

The large Yoho glacier was found to be shrinking rapidly, the ice cave no longer existed and the face of the snout was exceedingly steep.

The annual meeting discussed among other matters, the erection of some form of memorial of the members of the club who had served in the war. It was suggested that a hut be built at some point suitable for a climbing base.

The Swiss guides lent to the club by the Canadian Pacific Railway were Edward Feuz and Christian Hasler. Their services were untiring and greatly appreciated.

There were present members of the English, Swiss and American Alpine Clubs, the B. C. Mountaineering Club, Appalachian Mountain Club, Colorado Mountain Club, the Mazamas, the Sierra Club, and the Royal Geographical Society.

APPENDIX No. 3.

REPORT OF THE ACTING SUPERINTENDENT OF REVELSTOKE PARK, E. N. RUSSELL, FIELD, B.C.

The principal work done at Revelstoke park during the year was the continuation of the motor road to the summit of Mount Revelstoke. It was hoped to complete this road during the season but owing to the great difficulty of obtaining labour and the early onset of winter this was not possible. The new work completed this year was as follows: Fully completed road, from station 643 to station 648. Stumping, grubbing and burning from station 643 to 663. Partly cleared from station 663 to 714. Seven culverts completed between stations 643 and 663. All cribbing completed up to station 661.

The auto road was well patronized by the many motorists of Revelstoke, as well as by many visitors to the district, amongst whom was His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales and Party, who included this drive in his itinerary while on his tour of Western Canada. Fourteen cars in all started with the Royal party, but unfortunately three of these were unable to make the full trip, owing to engine or other trouble. On reaching the end of the road as at present constructed at station 635, a stop was made, and His Royal Highness with a few suitable words kindly unveiled a memorial tablet dedicating the Revelstoke National park for the use and enjoyment of the Canadian people. This tablet was set in concrete on the top of a huge granite boulder to the right of the roadway in a prominent position on a switchback turn of the road overlooking the Illecillewaet valley. Light refreshments were then served by some of the ladies of Revelstoke, after which the party returned to the special train awaiting them, His Royal Highness and a number of others walking the whole of the return journey down the trail.

A new cabin for the use of the warden was constructed near the summit of mount Revelstoke, on the shores of Balsam lake, together with a small stable. It is the intention to extend our telephone line to this cabin in the near future, thus insuring prompt communication with the town of Revelstoke, which will be of great service in cases of forest fires, or other emergencies. Only one fire occurred this year which was easily suppressed, being caught in its early stages, and entailing an expenditure of only $16.

The Mount Revelstoke trail was thoroughly gone over and repaired by the park warden assisted by some outside help, but extensive repairs will have to be undertaken next season on that portion of this trail between Balsam lake and lakes Eva and Miller, as the corduroy work has about served its time and is becoming very rotten. It is hoped next season to construct a new trail from the western boundary of the park to the summit of mount Revelstoke, and thus open up a large portion of the park now inaccessible. The proposed new trail would start at a point near Twelve-mile creek on the Big Bend road, thence running in a westerly direction passing the Surprise lakes, Butte lake, and Caribou lake and from there along the summit of the mountain to lakes Eva and Miller. This proposed trail will pass thruogh some magnificent scenery.

In the fall of the year some improvements were undertaken on the ski grounds. This is now probably without exception, the finest ski-jumping hill on the American continent and attracts the finest jumpers in the world to the annual contest held under the auspices of the Revelstoke Ski Club. The Canadian amateur record is held by a Revelstoke man, who this year surpassed his own former record jump of 177 feet by making a standing jump of 185 feet on this hill. Several jumps of over 200 feet were made by professionals, the world's champion jumper making one jump of 212 feet, which is within one foot of his record jump. Winter sports in the Revelstoke park are fast forging ahead, and in a very short time have assumed a prominent position in this respect. Thousands of visitors now come to witness the annual tournament.

It is anticipated that the boundary lines of this park, which at present are not definitely settled, will be shortly adjusted. The matter of finally deciding upon the area which is to be included within the park is a most important one, and I trust that the department will not allow another season to pass without clearly defining it. I would recommend that when a decision has been reached, a proper survey of these lines be made, and the lines cut out for a width of at least six feet, in order that they may be clearly marked. This I believe would be necessary on account of the difference between the park regulations and the laws governing the lands surrounding the park.

APPENDIX No. 4.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF JASPER PARK, COL. S. MAYNARD ROGERS, JASPER, ALTA.

The game resources of Jasper park are increasing steadily year by year. It is estimated that there are now in the park at least 5,000 Rocky Mountain sheep (bighorn) and the increase has brought about the beneficial result that the surplus is gradually moving outside of park boundaries thus furnishing to the legitimate sportsman good shooting in the areas adjoining.

From reports received from our warden service and from outside sources it is estimated that outside of park areas on the eastern slopes alone, from the forks of the McLeod to the Southesk river in the southeast corner of the park, there were approximately 2,000 bighorn last fall. Parties shooting there were able to get in most cases the full complement allowed by law and in every case splendid heads were procured without any difficulty.

Mrs. Mead, of Chicago, and her 16-year-old son procured their four heads in the first twenty-four hours, one especially large head over 18 inches among the number.

To the north of the park near the Snake Indian river, Miss Foster, her brother and a friend procured with their guides, 10 splendid sheep, 7 goat, and Mr. Foster also shot a very fine caribou. This all goes to prove that the protection afforded by our warden service has been satisfactory.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN GOAT.

These magnificent but very timid animals are also increasing enormously and the overflow will soon afford good sport to the legitimate hunter.

MOOSE.

Moose are increasing rapidly on our easterly foothills and an old moose or two is usually to be found in the Rocky river, the Jack lake and Pyramid lake areas as well as on Signal mountain.

Mule deer, white-tailed and black-tailed deer are also increasing satisfactorily but not as rapidly as could be wished, principally owing to the numbers of large coyotes or "brush wolves," as they are locally termed.

BEAR—GRIZZLY, BLACK AND CINNAMON.

Bears are increasing rapidly, and the time will soon come when we shall have to take steps to lessen their numbers as they are getting very bold.

WAPITI OR ELK.

A small band of these interesting and beautiful animals is to be found in the Southesk country where they have taken refuge from the depredations of Indians and breeds residing outside the park limits. They are being carefully safeguarded so far as our small warden service will permit. During the year 100 of these stately animals were procured from Yellowstone National park, Wyoming. This shipment, in spite of being nearly seven days on the train, suffered a loss of only 11 which is considered to be a very good record, especially in view of the fact that nearly 50 per cent were fully grown.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 25

FUR-BEARING ANIMALS—BEAVER, MARTEN, MINK, ETC.

These valuable animals continue to thrive and are increasingly numerous.

BIRD LIFE.

There does not appear to be any great increase of bird life in the park, which may partly be accounted for by the depredations of coyotes, wolves and lynx which have had to look to this source for food supply in the absence of rabbits now reappearing after their usual seventh year diminution.

We were very much encouraged by the settling down and breeding in Jasper park of about fifty wild geese during the past season, the first time on record since 1912. In every case they raised young and appeared to realize that they were safe from mankind as they became quite tame towards the end of the season.

FISH.

Fish appear to be increasing satisfactorily and new lakes are being continually opened up which add to our fairly long list of good fishing waters. The sound policy of restocking lakes, which has been consistently followed, will undoubtedly have a very material effect within the next few years.

PREDATORY ANIMALS.

The wardens are steadily decreasing predatory animals such as wolves, coyotes and lynx by energetic measures of shooting and trapping, but owing to the lack of rabbits, migratory bands of wolves and coyotes continue to come into the park area in search of food supply.

In a recent long winter trip through the mount Robson area returning by the Snake Indian river, one of our wardens saw numerous wolverine tracks. All possible steps will be taken to eradicate this dangerous predatory animal.

VISITORS.

Jasper park was honoured by many distinguished visitors during 1919; first by the premier visit of a Vice-Regal party, including His Excellency the Governor General, accompanied by Her Grace the Duchess of Devonshire, Lady Dorothy Cavendish, Miss Egerton, Miss Saunders, Captain McMillan and Captains Cator and Lord Haddington, A.D.C.

Their Excellencies spent three days in the park climbing and visiting several of the beautiful outlying districts. They expressed great pleasure in their visit, particularly enjoying the Maligne canyon. The party climbed to the top of Whistler mountain and nearly to the top of Muhegan, approximately 9,000 feet in altitude. They also visited Pyramid lake and lakes Patricia, Beau Vert, Edith, Annette and others, and were kind enough to express the hope of returning for a more prolonged stay during 1920.

We were also honoured by visits from several parties of distinguished scientists, viz., Major H. Chapman, Secretary-Treasurer of the United States Alpine Club, accompanied by Dr. Howard Palmer and Mr. Carpe, who spent some weeks in exploring the Tonquin valley and the Fraser icefields. They carried out a considerable amount of topographical and photographic work which will be immensely valuable to the park.

Dr. Chamberlin, of the Department of Geology, University of Chicago, also spent some weeks exploring the Pyramid mountain and mount Edith Cavell regions. Dr. Chamberlin and his confrère succeeded in climbing mount Edith Cavell, a feat that has only been accomplished once before. They were able to carry out this most difficult task with comparative ease by discovering a new and much easier route than the ones so often tried in the past which defeated many mountain climbers with international records, such as A. L. Mumm and others.

The following extract from a letter from Dr. Chamberlin gives his impression of the district:—

"Mount Cavell was our finest day's work. Specializing in that phase of geology which deals with the structure of mountain ranges, I have, under the pretext of professional necessity, climbed mountains on all the continents except Africa and Antarctica, but I can recall only two other days among several score of these mountain ascents which gave such complete satisfaction as that spent on mount Cavell. We both of us marvelled at the exquisite beauty of the mountains to the south. It would take too long to state just wherein the charm lies, but it impressed me as one of the grandest parts of the North American continent. It is certainly to be hoped that some time in the near future trails will be opened up so that visitors can, without too great labour, get up into the midst of that wild and rugged country."

TOURIST ACCOMMODATION.

The park was crowded beyond capacity of accommodation all through the past season, and the want of a suitable and modern hotel is a serious handicap. The "Tent City," with accommodation for sixty guests, were compelled to put out the "no accommodation" sign nearly every train day.

UNITED STATES EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION.

On Sunday, the 3rd of August, the United States Editorial Association were entertained to a buffalo barbecue and luncheon at Lac Beau Vert, and the 239 members apparently thoroughly enjoyed the unique entertainment provided, as well as the interesting scenic features in the vicinity of Jasper, including Maligne canyon and the beautiful chain of lakes between Jasper and the canyon, which they were able to explore in the short time at their disposal.

FOREST FIRES.

The season of 1919 proved a most unfortunate one with regard to forest fires, of which we had an unusually large number. The majority, fortunately, were small in area and were checked in time to prevent spreading. One serious fire started in British Columbia between Yellowhead and Lucerne. This fire covered approximately an area of 10 square miles, but fortunately the loss in timber was not very large from a commercial standpoint, although it sadly marred the scenic features from Yellowhead east almost to Mount Edith Cavell station.

The only other large fire was in the Rocky River district opposite the mouth of Jack creek. This fire was evidently caused by the carelessness of tourists or fishermen. With the exception of this Rocky river fire, the remainder were all set by locomotives, which unfortunately were obliged, owing to war conditions, to revert to coal-burning instead of oil-burning engines as in previous years. It is not likely that we will escape a large number of railway-set fires until oil-burning engines are re-established.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.

Owing to the difficulty in obtaining labour, the only new road construction carried out was a small portion of the Edith Cavell road, which was done by contract. It is hoped that the coming season will see the completion of this road to lake Edith Cavell, one of the most interesting scenic points in Jasper park.

The same applied to our trail construction, but it is hoped that during the coming season there will be no difficulty in securing ample labour for our different park requirements.

TRAILS.

New trail construction was carried out between Athabaska falls and Sunwapta cabin, the start of a permanent trail to the source of the Athabaska via Brazeau lake, which when constructed, will be very popular with the tourists who wish to take the long and most interesting trip from Jasper to Banff or vice versa.

At Brazeau lake the trail branches off to the eastward and it is hoped the construction will be completed this year of the permanent round trip trail from Sunwapta to Brazeau lake, thence to the Southesk country and back to the Rocky river over the Osborne pass to the Jack lake trail. This is one of the most urgently required trails for proper fire and game protection in this park and in addition, it will make an ideal round trip for tourists.

CABINS.

It is expected to construct this coming year four new cabins at points of interest in Jasper park to augment the ones at present erected and which have proved very popular with tourists in the park. These cabins are utilized by the wardens when required and they also provide accommodation for tourists on their trips through the park.

TELEPHONE LINES.

Our park telephone system is at a stage when a complete reinstallation of telephone poles is absolutely necessary, as the main trunk line from Yellowhead to Errington is the old Foley, Welch and Stewart construction line installed many years ago.

MIETTE HOT SPRINGS.

These wonderful curative springs were very largely patronized, principally by the miners from Pocahontas, Brulé mines and Bedson, and many cures of rheumatic affections were reported. There is as yet no accommodation at the springs but we expect to construct a suitable shelter this year.

PERMANENT BRIDGE OVER ATHABASKA RIVER AT JASPER.

A small work gang of returned soldiers has been steadily employed for the past few months in putting in heavy concrete abutments and doing the necessary rock excavation on the east bank preparatory to the installing of a much needed steel bridge at this point, the only means of access at high water from Jasper headquarters to the south and east portions of the park.

APPENDIX No. 5.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF WATERTON LAKES PARK, GEORGE A. BEVAN, WATERTON PARK, ALTA.

On June 23, 1919, I assumed the duties of superintendent relieving Mr. F. E. Maunder, Superintendent of Revelstoke park and late acting superintendent here.

The tourist traffic during the past season was very gratifying. During the latter part of June and throughout the months of July and August, the summer cottages were all occupied and the camping grounds were in constant demand.

WATERTON TOWNSITE.

As all the desirable building lots for cottage purposes in the townsite had been leased, it was necessary to plot a new subdivision. This work was undertaken by E. S. Martindale, D.L.S., of Ottawa, and 80 new lots were laid out by him in a most desirable situation along the base of the mountain. The interest taken by the public was very gratifying and as soon as these lots are made available for application, fifty per cent will be applied for and built on without delay, more inquiries than this having already been received.

The streets and avenues of this new subdivision have been cut out and cleared and are now ready for stumping and grading. This work will be undertaken in the early spring.

OFFICIAL BUILDINGS.

A new office 20 by 20 with a storeroom 16 by 16 was erected by the department, This was attractively built of peeled logs and finished inside with beaver board. A superintendent's residence was also completed of the same type as the above.

ROADS.

Owing to the need of strict economy consequent upon war expenses, very little was undertaken in the way of new roads. One new road was laid out by the highway engineer's division from the north boundary of the park to Waterton bridge, a distance of nearly two miles. Owing to the early arrival of winter, one-half of this work only was finished; the balance will be completed this coming year.

TRAILS.

No new trail work was undertaken, the existing trails being kept in good condition by the warden service.

I regret the lack of good saddle trails in the vicinity of the lake for the convenience of the tourists, and would recommend that the trail laid out by Mr. J. M. Wardle in 1917, connecting Akamina pass trail with the boundary trail via Cameron lake, be included in the plan of work for the season of 1920.

TELEPHONES.

The main line was extended from the old office to the new building, a distance of approximately $1\frac{1}{4}$ miles and an extension line built to the warden's cabin on Pass creek, approximately 2¼ miles. All the wardens' stations in the park proper are now in direct telephone communication with headquarters, but connections will have to be built in the future to outlying cabins for fire emergencies.

The department has entered into contract with the Provincial Government to build a toll line connecting Waterton park with Pincher Creek during the next season. This connection has long been desired.

GRAZING.

Permits were granted during the season for 2,916 head of horses and cattle. These grazing privileges are much appreciated by the local stockmen and many more permits could have been granted had we been able to accommodate them.

FIRE PROTECTION.

The season of 1919 was excessively dry and forest fires in the West were very prevalent and disastrous. Eight broke out in this park. Of the first six we received early notice and were able to put them out without much trouble or expense. The two latest fires, viz., those at Oil City and Belly river respectively, occurred at the end of the summer, when fierce winds were blowing, and owing to the fact that we did not receive early notice they gained unusual headway and considerable damage resulted. The chief warden and his staff are to be congratulated upon the manner in which they fought and controlled these fires.

Two small pumping units were received during the season, which will be of great assistance to our fire fighting equipment in the future. These are so constructed that they are easily portable either by man power or by automobile. Unfortunately, the necessary equipment for these units was not here at the time of the above-mentioned fires.

GAME.

That the preservation of the game has been very satisfactory is proved by the large numbers of game which are from year to year becoming tamer and are more frequently visible to the tourists. There have been no violations of the game regulations during the season.

RECREATION.

Boating and fishing are among the most popular attractions with visitors to this park.

There are three motor launches and twenty-nine rowboats licensed for hire during the season, besides several other row and motor boats belonging to private individuals. The fishing is very good and many individuals obtained their limit during the season. Several trout weighing between twenty and thirty pounds were taken from the lake.

VISITORS.

During the season a marked increase was shown in the number of tourists from the United States Glacier National park, who visited this park by automobile and pack-horses. It is reported that many others would have come had they been able to secure means of transportation. On July 26 the Alberta Automobile League made a tour from Lethbridge, staying here for two days. By arrangement with head office, sixty tents were provided and pitched for their accommodation.

The total number of visitors to the park for the year 1919 was approximately 9,000.

APPENDIX No. 6.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF BUFFALO PARK, A. G. SMITH, WAINWRIGHT, ALTA.

FARMING OPERATIONS.

An experiment of growing rape along with the oats was tried out this year, the object being not only for after-pasture, but particularly for the benefit to the land where it is impossible to have a proper rotation of crops. In all about 440 acres were sown, 410 acres at the south end and 30 acres at the north end. The rape grew exceedingly well, and had the season been a normal one, the experiment would have been very satisfactory, but owing to the drought the oats were short and light with the result that the rape leaves gave us some trouble when cutting with the binders. However, the rape leaves in the straw made splendid feed for the Buffalo and the stubble made good pasture for the horses running out all winter.

About 75 acres of our crop were stacked for green-feed and from the balance we threshed 6,300 bushels of oats, which was, in view of the nature of the season, considered a fair crop. Early in the summer some 200 acres, off which two crops had been taken, were summer-fallowed and put in shape for the next spring.

HAYING.

The hay on the Ribstone meadow was light but the quality was good and we succeeded in securing about 400 tons. We also stacked about 130 tons of upland hay in the main park to be fed to the animals in the home paddock and the cattalo enclosure.

In addition to the hay cut in the park for our own requirements we also granted permits to settlers covering the cutting of 500 tons, and as the permits were granted on the basis of one ton per head of stock and not more than 20 tons to any one farmer, we were in this way able to divide up the available hay among a large number of farmers, and I can assure you it was of much assistance to them.

GRAZING LEASES.

During the year those sections of the reserve outside the main fence on both the east and west sides of the park were leased for a period of one year, and a considerable revenue was thereby received.

FIRE GUARDING.

All work in connection with the ploughing and discing of fire guards was done by our own teams. There were no fires in the park during the year.

TIMBER PERMITS.

A large number of the settlers again took the opportunity of procuring dry wood in the park. Permits for 500 cords were taken out and as a permit for twenty-five cords costs only twenty-five cents, the benefit the farmers derive from this privilege is of no small importance.

Permits were also granted to bona fide farmers for the cutting of willow fence pickets along the banks of Battle river and Ribstone creek. This is the first year we have granted permits for fence pickets and the privilege has been much appreciated as permits covering 9,500 fence pickets were taken out during the past winter.

HORSES.

There were 42 head of horses shipped to this park from Kingston, Ont., in December to be wintered here. Altogether we have now about 100 head, including colts. I consider we have been very fortunate with our horses as there has been no loss.

WILD ANIMALS.

All the wild animals have done well throughout the year. The natural increase in buffalo, 1,148, has gone beyond all expectations. The elk also showed a good increase, adding 27 to their number. The moose, deer and antelope also show an increase.

The decrease in buffalo for the year was 40. Of this number 21 were slaughtered and 20 found dead. The number of wild animals now in the park is as follows:—Buffalo, 4,668; elk, 124; mule deer (estimated), 431; moose, 24; antelope, 4; cattalo, 15; yak, 4; domestic cattle, 15; total, 5,285.

The yak were brought in from Banff during the year, and they, along with the domestic stock and cattalo, are kept in separate pens of the Cattalo Enclosure where the experiment of cross-breeding is being carried out. A rather interesting incident in connection with this experiment was the raising of a buffalo calf along with a domestic calf by a domestic cow. Both calves thrived very well and although the buffalo calf was taken off the cow last fall it still follows its foster-mother at every opportunity.

The winter just ending has been a very long one with the deep snow and considerable crust. About 2,000 buffalo, mostly bulls, were left out in the main park during the winter to rustle their feed, as it was not considered advisable to have the whole herd in winter quarters. Early in March, about the time we usually turn the herd out of winter quarters on to the summer range, we had to bring about 800 of those that were left out into winter quarters to be fed, and haul feed out into the big park for those still out, but I am pleased to report the herd being brought safely through one of the hardest winters known in Western Canada, and in good condition.

WILD BIRDS.

Wild geese and ducks appeared to be more plentiful this year than at any previous time; in fact birds of many kinds seem to realize the protection that awaits them inside the park boundaries and it would now appear as though each year we will see more of the wild bird life.

COYOTES.

The hunting of coyotes with dogs has been constantly kept up, the number killed this year being 52, and it can be noticed that these noxious animals are not nearly so plentiful as they were a few years ago.

VISITORS.

Each year brings many new visitors to Buffalo park. The number entering by the Wainwright entrance for the year was 6,330; another 1,000 visited the park entering by the other gates and all expressed the greatest interest and pleasure in seeing such a wonderful herd of wild animals.

APPENDIX No. 7.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF ELK ISLAND PARK, ARCHIBALD COXFORD, LAMONT, ALBERTA.

We started haying operations the first of August and put up about 280 tons which, with about 40 tons carried over from the previous year, gave us sufficient for the winter feed. The hay meadow at Goose Lake was enclosed with a three-strand barbed wire fence. This will prevent the numerous cattle that range on the forest reserve from roaming over the meadow.

VISITORS.

We had a few campers during the summer and a large number of visitors who generally spent the day picnicking, boating and bathing. Different organizations come here for their annual picnic and these find the lack of a sports ground a great drawback. I think grounds fit for ball games, etc., should be attended to at once, considering the demand there is for one and the small expense it would entail. The visitors for the year numbered 3,922.

ANIMALS.

The percentage of increase in the buffalo is not so large this year as the previous year. We find with all the animals increasing each year we are crowded for ample pasture and I would strongly recommend extending the boundary of the park at least six miles south into the Cooking Lake Forest Reserve. The buffalo have come through this severe winter in excellent shape. The rider has seen more animals this winter than usual; he reports the deer and moose in fine shape and the elk fair.

The total number of animals in the park is as follows: Buffalo, 198; moose, 63; elk (estimated), 150; deer, 125.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF POINT PELEE PARK, F. H. CONOVER, LEAMINGTON, ONT.

Point Pelee has long been a household word throughout western Ontario, not only on account of its scenic attractiveness, its novel and shady driveways, but because of its charming and unique character which distinguishes it from every other area in Canada. It is, as is well known, the most southerly point in the Dominion, and as a result it possesses both a fauna and flora of peculiar interest to the scientist and nature lover. Its abundant and semi-tropical vegetation includes many species not found elsewhere in this country and it is the only spot within the northern range of many southerly breeding birds. It is also in the direct path of one of the great routes of migration and its extensive marshes and dense undergrowth form an ideal resting place for many forms of bird life in migration as well as a breeding place throughout the season.

It is a matter for much congratulation that through the public-spirited efforts of local societies and the authorities concerned with the conservation of wild life at Ottawa, this unique area has been permanently set aside. While early conditions of soil and forest have to some extent disappeared it still retains a wealth of plant and animal life which makes it, as I have said, one of the most interesting places in Canada.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 25

EROSION BY STORMS.

During the past season heavy storms considerably damaged the shore line, resulting in extensive erosions along the eastern shore of the point. Numerous large trees, several of them three feet in diameter, and many red cedars were uprooted and swept out into the lake by the strong currents. The present frail shore line was once an extensive deposit of massive gravel beds, but unfortunately a great part of these had been removed for commercial purposes before the reservation of the area.

IMPROVEMENTS.

The general attractiveness of the park has been heightened by the removal of driveway debris and decayed undergrowth. It was also found necessary from time to time to clear away the flotsam and wreckage left behind by severe storms.

To provide the public with drinking water two drive wells were sunk with gratifying results. These have been covered with attractive arbours and several purple martin houses, built according to departmental specifications, erected. A number of martins very soon took up their abode in these and it is hoped they will return during the coming season, bringing others with them.

WILD LIFE.

While the park has only been established for a comparatively short period, it shows already gratifying results as a wild life sanctuary. It affords a perfect environment for quail (bob white) as well as for the English ringneck pheasant. The extensive runs and subways throughout, interlaced with a profusion of creeping vines, mammoth weed growth and wild rose, ensure excellent protection against heavy snows throughout the winter as well as covert from predaceous birds and animals.

In 1918 the warden constructed several artificial brush shelters. These were stocked with grain and served as resorts for the birds during the severe storms. A similar provision will be made for the ensuing winter.

It is noted that the quail have increased to over 100 since the inception of the park. This is most encouraging and indicates that we will soon have large numbers of these birds under the existing methods of protection.

A large variety of song birds annually visit Point Pelee in migration and numerous species nest here. The marshes with their wild grass, bullrushes and cane reeds afford nesting grounds for many game and other birds, but unfortunately those bird homes are frequently destroyed by marsh fires. At the time of writing thousands of deserted nests, somewhat similar in formation to that of the oriole, are visible, suspended in the flags. During the past season marsh fires also destroyed the natural covert of mallards, teal and wood ducks.

The banning of September shooting in Point Pelee park by federal enactment has undoubtedly stimulated the increase of many forms of wild life. Last September large numbers of teal and some wood ducks, which were apparently on their southern migration, took shelter in the park during this month. They were followed later by members of the dwindling remnants of the ruddy ducks, by the black ducks, the mallard and the less artful red head.

The perceptible increase in many kinds of bird life during migration last year, including rice birds, jack snipe, shore waders, wild ducks and geese, would seem to indicate that the Migratory Birds Convention Act is already beginning to bear good results.

The production of wild rice as food for the shoal feeders and of wild celery for the deep water birds, Canvasback, Red Head, and American Scaup which is now being undertaken should materially assist in increasing the numbers of waterfowl. In this connection the maintenance of normal water levels not only for wild fowl alone but also for muskrat is of great importance. Unless the fresh water inlets are kept open stagnation ensues with a resulting decrease or destruction of the plant life which serves as food for both.

The destruction caused by carp in the waters is widely evident. These destroy the sustenance that rightfully belongs to the waterfowl. The efforts now being undertaken at your suggestion will, it is hoped, soon put an end to these pests.

Point Pelee marsh also provides an ideal habitat for the muskrat. At the close of 1919 it was estimated that there were 2,000 dwellings with approximately six inhabitants in each or a total of 12,000 muskrats in the park, independent of bank and bog habitations. At prevailing prices for skins this makes Point Pelee a valuable fur producing area.

One hundred and thirty-four permits were issued for shooting in the open season for ducks, October 1 to December 14, inclusive.

Motor traffic to the park was greater than during any previous season and it is hoped that expenditure will be authorized during the coming year for the speedy completion of necessary roadways and for the accommodation of automobiles, especially near the south end of the Point. There were over five hundred cars in one day within the parking zone, not including those in the central portions of the park.

APPENDIX No. 9.

THE ST. LAWRENCE ISLANDS PARKS.

An important addition was made to these parks during the year by the purchase of what was formerly known as Doran's or Sheep island, directly opposite the town of Morrisburg. This island was originally part of the St. Regis Indian Reserve but had been leased by the Indians for a term of years to a private individual. At the expiration of the lease in October, 1916, the Department of the Interior acquired it from the Department of Indian Affairs and by Order in Council dated December 3, 1919, it was proclaimed a Dominion park. The island has been named Broder park in memory of the late Andrew Broder, who for many years represented Dundas in the House of Commons. It is one of the finest of the island reservations, covering about twenty acres, well wooded and possessing a good bathing beach as well as suitable grounds for baseball and other sports. Several campstoves encased in cement, tables, benches and other conveniences necessary for the comfort of picknickers and campers have been provided. It was not possible to construct a pavilion in time for the season, but a large tent 24 x 48 has been erected to serve as a protection to visitors against rain or storm.

APPENDIX No. 10.

REPORT OF THE HONORARY SUPERINTENDENT OF FORT ANNE PARK, L. M. FORTIER, ANNAPOLIS ROYAL, N.S.

The year just ended has been one of steady progress at Fort Anne. The museum has gone on growing in extent and interest, and the recent repairs to the administration building (the old officers' quarters in the fort, built by the Duke of Kent in 1798) have made it possible to effect a much better arrangement of the exhibits, so that they can now be seen to proper advantage by visitors. Something over 3,000 persons visited Fort Anne during the year, of whom 2,181 registered their names and were given personal attention.

NATIONAL PARKS AND RESERVES.

ADMINISTERED BY THE DOMINION PARKS BRANCH, DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR.

Name.	Location.	Date of Establishment.	Area.	Special Features.
Rocky Mountains park..	Alberta, east slope of Rockies..	1885	2,751 square miles.	Ideal mountain playground containing the two famous resorts, Banff and Lake Louise, with much of finest scenery of east slope of Central Rockies. Massive formation of stratified sedimentary rock, upper slopes bare, worn and castellated, or glacier crowned, lower slopes covered with luxuriant forests and flower carpeted alplands. Glacier-fed lakes of exquisite colouring, wild deer, goat, sheep, elk, etc. Recreations: alpine climbing, walking tours, riding, boating, swimming, golf, tennis and motoring, winter sports—ski-ing, tobogganning, ski-joring, snow-shoeing, skating, etc.
Yoho park.....	British Columbia, west slope of Rockies.	1886	476 square miles.	Rugged scenery of west slope of Rockies, narrow transverse valley of Kickinghorse, precipitous peaks, large number with permanent ice caps or glaciers, wonderful Yoho valley with falls over 1,200 feet in height. Four great snowfields at head. Natural bridge, Emerald lake, lakes O'Hara and McArthur.
Glacier park.....	British Columbia, summit of Selkirks.	1886	468 square miles.	More massive formation of older range. Peaks worn down almost to timber line crowned with innumerable glaciers; luxuriant forests, alpine flower gardens. One of the best centres for alpine climbers and students of glacier formations, Illecillewaet and Asulkan valleys and glaciers, Nakimu caves, Marion lake, Rogers and Baloo passes.
Revelstoke park.....	British Columbia.....	1914	95 square miles.	Fourteen-mile motor drive up Mt. Revelstoke affording panoramic views of Columbia and Illecillewaet valleys, Clach-na-Coodin ice-field, lakes Eva and Millar. Winter sports resort, game preserve.
Kootenay park.....	British Columbia.....	1920	587 square miles.	Highway park extending 5 miles on each side of new Vermilion-Sinclair section of Banff-California highway. Passes through wonderful and practically unknown mountain scenery. Historic rivers, towering canyons, Briscoe range, Ice lake, Sinclair canyon and Radium Hot Springs. Bear, deer, caribou and sheep.
Jasper park.....	Northern Alberta.....	1907	4,400 square miles.	Immense mountain wilderness, partly unexplored, rich in historic associations. Numbers of unclimbed peaks, glaciers, snow fields, canyons, innumerable lakes of wonderful colouring. Athabaska valley, Maligne lake, gorge and canyon, Mt. Edith Cavell, Miette Hot Springs, Mt. Robson, highest known peak in Canada. Largest big game sanctuary in world.
Waterton Lakes.....	Southern Alberta, adjoining U.S. Glacier Park.	1895	423 square miles.	Mountains noted for beauty of colouring; lovely lakes, waterfalls and snow-peaks, excellent trout fishing, favourite camping resort.

St. Lawrence Islands.....	Ontario.....	1905	140 acres.....	Thirteen islands and one mainland reservation among the Thousand Islands of the St. Lawrence river equipped for the use of summer campers and visitors.
Broder park	Ontario.....	1919	4 acres	Additional island opposite Morrisburg recently added to above reservation.

Foremost Antelope reserve.	Southern Alberta.....	Reserved by Order of Minister.	9 square miles.	Fenced reserve containing about 100 antelope.

HISTORIC PARKS.

Fort Howe.....	New Brunswick.....	1914	19 acres	Associated with earliest history of province. Site of landing of U.E. Loyalists.
Fort Anne.....	Nova Scotia.....	1917	.....	Fort Annapolis Royal played important part in early history of Canada, first vessel constructed and first grist-mill erected in North America, the centre of civilization and progress in Acadia and of the fiercely contested struggle between France and England for the possession of the continents.
Port Pelly Park reserve.	Saskatchewan.....	Reserved by Order of Minister.	1¼ secs.....	One of the early Hudson Bay Company's posts; first seat of government of Northwest territories and headquarters of Royal Northwest Mounted Police.
Pt. Pelee.	Ontario, on lake Erie.	29th May, 1918	.....	Most southerly point in Canada; northern limit of many migratory birds; summer resort and bird reserve; unique fauna and flora.

PART III

FORESTRY

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR OF FORESTRY, R. H. CAMPBELL

This report covers the work of the Forestry Branch for the fiscal year 1919-20, ended March 31, 1920.

The past year was remarkable as including the most disastrous season for forest fires since the establishment of the Forestry Branch. All through the West there was very little snow in the winter, and when it disappeared the early spring brought an abnormal period of drought and continuous high winds. Later in the summer conditions improved in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, but in Alberta and British Columbia the weather continued very dry and the situation caused great anxiety all through the summer. Even the strenuous exertions of the field staff could not prevent fires getting away, and heavy damage to the forests resulted in some localities.

While the revenues received from the forests are yet small as compared with the amount required for their protection and management, still they are increasing steadily. The total revenue for the last fiscal year was $127,975, as compared with $23,445 in 1913-14. Between these years receipts from the different sources increased as follows: Timber from $18,867 to $70,229, grazing from $221 to $42,248, and hay from $773 to $9,592. With such a marked increase in revenue it would seem that we are justified in expecting that the forests will in time make financial returns commensurate with those secured in Europe. In France the expenditure on state forests is $3,000,000, or $1 per acre, and the revenue is $4,800,000, or $1.60 per acre. In Hesse there is a net revenue over expenses of $5.32 per acre, and in Saxony an expenditure of $3.33 per acre brings in receipts amounting to $6.35 per acre. In Switzerland the net annual returns range from $3 per acre in the forests where least is expended to $8 per acre where most is expended.

The British Government has continued its interest in the forests of the Empire and has arranged an Empire timber exhibit and an Empire forestry conference to be held in London, England, during July, 1920. The timber exhibit for Canada was collected and arranged by the staff of the Forest Products Laboratories of Canada, and one of the members of the staff will go to London to look after the exhibit. It is expected that the Dominion Government will be represented by an official of the Forestry Branch. Other Canadian foresters will also attend, representing the provincial governments and various organizations. It is hoped that the result of the conference will be, not only the establishment of a permanent imperial timber exhibit and of a system of collecting information in regard to the forests of the Empire, but also the organization of an imperial forest commission or committee which will keep up both of these and will assist the development of the forests and proper scientific forest management throughout the Empire.

At the request of the Forestry Commission for the British Isles the work of securing tree seed of Pacific Coast species was again undertaken. It was found impossible this year to obtain the seed of Douglas fir as the crop was a complete failure. The Sitka spruce, however, bore heavily, and 600 sacks of cones were collected along Masset inlet on the Queen Charlotte islands in what was the centre of the airplane spruce industry during the war. A temporary kiln and extracting plant were erected at Port Clements and a yield of about 1,000 pounds of seed was obtained. Seven hundred pounds of this seed were shipped to the Forestry Commission and the remainder sold to the Belgian Government.

The forest ranger school for returned soldiers organized by the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment was continued at Vancouver, British Columbia, and the course considerably extended. Some of the teaching was given by foresters on the staff of this branch. Graduates of the school, who were employed as forest and fire rangers, gave satisfactory service on the whole.

The usual methods for interesting the public in the forests and their protection have been continued. These include illustrated lectures, talks to schools, and distribution of literature to school children and to homes near to or in the forest. By the co-operation of the Publicity Branch of the Department of Trade and Commerce moving pictures have been taken of fires and fire-fighting and also of tree-planting, so that hereafter Canadian moving picture theatres, lecturers, and educational institutions will not have to depend on pictures of such scenes from other countries. It is hoped that the showing of these films throughout Canada will give Canadians some idea of the fact that their own country is in the van of progress.

STAFF

The total permanent staff of the branch for the last year was as follows:—

Head office	40
District inspectors	5
Assistant district inspectors	4
Forest supervisors	17
Forest assistants	12
Forest rangers	99
Chief fire rangers	9
Inspectors of tree-planting	8
Forest Products Laboratories, technical staff	20
Outside clerical staff	40

APPROPRIATION

The appropriation for the year was $850,000. The expenditure was divided as follows:—

Salaries at head office	20,510 62
Salaries of officials on military leave	1,520 09
Travelling expenses	3,034 19
Printing and stationery	6,240 56
Miscellaneous expenses	2,910 87
Fire-ranging	232,042 18
Forest reserves	458,878 79
Tree-planting	61,781 65
Forest Products Laboratories	61,055 29
War appropriation	1,505 59
Total	$849,479 83

NOTE.—The item of $1,505.59 shown under War appropriation was drawn from the Forestry appropriation and later refunded.

The field expenditure, exclusive of tree-planting on prairie farms, is divided as follows among the provinces:—

Manitoba	$ 96,443 52
Saskatchewan	185,524 34
Alberta	247,773 19
British Columbia (Railway Belt)	161,179 92

LIBRARY

During the year 306 books and pamphlets were added to the library and indexed in the card catalogue. The number of magazines regularly received in the library was 104. Of these 43 were subscribed for in the regular way, the remainder having come from different government agencies or from societies with which the branch maintains an exchange of publications.

The number of photographs received was much smaller than in previous years, chiefly owing to the fact that very little survey work was carried on during the year. The collection of lantern slides has received a large accession, the two most important additions being some eighty slides to illustrate French forestry methods, made from photographs sent in by an officer of the branch, and two hundred slides of individual trees illustrating the tree flora of southwestern Ontario, the chief hardwood region of Canada.

PUBLICATIONS

The intensive study of all printing, publishing, and publicity work of the Forestry Branch to get the best results with the lowest possible expenditure of money was continued during the year. In addition to the Annual Report only two bulletins were issued for circulation during the fiscal year, No. 66, "Utilization of Waste Sulphite Liquor," and No. 68, "Forest Fires in Canada, 1917," but the manuscripts for several important publications were in course of preparation. During the year the practice of making a charge for expensive and technical publications, which has long been followed in Great Britain and the United States, was inaugurated by the department at the suggestion of the Editorial Committee. The object of making a nominal charge for a bulletin is not to make money but to prevent waste through persons (particularly children) applying for documents in which they have no interest. The new plan has worked most successfully. The Forestry Branch has in daily use about three hundred different printed forms, and the work of standardizing these forms, and combining two forms where possible, has been continued, and has resulted in considerable saving in cost of printing. The experimental tests to produce the ideal forest fire poster are resulting in the establishment of certain principles, which will be a guide in future work. It is believed that the posters prepared for the season of 1920 are the best yet sent out, and that further improvements can be made in future years. The newspapers throughout Canada are now seized of the great importance of forest conservation and have given more attention to this subject than in any previous year.

STATISTICS

The Forestry Branch continued to co-operate with the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in the collection, compilation, and publication of forest products statistics. The forestry statistician of this branch revised the schedules received from manufacturers of lumber, lath, shingles, and pulpwood, and checked and edited the bulletins published by the Bureau of Statistics in connection with forest products. Articles were prepared for trade magazines on forest statistics and a detailed description of the methods used in Canada in collecting forest statistics was prepared for the International Institute of Agriculture, Rome, Italy.

The work of collecting and compiling information concerning Canada's forest resources and forestry development in Canada was undertaken with the object of putting this information into printed form for distribution at the Empire forestry conference in London.

TREE-PLANTING

The spring of 1919 in the Prairie Provinces was late and cool and therefore favourable for getting up and distributing nursery stock; but the cool weather continued well into the month of June, which delayed growth. As summer came on the weather became hot, dry and windy and the conditions for growth were generally poor. As a consequence, although the stock was shipped out in good condition, the growth of new plantations was far from satisfactory and even the old tree plantations suffered considerably, particularly where cultivation of the ground was not well done. None of the older plantations were completely wiped out but the percentage of loss was much higher than usual.

The number of farmers to whom stock was shipped was 4,501, and the number of seedlings and cutting distributed to them was 4,377,950, making an average of about 970 for each applicant. The stock available for distribution in the spring of 1920 is 3,266,850, and there are 1,801 new applications for trees. With weather and labour conditions so unsatisfactory this is a good showing. Coniferous trees to the number of 186,000 were distributed to farmers and there is a stock of 180,000 available for 1920.

The collection of tree seed for starting stock on the forest nursery is a matter which always requires great care and foresight. The dry weather of last year and other unfavourable conditions made the collection of a sufficient supply of good seed difficult, but sufficient was obtained to enable the nurseries to carry on at about the usual scale.

FIRES

In Manitoba the light snowfall of last winter (1918-19) was gone early in April, and was immediately followed by dry, windy weather. In addition, the water in lakes, streams, and muskegs was lower than ever known before. In early May bad fires broke out on the eastern boundary of the Porcupine forest reserve, apparently caused by settlers, trappers, and locomotives. These fires burned over a great deal of logged-over land and the "slash" had an important effect on the way the fires spread. On the other Manitoba reserves practically no serious fires occurred.

This dangerous fire condition extended westward into Saskatchewan and later into Alberta and British Columbia. During the latter part of May and the early part of June extensive fires raged throughout northern Saskatchewan and did great damage both within the forest reserves and outside of them. Eventually, these fires ran together and swept north through timbered country. Undoubtedly, the origin of these fires was due in large part to the unregulated use of fire by settlers in clearing their land. Although the province of Saskatchewan has excellent provisions in its Prairie and Forest Fires Act for the control of settlers' fires, our rangers have not yet been given sufficient authority under the Act to enable them to take full advantage of its provisions. The largest fire in Saskatchewan occurred in the Battleford fire-ranging district. It started on June 16, and was not extinguished until July 18, burning over an area of 2,740,000 acres.

In Alberta the early spring conditions were slightly better but by the end of May the fire situation throughout southern Alberta had become extremely serious, and early in June two serious fires occurred on the Crowsnest forest. The largest fires in Alberta, however, occurred a little later on the Bow River forest, both caused by camp-fires. Over $20,000 was expended in fighting these two fires which burned over 1,450,000 acres.

Conditions in the Railway Belt in British Columbia were very critical during July and August. About 90,000 acres were burned over, the most serious losses being in the Salmon Arm district, where a number of the largest fires were started by dry electrical storms.

It may be noted that in the states of Montana and Idaho the losses from forest fires in 1919 were among the most serious ever experienced in that region. The cost of fighting fires during June, July, and August in those states was over two and a half million dollars.

The total number of fires both inside and outside the forest reserves was 1,313. The total area burned over was 5,491,215 acres, of which 1,556,462 acres carried merchantable timber, 1,429,005 acres bore young growth, and the remainder was grass land, brule not restocking, muskeg, and "slash." The causes of these fires are given in the following table, together with a comparison of the percentage due to each cause in each of the last three years:—

Cause	Number of fires, 1919	Percentage— 1919	1918	1917

FOREST RESERVES

The forest reserves comprise an area of approximately 27,500,000 acres, and consist of tracts of land unsuitable for agriculture which have been set apart permanently for forest production. At the request of the Soldier Settlement Board areas totalling about 480,000 acres were withdrawn from the reserves in order to be made available for soldier settlement. For the most part these areas consist of small tracts of a few hundred acres, withdrawn from a number of different reserves. Only in the cases of the Riding Mountain and Porcupine reserves were the areas larger, about 220,000 acres being withdrawn from the former and about 240,000 acres from the latter. The permanent staff employed on the reserves during the year was: District inspectors, 4; assistant inspectors, 4; forest supervisors, 17; forest assistants, 12; forest rangers, 99; a total of 136. The temporary staff of rangers on the reserves numbered 61.

Improvements.—Owing to the dangerous fire season and the necessity for careful watching for and fighting fire, neither men nor money could be spared for an extensive programme of improvements. The following improvements were, however, carried out:—

Class of Improvements—			Total cost.	Average cost.
Cabins	Number,	5	$ 2,472	$ 495

Timber operations.—Owing to the growing cost of fuel and increasing consumption of lumber the demands upon the forest reserves for fuel-wood and timber have also increased. Special efforts were made to dispose of fire-killed timber on those reserves on which areas have been swept by fire. The advantage of this policy is threefold; (1) it conserves the growing green timber for later use, (2) it removes a serious fire menace created by these areas of dry trees, and (3) it clears up the ground and permits natural restocking to begin at once. The matter of the disposal of débris is steadily becoming more satisfactory. The regulations require the burning of the brush under proper safeguards, while the timber cutting is proceeding, so that the fire danger from this most important source may be removed. In the beginning of this work, some years ago, the settlers and other permittees showed decided reluctance to undertaking the extra labour thus required, but now that they are becoming seized of the necessity of this work to protect timber for themselves and other settlers they are showing increasing willingness to comply with the regulations. The total number of timber permits issued was 4,362, which is an increase over the preceding year which was one of the heaviest since the Forestry Branch was established. The quantity of saw-timber cut under these permits was over twelve million feet board measure, which was nearly double the cut of the preceding year. Increases were also recorded in the case of mine timber and fuel-wood.

Fires.—There were 220 fires in the forest reserves as compared with 116 in 1918. One hundred and fifty of these fires, 68 per cent, burned over more than ten acres each. The total area burned over was 1,600,916 acres, of which 418,641 acres were covered with merchantable timber, 499,161 acres with young growth, and the remainder was divided among grass land, old "burn" not restocking, "slash" and muskeg.

A statement of the number of fires on forest reserves in 1919 and their causes is given below with a comparison of the percentage due to each cause in each of the last three years:—

Planting on Forest Reserves.—As usual the greater proportion of the trees used for planting on the forest reserves was supplied from the forest nurseries at Indian Head, Sask. Forest nurseries are, however, gradually being established on the larger forest reserves where planting will be necessary. A total of about eighty-five thousand young trees was set out on six reserves. The reserves and the species planted thereon were as follows: Spruce Woods, jack pine; Dundurn, jack pine, Scotch pine, and spruce; Manito, spruce and jack pine; Elbow, jack pine and Scotch pine; Pasquia, spruce and Scotch pine; the Pines, spruce, jack pine, and Scotch pine. Generally speaking the young trees were got into the ground under satisfactory conditions. These are sample plots and, along with those previously set out, are being studied closely in order to determine the best methods for future planting.

GRAZING

The number of grazing permits issued during the year was 1,653 and the total number of stock grazed was 99,361. This represents an increase in the number of permits issued of 481, or 40 per cent over last year and 220 per cent over the previous year. The increase in the number of stock grazed was 12,756 head, or 15 per cent over last year and 256 per cent over the previous year. These figures do not take into consideration the cattle grazing on forest reserves in the Railway Belt, the grazing regulations not having been applied to British Columbia as yet.

The increase thus shown indicates that the grazing resources of the forest reserves are being appreciated by the settlers on adjoining lands, who, because of the forage thus made available are adding stock-raising to their other enterprises. A further evidence of the increasing appreciation of the reserves and the policy adopted in the administration of the grazing resources is the readiness of the settlers to group themselves into grazing or stock associations in order to secure the benefits of co-operative management and the privilege of consulting with the forest officers relative to the administration of the range in which they are interested. There are now forty-three such associations which have received official recognition, many of them having been organized during the past two years. Five of these associations are in Manitoba, eleven in Alberta and twenty-seven in Saskatchewan.

The shortage of feed during the past two seasons in most sections of the West, and the consequent demand made upon the forage resources of forest reserves, have rendered it necessary to ascertain the maximum carrying capacity of the various grazing districts in the reserves, not only to the end that the greatest number of stock may be accommodated, but also in order that the reserves may not be over-grazed and the ranges injured in consequence. Expert reconnaissances have therefore been made on several of the reserves. Maps showing the location and density of the various forage types and detailed plans of management have been prepared in each case, and it has already been found possible as a result to accommodate considerably more stock than was feasible under the haphazard system of grazing management previously followed by the settlers and ranchers. It has been demonstrated that if the forest reserves are to meet the increasing demand being made upon them for grazing it can only be done by the adoption of a scientific system of range management based upon exact information as to the various types of forage existing on each range, and such other information as will assist in the proper handling of the stock. This is work requiring special training and experience, and can therefore be proceeded with only as such expert assistance is made available.

RECREATIONAL USES

Summer Resorts.—The forest reserves are steadily coming into more general use for recreative purposes. Each year shows an increase in the number of cottages erected at the various summer resorts. Camping and picnicking parties find healthful pleasure on the shores of the various lakes, and those resorts which are accessible by automobile are visited by considerable numbers each week-end and holiday during the season. There are many locations throughout the forest reserves which, while not sufficiently large to permit of establishing summer resorts, offer very desirable building sites for a limited number of cottages, with a measure of privacy not obtained in the larger summer resort areas. For this reason they are considered more desirable by many persons, and it has been decided to make such sites available under annual (renewable) permits by laying them out into building lots, from time to time, as the demand becomes apparent. In such cases the permittees are required to erect satisfactory buildings within a year, as is the case in the larger summer resorts

Fishing.—Angling is, of course, indulged in at most of the summer resorts and it is found that good fishing invariably increases the attraction of such places. Non-residents of the province are required to take out fishing permits at a special fee, and the sum thus realized helps to meet the cost of the protection and supervision of the fisheries. It is the policy of this branch to prevent netting in these lakes and streams and to permit fishing by angling only, and by this means, together with adequate supervision and occasional restocking where feasible, so to improve the fishing that non-resident visitors will be attracted, as undoubtedly the money spent by these visitors in the course of their outing amounts to considerable in the aggregate. By the co-operation of the Dominion fisheries authorities and the General Passenger Agent of the Canadian National Railways, a shipment of 250,000 pickerel fry was recently planted in lake Madge in the Duck Mountain forest reserve. These fry were brought from the Dominion hatchery at Gull Harbour via Selkirk and Winnipeg, a somewhat arduous undertaking. They were distributed in good condition, however, and the prospects for successful results are excellent.

Game.—The provincial authorities have always realized to a greater or less extent the value of the forest reserves as game sanctuaries. The natural conditions on the reserves favour the increase of game and fur-bearing animals when adequate protection is afforded, and the fact that the reserves are divided into districts, in charge of forest rangers who are interested in the protection of all the resources of the forests, has the tendency to reduce the activities of the poacher to a minimum. The forest officers, while not assuming primary responsibility for the protection of game, a matter which properly belongs to the province, co-operate fully with the provincial authorities and in some cases are constituted provincial game wardens in order that such co-operation may be more effectively carried out.

An important instance of the increasing appreciation on the part of the provincial authorities of the value of the forest reserves as game sanctuaries is found in recent amendments to the Alberta Game Act. By one of these amendments it has been made necessary to obtain a special permit before any fur-bearing animal may be trapped or otherwise taken on a forest reserve. By another amendment the Cooking Lake forest reserve and that part of the Cypress Hills forest reserve which is in Alberta have been declared game preserves, and it is further provided that any game preserve established by the Dominion Government shall be a game preserve within the meaning of the Alberta Game Act. This last provision is considered important as it provides a means whereby any portion of a forest reserve possessing the necessary features of a game refuge may be brought within the scope of the above Act, should it be so desired.

FIRE-RANGING OUTSIDE FOREST RESERVES

The dangerous fire season of 1919 strained to the utmost the energies of the fire-ranging staff in the districts outside forest reserves and made clear, what has been known all along to those in charge, that in a dangerous season the patrols of each fire ranger are too extensive for safety and that a much larger regular staff is urgently required. The number of chief fire rangers employed was 11; the number of fire rangers and assistants temporarily employed was 207. The number of fires which occurred was 1,093. The total area burned over was 3,890,299 acres, of which 1,137,821 acres carried merchantable timber, 929,844 acres bore young growth, and the remainder was grass land, old brule not restocking, muskeg, and "slash."

Hereunder is a statement of the number of fires outside the reserves in 1919 and their causes, together with a comparison of the percentage due to each cause in each of the last three years:—

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 25

PETAWAWA FOREST EXPERIMENTAL STATION

During the year the survey of this tract was completed and the data concerning the different sections were tabulated and maps drawn for information and guidance in future operations. The completion of the survey confirms the opinion early formed that this tract is in every way suitable for a forest experimental station wherein to study how reproduction of desirable species may best be promoted in a country that has been logged-over, and where the logging has frequently been followed by fire. The reserve is typical of the great extent of cut-over timber lands in Ontario and Quebec. In the area sixteen sample plots of varying size have been surveyed and their borders marked. These include pure and mixed stands of white pine, red pine, jack pine, and different broad-leaved trees. Some plots have been thinned to determine the rate of reproduction under these conditions, while others have been cleared of débris and left unthinned to show the rate of reproduction under natural conditions. The trees in these plots have been numbered (the numbers being stencilled on the bark) and measured, and the records so tabulated that their rate of growth can be determined readily by measuring them again at regular periods. The work of measuring typical trees in order to secure data upon which to base growth tables and yield tables was also proceeded with during the year. It is interesting to note also that the series of form factors for trees worked out by Professor Tor Jonson, of Sweden, were found to be approximately correct for Canadian species, so far as measurements were carried out.

FOREST INVESTIGATIONS

While in all districts where there are technically trained foresters located there are observations being made and investigations of a more or less detailed character being carried on, the organized scientific work in these directions has been mainly centred at the forest experimental station at Petawawa, Ont., as outlined in the preceding paragraph, and at the forest nursery station at Indian Head, Sask. At Indian Head a large number of plantations of small area, in some cases of single species and in other cases of various mixtures, have been in existence for some years. Careful records have been kept from year to year of the growth and development of the trees and there is being steadily accumulated a store of information that will be of the greatest value in future planting work on farms or in the forests. The conifers, when once well established, show satisfactory results.

FOREST PRODUCTS LABORATORIES

While hampered by difficulties caused by post-war conditions referred to in last year's report, principally by the loss of officers who have gone to other organizations, every effort has been made to continue the work of the Forest Products Laboratories efficiently. The work of testing forest products for the purpose of aiding Canadian industry is varied, and reference is here made only to the more important lines of investigation. These during the fiscal year included studies of decay in pulpwood, deterioration of pulp, decay of timber in buildings, problems in manufacturing newsprint paper, Nova Scotia mine timbers, factors entering into the durability of railway ties, the use of Canadian red pine for paving blocks, and the utilization of overmature aspen. The laboratories are making studies of all Canadian commercial timbers, with the object of giving architects, engineers, and builders complete information as to their mechanical and physical properties. The timber already dealt with is Douglas fir and the timber under investigation during the year was Sitka spruce. This latter wood has come into great prominence in the last few years because of its use in airplane construction.

The work in regard to railway ties covers the handling of the tie from the woods to the track, with the object of finding how best to increase its durability. This has involved a field survey of railway ties and the securing of the co-operation of railway officials. The investigation is already leading to important results.

The preparing of exhibits of wood products for use at exhibitions in Canada and abroad received considerable attention. There is a real demand for this work, which tends to extend the use of Canadian products both at home and overseas.

Proof of the value of the laboratories to the business and manufacturing interests of Canada is shown in the steadily increasing number of inquiries received relating to timber and forest products, and the problems of their manufacture. The number and character of these requests for accurate information is one of the many indications of the need of broadening the scope of the work of the laboratories.

PART IV.

RECLAMATION.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR OF THE RECLAMATION SERVICE, E. F. DRAKE.

Reference was made in the report for last year to the sudden and widespread awakening of interest in irrigation throughout Southern Alberta and Southwestern Saskatchewan, and to the probability of another dry season, with practically complete crop failure, which would aggravate a condition even then very serious.

The event has proved even worse than the prediction. The year 1915 will long be remembered as the "year of the bumper crop." The following year was almost as good, while the yield was not as great, it was above average and the high prices made the crop almost as profitable as—in some cases more so than—that of the preceding year. But 1918 was a notably dry year with serious crop failures throughout the "dry belt" and drew heavily upon the scanty reserves of stored moisture in the soil. The season of 1919 was even drier than the two preceding years and as the reserves of moisture were largely exhausted, practically no crops were produced in the "dry belt," except where irrigation was practised.

In the following table, which is now published for the third consecutive year, an attempt is made to show the relationship between rainfall and the yield of the principal cereal crops, taking into account as well the prices obtainable for the crops, so as to indicate in a general way the gross profit of each crop to the producer. But, while the table clearly enough indicates a definite relationship between rainfall and crop production, there are other important factors to be considered, such as rust, which seriously reduced the yield of wheat in Saskatchewan in 1916; the disastrous frost of July 25, 1918, in Northern and Central Alberta and Saskatchewan; local losses from hail and from soil-blowing, etc.

But the most serious defect in the table is that, while it gives an accurate record of rainfall during the growing season at selected typical points, it shows the crop yield per acre for the entire province instead of for a limited district comparable with that for which the rainfall is given. It has been impossible heretofore to procure accurate crop statistics for such limited areas, although it is hoped that arrangements to do this can be made before long. The net result, therefore, is that the effects of scanty rainfall are not as forcibly indicated as would be the case if the rainfall and crop records were both limited to the drier districts.

The following tables are based upon the best information obtainable. The "normal prices" are estimated, and are possibly rather high, but accurate information of average prices in past years is not readily obtainable.

IRRIGATION DEVELOPMENT.

Three successive dry years have thoroughly awakened the settlers in the "dry belt" to the necessity of irrigating every acre of land to which water can be brought at reasonable cost. Even the advocates of dry farming now admit that their methods of tillage invite disaster scarcely less serious than drought itself. The success of dry farming as now practised depends primarily upon a system of summer-fallowing and frequent stirring of the surface so as to produce a mulch or blanket of fine soil particles which will prevent losses of moisture by capillarity. But this constant cultivation soon pulverizes the fine soil of the dry belt to a light powder which the frequent high winds blow about at will, either burying the seed or young crop or blowing them out entirely.

Irrigation, with greater variety of crops and with the radically different methods of tillage which necessarily accompany it, is at once the cure for soil-blowing as well as for drought, and there is now widespread and insistent demand that its benefits be extended wherever possible.

The Dominion Government has always recognized its responsibility for making at least preliminary surveys in order to indicate how, and where, the available water supply, which it holds in trust and administers, may be utilized to the best advantage. It soon became apparent, however, with the awakened interest in irrigation development, that demand would be made that the Dominion should not only make complete surveys, including the location and design of works, but that it should also either construct the required works or materially assist in financing such construction, notwithstanding that the organization of irrigation districts, the raising of money by bond issues with the land as security and the actual operation and maintenance of works constructed on the co-operative plan, are all governed by provincial rather than by federal laws, and that these laws were enacted by the Provincial Government upon the insistent request of the settlers themselves.

As the situation developed early in 1919 the Minister of the Interior considered it desirable that there should be a clearer understanding as to the division of responsibility between the Dominion and Provincial Governments. He therefore took the question up with the Government of Alberta and pointed out that the Dominion was being pressed from time to time to make surveys in different districts, involving in each case considerable expenditure; that these requests were at times accompanied by very direct intimation that the Dominion would be expected to assist in the further prosecution of the enterprises, and that there was seeming reluctance on the part of the provincial authorities to disassociate themselves from these intimations; that no appreciable area of the land requiring irrigation is owned by the Dominion; and that while the Dominion exercises general control over surface water the Irrigation Act and Regulations are quite adaptable to the carrying on of such development by districts or by the provincial authorities. The minister was therefore of opinion that, before committing his department, and the Dominion Government, to further and large expenditures for irrigation and survey work, there should be a clear understanding that the responsibility for anything in the way of development beyond the survey work that is a federal responsibility unless in any specific case Dominion lands are to a substantial extent to be benefited.

The minister did not ask that this responsibility be assumed by the province; in fact he stated explicitly that, so far as he was concerned, the Provincial Government was quite at liberty to reserve to itself the utmost freedom in so far as its commitment to the development of irrigation problems is concerned. But the minister did ask for a definite acknowledgment by the Provincial Government that the Dominion's responsibility towards irrigation should not extend beyond the survey work and general engineering assistance and supervision which he was ready to undertake, and he made it clear that unless he received such assurance he could not authorize the further survey work which he was being pressed to undertake.

In the ensuing correspondence it was definitely stated that the Dominion Government could not assume any responsibility for actual irrigation development beyond the survey work and such supervision as had theretofore been given and would be continued. The Provincial Government finally acquiesced in this statement of the division of responsibility between the Dominion, on the one hand, and the provincial or local authorities, on the other.

Immediately such understanding was reached, the minister authorized the resumption of survey work.

Surveys had been begun in 1914 for the purpose of determining the location and area of land irrigable from the available sources of water supply in Southern Alberta, but this work was interrupted by the war and was not resumed until about July, 1919. Enough information was obtained from the surveys of 1914 and 1915 to roughly define several large tracts of irrigable land and to indicate, more or less definitely, how water could be brought to them. When field-work was resumed in 1919 it was decided to make complete planetable surveys of the irrigable tracts previously located and at the same time to make a thorough study of the water supply, with a view to the conservation of as much as possible of the flood water that has heretofore gone to waste. This necessitated a further study of possible canal locations and in some cases entirely new location surveys.

A brief general description of this work will be found in the report of the Commissioner of Irrigation, which is submitted herewith. The work was not begun until about July 1, and considerable difficulty was found in securing a sufficient number of engineers familiar with such work; consequently it was not found possible to complete even the programme of work laid out for the season. Provision has, however, been made for completing the work during the season of 1920.

The principal deterrent to further irrigation development is the difficulty of financing. The money for the construction of new works must be raised by bonds secured upon the land and irrigation bonds are not readily saleable at anything like par value. Notwithstanding that irrigated land in Southern Alberta and Saskatchewan is worth, at a conservative estimate, from twice to three times the price of dry land, investors are apparently not willing to risk the successful construction and operation of co-operative irrigation projects. Definite proof is readily available that irrigated land in the Lethbridge district has, through a long period of years, produced at least double the crop raised on dry land. The water supply for any of the projects now mooted is assured; the most careful supervision of the design and construction of works will be given by the Dominion Government; the Provincial Government will unquestionably exercise equally strict supervision over the construction expenditures and will lend its assistance in collecting the principal and interest payments year by year as they fall due. But notwithstanding all this investors fight shy of irrigation bonds.

The only practicable solution of the problem seemingly is the purchase of the bonds either by the Provincial or Dominion Government, but this is a question of policy that must be decided by the Governments, and its further discussion in this report would be inappropriate. It is to be hoped, however, that some solution of the problem will be found quickly.

DRAINAGE.

Although land drainage on a large scale was not undertaken by the Reclamation Service until the spring of 1919 the work has already developed beyond expectation. Great interest is being shown by small landowners in the drainage of shallow lakes or swamps, and many projects of this kind have already been authorized, while the number of applications received has severely taxed the resources of the engineering staff available for inspection work.

By co-operative arrangements between the Dominion and Provincial Governments, bona fide settlers are encouraged to purchase swampy or submerged lands at a merely nominal price, and subject only to the conditions that adequate drainage works be constructed and thereafter maintained in serviceable condition. This is regarded as good business policy as such lands are, in their present condition, worthless and non-productive, and considerable areas of such lands in any district materially retard its development. No such sale is authorized where the area to be reclaimed exceeds 1,280 acres, or the cost of the drainage works is more than $5,000.

Larger areas may also be reclaimed by drainage under co-operative arrangements between the Dominion and the provinces, and several drainage districts have already been organized in both Alberta and Saskatchewan, and works are under construction in some of these. Money for construction purposes is raised by bonds secured upon the lands and no serious difficulty has so far been experienced in selling drainage bonds at fair prices.

In still other cases, where the Dominion Government owns the bulk of the land, surveys are made and actual construction may be undertaken by the Dominion and the cost recovered by the sale of the reclaimed land. Several promising projects of this kind have already been investigated and in one case—Waterhen lake in Northeastern Saskatchewan—surveys have been completed, a drainage district has been organized under provincial laws, and, as this report is written, tenders are being asked for the construction of the works. Should this project prove successful, two or three other large projects are ready for development as soon as funds are made available.

Notwithstanding the necessity for economy in the expenditure of public money, it may be confidently asserted that large expenditures on drainage work are amply justified. Large areas of practically worthless land require reclamation. In its present condition this land breeds mosquitoes, makes travel difficult, retards the development of other land in the district, and produces nothing of value. When drained it becomes good farm land, or in some cases hay and pasture land, makes good roads possible, increases settlement, and its sale after reclamation will return to the Dominion treasury at least the cost of its reclamation and in most cases much more. It is therefore sound policy that these land assets, which are now unproductive, or worse, should be reclaimed, particularly when such reclamation can be made to pay for itself.

There are submitted herewith brief reports by Mr. F. H. Peters, Commissioner of Irrigation and Chief Engineer, on the work of the Irrigation Division of the Reclamation Service, and by Mr. R. J. Burley, Assistant Director and Chief Engineer of the Drainage Division, on the work of that division.

REPORT OF IRRIGATION SURVEYS AND INSPECTIONS.

By F. H. Peters, Commissioner of Irrigation and Chief Engineer.

General.

As was indicated in last year's report, due to the succession of two dry years 1917 and 1918, a very strong movement developed in the "South Country" during the winter of 1918-19 in favour of irrigation. The year of 1919 was almost as dry as 1918, with the result that the people in Southern Alberta—both farmers and business men—have at last become generally convinced of the great desirability, if not necessity, of irrigating every possible acre in the southern districts.

As a result very strong demands arose for the completion of the surveys of all the large projects which have been contemplated and in addition a very large number of applications were received during the year from persons who wanted to construct small private irrigation schemes. It was not found possible to complete either all the large survey work required, or the necessary inspection of the small private schemes. It is consequently expected that a very heavy programme of work will have to be undertaken in both these departments during 1920.

Stream Administration.

In the early stages of irrigation development it was chiefly necessary to consider the local water supply in each case, but, as the demand for water increased, it became essential to take a broader view of the situation. It is now the practice to ascertain the effect of all new schemes upon the watershed to which any source of supply is tributary.

It has always been the practice of the department to limit grants to the quantity of water believed to be available under average conditions, but as the demand increases it is necessary to study the conditions in greater detail to ensure that all water is applied to beneficial use. The conservation of flood waters is a question of special importance which will become more pressing as the value of irrigated lands increases.

Recent experience indicates that the conditions of supply are critical at certain periods in several of the Cypress Hills drainage basins, and water-masters have been appointed to regulate diversion in these areas. For satisfactory administration it is essential that all water rights be clearly defined and the avoidance of future disputes and litigation is one object of the work now being accomplished.

Hydrometric Survey.

Mr. A. L. Ford, who succeeded Mr. P. M. Sauder as Chief Hydrometric Engineer on January 1, 1920, has submitted the following brief report indicating the scope of this part of the work:—

"The drought of 1919, following the dry years of 1917 and 1918, has very strongly emphasized the importance of procuring records of stream flow for a long period of years so as to obtain the range of flow. At stations established throughout the length and breadth of the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan the records show that the total discharge for the past year, is, in almost all cases, the lowest for any year since the inception of the survey in 1909, although no doubt the discharge was just as low or lower during the long drought periods before that time.

"The past year has seen a great increase in proposed irrigation development. The records of stream flow have been called upon very frequently to determine the feasibility of schemes and in many cases to determine the area that could be included in the project. The records of minimum flow obtained during the past climatic year are therefore proving of exceptional value at the present time.

"The Survey acted in conjunction with the Montana division of the United States Geological Survey in obtaining the flow of International streams in the St. Mary River and Milk River drainage basins. This information was used by representatives of the Reclamation Services of the United States and of Canada as basic data in the division between the two countries of the waters of the St. Mary and Milk rivers.

"During the year sixty current-meters were rated, ten belonging to the British Columbia Hydrometric Surveys, three to the Manitoba Hydrometric Surveys, five to the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, four to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, two to the United States Department of Agriculture, and the balance, thirty-six, to this office.

"The field-work was carried on throughout the year in spite of the difficulty met with in obtaining and keeping the services of engineers due to the low remuneration offered. The office work, however, had to be sacrificed to the field-work and has, therefore, fallen behind. The difficulty of keeping up the staff is shown by the fact that to maintain an establishment of some twenty engineers, thirty-two were employed at one time and another during the year without succeeding in keeping the staff up to full strength throughout the year.

"During the open-water period, records were taken at one hundred and fifty-seven regular gauging stations on streams of Alberta and Saskatchewan, at about one hundred and seventy-five gauging stations on irrigation ditches and canals and at twenty-eight stations on lakes. Winter records were taken at eighty-eight stations on streams during the past winter.

"The Annual Reports of the Hydrometric Survey giving information as to run-off at the special stations in the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan for the climatic years which ended on September 30, 1917, and September 30, 1918, were published during the year. Copies of these reports can be obtained from the Director of the Reclamation Service at Ottawa, or the Commissioner of Irrigation at Calgary. For the purpose of economy in printing these reports, considerable data formerly published have been left out. Any one wishing to obtain these additional data should make a written request of the Commissioner of Irrigation stating the particular data required."

Field-work.

Domestic Water Supply.—During the three years 1917 to 1919 reports to the number of fifty-three, twelve and three, respectively, have been submitted concerning small domestic water supplies. During the same period reports to the number of two hundred and ninety-one, two hundred and forty-five and thirteen, respectively, have been submitted giving data regarding wells. These latter include a number of reports on artesian wells and reports kindly submitted to us by persons and organizations interested in the development of the country.

Artesian Wells.—In following up the development of the artesian well area in Southern Alberta, samples of water were obtained from six artesian wells and submitted to the Dominion Chemist for analysis.

The outstanding characteristics of these waters considered as a series are their practical freedom from calcium and magnesium compounds and their essential uniformity as regards sodium carbonate. It is the latter constituents which mark the element of danger in considering these supplies as water for irrigation purposes.

Though in limited quantities and occasionally applied, these waters might be used for a time on soils with good drainage without marked injurious results, they are not safe or suitable waters for irrigation purposes.

Stock-watering Reserves.—During the year a special effort was made to complete the inspection of these reserves and some pieces of land were found which are suitable for soldier settlement. The great bulk of the reserves do not constitute particularly good agricultural land and have been recommended for continuance as reserves, except in certain "long grass" districts where there does not seem to be any necessity therefor.

One hundred and one reserves were inspected and reported on.

It is suggested that the time is not far distant when it will be possible to administer these stock-water reserves and sanctuaries in such a manner as to make them serve the purpose for which they are actually intended. At the present time these reserves are of very little use, because they are so heavily pastured all the year round that, if a year of drought does come, there is no grass left on them.

There have been a number of complaints about the reserves, as handled at present, due to the fact that very often a lot of stock is driven by different owners on to a small reserve in a fenced district. The stock is given no further attention and by wandering becomes a nuisance to the owners of the land near the reserve. In other cases the reserves are found completely fenced in and used exclusively by one individual who has usually let it be understood in the neighbourhood that he has a lease or some other right to the land.

The essential thing is to have all these reserves fenced and the grass all reserved from April 1 in every year until say the end of August when, unless a condition of drought was declared existant, the reserves could readily be leased for fall and winter pasture. These lands probably have a pastoral value at the present time sufficiently high to produce enough revenue to pay for all fencing and provide for administration on sound business lines.

South Saskatchewan Diversion Project.—During the summer and autumn of 1919, popular attention was again brought back to a realization of the fact that the South Saskatchewan river is the only sufficient available source of supply for the Regina-Moosejaw district and the project is now being considered afresh by the Provincial Government. An Act was passed at the last session of the Saskatchewan Legislature providing for the appointment of a commission whose duty it will be to inquire fully into this matter.

Sevenpersons Drainage Basin Investigations.—A study of the proposed water supply of the projects above mentioned shows that they probably could not receive the legal duty of water of one and one-half acre-feet of water every year. For this reason no recommendation has been made in regard to either scheme pending further investigation and study. Investigations were commenced so late in the season that it was impossible to complete the field-work this year. Arrangements have been made to complete this work early next season.

Cypress Hills District, North.—One hundred and three irrigation inspections and seven surveys were made. Three hundred and twenty-two stream gaugings were made and four new gauging stations were established. The number of miles travelled by train was 2,506; by motor-car, 6,997; and by other means, 929. These figures include the work done on the special measurement of early spring run-off.

Cypress Hills District, South.—Seventy-two irrigation inspections and twenty-eight surveys were made. The number of miles travelled by train was 635 and by other means, mainly horse vehicle, 1,255. The conditions in this district were very difficult during the season.

Macleod District.—One hundred and one irrigation inspections and nine surveys were made. Four hundred and three stream gaugings were made. The number of miles travelled by train was 3,272; by motor-car, 9,146, and by other means, 386.

Special Inspections.—The total number of inspections made in Saskatchewan was seventy, including thirteen surveys of all descriptions involving 9,307 miles of travel by train, and 2,346 miles by motor-car or other means. The total number of inspections made in Alberta was forty-eight, including eleven surveys involving 4,352 miles of travel by train and 1,451 miles by motor-car or other means.

MUNICIPAL WATER CONSUMPTION DATA.

The collection and compilation of municipal water consumption data were inaugurated towards the end of the year 1914, and in the year 1915 we received information complete for the year from fifteen cities and towns in Alberta and Saskatchewan. In the following year we received records for the whole year from the same cities and towns. During the year 1916 an endeavour was made to obtain these data from a greater number of places, with the result that for the year 1917 we received complete records from twenty-one cities and towns in Alberta and Saskatchewan. During 1919 records were received from eighteen cities and towns.

WESTERN SECTION, C.P.R. IRRIGATION BLOCK.

The remarks made in the 1918 report regarding the Western Section are equally applicable this year. The demand for water was the heaviest in the history of the project and many farmers demanded water this year for land which has not been watered for many years. This required considerable work on the company's part in reopening small ditches which had fallen into bad repair through disuse. Somewhat more than 80 per cent of the total length of all the canals and laterals in the system was operated during the season in order to make the required deliveries of water. In addition to the work referred to above the company carried out their regular routine of making improvements to the system wherever these seemed to be necessary or desirable. This work was considerably interfered with by the shortage of labour throughout the season and by the very early freeze-up in October.

Figures submitted by the company covering the whole of this section show that 31,908 acres were irrigated during the season.

EASTERN SECTION C.P.R. IRRIGATION BLOCK.

No new construction work of any magnitude was done in this section during 1919, although a good deal of work was done in repairing and enlarging existing ditches, especially in the Bassano and Patricia districts, where the constructed laterals were considerably enlarged. At Brooks the main lateral which waters the land in the immediate vicinity of town was enlarged and extended.

A pumping plant was installed on the Canadian Pacific Railway land immediately west of the town, which, obtaining water from the last-mentioned ditch, raises it some twenty feet and distributes it throughout the town of Brooks for the use of truck gardens, trees, etc. Previous to the installation of this plant no water was available for irrigation purposes in the Brooks townsite.

There still remains a considerable block of land in this section which has not yet been finally classified by the department and no further progress in this connection was made during the year. The company sold a great deal of land last year, and has now disposed of practically all of the irrigable land already classified which is closest to the railways already constructed.

The season of 1919 was dry and hot, being quite similar to 1918. The demand for water was heavy and consistent. Very good crops were obtained in the Bassano and Duchess districts. Gratifying results were obtained in the growing of alfalfa and clover seed, some almost phenomenal yields being obtained. On the dry lands very little grain was grown, the crops in many instances being total failures. The St. Julian colony, lying south of Tilley, was again farmed by the company, which employed a large staff of irrigators and had some very good returns. A certain area is being seeded to alfalfa on each of these farms. Figures submitted by the company covering the whole of this section show that 43,460 acres were irrigated during the season, as against 24,440 acres in 1918.

ALBERTA RAILWAY AND IRRIGATION COMPANY.

This company is controlled by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and its irrigation tract is commonly referred to as the C.P.R. Lethbridge section. The city of Lethbridge is the centre to which the irrigated land is tributary.

The season was again very dry in this district and there was a very heavy demand for water, which could not be fully met by the company. From about July 10 to October 15, the main canal was diverting practically the whole available flow of the St. Mary river and during August and September the total available flow of the river was not sufficient to meet the demands. Owing to the fact that the company's operating staff showed good judgment in dividing or rotating the available supply, there was not much general ground for complaint by the water users. Most of the crops received sufficient water, so that they did not suffer greatly. Very little water, however, was stored in the Chin reservoir for the supply of the Taber Irrigation District next year.

The time has come when, in order to ensure themselves a sufficient supply of water in every season, the company should construct a reservoir at one of the several sites existing which command all of the irrigable land.

The company carried out a considerable amount of improvement work on the system during the season. The largest undertaking, which was about 75 per cent completed when inspected, was the replacing of the old wood diversion works at Magrath by a new reinforced concrete structure. In addition to this the intake to the main canal at Kimball was lowered two feet in order to increase the diversion capacity and several timber drops were built in natural channels, which are used as canals, to stop erosion. The enlargement of Chin No. 1 canal was continued during the year and completed all but about five miles.

The very hot season which was experienced produced probably the best alfalfa crop that has ever been harvested in the district, and with the extraordinary high price that was received for the crop, every alfalfa field was a veritable bonanza to the owner. It can be said, without any fear of contradiction, that this irrigated district, particularly the Coaldale district east of Lethbridge, is the most prosperous agricultural district in Alberta, and probably in any of the three prairie provinces. To any one driving through the district in the autumn of any recent year the encircling vista of stack after stack of alfalfa or some other hay crop indicates that the obvious reason for this great prosperity is the stabilizing of the agricultural industry by the production of forage crops on a comparatively large area.

Figures submitted by the company for the whole of this section show that 71,969 acres were irrigated during the season. This shows a small increase over the preceding year.

THE CANADA LAND AND IRRIGATION COMPANY.

During the summer the company carried on a good deal of miscellaneous construction work, designed to create a continuous capacity of not less than 400 c.f.s. throughout their main supply canal and reservoir system from the intake on the Bow river down to the Little Bow reservoir five miles southwest of Travers. This work included the building of several temporary wooden flumes and earthwork cut-offs to improve location, the strengthening of the earth embankment through the lower portion of the Little Bow section and the construction of additional spillways.

During 1918 the main canal was operated down to Lake Macgregor reservoir, and records now available show that 13,563 acre-feet were delivered into it. At the end of the season the reservoir had been filled up nearly to the elevation of the outlet gates at the south dam, and it was expected that water would be drawn off from the reservoir early in the spring of 1919. This expectation was not realized, however, because it was found that some high ground existed in the bottom of the reservoir near the south end and the water had to be raised several feet before it ran down to the outlet gates.

During the season of 1918, 82,170 acre-feet were delivered into Lake Macgregor reservoir through the main canal which was operated, with some stops for repairs, from April 19 to October 24. The rate of delivery varied up to the maximum of 415 c.f.s. with an average for the season of 238 c.f.s. There is now a good head of water at the outlet gates for operation during 1920.

The water reached the outlet gates at the south dam on September 11 and a small flow was immediately carried on through the main canal for the purpose of priming the Little Bow section. This work was carried on with ordinary interruptions until October 25 when the water had reached mile eleven below the south dam. On this date there was a serious break near mile nine where a high fill slid out and the water had to be turned out of the canal. The work of repairing this break has been carried on during the winter, and while it has not been inspected, it is understood that the repairs have been made satisfactorily and that the canal will be ready for operation in the early spring of 1920.

Speaking generally of the whole main canal, there are a good many points of weakness, due to faulty original location, which will probably cause considerable difficulty in operating the canal for a number of years. The company is now, however, under very efficient management which gives assurance that wise and energetic action will be taken to overcome such difficulties as may arise.

During the year a small party was engaged in classifying the irrigable land which the company intends to first put on the market in the western section. This work was very carefully done and included a soil survey of the area covered. The gross area inspected was 37,628 acres, of which 75 per cent or 27,919 acres was classified as irrigable. The work covered the period from June 24, to November 12, and cost five cents per gross acre and seven cents per irrigable acre.

COALDALE-LETHBRIDGE WATER USERS ASSOCIATION.

As a result of the activity of this association one Water Users District has actually been erected and one other has completed all necessary formalities save holding the actual election. The Coaldale Water Users District was erected under the Alberta-Irrigation Districts Act on February 3, 1920. The notice of application for erection of the East Lethbridge Water Users District (formerly referred to as the North Lethbridge Water Users District) was published in the Alberta Gazette on February 14, 1920.

IRRIGATION DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION.

This association was maintained quite actively throughout the year and continued the work of acting as a central bureau for all activities in connection with further irrigation development. It is rather difficult to describe just what work was done because as a rule its function was to father the first activity in a certain district and then later on when matters became advanced the district would usually form its own separate organization to look after its own special interests. The association has done a great deal of useful work in starting the movement of forming irrigation districts and particularly in keeping all different districts or organizations working as far as possible along the same lines. It would seem that in this matter of keeping the general interests of the south country co-ordinated the association has a field for further useful work for many years to come.

It is fitting in dealing with this association to note the trip through the irrigated districts of Southern Alberta which was made by the Hon. Arthur Meighen, Minister of the Interior, in company with Hon. James A. Calder, Minister of Immigration and Colonization. The trip, which was made during the last week in August, included visits to Medicine Hat, Calgary, Macleod and Lethbridge, at which place a very large meeting containing many irrigation farmers was addressed by both the ministers. This trip was much appreciated by the large number of people in Southern Alberta to whom the question of irrigation development was the one great issue of the year.

TABER IRRIGATION DISTRICT.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company, which has agreed to construct works for this district let a contract as soon as possible after arrangements had been completed with the district and work was started on July 24, 1919. The summer season was not favourable for moving earth because the ground was so dry. Snowstorms coming on unexpectedly early caused the sub-contractors to start leaving the work on October 21, and by November 18, they had all stopped. As an exception, the timber contractors worked on until January 15, 1920. Very satisfactory progress was made during the short time available and the work is now more than fifty per cent completed.

As this report is being written (April 20, 1920) the contractors have started in again on the work, although it is now too wet to make much headway with the earthwork. If the work progresses favourably the ditch may be ready to carry water on Dominion Day, 1920.

LETHBRIDGE NORTHERN IRRIGATION DISTRICT.

The district was advertised in the Alberta Gazette of July 31, and the vote for erection as taken on September 20, and carried almost unanimously. The district was formally erected on October 23, 1919.

The Government of Alberta employed Mr. George G. Anderson as consulting engineer and he submitted a report on the district to the Provincial Government dated January 17, 1920.

During the last assembly of the Alberta Legislature a large amount of discussion was devoted to the new Irrigation Districts Act, the Water Users Districts Act and the proposal that the bonds of the Lethbridge Northern District should be fully guaranteed by the Alberta Government. The two Acts mentioned above were passed, but it was decided not to guarantee the bonds and instead a special Act was passed which provided for a specified sum of money which might be used in meeting certain debts of the district in the event of default in payment.

As this report is being written the trustees of the district are sitting as a court of revision and their intention has been announced of holding a vote on the issue of district bonds just as soon as possible. There are, however, a number of serious questions which have to be dealt with before much further progress is made. The question of enlarging the present boundaries of the district is one that requires serious consideration and that should be dealt with before the issue of bonds. The whole question of sale of bonds is made very difficult by the present state of the bond market, which probably will not look favourably upon Canadian irrigation bonds without a Government guarantee.

NORTH MACLEOD IRRIGATION DISTRICT.

Early in 1920 petitions were circulated and signed for the purpose of forming the land in township 9, range 26—township 9, range 25—and township 10, range 25, lying below the main Lethbridge northern canal, into an irrigation district This was spoken of as the North Macleod Irrigation District and the original proposal was to enter into an agreement with the Lethbridge Northern District for a supply of water. The most recent development has changed this plan to what is the more desirable one of endeavouring to have the boundaries of the Lethbridge Northern District enlarged so as to include this area of land.

SOUTH MACLEOD IRRIGATION DISTRICT.

This district lies between the rough breaks of the Ridge Between the Rivers and the Waterton and Belly rivers and runs to a point near Ewelme. The irrigation of this area contemplates a diversion from the Waterton river, either direct or from the Belly river, through the works of the United Irrigation District.

Unfortunately it was not found possible to complete the investigations in connection with this project during the field season, but some instrumental survey work was done and also some further reconnaissance work. It is now thought that it will be feasible and economical to divert direct out of the Waterton to serve this project. An eye reconnaissance in connection with the suggested diversion from the Oldman river near Brocket indicated that this would not be feasible or at any rate not so economical as a diversion from the Waterton river.

The boundaries of the proposed district have been outlined by the interested landowners for lands to be irrigated by direct diversion from the Waterton river. The petitions for the erection of the district were circulated and signed during the winter and submitted to the Provincial Government on March 25, 1920.

BARONS-CARMANGAY IRRIGATION DISTRICT.

There was some opposition to the formation of this irrigation district but finally, after some alteration of boundaries, particularly in the vicinity of Carmangay town, petitions were signed and submitted to the Provincial Government on January 17, 1920. No official action has been taken as yet towards the erection of this area into an irrigation district. It is understood that later, plans to enlarge the boundaries of the Lethbridge Northern District to include this area, were adversely voted upon by the interested parties.

SOUTHERN IRRIGATION DISTRICT.

This district was referred to in last year's report as the Magrath-Raymond-Stirling Irrigation District. Petitions for its erection were circulated during the early autumn and finally signed and submitted to the Provincial Government in October, 1919. The notice of the application to form an irrigation district was published in the Alberta Gazette of January 15, 1920. It was erected by an order dated March 16, 1920.

As indicated in last year's report this district is already partially served by the Alberta Railway and Irrigation Company's system. The idea of forming the district is to gain a water supply for those lands not now served by the company's canal system.

NEW DAYTON IRRIGATION DISTRICT.

This proposed district comprises part of the land in the proposed Lethbridge Southeast Project but with the land at the east end of range 15 omitted. The west end of this district meets the east end of the Southern Irrigation District. The petitions for the erection of the district were circulated and signed during the winter and submitted to the Provincial Government on April 30, 1920.

WARNER-MILK RIVER IRRIGATION DISTRICT.

The area within this proposed district also comprises land formerly included in the Lethbridge Southeast Project and is all commanded by the canal already constructed (but not used) by the Alberta Railway and Irrigation Company which was planned to divert water from Milk river. The petition for the erection of this district has been circulated and largely signed. Owing to the absence of some of the owners there are some signatures which may yet be obtained, and on account of this fact and some other details the petition has not yet been submitted to the Provincial Government.

LETHBRIDGE NORTHERN PROJECT, RETLAW-LOMOND DISTRICT.

Preliminary surveys were made in the fall of 1914, to determine the possibility of diverting water from the Canada Land and Irrigation Company's system for certain lands in ranges 17, 18, 19 and 20, east of the Little Bow river, and between that river and the block of land owned by the above company. This work was reported in our 1919 Report under the caption "Sundial Water Supply and Irrigation Project."

The primary object of these surveys was to determine some feasible system of canals to serve this area with water for domestic and stock-watering purposes, utilizing as far as possible, natural channels. Sufficient data were obtained to show that approximately 93,700 acres of land which would be greatly benefited by irrigation could be commanded by a system of canals if the necessary amount of water is available. Further investigations made the following year, determined the possibility of extending that project across the Little Bow river to serve these lands, either on the basis of irrigating not in excess of forty acres per quarter-section, or the entire irrigable area. Preliminary figures indicate that on the forty-acre water right basis the total irrigable area will be about 58,000 acres and if all land possible were irrigated the total would be about 100,000 acres.

LETHBRIDGE SOUTHEAST PROJECT.

The area effected by this project is practically the lower slope of the Milk River ridge. The surface is rolling and rather rougher than is the case with most tracts of irrigable lands. The area as a whole, however, will require a very small amount of concentrated cost except in the case of drop lines. It was found that a comparatively large area of each quarter-section could be put under irrigation with very little double fill or levee. The surface soil generally is a light clay loam with a subsoil of heavy clay loam to clay and hardpan in the lower lying lands. In the upper lands, and especially in the vicinity of Warner, the surface is sandy loam and as a rule the subsoil is heavy. The possibilities of drainage are exceptionally good owing to the network of natural watercourses which run to Verdigris coulee.

A field survey party was also employed in running an improved location for the main supply canal between the Belly and St. Mary rivers and completing surveys of reservoir sites at Taylorville and Lumpy Butte. The party commenced operations on July 22, 1919, and was disbanded on November 10, 1919. About another week was spent running some necessary levels and taking topography. Considerable time was lost on account of bad weather and the number of days actually worked was 78. During this time the party ran 98·6 miles of traverse with profile and topography; 28·2 miles of traverse with profile only; 45 miles of preliminary levels; 123 miles of check levels; made 40 land ties; completed contour surveys of reservoir sites over 2,000 acres and established 8 permanent bench-marks.

During the winter the large plans in connection with this work were plotted and a projection made for the relocated main canal between the Belly and St. Mary rivers.

In the year 1914 a preliminary survey was made of the proposed dam site on the St. Mary river in section 4, township 25, West 4th meridian, and a contour survey was made of the reservoir site. Since the proposed dam at this site is one of the important features of the project, it was considered advisable to make a very detailed survey and to complete the investigation by making test borings of the foundations. The work was commenced on November 1 and completed on November 6, 1919. The survey was made entirely by stadia and all rock outcrops were accurately located and a section developed. Test borings are being made of the foundations at the present time so that upon the completion of this work it will be possible to estimate the cost of this structure and to determine definitely the feasibility of diverting the St. Mary river at this point.

Upon the completion of the St. Mary river dam site survey, surveys were made of the dam sites at the Waterton lakes. These surveys were commenced on November 10, and completed on November 14, 1919. In making estimates of the available water supply from the Waterton river it has always been considered that it would be possible to store five or six feet in the Upper Waterton lake without damaging the park and the amount of water considered available was estimated on that basis. By constructing a high dam at the "Narrows" on the Upper Waterton lake it would be possible to store a very large quantity of water and make it feasible to divert and put to beneficial use a large percentage of the flow of the Waterton river. The additional storage would be of enormous commercial value. Two dams sites were developed and plans have been placed on file.

UNITED AND LONE ROCK PROJECTS.

Instructions were given for a complete survey to be made of the United Irrigation district, including an extension to serve the Lone Rock district and later on, of the South Macleod district, provided it were found from a reconnaissance that it is feasible to irrigate the lands in this district. Between July 21 and November 12, 1919, the duration of the field season, the actual number of working days completed by the party was 91. During this time the party ran 131 miles of levels, 92 miles of traverse for the main canal, 80 miles of traverse for distributary canals and 89 miles of check levels. Three permanent iron bench-marks were established by the party.

The United and Lone Rock districts, which consist of a comparatively narrow strip of land between two large streams, the Belly and the Waterton rivers, lie close to the mountains with very irregular and steep slopes. Not only is the surface irregular and cut up by small watercourses, but the whole area has a heavy fall to the northeast. An idea of the general slope of the country may be gained from the fact that the Belly river has a fall of approximately forty feet to the mile through township 3, where the proposed intake is located.

During the winter a complete set of plans was prepared and traced, showing the system proposed to be constructed to irrigate 14,392 acres' in the United and 8,621 acres in the Lone Rock districts and an estimate of the cost of construction has been prepared. Owing to the fact that a number of features in connection with this proposed development has not as yet been finally decided, the estimate is not being published in this report.

NORTH SASKATCHEWAN DIVERSION PROJECT.

The first preliminary report on this project was prepared by the commissioner on August 17, 1915. During 1919, a general but a hurried reconnaissance of the whole project was made by the commissioner and local instrumental reconnaissances were made by other engineers. A very large amount of instrumental survey will be required before this great project can be definitely developed and reported on. At the present time it is only possible to outline the general boundaries of the areas involved and to indicate our present opinions which will be subject to correction when more information is available.

The proposal is to gain the main supply of water by tapping the North Saskatchewan and the Clearwater rivers near Rocky Mountain House. Probably the Red Deer, the Blindman and the Battle rivers could also be diverted and their waters utilized. The total available flow from all these sources from April to November is 5,800,000 acre-feet.

As a result of the reconnaissance referred to, the present feeling is rather that the area for development should be restricted to the area lying to the south of the railway line running from Coronation to Kerrobert, from Kerrobert to Doddsland, from Doddsland to Biggar, and from Biggar to Saskatoon. Even with this restriction an immense district is affected comprising a rectangle with dimensions of roughly 130 miles by 180 miles. The nearest edge of this area is about 200 miles from the most distant original source of supply, the North Saskatchewan river in township 39, range 9, West of the 5th meridian, and from this point it is about 350 miles as the crow flies to the lower end of the proposed area near Saskatoon.

Tentative schedules, which have been prepared, indicate that the gross acreage in the districts which appears to be suitable for irrigation is 2,900,000 acres. Assuming that forty per cent of this could actually be irrigated the net irrigable area would be 1,160,000 acres. Speaking generally of the whole area the opinion is held that something along the line of the so-called forty-acre tract proposition (or twenty-five per cent irrigation) for the purpose of growing hay, providing water for summer pasture and water for drinking purposes would be desirable.

DUTY OF WATER AND IRRIGATED CROP REPORTS FOR 1919.

Work at the Strathmore station was discontinued with the close of the 1918 season on account of the impossibility of securing reliable information regarding duty of water data due to the presence of the ground water table within three to four feet of the surface.

Experimental plot work was carried on at Brooks and Ronalane in the same manner as for 1918.

REPORT ON DRAINAGE SURVEYS AND INSPECTIONS.

By R. J. Burley, Assistant Director and Chief Engineer of the Drainage Division.

In his annual report for last year the director traced briefly the negotiations carried on by the Dominion Government and the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba relating to an arrangement whereby apparently conflicting interests could be brought into harmony and a progressive policy regarding the important question of drainage formulated by each of the parties to the agreement. The agreement reached was made effective by the enactment of "The Reclamation Act," Chapter 5 of the Statutes of Canada, 1919, the "Reclamation Act of Alberta," and the "Reclamation Act, 1917," of the province of Saskatchewan, together with the Drainage Regulations of the Dominion Government, sanctioned by Order in Council dated January 14, 1919. Provision is made in the Dominion Reclamation Act for its application to Dominion Lands in the province of Manitoba when the necessary legislation is enacted by that province.

The formation of the Drainage Division of this service was approved by the minister in February, 1919, and work was at once commenced to build up an organization capable of handling drainage surveys, inspections, and construction as efficiently and economically as possible. Owing to the amount of necessary preliminary work, both in engaging experienced engineers, draughtsmen, and clerks, and making an office investigation into the projects which had been brought to the attention of the department, a somewhat late start was made on actual field-work and the parties were not able to commence operations until about June 1. Winter conditions set in throughout the northern portions of Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba early in October, slowing up many of the survey operations; on the other hand, some of the work, such as sounding and carrying lines over muskegs, was facilitated by winter conditions, so that while living conditions were rendered rather unpleasant the parties were able to carry on field-work until December. In one case work was commenced in the middle of November and continued throughout the winter. On the whole, the survey season of 1919, being the third dry season in succession, was particularly favourable for drainage surveys, and, as a consequence, very good progress was made in the investigation of the projects which had been brought before the department from time to time by petition, application to purchase, or otherwise.

Departmental Projects Investigated.

ALBERTA.

Bittern Lake, Tps. 46 and 47, Rges. 21 and 22, W. 4th Mer.

This project and that of the Big Hay Lake Drainage District No. 12 of Alberta are closely inter-related and depend largely upon each other for success. From time to time the attention of the department has been drawn to the desirability of drainage in this district, and petitions both for and against it have been received.

Complete contour surveys were made last season, canals were projected, and estimates of cost completed for five possible developments. It has been found that provision can be made to carry off the drainage from Big Hay lakes without effecting the water-level of Bittern lake, at an estimated cost of from $20,000 to $25,000, while the waters of Bittern lake can be lowered 4½ feet, 8½ feet, 12½ feet, or completely drained, at an average cost per acre of approximately $18, $16, $12, and $13.50, respectively. The areas reclaimable under the above projects will be 3,000 acres, 4,700 acres, 8,400 acres, and 12,000 acres, respectively. Since a portion of the cost of this project would be properly chargeable to the Big Hay Lakes Drainage District, the cost per acre above estimated would be considerably decreased should both projects be constructed.

Cooking, Hastings, Ministic, and Sisib Lakes, in Tps. 51 and 52, Rges. 20, 21, and 22, W. 4th Mer.

This group of lakes, lying to the west of Beaverhills lake, was completely surveyed with a view to lowering or completely draining them. This, however, proved to be undesirable and the investigation showed that any advantage gained would be offset by equally important disadvantages.

Beaverhills Lake, Tps. 50, 51, 52, and 53, Rges. 17 and 18, W. 4th Mer.

Representations made to the department at intervals during a period of several years indicated the desirability of an investigation to determine the feasibility of drainage in this district and complete contour surveys were accordingly undertaken during the season of 1919. These surveys demonstrated that complete drainage was not feasible on account of the enormous cost, but a scheme was developed whereby over 20,000 acres could be reclaimed by lowering the water-level about 8 feet, at an estimated cost of slightly over $17 per acre. There is little doubt that in the near future this sum will be considered a modest outlay per acre for reclamation in this fertile area, but at the present time there are several other projects where reclamation can be carried out at a much lower cost.

Smoky Lake, Tps. 59 and 60, Rges. 18 and 19, W. 4th Mer.

Complete surveys, canal projections, and estimates of cost in this case show that almost 4,000 acres of land can be reclaimed here, at a cost of about $9 per acre, by lowering the water-level some 5·71 feet. As less than 50 per cent of the area is Crown land, however, and as the resident owners are opposed to complete drainage, although strongly in favour of the partial drainage recommended by our engineers, this scheme is one for development by the resident owners under the provisions of the Alberta Drainage Act.

Flat Lake, Tps. 55 and 56, Rges. 19 and 20, W. 4th Mer.

Our investigations show that this is a very attractive project, and complete data are available respecting it. By complete drainage, some 11,000 acres can be reclaimed from their present useless condition to valuable farm lands, at an estimated cost of about $9 per acre.

Macleod River Valley, in the vicinity of Edson, Alberta.

Reconnaissance surveys throughout this district indicate that the muskeg and swampy areas, while including a large proportion of the total area, are so scattered and broken as to preclude the possibility of any comprehensive scheme, or schemes, being developed. This class of territory presents a distinct problem both as regards actual drainage and the treatment of the soil after drainage, since the water-covered or water-soaked soil consists largely of peat or moss underlain by clay, which in its present condition, both before and after drainage, gives little promise of usefulness unless it has been properly treated by burning, manuring, or other means of improving its physical and chemical properties.

Future development in this district will, therefore, be slow and depend largely upon the efforts of individual settlers who wish to add to their present holdings and gradually reclaim and improve small areas adjacent thereto. Numerous applications are being received to reclaim and purchase such small areas, and it would appear that every encouragement and all possible assistance should be given to these settlers. Many experiments will be necessary before the best methods of dealing with this class of soil after reclamation are discovered, and it is now being urged that the Federal Government assist to this end by the establishment of an experiment station, or farm, on some of the typical muskeg or peat lands. Considering the vast areas of this class of land throughout Canada—not only in the western provinces but also in Ontario and Quebec—experimental work along these lines would be well justified and would richly repay the expenditure, should proper methods of treatment be discovered and demonstrated.

Experimental work with this class of soil has been, and still is, carried on in some of the Central Northern States of the Union, and in many instances has been highly successful in forming some of the richest farm lands.

Winagami and Kimiwan Lakes, Tps. 76, 77, 78, and 79, Rges. 18, 19, and 20, W. 5th Mer.

Reconnaissance surveys in this district show that approximately 23,000 acres of land are susceptible of drainage at reasonable cost. The water supply situation may render it advisable to consider only partial drainage for Winagami lake. Complete surveys are being undertaken this year to develop the possibilities of this scheme.

East and West Prairie Rivers, west of Lesser Slave Lake.

Numerous complaints from settlers, with pleas for assistance in handling this problem, resulted in an investigation being made into the situation last season. After a careful survey our engineer found that the cost of remedial measures was very high, and that, since the flooded lands were largely in the hands of private owners, this project could not be undertaken by the Federal Government under the existing laws. Reasonably complete data regarding the necessary diversion of these two rivers to overcome the blocking of their channels by logs and débris were obtained, and reports and plans concerning this project are available.

Sullivan Lake, Tps. 34, 35, and 36, Rges. 14 and 15, W. 4th Mer.

A reconnaissance survey was made of this project, which appears to justify further investigation with a view to full development of this scheme. This is a matter, however, which depends upon the result of the soil analyses, since it hinges largely upon the quality, and alkali content, of the soil, rather than upon the engineering features of the project.

SASKATCHEWAN.

Waterhen Lake, Tps. 44, 45, and 45A, Rges. 21 and 22, W. 2nd. Mer.

This project was surveyed, in a preliminary way, during the fall of 1918, and completely surveyed during the season of 1919. Final canal locations were staked out and estimates of cost, and assessments of benefits, made.

Under the plans finally adopted, some 13,900 acres of land will be reclaimed, at an estimated cost of about $11 per acre. The analyses of soil samples taken at representative points throughout the area indicate that, while there is a certain percentage of "alkali" present, this will not be deleterious to plant growth. But, on the other hand, the high nitrogen content of the soil gives promise of great fertility and indicates a soil which should produce excellent crops after it has been worked and aerated for one or two years.

All the formalities required in erecting this drainage district have now been complied with, and tenders are being called for the construction of the works.

Ponass Lake, Tps. 37, 38, 39, and 40, Rges. 14 and 15, W. 2nd Mer.

The area surrounding this project forms a first-class farming district, but is badly cut up with small lakes and sloughs, making travel difficult and retarding development. In addition to this, considerable areas of ordinarily good farm or hay lands are inundated during high-water periods, and, as a result, there have been numerous requests that some remedial measures be undertaken.

The field-work on this scheme last season was conducted along the same lines as that in the Waterhen project, and it was found that some 23,000 acres could be reclaimed at an average cost of approximately $16 per acre. This comparatively high cost is due, partially, to the fact that the lakes and marshes are scattered and irregular, necessitating the construction of an elaborate system of collecting ditches. The survey conducted last season was carried to an outlet in Quill lakes, and the length and depth of the canal necessary added materially to the high cost of the whole project.

Further surveys are being made this season in an endeavour to find a shorter outlet to the north and west, and it is hoped that some feasible scheme can be worked out along these lines which will materially reduce the cost of construction.

Moose Range District, Tps. 49 and 50, Rges. 11, 12, 13, and 14, W. 2nd Mer.

Reconnaissance surveys were carried on throughout this district over a period of two months, and sufficient levels were run to determine that the scheme was feasible and could be cheaply constructed.

This project is one of the most promising yet investigated, and the survey showed that from 75,000 to 100,000 acres of high-class farm land can be reclaimed at a very moderate cost, while the proposed construction of one, or possibly two, new railways through the district adds greatly to its possibilities.

During the past year numerous applications have been received from returned soldiers to be allowed to enter for lands in this district, but the reports of our engineers show that it will be unfair to the applicants themselves to accede to such requests, since the land, without drainage, is practically useless.

Complete surveys of this project are being undertaken this season.

Carrot River Triangle, lying between the Carrot and Saskatchewan rivers, and the Sipanok channel.

This project consists of a partially submerged area of 730,000 acres, which is periodically overflowed by the flood waters of the Saskatchewan river. Reconnaissance surveys have been made previously by the Water Power Branch of this department, and a short reconnaissance was carried out during the past winter by this Service. Sufficient information is now available upon which to base plans for the best methods of carrying on complete surveys.

MANITOBA.

Three investigations were carried on in the province of Manitoba at the request of the Soldier Settlement Board, and one at the request of the settlers in the district effected.

DAUPHIN AND OCHRE PROJECT, NEAR DAUPHIN.

The settlers of this district requested that the Federal Government undertake surveys to determine the cause of the flooding of their lands and the best methods of overcoming this difficulty. Our investigation showed that the overflow upon the lower farm lands was due to the natural run-off from the Riding mountains, owing to the fact that the streams flowing out of these mountains flattened out in grade upon reaching the plains and, during flood periods, overflowed their banks and flooded the adjoining farm lands.

Levels were run throughout the area affected, and alternative schemes were suggested whereby the interested municipalities might overcome the troubles resulting from this natural overflow.

Swan River, Tps. 32, 33, and 34, Rges. 21, 22, and 23, and Tps. 35, 36, and 37, Rges. 22, 23, 24, and 25, W. Pr. Mer.

Of this large area of approximately 700 square miles, all of which is more or less swampy, some 200 square miles were found to have soil of a quality suitable for agriculture. This area could be drained cheaply, but it is very largely wooded, and approximately 75 per cent of the land would require a considerable expenditure for clearing. Under these conditions, further investigations or operations cannot be recommended at the present time.

Mantagao River Project, Tps. 28 to 31, Rges. 3 and 4, W. Pr. Mer.

This project involves a large area, but the major portion of it proved to be land of little value for agricultural purposes after reclamation. Some 19,000 acres were found which would be of value for agriculture after drainage, and which could be drained for about $12.50 per acre. Owing, however, to its distance from railway facilities, and to the growth of timber and moss on the land, it is not recommended for further development at present.

The Brokenhead River Project, Tps. 9 and 10, Rges. 8 and 9, E. Pr. Mer.

In the valley of the Brokenhead river lies some 90,000 to 100,000 acres of marsh land, either open or lightly timbered, which our somewhat detailed surveys indicate can be reclaimed at a cost of between $4 and $5 per acre. The soil, while not of the best agricultural quality throughout, is excellently adapted to the growing of hay, and, owing to the close proximity of the district to the city of Winnipeg, it offers excellent opportunities to stock raisers and feeders, especially the latter. Unfortunately, however, the greater part of this area has been disposed of to private parties, and, unless arrangements can be arrived at whereby transfers may be effected, no further action by the Federal Government can be recommended.

Provincial Drainage Projects.

Drainage districts are organized under the provisions of the Drainage Acts of the various provinces, upon petition by at least two-thirds of the resident owners of land effected. Where more than 50 per cent of the land involved has become alienated from the Crown, the Federal Government, by reason of the Dominion Government Regulations, may not proceed with drainage, and in this case the initiative rests with the settlers. As, however, the control of all water areas is vested in the Crown, in the right of the Dominion, plans of the scheme are required to be filed in this department, and an investigation by one of the engineers of the Reclamation Service is required before the department's approval thereto may be granted.

The following provincial drainage schemes under this head were inspected in 1919:—

Alberta—
- District No. 6—authorized August 20, 1919.
- District No. 7—authorized October 1, 1919.
- District No. 8—authorized January 20, 1920.
- District No. 4—authorized January 22, 1920.

Saskatchewan—
- District No. 17—authorized September 19, 1919.
- District No. 13—authorized October 6, 1919.
- District No. 15—authorized November 28, 1919.

Private Drainage Projects.

Small drainage schemes under Part I of the Reclamation Acts and Drainage Regulations inspected, or investigated, in 1919 numbered thirty-four. Two large schemes, commenced prior to the passing of the Reclamation Acts, were also inspected in 1919, viz: the Low Water and Kleskun Lakes Projects.

During the winter and spring months of 1919-1920, 63 applications for drainage privileges under Part I of the Reclamation Acts and Drainage Regulations were received, and of this number 31 will be investigated this season; 15 applications were cancelled, 6 as the result of the investigations proving the schemes to be undesirable, and 9 before the investigation stage had been reached, either voluntary or because the preliminary requirements of the department were not carried out.

Increased interest is being shown throughout the "North Country" regarding the important question of drainage, and the engineering staff is being greatly taxed to keep up to the work required, especially in connection with the inspections for private schemes, involving the reclamation and purchase of Crown lands or the reclamation of wet areas within the applicants' holdings.

A number of new drainage districts are in process of formation, and, as the public becomes better acquainted with the machinery now in operation in connection with drainage applications, there is little doubt that the rate of increase in such applications will be materially greater.

During the past winter and spring the snowfall and run-off throughout Northern Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba were abnormal, and reports of flooding and requests for drainage more frequent in consequence. In the majority of cases the applicants are ignorant of the proper precedure and considerable correspondence is necessary before such applications are in shape, but it is believed that the carrying through of a large number of projects in the various districts will soon result in acquainting the settlers throughout the "North Country" with the necessary procedure. As a consequence, a large increase in the number of applications to carry on such work is expected.

International Waterways Treaty.

The division of the waters of the St. Mary and Milk rivers during the past season was again carried out under the provisions of an interim order made by the International Joint Commission, pending a final decision on this important matter by that body.

The flow in these streams and their tributaries during the irrigation season of 1919 was the lowest on record, and the demand for water for irrigation purposes was the greatest yet experienced, both in the valley of the Milk river in Montana and in the Alberta Railway and Irrigation Company's tracts in Alberta. As a consequence of this combination of circumstances the water supply was insufficient to fulfil all demands upon it, but, on the whole, it may be said that the irrigated areas depending upon the main streams for their supply did not suffer seriously. The ever-increasing demand for irrigation indicates, however, that serious complications may arise during any year, but it is hoped that some final decision and adjustment may be arrived at in the near future.

PART V.

DOMINION WATER POWER BRANCH.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR OF WATER POWER.

J. B. Challies, C.E. (Tor.), M.E.I.C.

The report of the Dominion Water Power Branch for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1920, covers a period of marked expansion in its activities. The return to the staff of those members who had been on overseas service permitted the resumption of important field activities which had been more or less curtailed during the war, while revised agreements with the Maritime Provinces, and a new agreement with the province of Ontario covering a co-operative investigation of water-power resources, further enlarged the scope of the general investigatory work.

ORGANIZATION AND SCOPE

The activities of the branch are both administrative and investigatory. The administrative phase of the work arises from the proprietary interest of the department in the water-power resources in the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, the Northwest and Yukon Territories, and in the Railway Belt of British Columbia. In this connection the branch must of necessity secure such fundamental engineering and economic data as will enable the department to consider applications for power privileges, and to control the development, the distribution and the sale of hydro-electric energy. Systematic power investigatory work is accordingly carried on directly by the branch throughout this territory. This is the prime responsibility of the branch.

Throughout the balance of the Dominion the water-powers are vested in the provinces and investigatory work is carried on in co-operation with the respective provincial authorities charged with their administration. The branch also co-operates extensively with federal departments other than the Department of the Interior, the services of its engineering field staff, in the interests of general economy and efficiency, being made available to such other departments.

The object of the direct and co-operative investigatory work is two-fold, i.e., to co-ordinate and systematize the gathering of power and general water resources information from coast to coast; and to create a centralizing agency for the efficient analysis of the power and general water resources of the Dominion in relation to location and use of power; to industry; to industrial centres; industrial opportunities; transportation systems—rail and navigation; mineral resources; timber resources; coal and fuel supplies; electro-chemical and electro-metallurgical opportunities; irrigation, drainage and reclamation projects; alternative sources of power; and to use of and market for power in general; and to compile the material into immediately available and usable form and for whatever purpose required.

CO-OPERATION

For the proper and efficient carrying out of its administrative and investigatory policies, the branch has a trained staff of officers, the greater number of whom are engineers who have been specially trained in the various phases of power investigation and analysis. In addition to this organization the branch through co-operative agreements and harmonious personal relationships works in intimate and direct co-operation with the provincial power authorities. The branch has in this manner practically effected a consolidation of federal and provincial investigatory effort in respect to the determination and analysis of water resources data. This co-operation and the facilities for effective work through the Dominion are briefly listed.

In British Columbia the Dominion Water Power Branch, under a co-operative agreement with the local British Columbia Water Rights Branch, carries on a broadly-planned hydrometric survey and systematically secures fundamental data necessary to a complete analysis of the water-power resources. In the three Prairie Provinces the administration of the water resources is wholly under the control of the Federal Department of the Interior. The local staff of the Dominion Water Power Branch headquartered in Winnipeg maintains a systematic and exhaustive field and office analysis of the water-power resources of the three provinces. A comprehensive hydrometric survey is maintained throughout the province of Manitoba. In Alberta and Saskatchewan similar hydrometric investigations have been carried on for a number of years by the Reclamation Service, which, within the next few months by a readjustment of the responsibilities of the respective organizations concerned, will be transferred to this branch. In Ontario, the branch, under the terms of a co-operative agreement with the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, carries on a broadly-based hydrometric survey and systematically secures fundamental water resources data. While no formal agreement has been entered into with the province of Quebec, harmonious relationships have been established with the provincial authorities and with the Quebec Streams Commission under which there is a free interchange of data and through which a co-operative analysis of the provincial water-power resources is proceeding. In the Maritime Provinces the branch, under a co-operative agreement with the three respective provincial governments has established a systematic hydrometric survey covering all the principal power rivers and streams and is carrying on continuous field investigatory work with a view to the securing of all fundamental data necessary to a complete analysis of the water-power resources.

DOMINION POWER BOARD

As noted in last year's report, the above board was originally established in April, 1918, as an engineering consultative and advisory body to the Dominion Government. The personnel has been added to from time to time since it was first formed, and now is as follows, viz:—

The Minister of the Interior, Hon. Arthur Meighen, K.C., M.P., Chairman.
Mr. Arthur St. Laurent, Assistant Deputy Minister, Department of Public Works, Vice-Chairman.
Mr. H. G. Acres, Chief Hydraulic Engineer, Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario.
Mr. Arthur Amos, Chief Engineer of the Hydraulic Service of the province of Quebec.
Mr. W. A. Bowden, Chief Engineer, Department of Railways and Canals.
Dr. D. B. Dowling, Geologist, Mines Department.
Mr. J. B Challies, Director of Dominion Water Power Branch, Department of the Interior (secretary).
Mr. B. H. Fraser, Chief Engineer, Marine Department.
Mr. B. F. Haanel, Chief Engineer, Fuel Testing Division, Mines Department.
Mr. O. Higman, Chief Electrical Engineer, Department of Trade and Commerce.
Col. C. N. Monsarrat, Consulting Engineer, Department of Railways and Canals.
Mr. John Murphy, Electrical Engineer, Dominion Railway Commission.
Mr. W. J. Stewart, Consulting Engineer, Department of External Affairs.

During the year various investigations and reports have been made on certain special questions by different members of the board, viz.:—

Electrical Export of the Canadian Niagara Power Company, the Toronto Power Company, and the Ontario Power Company, Mr. Higman.
Gasolene content of Western Canada natural gases, Dr. Dowling.
Proposed steam-electric generating and distribution system for southern Saskatchewan, Mr. Haanel.

In addition to the above the board has been keeping in touch with all United States proposals regarding the fuel and power situations, suggested canal constructions, water diversions, etc., etc., in which Canada is actively or prospectively interested, besides which a compilation is being made of all the available data, past and present, as to the levels and flow of the St. Lawrence. This work, which is under the direction of Mr. A. J. Matheson, the hydraulic engineer of the board, is in preparation for the investigation that is to be made as to the cost, feasibility, etc., of the deep-water canalization and power development of that river.

The board has also been asked to report upon the request of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario that the Dominion Government reimburse it for certain power plant and other expenditures made during the war that it is claimed are properly a charge upon the country as a whole rather than upon any one section thereof, which matter is now under consideration.

THE LAKE OF THE WOODS CONTROL BOARD.

The Lake of the Woods Control Board created by Order in Council on January 21, 1919, in accordance with the recommendations of the International Joint Commission, has, during the past year, been responsible for the control of levels and outflow of lake of the Woods.

The personnel of the board consists of the following federal and provincial representatives: W. J. Stewart, Chief Hydrographer of the Naval Service, and J. B. Challies, Director of Water-power for the Dominion of Canada, and H. G. Acres, Hydraulic Engineer of the Hydro-electric Power Commission of Ontario, and L. V. Rorke, Director of Surveys, Department of Lands, Forests and Mines for the province of Ontario.

Regulation of the lake has been carried out along similar lines to those pursued by the Dominion Water Power Branch, when acting in an advisory capacity to the province of Ontario, a complete description of which has been given in previous reports.

During the past year practically no draught has been made upon the full reservoir in the lake though the outflow never fell below 9,500 second-feet. As a result of abnormal precipitation between June 22 and July 3, lake inflow reached the unprecedented rate of 125,000 second-feet, or nearly double the previous recorded maximum of 73,000 second-feet. Prompt action enabled the board to successfully cope with the situation and lake level after a sudden rise from elevation 1,060·0 to 1,061·9 was rapidly drawn down again to the former elevation.

For the recording of fluctuations in lake and river level, the board has secured two automatic gauges, one of which has been installed in the lake at Kenora. The second is to be installed during the ensuing open season in the Winnipeg river immediately below the lake outlets.

Action has also been taken by the board to secure if possible an efficient motor-driven winch for the manipulation of stop logs in the Norman dam.

NEW DOMINION WATER-POWER ACT.

In last year's annual report mention was made of the preparation of a Water-power Bill to take the place of section 35 of the Dominion Lands Act. This Bill has since become a law, and is known as "The Dominion Water-power Act" (Chap. 19, Statutes 1919).

This Act affords the basis for the administration of all water-powers on lands of the Dominion which have been or may be placed under the control and management of the Minister of the Interior. It declares all such water-powers to be vested in the Crown, and provides that rights to develop and utilize the same may be acquired only by license under regulations to be adopted. Every undertaking carried on in pursuance of the Act is declared to be a work for the general advantage of Canada; and private lands which are required for the purposes of any such undertaking may be expropriated.

The minister is empowered to carry on surveys and investigations with respect to developed and undeveloped water-powers not only for the purpose of determining the total utilized and available water-power, but also to be in a position to furnish information with respect to the nature and probable utility of individual water-powers.

Specific provision is made for a director of water-power who must be a duly-qualified officer and under whose supervision and control all administrative and investigatory work in connection with water-powers must be carried on.

Ample power is given to the Governor in Council to establish regulations governing all the details of administration during the survey-construction period as well as throughout the period of operation of the completed project.

REGULATIONS AND LEGAL RESEARCH.

The study of water-power legislation and administration in all countries, which has been carried on during the past few years in the Dominion Water Power Branch, has been continued. During the last six months of the year the services of a technical trnslator have been secured, and the water-power legislation of France, Italy, Sweden, Norway, Switzerland, Austria, Germany, Spain and Portugal has been translated and studied.

The conferences composed of technical, legal and administrative members of the staff to devise and report upon suitable regulations under the Dominion Act have also been continued. A very complete report covering the entire field of water-power administration (report No. 310), and a preliminary draft of regulations, prepared by H. W. Grunsky, Legal Adviser, Dominion Water Power Branch, were used as a basis for the work of these conferences.

As the conference took up each subject in turn, the regulations were revised in accordance with decisions arrived at, and a complete redraft embracing the conclusions of the conference is now about completed, and will, no doubt, be submitted for the approval of the Governor in Council during the coming year. The field covered by these regulations is briefly as follows:—

1. The application;
2. Publication and local hearing;
3. General layout plans;
4. Priority permit;
5. Interim license;
6. General construction plans;
7. Guarantee deposit;
8. Inspection and reports;
9. Final construction plans;
10. Fixation of construction costs;
11. Time limit for completion;

12. Final license—
    (a) Term,
    (b) Renewal conditions,
    (c) Compensation for works and lands if license terminated.—
        (i) Within the severance line,
        (ii) Without the severance line;
13. License rentals;
14. Care of lands;
15. Maintenance of works;
16. Power output clauses;
17. Power sale clauses;
18. Stream regulation and control clauses;
19. Accounting;
20. Regulation of rates to consumers, stock and bond issues, and non-capitalization of grants;
21. Transfers;
22. Penalties for default;
23. Small water-powers.

In addition to the general report above mentioned, two other reports, covering the whole field of water-power legislation, have been prepared. The first of these, report No. 379, consists of a compilation of the water-power laws and regulations in force in other countries, including translations from the legislation of all the leading countries of Europe where water-power resources form an important item. The second, report No. 342, is a discussion of twenty or more contentious questions which must be considered in framing suitable water-power regulations.

BRITISH COLUMBIA WATER-LANDS REGULATIONS.

In the Railway Belt in British Columbia the waters outside Dominion parks, which belong to the Dominion, are administered by the provincial authorities under their water Acts, and in order to enable those who have been granted water privileges in the province to have access to the Dominion lands which are required by them in the exercise of their rights, certain regulations, known as the British Columbia Water-Lands Regulations, were passed by Order in Council in June, 1918, having that end in view.

These regulations are now becoming better known to applicants for water privileges, and the department is thus enabled to safeguard the rights of the owner or occupier of the land on the one hand and the user of the water on the other.

The general principles underlying these regulations are, that application for a water privilege and application for the lands required in connection with it should be made at the same time, so that during the interval required by the provincial authorities before granting a water license the land which will be required by the applicant in carrying out his works may not be disposed of in such a way as to prejudice his prospective rights; and, after the water license has been issued, to grant the licensee only such rights of access and occupation as are necessary to him, thus making the land permit complementary to the water license.

The Water Rights Branch of the Provincial Government gives every assistance in carrying out the regulations, and supplies full information regarding all water privileges applied for or granted which affect Dominion interests. During the year, notification was received of about two hundred and fifty water licenses granted within the Railway Belt and thirty-five applications were made for an interim permit under the Water-Lands Regulations.

WATER RESOURCES INVENTORY.

The water resources inventory for the filing, recording and analysing of water resources data, the basis and purpose of which was explained in detail in the last annual report, has been broadly developed and applied during the past year, both in head office and in the field offices, the practical application of the system has greatly increased the efficiency of our analytical investigatory work. All water-power and cognate data, whether secured directly through the activities of the branch or in co-operation with other organizations, is referenced, analysed, and where possible standardized, and filed available for further detailed analysis in relation to the uses of, or market for, power in general.

During the past year, the systematic analysis of the water-power resources of the Dominion has proceeded in accordance with the principles of the inventory. Following the co-operative agreement with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, a complete analysis of the undeveloped water-powers of Ontario was commenced in full co-operation with the commission's officers. This analysis is proceeding in a most satisfactory manner. In co-operation with the British Columbia Water Rights Branch of the Provincial Government a similar analysis is being made of the British Columbia water-powers. In the other provinces similar work is proceeding and during the coming year a considerable proportion of water-power resources data of the Dominion will be available in standardized and usable form whenever and for whatever purpose required.

The complete census and analysis of developed water-power and of the centrai electric station activities throughout the Dominion, referred to under separate headings, has been tied in all phases to the inventory system. Similarly, all stream measurement activities and storage studies have been referenced and standardized.

The fact that various federal and provincial departments have adopted the system has greatly facilitated the interchange of water resources information. This is a feature, the value of which will be appreciated more and more as the principles of the system are more widely adopted.

CENSUS OF CENTRAL ELECTRIC STATION INDUSTRY.

The second analytical report of the census of central electric stations in Canada has recently been completed by the Dominion Water Power Branch in co-operation with the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The census includes all stations which distribute or sell electrical energy for lighting, heating or general power purposes and excludes industrial organizations developing electrical energy as primary power for their own direct use. The results of the census provide convincing evidence of the extensive development of one of our most fundamentally important industries, and indicate that Canada's water-power resources have been a unique factor in such development. While the report just completed provides definite data relative to the development of the central electric station industry yet a true realization of its vital importance to domestic, industrial and commercial life can only be obtained when the industry is considered in conjunction with the multitudinous interests dependent on the electrical energy supplied.

The total capital invested in central electric stations is $401,942,402, of which commercial or privately owned stations reported 71·7 per cent, and the municipal or publicly owned stations 28·3 per cent. The total capacity of primary power machines is reported as 1,958,642 horse-power, of which 1,841,114 horse-power represents the installation in principal plants and 117,528 horse-power the equipment of auxiliary or stand-by plants. Of the total capacity of primary power equipment the commercial stations reported 77·9 per cent, and the municipal stations 22·1 per cent. The capacity of the water-wheel or hydraulic turbine installation is given as 1,682,191 horse-power, or 91·4 per cent of the total capacity of all primary power machines in the principal stations; the steam reciprocating engines and steam turbines 146,637 horse-power, or 7·9 per cent; and the internal combustion engines 13,286 horse-power or 0·7 per cent.

The report is complete to January 1, 1919. The statistics are given by provinces as well as for the Dominion as a whole and are so divided as to provide separate data for publicly owned and privately owned stations and for stations deriving their power from water and from fuel. It is being published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Copies can be obtained by application to the Bureau or to the Dominion Water Power Branch.

CENSUS OF DEVELOPED WATER-POWER

An exhaustive census and analysis of the developed water-power in Canada was completed during the year by the Dominion Water Power Branch in co-operation with the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The figures, which are complete to January 1, 1920, are exceptionally interesting and are indicative of the marked manner in which the water-power resources of the Dominion are being put to advantageous use.

According to a recent computation the water-power resources of the British Empire have been placed at from fifty to seventy million horse-power. This does not include such territories, formerly under control of the Central Powers, as will fall in future under British influence. To this total Canada contributes in the neighbourhood of twenty million horse-power. This figure represents the power available at sites at which more or less definite information is to hand. Continued investigation will undoubtedly add to this figure.

According to the statistics just compiled there is installed throughout the Dominion some 2,418,000 turbines or water-wheel horse-power of which 2,215,000 horse-power is actually and regularly employed in useful work. The larger figure includes the total installed capacity at full gate, including reserve units. It does not, however, include hydraulic exciter units. A large number of the plants now operating are designed for the addition of further units as the market demands. The ultimate capacity of such plants, together with that of new plants now under construction, total some 3,385,000 horse-power.

Of the total power installed on January 1, 1920, 1,756,791 horse-power, or 72·7 per cent, is installed in central electric stations, and is distributed for sale by these stations for lighting, mining, electro-chemical, electro-metallurgical and general manufacturing. It is apparent, therefore, that the central electric station total includes a portion of the totals used in other industries. The returns show a new installation in central electric stations of 74,600 horse-power placed in operation during the year 1919. In the pulp and paper industry 473,265 hydro horse-power is utilized, of which 381,631 horse-power is installed in pulp and paper establishments while 91,634 horse-power is purchased from hydro central electric stations. Hydro-power installed and used for other purposes and other industries may be listed as follows: For lighting purposes, 434,613 horse-power; in mining industry, 177,728 horse-power; in flour and grist mills, 42,736 horse-power; in lumber and saw- mills, 37,918 horse-power; in other manufacturing industries, 172,955 horse-power. These figures are evidence of the widespread manner in which the Dominion's water-power resources are being applied to the furtherance of its industrial development. In further reference to the foregoing total of water-power developed in Canada, it might be noted that during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1919, there were exported from plants included in tabulation, 175,000 horse-power years.

With a water-power development of 274 horse-power per thousand population, Canada stands well in the forefront in respect to availability and utilization of hydro-power resources, being only surpassed in this respect by Norway. The great waterpower resources still untouched form a substantial basis for the progressive exploitation and development of other natural resources, and, if properly co-ordinated with the development and utilization of the enormous fuel reserves of the Dominion are an assurance of continued industrial expansion and prosperity.

HYDROMETRIC SURVEY

Regular stream measurement operations have been carried on during the year in the provinces of British Columbia, Manitoba, Ontario, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island. During the past year the department, through a co-operative agreement with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, took over the hydrometric work in that province, and by agreement with the provincial authorities instituted similar work in Prince Edward Island. The scope of the hydrometric work carried on by the department was thereby greatly enlarged. Nevertheless, in consequence of the organization already in existence for the carrying on of such work, it has been possible to assume the increased responsibilities with a very moderate increase in staff. At the present time, negotiations are proceeding with the Reclamation Service looking to the release to this branch of the Hydrometric Survey work hitherto carried on by the Reclamation Service in the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan. This will place all hydrometric work of the department under one central control and permit the realization of maximum efficiencies in organization and maintenance of field operations.

Activities of the Hydrometric Survey in British Columbia have been continued under the direction of Mr. R. G. Swan as district chief engineer in co-operation with the provincial authorities as outlined in previous reports. During the year there were maintained 158 stations at which regular meterings were obtained and 33 stations at which only occasional meterings were secured. Special flow studies were carried out in the Okanagan Valley for the provincial Water Rights Branch and in the Lower Fraser river for the Department of Public Works. Surveys were carried out in the Indian reserves of the Lytton, Kootenay and Kamloops agencies to assist the Department of Indian Affairs in the proper establishment of water rights appurtenant to those reserves. Attention was also given to numerous applications received by the Dominion Lands Branch for the purchase or lease of lands in the province.

In Manitoba the stream measurement work has been continued throughout the year under the direction of Mr. C. H. Attwood as district chief engineer. There were maintained during the year thirty-six stations at which regular meterings were obtained, fourteen stations at which occasional meterings were obtained and twenty-six stations from which gauge records only were obtained. For reasons of efficiency and economy, the work was extended to include hydrometric investigations in Ontario, west of and including the Nipigon river, upon the department assuming responsibility for work in that province.

Pursuant to the terms of the co-operative agreement with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, this department assumed responsibility for the carrying out of all hydrometric survey and fundamental investigatory work in the province and the work was placed under the direction of Mr. S. S. Scovil as district chief engineer. Some sixty regular stream measurement stations have been maintained, and, in addition, miscellaneous meterings were obtained on a number of streams.

A new co-operative agreement was entered into during the year with the three Maritime Provinces, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. Under the terms of the agreement the work was consolidated to include all three provinces, and the department assumed responsibility for the carrying out of all general basic investigations, including hydrometric survey. The work was placed under the direction of Mr. K. H. Smith as district chief engineer.

During the year, fourteen regular stream measurement stations were maintained in New Brunswick, twenty-one in Nova Scotia, and seven in Prince Edward Island. In addition, co-operation was maintained with the Canadian Meteorological Service in the maintenance of precipitation and evaporation stations.

POWER AND STORAGE SURVEYS

The augmentation of the field staffs due to the return of members who had been serving overseas enabled the department to resume power investigatory work in the field, which had been greatly curtailed during the war years. Office studies with regard to the analysis of water-power possibilities throughout the Dominion have been continued throughout the year.

In British Columbia in addition to the collection of fundamental stream-flow data, a thorough inventory and analysis of the water-power resources of the province has been commenced.

In Alberta an inspection of the Bow Falls power site was made and an investigation of the general power market conditions in Calgary and vicinity. An exhaustive report was prepared and presented to the provincial authorities analysing the power possibilities of the various power rivers throughout the province.

In Saskatchewan a reconnaissance power and storage survey was made of the Sturgeon-weir river, together with a detailed survey of the Birch Rapids power site on the same river. This survey was of immediate importance in connection with the development of the mineral area in northern Manitoba. A very complete report was prepared and presented to the provincial authorities covering the principal features of the various power rivers of the province along similar lines to the report of the power rivers of Alberta.

In Manitoba a reconnaissance power survey was made of the Wanipigow river, flowing into lake Winnipeg from the east and adjacent to the Rice Lake mining district. A detailed survey and report was made of the Whitemud Falls power site on the Nelson river. A survey was made of the power possibilities of a site at Stockton, on the Assiniboine river, at the request of the Manitoba Power Commission. Direct supervision was also maintained over the construction activities of the Winnipeg River Power Company at du Bonnet falls (sometimes called Great falls) on the Winnipeg river.

In Ontario this department, in co-operation with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, has in course of preparation a very thorough inventory and analysis of the developed and undeveloped water-power and storage resources of the province.

In New Brunswick power and storage surveys were carried on throughout the year on the Tetegouche, Shogomoc, Pokiok, Eel, and Lepreux rivers. Developments on three of these rivers are projected for the near future to supply the cities of St. John, Fredericton, and Bathurst.

In Nova Scotia power and storage surveys were carried out on the Nictaux river, Bear river, Bear river East Branch, Bear river West Branch, Sissiboo river, and Tusket river. The Meteghan River surveys were commenced and will be completed during the forthcoming season.

In Prince Edward Island power and storage surveys were postponed until the stream measurement work had been brought well under way.

DOMINION LAND SURVEYS AND RECLAMATION.

Dominion land surveys of overflowed lands as affecting the administration of water-power were carried on throughout the year under the direction of Mr. T. H. Dunn, D.L.S.

Operations were confined to the determination of flooded lands along the Winnipeg river in connection with the developed and undeveloped power sites. This work was rendered necessary as all of the unpatented lands adjoining the river had been reserved by sections and quarter-sections for water-power purposes, resulting in the withholding from settlement not only of such lands as would be required in the development of power but also certain lands not affected by the power developments. The persistent demand from squatters and others for entry on these lands under the homestead laws made it imperative that a survey be made for the purpose of setting aside and accurately describing the portion of each section required for power purposes.

The season of 1919 was spent on that part of the Pinawa channel of the Winnipeg river extending north from the Pinawa power plant to lac du Bonnet. In addition to traversing the boundaries of the area to be reserved, a resurvey of all of the sections affected was carried on under instructions from the Surveyor General. Under the circumstances encountered a satisfactory season's work was accomplished, and during the forthcoming season the operations will be carried forward along similar lines.

Since the establishment of the Reclamation Service all purely reclamation work hitherto carried on in the provinces of Manitoba and British Columbia by this branch has been made a responsibility of the Director of Reclamation.

RESEARCH INTO THE UTILIZATION OF OFF-PEAK POWER.

Arrangements were completed during the past year for undertaking research work looking to the increased industrial use of off-peak power available in practically all central electric stations throughout the Dominion. Research, which will develop practical methods of utilizing the available installed capacity of central stations, is of particular interest to Canada, where over 91 per cent of the installed central station primary power is water-power. Maximum efficiency in the utilization of this water-power requires 100 per cent load factor, an ideal which is practically impossible to completely realize in practice. Every step towards this end, however, means a more efficient utilization of our water-power resources. Several promising lines of research are now under way in this connection.

REPORT

OF THE

TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYS BRANCH

PART I—FIELD WORK

The surveys appropriation, which before the war was over a million dollars, was only seven hundred thousand dollars for the year 1919-20. Because of the high prices that prevailed this sum represented less than half the pre-war expenditure.

Forty-eight survey parties were employed in the field during the year, being an increase of twelve over the previous year. Of the forty-eight parties, fourteen were employed partly in one province and partly in another, five were employed exclusively in Manitoba, fourteen in Saskatchewan, thirteen in Alberta, and two in British Columbia.

The survey of base lines and meridians, the governing lines of the Dominion Lands Survey System, was sufficiently far in advance of settlement to make it possible to postpone further work of this kind and no party was employed on such surveys.

The number of parties on subdivision surveys was increased from one to eight to meet the requirements of the Soldier Settlement Board in connection with their plans for establishing returned men on the land. Large tracts of land were withdrawn from the Porcupine and Pasquia forest reserves and when subdivided were thrown open for homestead, entry being restricted to returned soldiers. In addition to the eight parties already referred to, necessary subdivision in the railway belt of British Columbia to keep pace with settlement was attended to by two parties, being one less than formerly employed on this work.

At the request of the Soldier Settlement Board the number of parties locating land suitable for the settlement of returned veterans was increased, four parties being employed wholly upon this work.

One party was located in the Peace River district, one north of Edmonton, one in Pasquia and Porcupine forest reserves, and one east of Dauphin, Man.

Complete information as to the topography of the country is necessary for its economic development. In the older settled districts the information in the possession of the department is obsolete and incomplete. To supplement this information four parties were employed, one in the vicinity of Winnipeg, one near Saskatoon, another near Calgary, and a fourth around Edmonton. From the information gathered by these parties combined with that available from local and other sources, complete topographical maps of the districts are being prepared.

SUBDIVISION SURVEYS

The greater part of the subdivision work undertaken this year was in connection with the requirements of the Soldier Settlement Board.

The largest area surveyed was one which formerly comprised portions of the Pasquia and Porcupine forest reserves, and which had become so denuded of timber by yearly forest fires and by the cutting of cordwood by the settlers in the vicinity, that after investigation by survey parties engaged on land classification it was recommended for subdivision.

Work in other areas, notably that in the Peace River district of northern Alberta, was undertaken for the benefit of squatters, who could not proceed with any permanent improvements until the boundaries of their holdings had been defined.

It was therefore found necessary to employ eight survey parties on subdivision as compared with one party during the previous season.

Party No. 1—Surveys along Hudson Bay Railway and Northwest of Prince Albert

This party commenced work in the field on June 18, being delayed by the strike in Winnipeg where supplies and transport equipment were purchased but could not be forwarded sooner by the railways.

PERSONNEL:

S. L. Evans, D.L.S., in charge.

Assistants—
F. H. Wrong, D.L.S.
L. S. MacDonald.

Party—
Ten employees.

The first work was carried on along the Hudson Bay railway in tps. 62 and 63, ranges 16 to 18, west of the Principal meridian. The survey was continued in this district up to July 28, when the party was moved to Shellbrook to undertake surveys urgently required by the Soldier Settlement Board. This work comprised the subdivision of the surrendered portions of Mistawasis, Big River, and Muskeg Indian reserves, in northern Saskatchewan.

On completion of the subdivision of part of Muskeg Indian reserve on December 26, operations in the field were closed for the season and the party paid off.

Party No. 2—Surveys near Prairie River, Saskatchewan

The subdivision done by this party lay in the area withdrawn from the Porcupine forest reserve, as it contained large patches of good land recently burnt over and easy to clear. Homestead entry, however, is limited to returned soldiers.

The party was organized at Prince Albert and work was begun on June 5 in tp. 44-7-2. Owing to the Winnipeg strike the levelling outfit and some other instruments did not reach the party till July 1, and no levelling was done until after that date.

On June 12 the party moved to Copeau river, in tp. 43-7-2, and commenced cutting trail. Eleven miles were cut nearly all of which was through heavy timber. Subdivision was begun on June 25 in tp. 43-7-2. The weather was favourable for surveying until September 10 when it turned wet and continued so till the freeze-up. This rain filled up the marshes and put the roads in very bad shape.

Considerable time was taken up during the season in locating and cutting out trails. This work required considerable care where marshes were numerous as poplar ridges are not continuous in such areas, and these ridges are the best locations for roads. With some grading, brushing, and draining these trails will furnish a fair means of communication within the townships and to the railroad. As these trails were intended for the future use of settlers more time was spent on cutting and grading than if they were to be used only for survey work.

Subdivision was completed on December 13, and two days later the party was disbanded at Prairie River.

Party No. 3—Surveys in Porcupine Forest Reserve

On May 29 the party moved from Winnipeg, the point of organization, to Prairie River, in tp. 49-7-2. From there a road had to be made to the work in tp. 41-10-2, a distance of forty-two miles. The cutting, grading, corduroying, and bridging of this road was completed on July 5 and at present it is the only means of access to the Porcupine Reserve settlement from Prairie River. The provincial government have since improved the first ten miles of this road by putting in culverts, and bridging Red Deer river with a steel bridge and Copeau river with a wooden bridge.

Survey work was begun on July 7 in tp. 41-9-2, and continued through the townships to the west and south. Fresh-water lakes are numerous, fifty-four being found in the north half of tp. 42-10-2.

The district appears to be well adapted for farming as the soil is good and on a number of homesteads areas of five to twenty acres could be put in without any clearing. Moose and deer are plentiful, as are also feathered game consisting of ducks, partridges, and prairie-chickens.

The traversing of the water areas was not done at the time of subdivision as it could be executed much more economically on the ice. This traversing was completed on January 9, 1920, and the party disbanded on the 15th.

Party No. 4—Surveys near Prairie River, Saskatchewan

Some of the townships withdrawn from the Porcupine forest reserve for the purposes of soldier settlement were subdivided by this party.

On June 2 the cutting of a twelve-mile wagon road through heavy timber was commenced. This road was made to enable prospective settlers to reach the locality. Additional branch roads had to be cut to reach the different townships subdivided.

Work on the roads was completed on June 27, although other work was necessary later to complete them, and by the end of June settlers were coming in. This settlement in advance of the survey was possible owing to the fact that the old subdivision monuments could be used in locating lands and that there was no material difference between the old and new surveys. A modification of the subdivision was made whereby east and west road allowances were located one and a half miles apart instead of two miles in order to give each soldier settler a grant of 240 acres.

Survey operations were closed on December 13, and the party disbanded.

Party No. 5—Surveys Southwest of Calgary, Alberta

The work allotted to this party consisted of a number of miscellaneous subdivisions in connection with mineral claims, leases for coal mining, and leases for grazing.

PERSONNEL:

N. C. Stewart, D.L.S., in charge.

Assistant—
A. M. Perry, D.L.S.

Party—
Eight employees.

Work was begun in tp. 40-13-5 on May 20, but owing to the density of the smoke from neighbouring forest fires no observation could be taken until the 23rd. A snowfall of three inches on May 30 and 31 completely extinguished the fires.

The most valuable asset of this district is its coal areas, some mines having a daily output of about 100 tons. The surface is fairly well timbered, but when the timber is cut off the land will furnish good grazing.

On September 26 nearly two feet of snow fell and the weather turned cold. This hindered survey work as some of the work was at an elevation of 8,000 feet and climbing snow-covered slopes made progress difficult. Although some of this snow melted away more came later, and survey operations were finally closed on December 20.

Party No. 6—Surveys West of Dunvegan, Alberta

This work was reached from Spirit River on the Edmonton-Dunvegan and British Columbia railway. Wagons were used for the first six miles but pack-horses had to be used for the remaining distance to tp. 79-7-6, where work was begun on May 27.

PERSONNEL:

R. H. Knight, D.L.S., in charge.

A number of squatters, chiefly returned soldiers, were located in the adjoining townships and subdivision was extended to enable them to make improvements when the boundaries of their homesteads were known.

The subdivision in this locality was completed on August 20 and the party moved to tp. 81-15-6, in the Pouce Coupé district.

Progress here was greatly retarded by Kiskatinaw river, as the valley is 600 to 700 feet deep with steep hillsides and almost impassable cut-banks. The river drops about forty feet in a mile, which produces considerable current. Heavy rains produced a swollen stream, which added considerably to the difficulty of crossing the river.

A heavy frost was experienced on October 8, followed by four inches of snow. This was followed by further snowfalls so that progress was difficult. Work was accordingly stopped on October 27.

Party No. 7—Surveys North of Peace River, Alberta

The party was organized at Edmonton on June 9, and proceeded by rail to Peace River, thence by steamer to Brown's landing, thence by wagons to tp. 90-23-5, and thence by man-packing and pack-horses to the work in tp. 89-23-5, which was reached on June 19. An overland trail which is fairly good to tp. 88-23-5 runs from the town of Peace River, but two muskegs beyond the base line, each about half a mile wide, are impassable in summer except for pack-horses and very lightly loaded wagons.

All the control lines were cut with good clear sky-lines, and observations were taken with a six-inch block survey transit to check the bearings of these control lines.

The usual method of chainage was followed, and tests for chain correction were frequently made with the subsidiary standard measure. The average closing of section blocks was less than a link.

Levels were run on all the lines, and where errors were suspected in lines outside the work the lines were re-levelled and the error corrected. The level closings for section blocks of four miles circuit averaged 0·07 feet.

Care was taken to place the posts accurately on line and have the top flush with the ground. Impressions were taken of the markings on the tops of the posts, which make a reliable check on the markings on the posts as they are on the ground.

Besides the regular topography taken by the chainers in the ordinary course of their work, an effort was made to secure the general topography of the interior of the sections.

The season was very wet from June to October, scarcely a day passing without rain. On October 7 there was a fall of about eight inches of snow. This, however, was unusual as snow seldom falls in any quantity before Christmas.

Party No. 8—Surveys near Fort Vermilion, Alberta

The townships subdivided by this party lie along Peace river, about thirty miles west of Fort Vermilion.

PERSONNEL:

J. A. S. King, D.L.S., in charge.

Assistant—
C. B. C. Donnelly, D.L.S.

Leveller—
E. Nelson.

Party—
Nine employees.

Work was begun in tp. 105-16-5 on May 19.

The season was very wet, the downpour of rain flooding the country on every side. Many of the lines were run through timber standing in twelve to eighteen inches of running water, and one creek rose from six feet deep and eight feet wide to fifteen feet deep and one hundred and fifty feet wide. These conditions greatly retarded the work. Side-hills, cut-banks, and heavily timbered coulees also hindered progress.

Operations in this district were closed on September 30 in order to catch the last boat up Peace river.

The next work was the subdivision of part of tp. 66-2-5, the survey of which was requested by the soldier students of the agricultural section of Alberta University. This work was begun on October 17 and the party was disbanded on November 15, the work being completed.

This party also surveyed three timber berths on Muskwa river, near Fort Alexander, Man. This work was begun on February 19, and finished on March 14.

Progress was slow on account of the depth of snow, which was from two and a half to four feet and very soft. It was not necessary to cut trails as the river was used for travel and the work was completed before break-up.

RAILWAY BELT SURVEYS

Surveys in the railway belt of the province of British Columbia were continued during this season and were confined to those areas where there was a demand for the land for settlement purposes.

In the districts of Revelstoke and New Westminster the land suitable for agricultural purposes is very valuable, hence the department has adopted the policy of subdividing the sections into legal subdivisions or forty-acre parcels, in order to meet the requirements of the small settler. This policy requires the boundaries of the legal subdivisions to be defined in addition to the quarter-section and section corners.

Two survey parties were detailed to perform all necessary work, which consisted of subdivision, stadia traverses, resurveys, and the survey of a portion of the limit of the belt.

Party No. 1—Surveys near Revelstoke, British Columbia

In addition to the subdivision carried out in a number of townships this party made traverses, took magnetic observations, and marked out the railway belt limit for seven miles in tp. 27-2-6.

PERSONNEL:

W. J. Johnston, D.L.S., in charge.

Assistant—
G. C. Tassie, D.L.S.

Party—
Seven employees.

The party was organized at Revelstoke and surveys were begun in tp. 19-8-6 on May 14. Transportation was hindered somewhat by bush fires which burnt the trestles of the Columbia river logging railroad. These fires also compelled the party to cease work in tp. 27-22-5 on June 26.

The survey of the north limit of the railway belt was then begun. This line runs along steep mountainsides and is heavily timbered with hemlock, spruce, fir, and cedar, up to three feet in diameter. Progress was slow on account of the heavy cutting and also because bush fires necessitated the recutting and rebuilding of the trails in many places. A good sky-line was cut out on the belt limit boundary and the line double chained.

The next work was the subdivision of bottom lands along Frog creek, in tp. 22-4-6, commenced on August 7 and finished on August 30. The party then returned to complete the work in tp. 27-22-5, which had been discontinued earlier in the season on account of forest fires.

Subdivision was then made in tp. 28-22-5, tp. 29-23-5, and tp. 24-19-5. The party was compelled to cease operations on October 25 owing to the fall of a foot of snow.

Party No. 2—Surveys near Kamloops, British Columbia

The work done by this party consisted of traverses, resurvey, subdivision, and retracement over a very scattered area east of Kamloops.

PERSONNEL:

John Vicars, D.L.S., in charge.

Assistant—
T. J. Fullerton, D.L.S.

Party—
Seven employees.

Some of the land surveyed is very rough and covered with a heavy growth of timber, but a considerable portion of it is good bench land fit for cultivation. Grazing areas are numerous and many cattle were seen in good condition.

Owing to the rough nature of the country, camp had to be made at some distance from the line as neither wagons nor pack-trains could be used near the work.

The weather was very hot and dry till October when it turned cold. Operations were closed on November 28.

MISCELLANEOUS RESURVEYS

Many applications were received from settlers for the re-establishment of the monuments defining the boundaries of their homesteads. The chief complaint as usual was that the original monuments had disappeared and as a consequence it was impossible to build fences or effect permanent improvements.

As the surveys required affected lands which were widely scattered they were made by small parties, usually a surveyor and a helper. When additional labour was required it was obtained locally. The six surveyors employed on this work travelled by automobile and were thus able to carry on their surveys with a minimum amount of lost time and to dispose of many more applications than would have been possible with other means of transportation.

Travelling Parties

Six travelling parties were employed to do small, scattered, miscellaneous surveys where the expense of a large party was not warranted. Mr. Glover was assisted by one man. Work was begun on May 15 and operations were closed on December 23, when cold weather and snow rendered work and transport by car impossible. During this period he made retracements, resurveys, correction, and stadia surveys in different parts of southern Saskatchewan and Alberta.

R. C. Purser, D.L.S.
E. S. Martindale, D.L.S.
W. A. Scott, D.L.S.
P. E. Palmer, D.L.S.

Commencing work on May 2, Mr. McKay was employed with the usual travelling party on miscellaneous surveys, but from September 1, owing to the resignation of another surveyor, he was engaged on the retracement of the Second meridian and some adjoining correction lines. When the retracement of the meridian was begun a larger transport was necessary as well as a larger party. The retracement of the meridian was continued until November 6, when the deep snow rendered further work impossible.

Mr. Purser was assisted by one labourer. The area covered lay between Kamsack, Saskatchewan, and Red Deer and Westlock, Alberta. In this area seventeen retracements and resurveys of various kinds were made besides seven traverses, three traverses and resurveys, and one investigation.

Work was begun in the latter part of May and closed in the middle of December. In addition to the regular survey operations, observations for magnetic inclination and total force were taken throughout the season with a Dover dip circle.

The work on which Mr. Martindale was engaged consisted of miscellaneous surveys, townsite surveys, retracement, and correction surveys. Subdivision lines were also extended over the beds of dried-up lakes. Although most of the work was in Manitoba it was somewhat scattered and, as the work at any one place was small, the party consisted of the surveyor and one helper.

Mr. Scott was engaged on miscellaneous surveys in the vicinity of Medicine Hat. As the location of these surveys was fairly well confined to the one district he was required to obtain information relative to roads, buildings, and elevations for use in revising the maps of the department.

In August, having completed the surveys in the Medicine Hat district, he went to Calgary intending to continue miscellaneous surveys west of this city, but before reaching the location of the work he was taken seriously ill and died in the hospital at Calgary on August 12.

Mr. Palmer's work consisted of miscellaneous surveys in the vicinity of Qu'Appelle and Broadview, Sask. In this district also advantage was taken of the comparatively limited area in which his work lay to have the surveyor record information relative to roads, buildings, and elevations to supplement the information on the maps of the department.

STADIA SURVEYS

Stadia surveys are so called from the particular method of survey used. They provide a very accurate and inexpensive method of determining the boundaries and extent of water areas.

There were ten parties engaged on these surveys, of which two were detailed to make stadia traverses in the mineral districts of Manitoba northwest of The Pas and in the district around Rice lake, east of lake Winnipeg, and a third was engaged in making stadia traverses of lakes northwest of Prince Albert. These three parties operated in territory where no subdivision surveys have taken place, and where an accurate map of the water areas was required.

Party No. 1—Surveys North of Winnipeg

Two districts were investigated for water areas by this party. One was between lake Manitoba and the Principal meridian, and the other was in the Rice lake area along Manigotagan river.

Work was begun in the Rice lake district on June 5. The canoes in which the party travelled from lake Winnipeg up Manigotagan river to the work were used for transportation as lakes were numerous.

The purpose of this survey was to connect with proper ties the surveyed mining claims in the district and to establish sufficient reference monuments so that future surveys of mineral claims could be tied in.

Manigotagan river was traversed across ranges 12 to 14, east of the Principal meridian, and also the larger lakes in ranges 13 and 14. From the traverse of these lakes and rivers a comprehensive map of the district can be obtained for the guidance of prospectors and mining companies operating there.

Work in this area was discontinued on September 17 owing to the need of surveys in the second area near lake Manitoba. In the Rice lake district only the area covered by 130 surveyed claims was traversed, but further surveys in the adjoining areas can be easily tied in to the monuments erected. The extension of the present survey would have the tendency to extend the prospector's radius.

The survey of the water areas between the Principal meridian and lake Manitoba was begun on September 18. The lands in this area are being taken up on account of the soldier settlement taking place in the adjoining area to the west. The purpose of the survey was to ascertain the area of land available for cultivation on account of the drying up of lakes since the last survey and also to find out if there was any likelihood of further drying up.

The surveys in this area were completed on January 21 and the party was disbanded.

Party No. 2—Surveys in Southwestern Manitoba

The work done by this survey party consisted of the revision of water areas, the investigation of roads and buildings, and the taking of elevations in one hundred and nine townships in the vicinity of Virden, Hamiota, and Broadview.

PERSONNEL:

G. A. Bennett, D.L.S., in charge.

Assistant—
Chas. Harvey, D.L.S.

Party—
Three employees.

Work was begun on May 27 and continued without interuption till November 10. During this time an area of over three thousand seven hundred square miles was investigated and reported on.

The topography as shown on the old plans and maps was found to have undergone considerable changes; many lakes and marshes had dried up, and the land reclaimed had been placed under cultivation. In addition, thirty-one lakes, which had not been included in the original surveys, were traversed. Assiniboine river was found to have changed its course, owing to the constant erosion of its clay banks, and was traversed through two townships.

Party No. 3—Surveys around Moosomin, Saskatchewan

In addition to the stadia survey of water areas, information was secured for bringing up to date the sectional maps covering this district. At the request of the Soldier Settlement Board this party also subdivided a portion of Indian reserve No. 71 comprising some sections in townships 17, ranges 3 and 4, and part of Indian reserve No. 75 in township 20, range 18, west of the Second meridian.

During the summer forty-three townships were investigated for water areas, and investigation for the revision of sectional maps was carried on in forty-nine townships. Subdivision work for the Soldier Settlement Board comprised the survey of fifty-eight sections. While on this work, owing to the thick growth of bush encountered, the party was increased by two axemen. The subdivision was completed on November 11, and the party disbanded.

The surveyor and his assistant then undertook the investigation of six townships in the Moose Mountain district for the revision of sectional maps. This work was finished on November 22 and survey operations were closed.

Party No. 4—Surveys Northeast of Yorkton, Saskatchewan

PERSONNEL:

P. M. H. LeBlanc, D.L.S., in charge.

Assistant—
G. C. Britton, D.L.S.

Party—
Three employees.

Besides the block of forty-five townships northeast of Yorkton, this party made a stadia traverse of all the water areas in three townships east of Kamsack.

Survey operations were begun on May 24 and were continued until November 4 when work in the field was stopped owing to the early freeze-up.

In addition to the traverse of lakes, the conditions of all monuments were investigated, and all the roads were classified according to the quantity and class of traffic over them.

A heavy rainfall between June 27 and July 14 made very bad roads and the lakes and marshes were flooded. This made traverse work and transport difficult.

Party No. 5—Surveys in Northern Manitoba

PERSONNEL:

T. H. Plunkett, D.L.S., in charge.

Assistants—
C. J. Harper, D.L.S.
W. A. Spence, D.L.S.

Party—
Twelve employees.

The stadia traverses made by this party were somewhat different from those made by the ordinary stadia survey parties. They were located for the most part in unsurveyed territory and were not made for the purpose of correcting existing township plans, but to definitely locate the rich ore deposits lying between the 17th and 18th base lines, extending westerly from range 16, west of the Principal meridian, to range 3, west of the Second meridian.

Most of the mineral claims have been staked on the shores of the lakes and rivers which form a continuous waterway from Wekusko lake at the easterly end to Amisk lake at the westerly end. The reason the country remote from the main waterway has not been examined is not because of lack of indications of minerals, but because there is no available map for the prospector's guidance and also because the surface has a covering of moss from one to three feet deep which prevents the prospector from making an examination of the rock formations.

Before a map of the district can be made, sufficient township outlines will have to be run between the two base lines to tie in the survey of the numerous lakes.

The stadia traverse of the lakes was discontinued on September 19 and the party moved to Sturgeon Landing where work was begun on a portion of the boundary between Manitoba and Saskatchewan. In addition to this boundary survey, part of the 18th base line was run across range 30, west of the Principal meridian.

On October 8 winter set in with a heavy fall of snow, and on the 12th Saskatchewan river froze over. Operations were accordingly closed on October 17.

Party No. 6—Surveys near Prince Albert, Saskatchewan

PERSONNEL:

P. J. McGarry, D.L.S., in charge.

Assistant—
B. Hagarty.

Party—
Six employees.

While most of the work done by this party lay in the district around Prince Albert, a considerable portion lay in Manitoba near Winnipeg and Dauphin.

The investigation of the water areas in eight townships around Prince Albert was first undertaken as the work in Manitoba was in a marshy district and could be executed to better advantage in late summer or fall. Work was accordingly commenced on June 2 east of Prince Albert, and the party then moved to Batoche to resurvey a base line across lots in St. Laurent settlement.

Investigation was next made of five townships near Shellbrook, and on September 16th the party moved to Langham to investigate seven townships in that vicinity. All the work was completed there except the traverse of North Saskatchewan river, which had to be discontinued on account of floating ice.

The next work undertaken was some special investigation of water areas near Dauphin, Man. This work was completed on November 15 and the party was disbanded.

In addition to the regular stadia surveys roads were classified and magnetic observations taken.

Party No. 7—Surveys in Northwestern Saskatchewan

This party was engaged on the stadia traverse of the chain of lakes and rivers lying on the northern side of the height of land separating Churchill and Saskatchewan rivers and forming the drainage basin of the upper Churchill.

PERSONNEL:

G. H. Blanchet, D.L.S., in charge.

Assistants—
M. G. Cameron, D.L.S.
R. D. Davidson, D.L.S.

Party—
Seven employees.

As subdivision surveys have not yet been extended to this district the information furnished by existing maps is based on exploratory and base line surveys and it was for the purpose of obtaining accurate maps of the waterways of the district that these stadia surveys were made.

Stadia work was begun on May 14 and continued until October 8, during which time more than 1,000 miles of shore line were defined.

The following lakes and rivers were traversed: Cowan lake, Delaronde lake, Smoothstone lake, Sled lake and river, Green lake, Canoe lake, Doré lake, lac la Plonge, rivière la Plonge, Beaver river, lac Ile-à-la-Crosse, Shagwenan lake, and Montreal lake.

Simultaneously with the stadia traverse an investigation survey was made of the wagon roads from Big River to lac la Plonge, and from Prince Albert to Montreal lake. A survey was also made of Ile-à-la-Crosse settlement.

On October 9 the party was reduced to one assistant and three men to conduct an exploration survey of a road from Big river to the Grand rapids on Beaver river. This was completed on October 22 and the party returned to Prince Albert and was paid off.

Party No. 8—Surveys South of Medicine Hat, Alberta

The area along the Canadian Pacific railway south of Medicine Hat was investigated and all bodies of water, as well as rivers over one chain in width, were traversed. Monuments were erected where the lake beds had dried up, and the condition of the roads in fifty-four townships examined.

PERSONNEL:

G. C. Cowper, D.L.S., in charge.

J. Carroll, D.L.S.

Party—
Three employees.

Work was begun on May 31 in tps. 9 and 10-1-4. Lakes and sloughs were not very numerous and consequently more time could be devoted to mapping roads for the revision of the sectional maps.

Over 3,000 barometric readings were taken which will greatly assist in showing contours on the sectional sheets.

Winter set in early and survey operations were closed on October 27.

Party No. 9—Surveys South of Stettler, Alberta

A reconnaissance survey of lands northeast of Prince Albert was made by this party before commencing the regular stadia work. This reconnaissance work was undertaken at the request of the Soldier Settlement Board with a view to ascertaining the nature and extent of such lands within these districts. It was merely a preliminary investigation and any tracts found suitable for soldier settlement were to be fully investigated.

Work was commenced on May 17 and the area along Whitefox river westerly from tp. 51-15-2 to range 23, comprising approximately 250 square miles, was examined.

This work was completed on May 31 and a similar examination was made of the area around Paddockwood in tp. 52-25-2. The district is about twenty-five miles from Prince Albert and a great deal of worthless land lies between, but around Paddockwood the land is good though heavily wooded.

This work was completed on June 13 and the party left for Hanna to begin the regular stadia surveys. An automobile was used for transportation, as the district is fairly dry and the lakes few and scattered. This work was carried on for a month during which water areas in twenty townships were investigated. In addition the roads were classified and barometer readings taken frequently.

From July 26 this party was again employed on reconnaissance work in the Whitecourt district northeast of Edmonton, comprising about twenty-nine townships, ten of which are within the Lesser Slave Lake forest reserve.

This work was finished on August 27 and from that date until October 4 a reconnaissance survey was made of the district around St. Paul de Metis. Transportation was carried on by man-packing or, where trails were passable, with pack-horses or automobile.

When the reconnaissance work was finished this party made a traverse of the delta of Red river at the south end of lake Winnipeg. The traverse was completed on December 17.

Party No. 10—Surveys Northeast of Edmonton

The water areas investigated by this party lay in about forty townships along the north side of North Saskatchewan river from the Alberta and Great Waterways railway east as far as range 9.

PERSONNEL:

H. M. R. Soars, D.L.S., in charge.

Assistant—
C. B. Atkins, D.L.S.

Party—
Three employees.

Work was commenced on June 6 in tp. 59-21-4 and consisted of the traverse of water areas of sufficient size, reporting on others that have partially or completely dried up, examining monuments, classifying roads and making some retracements of school lands.

In addition to the lake and slough surveys North Saskatchewan river was traversed through ranges 10 to 14 and when this work was completed the party was disbanded on December 15.

Early in February, 1920, the party was again organized and a traverse of Sturgeon river made through the district covered by the Edmonton sectional sheet. The presence of water on the ice under the snow rendered this work unsafe and it was postponed till March when the river was traversed to the east boundary of section 8, tp. 55-24-4.

Survey operations were closed on March 7.

RETRACEMENT OF SCHOOL LANDS

The retracement of the boundaries of school lands, sections 11 and 29 of each township, was continued this year.

In well-settled areas these lands are being sold by auction and high prices are obtained. Considerable difficulty was met with because of the disappearance of many of the monuments of the original survey. The purchasers expect that their boundaries will be clearly and permanently marked and further wish to know the exact acreage of the lands they have to pay for.

Accordingly six survey parties were detailed to survey the school lands in the districts in which it was proposed to hold sales, surveying them in the order in which they were to be sold. As the work was rather scattered each party was limited to one man supplemented by local labour where necessary.

As there was considerable travelling and no great amount of work at any one place transportation was carried on by means of automobiles.

Party No. 1—Surveys in Portage la Prairie District

PERSONNEL:

C. H. Taggart, D.L.S., in charge.

Party—
One employee.

The work performed by this party consisted chiefly of the retracement of the boundaries of school lands in a block of thirty townships, comprising townships 7 to 11, ranges 6 to 11, west of the Principal meridian, and situated within a radius of forty miles south of the city of Portage la Prairie.

These lands are exceedingly valuable and it is very important that the boundaries of the sections be correctly defined and the areas of the quarter-sections accurately determined. Numerous resurveys and retracements and the re-establishment of many lost corners were necessary owing to the disappearance of many of the old monuments. The surveys in this block were commenced on June 11 and completed on October 28. Miscellaneous surveys in townships 14 to 17, ranges 1 and 3, and township 15A, range 11A, all east of the Principal meridian, occupied the time of the party until December 12, when it moved to township 21, range 31, west of the Principal meridian to perform resurveys. This work was completed on December 24 and field operations for the season were closed.

Party No. 2—Surveys in Brandon District

PERSONNEL:

H. E. Pearson, D.L.S., in charge.

Party—
One employee.

The retracement of school lands in a block of eighteen townships situated within a radius of twenty miles to the north and east of the city of Brandon constituted the work of this party during the season. Surveys were commenced in the field on May 27 in the vicinity of Minnedosa and continued in a southerly and easterly direction until October 31, when operations in the field were closed.

This is a very old district and many of the original monuments have been lost or obliterated which necessitated retracement of old boundaries, resurveys, and re-establishment of lost corners where the school lands adjoined patented lands. The owners of these patented lands had to be consulted before erecting new monuments, which procedure took much time as in many cases the lands were rented and the owners were living some distance away.

Party No. 3—Surveys in Regina District

The work of this party was begun on May 16 practically where it was left off the previous fall.

PERSONNEL:

L. E. Fontaine, D.L.S., in charge.

Party—
One employee.

It consisted of retracement and the re-establishment of lost corners in connection with correctly defining the boundaries of school lands in a block of twenty-four townships comprising townships 13 to 19, ranges 16 to 22, west of the Second meridian.

School land investigation was discontinued on October 25, when the unusually early snowfall made the location of obliterated corners impossible. From this date until November 21, when operations were closed, the party was employed on minor miscellaneous surveys and also recording magnetic observations.

Party No. 4—Surveys in Swift Current District

This party was engaged on the investigation and retracement of the boundaries of the school lands lying in a block of fifty-five townships situated within a radius of forty miles east of Swift Current and comprising townships 12 to 18, ranges 7 to 14, west of the Third meridian.

PERSONNEL:

J. M. Coté, D.L.S., in charge.

Party—
One employee.

Work was commenced in the field on May 25 and was continued until October 31, when owing to the early snowfall and arrival of winter the party returned to Swift Current and was disbanded.

Party No. 5—Surveys in Calgary District

The school land sections in townships 29 to 32, ranges 23 to 28 west of the Fourth meridian, were retraced by this party.

PERSONNEL:

C. M. Walker, D.L.S., in charge.

Party—
One employee.

Work was begun on May 24 in the district directly east of Didsbury. All original monuments were replaced by standard monuments, but no permanent marks were made where the original monument was lost if the interested landowners refused to consent to the resurvey. In some portions of the district considerable time was spent collecting evidence as to the position of the original corner monuments where the monuments were badly obliterated.

The retracement of school lands was stopped on September 16 and the party was employed on lot surveys at Banff and afterwards on traverse of Ghost river, northwest of Calgary, and Sheep creek, southeast of Calgary.

On account of a heavy snowfall work had to be suspended from November 6 to 19 but extremely cold weather set in later and work was finally stopped on December 3.

Party No. 6—Surveys in Wetaskiwin District

The investigation and retracement of school lands in the block of twenty-two townships comprising townships 44 to 47, ranges 23 to 28, west of the Fourth meridian, constituted the work of this party. The lands in this block are of great value as no quarter-section investigated lies at a greater distance than twenty miles from the important town of Wetaskiwin and those quarter-sections in township 46, range 24, west of the Fourth meridian, are within two or three miles of the town.

PERSONNEL:

J. A. Buchanan, D.L.S., in charge.

Party—
One employee.

Operations in the field were commenced on May 28 and the investigation of school lands was carried on till September 22. On this date the number of employees on the party was increased to seven and the survey of mining leases in township 50, range 27, west of the Fifth meridian, was undertaken. Work in this township was completed on November 27 when the party returned to Edmonton and was paid off.

LAND CLASSIFICATION

In order to find suitable lands for returned soldiers, as well as all other intending settlers, and to ensure that lands not offering a fair chance for successful settlement be excluded, four parties were engaged on investigation and classification of Dominion lands. The examinations were so planned as to meet the requirements of the returned soldiers first, and, as the restrictions on settlement were gradually removed, to make the information obtained available for all settlers. From the information furnished by these surveys, reports and maps were prepared showing not only the various classes of agricultural lands but also the resources of the districts. The maps showed the principal topographical features, roads and trails, existing settlements, elevations, etc., so coloured and arranged as to make each feature stand out by itself.

The lands examined were divided into eight classes as follows:—

(a) Lands disposed of.
(b) Lands suitable for immediate settlement.
(c) Lands considered fair for settlement.
(d) Lands which can be economically improved.
(e) Lands with suitable soil but requiring extensive improvements.
(f) Hay meadows.
(g) Grazing lands.
(h) Worthless lands.

The information collected was made available to the public through the Dominion land offices and the Soldier Settlement Board.

Party No. 1—Surveys North and East of Dauphin, Manitoba

The district examined by this party comprises all that area of land lying to the east of the Canadian National railway between Ochre River on the south and Birch River on the north and bounded on the east by the shores of lake Winnipegosis.

PERSONNEL:

S. D. Fawcett, D.L.S., in charge.

Assistants—
P. A. Shaver, D.L.S.
D. O. Wing, D.L.S.
M. D. McCloskey, D.L.S.

Party—
Four employees.

Work was commenced in the field on May 20 in the vicinity of Ochre River and was continued in a northerly and easterly direction until November 15 when operations in the field were closed and the party disbanded.

During this period a total of 13,104 quarter-sections, containing 2,096,640 acres, were examined and classified. In addition, throughout the area, frequent samples for soil analysis and barometric readings were taken.

Party No. 2—Surveys in Pasquia and Porcupine Forest Reserves

The district examined by this party included all the land lying in townships 40 to 46, ranges 1 to 12, west of the Second meridian, the greater portion of this area being included in the Porcupine and Pasquia forest reserves.

PERSONNEL:
Wm. Christie, D.L.S., in charge.

Assistants—
C. S. Macdonald, D.L.S.
A. O. Gorman, D.L.S.
N. S. Clouston, D.L.S.

Party—
Six employees.

Work was commenced in the field on May 20 in tp. 45-3-2 and carried on in a southerly and westerly direction until November 26, when field operations were closed for the season.

During the season 6,828 quarter-sections, containing a total of 1,092,480 acres, were examined and reported on. In addition to this a reconnaissance survey was made of 1,440 quarter-sections, comprising 130,400 acres, in townships 46 to 50, ranges 3 to 12, west of the Second meridian.. During the season's work frequent samples for soil analysis and barometer readings were taken.

Party No. 3—Surveys North of Edmonton and Northwest of Turtleford

Examination of lands in the district north of Edmonton, between Athabaska river and lac la Biche, was begun by this party on May 12 and continued until June 25.

PERSONNEL:

D. F. McEwen, D.L.S., in charge.

Assistants—
S. H. Gordon, D.L.S.
W. E. Lumb, D.L.S.
W. E. Robinson, D.L.S.
R. P. Burchnall, D.L.S.

Party—
Four employees.

On this date the three assistants attached to the party were paid off and the surveyor with one assistant and the same party began reconnaissance surveys in the district northwest of Turtleford, Saskatchewan, from Meadow lake westerly to the Fourth meridian. Field operations were completed and the party disbanded on December 10.

During the season 12,240 quarter-sections, comprising an area of 1,958,400 acres, were examined. Numerous samples for soil analysis and frequent barometer readings were taken.

Party No. 4—Surveys in the Peace River District

The area examined by this party may be roughly described as all that portion of the Peace River district lying between latitudes 55 degrees and 57 degrees and extending from Lesser Slave lake westerly to the boundary between Alberta and British Columbia.

PERSONNEL:

L. Brenot, D.L.S., in charge.

Assistants—
E. F. Gorman, D.L.S.
K. F. McCusker, D.L.S.
A. H. King, D.L.S.

Party—
Four employees.

Work was commenced on May 16 in townships 86 and 87, ranges 23 to 25, west of the Fifth meridian, and was continued westerly to the foot of the Clear hills and then southerly to the district lying around Grande Prairie, where operations in the field were closed on November 19.

During the season 12,540 quarter-sections, comprising 2,006,400 acres, were examined and classified. In addition frequent barometer readings and samples for soil analysis were taken in the area covered.

TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYS

Five parties were employed, four of them being engaged on the revision of sectional maps and one on the survey of the Bow River and Clearwater forest reserves.

The revision of sectional maps is executed by small parties travelling rapidly over the country and securing by expeditious methods the information necessary to transform the land maps into topographical maps.

Party No. 1—Revision of the Winnipeg Sectional Map, No. 73

Winnipeg sectional map comprises townships 1 to 16, ranges 1 to 11 east, and ranges 1 to 4, west of the Principal meridian. All the information available regarding roads, elevations, and topography was obtained from the Land Titles office, The Good Roads Branch of the provincial government, and the Department of Public Works at Winnipeg. This information was supplemented by that obtained by the field examination.

As the character of the country covered by this map varies considerably in the different localities a severe strain was at times placed on the transport. Many streams had to be traversed which were exceedingly crooked and in places bordered with bush. Streams of this nature require considerably more time and present far greater difficulties than those in districts farther west.

Considerable difficulty was also experienced in carrying on the work in those portions of the district taken up by parishes and settlements which were surveyed into river lots before the inauguration of the Dominion Lands system of survey. In many cases several of these lots were owned by one man and joined together to make one farm. As the boundaries have practically disappeared some difficulty was experienced in getting definite points to which to tie in the topography.

The easterly portion of the district is undulating with many large areas of swamp and mostly covered with bush with practically no roads and few trails. The work here had to be executed on foot. The westerly portion was chiefly open with well-defined land boundaries enabling the surveyor to obtain most of the required information from his seat in the car or democrat.

Work in the field was completed on October 29, when the party disbanded.

Party No. 2—Revision of the Saskatoon Sectional Map, No. 218

Townships 33 to 40, ranges 1 to 14, west of the Third meridian, are covered by this sectional map. About a month was spent by the party in organizing and in securing all possible information about roads, bench-marks, etc., before it took the field on June 11. Speedometers on the motor-cars used for transport gave the distance from known points to streams, houses, etc.

Aneroid readings were taken at every mile in level country and at every half mile in rolling country and in addition at numerous points showing change of slope. In all over 13,000 readings were recorded.

In addition to the revision work, this party subdivided some sections in tp. 40-14-3 that were withdrawn from the Keppel forest reserve, and also ran four miles of line to restore lost monuments.

On November 19 all survey work was completed and the party was disbanded.

Party No. 3—Revision of the Blackfoot Sectional Map, No. 115

The area investigated by this party comprises townships 17 to 24, ranges 16 to 29, west of the Fourth meridian. Between three and four weeks were spent by the surveyor and one assistant at Calgary in collecting information, mainly about elevations, at the Levelling office, the Land Titles office, the office of the Commissioner of Irrigation, and the Canadian Pacific Railway Irrigation office. The party took the field on June 6.

A large part of this district is included in the Canadian Pacific Railway irrigation scheme and has been accurately surveyed. Plans of these surveys showing contours were obtained and were of great assistance in the prosecution of the work.

The country covered by this sheet was open and rolling enabling the party to carry on the work rapidly. The larger rivers and streams had been traversed in the original surveys and the surveyor had only to deal with the small streams.

Work was completed on October 16 when the party disbanded.

Party No. 4—Revision of the Edmonton Sectional Map, No. 315

Edmonton sectional map comprises townships 49 to 56, ranges 15 to 28, west of the fourth meridian. About two weeks were spent by the surveyor and his assistants in organizing and outfitting and in collecting information at Edmonton from the Surveys, Highways, and Drainage Branches of the provincial government, and from the Levelling Office at Calgary. The party took the field on June 2.

The district is fairly well timbered and lakes and streams are numerous, all of which tended to delay the work. A number of lakes were noted which were not shown on the township plans and the courses and connections of some streams were found to have been plotted in error.

The season's work was completed on October 31 and the party was disbanded.

Party No. 5—Photo-Topographical Surveys in Bow River and Clearwater Forest Reserves

This party commenced work in the field on June 15 from a point on the Red Deer traverse, where the work was discontinued in 1918. This traverse was then extended up Scalp creek, a tribuary of Red Deer river, to a point on Clearwater river near the summit of Pipestone pass. From here the traverse was carried down Clearwater river to a closing on the Dominion lands survey system. The total distance covered by this traverse amounted to about sixty-nine miles. Permanent monuments were erected at intervals, approximately two miles apart, along the entire traverse.

A photographic survey was carried on at the same time as the stadia traverse, the photographic stations being established by triangulation based on the stadia traverse.

The total number of stations occupied was eighty, of which number seven were over 10,000 feet and twenty-nine were from 9,000 to 10,000 feet above sea-level.

The survey was continued down the Red Deer valley to connect with the work done in 1918, and was carried on in the Clearwater valley to include the entire basin of the river.

On September 22 field operations for the season were closed and the last members of the party were paid off.

LEVELLING

The amount of levelling of all classes run during the twelve months ending March 31, 1920, was 3,458 miles. There was an increase in mileage of all classes over the corresponding amounts done in the previous year except in the class of levels run along meridians and base lines during their original survey. As no new lines of that class were surveyed, no levelling was done.

One party was engaged on precise levels throughout the season and another party for a short time at the beginning of the season.

The secondary control lines are levelled along base lines previously surveyed, but which were not levelled. These are important and most useful levels as they control the large area between base lines, and they run, as a rule, through districts where previously there was little or no local control. A permanent bench-mark consisting of a two-inch iron pipe four feet long with a large foot-plate is planted firmly every third mile with its top appearing about six inches above ground. Elevations of the ground every quarter mile and all streams and lakes encountered are recorded. Three parties were employed on such levels.

Two parties were employed all season and one party for a short time at the end of the season, in levelling the outlines of townships without doing any interior levelling. With an experienced leveller such outlines need not be checked, reliance being placed on the leveller's ability to close his circuit correctly. Outlines were thus run around some sixty-three townships. The closing error of the 24-mile circuit never exceeded three-tenths of a foot during the season.

In subdivision surveys levelling was done along the section lines while they were being surveyed and 1,232 miles were thus levelled. While only intended to serve the immediate surroundings and to afford a general record of the topography this class of levels has been so well carried out that their records may be confidently relied upon in all matters which depend on a knowledge of the relative elevations of a local district. All subdivision levels, even those in townships in the extreme north, have been connected to a sea-level datum, and all their elevations are actually so recorded with the exception of only about six townships out of a total of 8,200 miles of such levels.

The work of recording all the results in a clear and readily accessible form has been kept up to date and there is no difficulty in quickly obtaining any one of the many hundreds of thousands of elevations already recorded.

The number of miles of the various classes of levels run during the year and the total at the end of the year are as follows:—

	Season 1919	Total
Precise levels	470	3,917
Secondary control levels	776	2,181
Meridian and base line levels	...	12,268
Township outline levels	902	902
Subdivision levels	1,232	8,199
Other lines of levels	78	399
Totals	3,458	27,866

Party No. 1—Precise Levels from Lacombe to Eyebrow

This line of levels was run along the Canadian Pacific railway southeasterly through the central parts of southern Alberta and Saskatchewan. The intention was to continue the line to Moose Jaw, an important junction point for precise levelling, but an unusually early advent of severe weather compelled the party to end operations at Eyebrow, 45 miles from Moose Jaw, on November 3. The distance levelled was 402 miles.

The work was carried out strictly in accordance with precise levelling methods, each mile being required to be levelled twice within an agreement of 0.015 feet. The large mileage levelled was due in great measure to the use of a 4 horse-power, railway motor-car of light construction. This not only facilitated the actual work but enabled camps to be selected within much wider limits than if a handcar only had been used.

In addition to the accurate line carried forward as a control for the large area through which it runs and the planting of permanent bench-marks at least every fourth mile a large number of subsidiary elevations were recorded. These included hundred and two were established of which eighty-three were on specially con-

ings or junctions of other railway lines. Permanent bench-marks numbering one hundred and two were established of which eigthty-three were on specially constructed concrete pillars whose foundations are six feet deep and whose tops appear ten inches above the surface. The remainder were on buildings of various kinds. At the end of each mile a temporary bench-mark is also placed, generally consisting of a large railway spike driven into a telegraph pole. Its elevation is reliable to a tenth of a foot as long as the pole is not bodily removed. These marks have proved especially useful for many local purposes.

This line of precise levels crossed six of the secondary control lines of levels run in previous years, and thus affords an important connection throughout the level system.

Party No. 2—Secondary Levels along Base Lines

This party levelled the Seventh base line easterly from the Fifth meridian to the east outline of range 12, west of the Fourth meridian and from the Fourth meridian to the middle of range 14, west of the Second meridian.

The transport consisted of two teams and two wagons until the end of July, when a motor-car was supplied. This latter facilitated the progress of the work very materially but several stretches of country were met with where a motor-car could not be brought nearer to the line than four or five miles and it would have been very difficult to have dispensed with horses.

At the beginning of the season permanent bench-marks were placed at intervals averaging four miles. These were the standard iron-pipe bench-marks usd by this branch. From August 1, however, the interval between successive bench-marks was reduced to three miles. The extra work entailed by increasing the number of bench-marks is scarcely appreciable, while the placing of one at the centre of the north boundary of the township and one at the northeast corner is a much more satisfactory arrangement than that formerly employed.

During the season 111 permanent bench-marks were planted and connection was made to four precise and to four secondary lines of levels which had previously been levelled. The length of main line levelled was 378 miles with an additional 39 miles of connections.

The highest elevation encountered was 3,597 feet, close to the Fifth meridian where the line of levels commenced. At Last Mountain lake, near the end of the work, the elevation was 1,607 feet, a fall of almost 2,000 feet. Three ranges of hills rising over 600 feet were encountered between the Third and Fourth meridians.

Party No. 3—Secondary Levels along Base Lines

Levelling was commenced on May 19 at the Fifth meridian and carried easterly along the Thirteenth base until June 30, when range 12 west of Fourth meridian, was reached. On July 4 levelling was commenced on the Eleventh base at the Fourth meridian and continued easterly until the Third meridian was reached on October 2. Between October 6 and November 5 a single line of levels was run around the outlines of townships 38, in ranges 6 to 12, west of the Third meridian.

SUMMARY OF RESULTS

Miles of control levels run	269
Miles of connection levels run	68
Miles of single-line levels run	141
Permanent bench-marks established	113

For the first time motor-cars were used on this work and they proved highly satisfactory. The standard maintained on the control levels was such that 98 per cent of the local discrepancies per mile were less than 0.03 feet. Regarding the single-line levelling around township outlines, the average closure of the 24-mile circuits was 0.08 feet.

The future value of a line of levels depends on the permanency of the bench-marks. Bench-marks are being constantly destroyed. It would seem imperative that some action be taken towards establishing some bench-marks of a very lasting character in addition to the present standard bench-mark. Such additional bench-marks could be placed 12 miles apart.

Party No. 4—Secondary Levels along Base Lines and Precise Levels from Assiniboia to Moose Jaw

Party—

Six employees.

The first work undertaken by this party was a line of precise levels along the Canadian Pacific railway from Assiniboia to Moose Jaw. The line was commenced on July 1 and completed on August 2. The distance is 68 miles. In addition six miles of connections were run.

The work was carried on in accordance with the general instructions for precise levelling. As there was no gravel along the railway suitable for concrete, galvanized-iron pipes were used instead of the standard concrete pillar for permanent bench-marks. These were two inches in diameter, four feet in length, capped and furnished with a foot-plate. Sixteen of them were placed. In addition twelve bench-marks consisting of brass bolts set in existing masonry structures were established along the route. Connection was made to the levels on the Third meridian run in 1916. The elevations of fifty-six road crossings and of the water of two lakes and of Thunder creek were recorded as well as top of rail at all railway stations along the line.

On the completion of the above a line of control levels along the Fourth base line was begun commencing at Johnstone lake and running easterly. This work proceeded without interruption until October 22 when operations were closed for the season at the northeast corner of range 7. The datum for this line was obtained by connection with B. M. AA 19 already established on the precise line from Assiniboia to Moose Jaw.

The type of permanent bench-mark used on this line was the same as on the above precise line. Permanent bench-marks were established at intervals of three miles. In all forty-four were planted. Connection was made to bench-marks of a precise level line from Weyburn to Moose Jaw at Wilcox, and to those of a control line along the east outline of range 13, west of the Second meridian. Elevations of grades were taken at the crossings of six railways. The elevations of four railway stations were recorded, also levels of seven streams and of Johnstone lake and one other lake. The Cactus hills occupy ranges 25 to 28. They rise in places to a height of 600 feet above the surrounding country. From the foot of Cactus hills easterly the country is flat or rolling prairie. The only other prominent topographical feature crossed is the valley of Moose Mountain creek, which is 120 feet in depth.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 25a

Party No. 5—Levels along Township Outlines

This party was engaged in levelling the outlines of townships without doing any interior levelling in the district immediately east of Edmonton and including the areas around Cooking lake, Beaverhills lake, and Bittern lake.

During the season levels were run around some forty-eight townships, while connections were made to all precise and secondary lines and to any important lakes accessible to the work. Permanent bench-marks were established near all township corners and midway between the same, while temporary bench-marks were placed at one mile intervals.

The levels were carried forward by single line only without direct checking. Out of a total of 575 miles of main line levelled only four of the 24-mile circuits had closing errors which exceeded 0·35 feet. The order of running the outlines was so arranged that if any error should be found in closing it would be known that the error must exist in one of two of the sides. This was accomplished by always having the other two sides closed by a previous circuit. In the forty-eight townships levelled all except four had their circuits closed and the closing errors were less than two-tenths of a foot in 77 per cent of the circuits, the remainder lying between that amount and 0·35 feet.

Field work was commenced on May 29 and was concluded on October 24. During the last three months two rodmen were used, which greatly hastened the work so that the average was 150 miles of levelling per month.

In all 575 miles of outlines were levelled by this party and one hundred and thirty-four permanent bench-marks were placed, the area throughout which the outlines were levelled being about 1600 square miles.

The season being very dry was exceptionally favourable for the work and it was possible to level many miles across dried up sloughs which in a wet season would have caused much delay.

Party No. 6—Levels along Township Outlines

Work was commenced on June 30 at Wadena, east of Quill lake in Saskatchewan, and was continued until October 15. A single line of levels was run along township outlines in the district northeast of Quill lake and extending around Ponass lake. The datum for the levels was obtained from the precise level line along the Canadian National railway running past Wadena.

Elevations of all topographical features were recorded every quarter of a mile. Forty-seven permanent bench-marks were planted at intervals of three miles along the outline, being placed at township corners and in the middle of each township side. During the season 195 miles of levels were run along the township outlines. The area through which these run covers about 550 square miles, involving fifteen different townships.

SETTLEMENTS AND TOWNSITES

To meet the wishes of the Soldier Settlement Board a survey was made of the townsite of Lens, Sask. This townsite is situated on the Canadian National railway in section 8, tp. 45-7-2, and its survey was requested in the interest of those settlers who have located in the district withdrawn from Porcupine forest reserve for the purpose of soldier settlement. In laying out the townsite provision was made for its future development.

A survey was made of the settlement of Ile-à-la-Crosse, in tp. 74-13-3. Squatters have been in occupation of small parcels of land at this point for many years and have built houses and made other improvements. Several transfers of properties have already been made and the purpose of the survey is to facilitate further transfers and to enable the department to deal with the claims of the squatters and to issue patents or leases for their lands.

Additional subdivision was also made of villa lots at Waterton lakes, in section 23, tp. 1-30-4.

MINERAL CLAIMS

The discovery of gold-bearing quartz in the Rice lake district, east of lake Winnipeg, several years ago has developed a mining activity that has resulted in the survey of over fifty claims during the year. The next largest group of claims surveyed was north of Beaver or Amisk lake in northern Saskatchewan near Manitoba. Other claims were surveyed in the railway belt of British Columbia and in the Yukon Territory, the total number of claims submitted from all sources being ninety-two.

CONTROL OF SURVEYS

(A. M. Narraway, D.L.S., Controller of Surveys)

The Controller of Surveys left Ottawa on May 24 to undertake supervision of field work and proceeded at once to Edmonton where he attended to miscellaneous matters in connection with organization and the work of several parties.

He then proceeded to the Porcupine forest reserve where subdivision surveys were being carried on by three parties. These parties were subdividing lands recently withdrawn from the reserve for soldier settlement. A short distance east of there, at Roscoe, a land classification party was inspected. From there Mr. Narraway proceeded to Manitoba where three other parties were visited. This was followed by a trip to Edmonton with transaction of survey business en route, and then by a second visit to the surveys in the Porcupine forest reserve in connection with the opening of part of these lands for soldier settlement.

Four regular parties were engaged on the revision of sectional sheets and for the purpose of obtaining uniformity in the information collected and settling certain points in question a conference was held between Mr. Narraway and the chiefs of these parties at Biggar on July 19, 20, and 21. This was of great benefit in co-ordinating the work of these parties and placing their operations on a sound basis.

The parties in central Alberta were next visited and several in Saskatchewan and Manitoba. The latter part of August and the first of September was spent at the head office making preparations for the winter work, etc. The remainder of the season was occupied in arranging for winter repairs and storage of cars and other equipment, and in visiting parties. In addition, data was obtained concerning areas of land suitable for clearing by controlled fires the following year.

Throughout the season Mr. Narraway was assisted in his general work by Mr. T. H. Bartley, D.L.S., Assistant Controller of Surveys, and in the operations in the Porcupine forest reserve by Mr. T. A. McElhanney, D.L.S., Assistant Controller of Surveys.

During the winter months the usual duties were attended to and in addition special reports and other information were prepared for the Soldier Settlement Board.

(G. J. Lonergan, D.L.S., Inspector of Surveys)

The inspector left Ottawa for Edmonton on March 31 for the purpose of conducting experiments in clearing brule and scrub lands by means of controlled fires. The area selected for the experiment was situated in township 76, range 21, west of the Fifth meridian, about ten miles from the town of McLennan, to which place he proceeded on April 14. Successful firing operations were completed on May 26, when the inspector returned to Edmonton and was engaged on writing reports and assisting surveyors to organize their transport.

On June 5 the inspection of survey parties was commenced and during the season thirteen parties were visited. This is a smaller number than was inspected other years and was due to the inspector devoting much attention to those surveyors who were working in bush country, so as to obtain information regarding firing operations for the next spring. This involved much travelling owing to the parties being scattered over a wide area and being located at considerable distances from the railways.

At the close of survey operations in the field the inspector visited the various places where horses were being wintered and examined all horses with a view to discarding worn-out and useless animals. On completion of this inspection he returned to Ottawa on November 15 and was engaged during the winter making reports and preparing plans of the firing operations contemplated for the following spring.

Alberta and British Columbia Boundary

The method employed for the continuation of the survey of the Alberta and British Columbia boundary was similar to that of last year, Mr. Cautley defining the boundary in the Pouce-Coupé district, and Mr. A. O. Wheeler locating the line in the mountain passes from the east boundary of tp. 35-24-5 to a point about a mile north of Fortress lake in tp. 40-27-5. Work by the photographic party in the passes was commenced on June 10. Transportation was carried on with pack-horses from the supply base at Lake Louise as no nearer base could be secured. Travel was by means of saddle-horses, which were also used to cross the hundreds of river channels, many of which would otherwise mean swimming for the men.

The survey of the boundary in the Peace River district was continued on account of the rapid settlement taking place there. The line was extended southerly through township 74 and then northerly from township 77 to township 84. Work was begun in township 74 on June 20 and finished on July 5. The northerly part was commenced on July 9 and continued until October 4.

About forty-eight miles of the boundary were surveyed exclusive of connections with former surveys and fifty concrete monuments were built. Direct and check levels were taken on all the line except where it would hinder the progress of survey in the rough country near the rivers. Where the boundary crosses Peace river it would have been necessary to cut out a special line for some miles through heavy bush to permit of levels being taken. The elevation was therefore carried across the river by trigonometric levelling and tied into the bench-marks on the twenty-first and twenty-second base lines.

PART II—OFFICE WORK

SUPERVISION OF FIELD WORK AND ACCOUNTS DIVISION

The work of this division showed a decided increase over that of the year 1918-19. In the month of January, 1919, the estimates were prepared and as they provided for more extensive field activities the office work increased accordingly. The most noticeable increase was in the number of requests for surveys, which jumped from one hundred and twenty in 1918 to two hundred and fifty-seven in 1919. These requests were all investigated as well as two hundred and twenty-six others which it was not found possible to make in previous years; the findings in each case were tabulated and filed for record. Two hundred and fifty-six instructions for surveys were drafted and submitted for approval of the Surveyor General before issuing to the surveyors in the field.

A close study was continued throughout the year of the trend of settlement, the discovery and development of mineral districts, and of the survey needs of the western provinces with a view to an intelligent preparation of a practical and economic scheme of surveys and of the parliamentary estimates.

The number of applications received to fill the positions of chief of party, assistant, articled pupil, and leveller was forty-six, an increase of only one.

Sixty-three accounts for expenditure in the field in connection with Dominion land surveys were received, examined, and passed for the approval of the Surveyor General. Six hundred additional accounts for the general expenses of the branch were examined and audited. The total expenditure involved was approximately $700,000.

The survey equipment owned by this branch is valued at approximately $85,000. A complete record of the distribution of this equipment in the spring to the various parties was made out and filed; in the fall, upon the close of field operations, the return of equipment by each surveyor was checked and statements prepared showing the place of storage, past service, and present condition or state of repair for each article. The outfits include two hundred and twenty horses and twenty-eight motor-cars and trucks, besides wagons, harness, and other articles necessary for transportation purposes. The proper supervision of this equipment involved extensive correspondence.

The clerical staff of the division kept attendance and leave of absence records and attended to the distribution of the pay cheques for the entire head office staff of the branch, which comprises one hundred and eighty-six employees. In addition they recorded the attendance of the field staff when employed at office work in Ottawa.

In all 5,800 draft letters and memoranda were prepared in this division.

SURVEYS INFORMATION DIVISION

The work carried on in this division of the office consists in general of the preparation of plans, sketches, and maps for the instruction of the chiefs of survey parties in the field, the dealing with technical correspondence relating to surveys, the registering of all returns furnished by the surveyors, the editing of the annual report of the branch, and of other special reports, and other miscellaneous technical work.

In the early days of the West when land was cheap and plentiful and very little fencing was done, the settlers were not greatly concerned over the boundaries of their lands. With the increase in population, however, land has become much more valuable, and boundary lines, especially within the more thickly settled districts, are now a very vital matter. Hence the volume of inquiries with reference to surveyed boundary lines, monuments lost or out of place, etc., keeps increasing from year to year. Last year showed a considerable increase over the previous ones.

Each year also the surveys are becoming more complex so that the work of preparing the plans and sketches for the instruction of the surveyors becomes increasingly difficult and complicated. During the past year more than 3,000 of these plans were prepared.

The amount of other parts of the regular work of the division was about the same as the previous year.

The only new work undertaken was in connection with the final settlement of the Hudson's Bay Company's land claims. By the Deed of Surrender of 1870 the company was allowed one-twentieth of all land set out for settlement during the fifty years following the acceptance of the surrender within what was then known as the "fertile belt." The expiration of that period came in 1920 and in that connection this division undertook the work of determining accurately the area surveyed in each township within the "belt". This entailed a thorough examination of the plans of about 1,600 townships.

EXAMINATION OF SURVEY RETURNS DIVISION

Owing to the decreased program of surveys in the field none of the stadia surveyors was required to assist in the preparation of the official plans of their work, the whole being undertaken by the staff of this division for the first time since the inception of stadia investigations in 1913.

The benefit of having the original records of subdivision surveys made in the field submitted along with the office copies has fully justified the procedure, as it is only rarely that it is now necessary to refer to the surveyor for an explanation of his method of survey or of his returns.

The mapping of the survey of lakes and rivers in unsubdivided districts was done in this division by means of the Universal protractor. The careful use of this instrument produces very dependable and surprisingly accurate results and has entirely displaced the method of latitudes and departures for the plotting of these surveys. Circuits of from ten to twenty-five miles were frequently found to close within an error of 1 in 2,000, which is doubtless quite as accurate as the instrumental work in the field.

The geographical base for a map of the Rice Lake mining district east of lake Winnipeg was prepared by a member of the office staff by the use of this instrument; a similar base for the map of Flinflon Lake mining district was prepared by the surveyor who made the survey, assisted by a member of the office staff, while the plots of lakes in northern Saskatchewan were made by an assistant on the exploratory survey party.

Progress report sketches from surveyors in the field to the number of eight hundred and sixteen were received and examined. The activity in the mining districts of Manitoba has continued to increase; the returns of survey of ninety-two mineral claims were received for examination. Triplicate plans were received in many cases. Work on the delimitation of the British Columbia-Alberta boundary was continued and returns of survey of the meridian of 120 degrees longitude across townships 74 and 78 to 84 inclusive, range 13, west of the Sixth meridian, were received and examined. Provincial road plans to the number of six hundred and thirty-six, having a mileage of 1,189, were received and examined. The work of adding to each road plan already received the number under which the plan is recorded in its respective Land Titles office in the province of Saskatchewan has been completed. Twenty-four railway plans comprising 332 miles of line were examined. In several cases four or five copies of the plan were submitted for examination, the total number of plans being fifty and the gross mileage 611.

Some nine hundred and seventy-four requests for information concerning surveys from other branches of the department and from the public were dealt with, involving the preparation of two hundred and ninety-eight sketches and the calculation of the areas of 1,434 parcels of land.

DRAFTING AND PRINTING DIVISION

In other divisions of the branch returns of surveys are examined and plans compiled therefrom. The Drafting and Printing division prepares these for reproduction by carefully drawing them again so as to make a neat, clear copy. From this copy, by means of photography, a zinc plate is prepared which the lithographer uses to print an edition of the plan. The preparation of these copies constitutes the main work of the division, but other work closely related thereto is also undertaken as the staff is qualified and equipped for such work. The staff consists of draftsmen, stampers, and printers. The stampers put lettering on the bodies of plans by means of type; the printers set up the footnotes, titles, etc., for pasting on the plans.

Township Plans

These constitute the largest part of the work. During the year eight hundred and thirty-seven township plans have been prepared of which two hundred and eleven were reprints of plans formerly lithographed in colours and of which the editions thus printed had become exhausted. The old system of lithographing was from stone and as the stones are costly and bulky it was impracticable to keep them for reprinting. Therefore when an edition of the old plans becomes exhausted it is necessary to make a new copy of the black for photographing. As this original is now preserved the printing of a future supply is simply a matter of photographing again to reproduce the black and making up the colours by lithography in the usual way.

Miscellaneous Surveys

These comprise all irregular surveys of Dominion lands such as settlements, Indian reserves, timber berths, villa lots, subdivisions and townsites; seven such plans were dealt with. Three maps to show the results of soil surveys by as many different survey parties were also prepared. The areas mapped were in the Peace River district, the Porcupine and Pasquia forest reserves, and in the district lying west of lakes Winnipegosis and Manitoba.

Mounting Plans and Maps

All plans and maps subject to much hard use soon become torn, even when printed upon the best quality of paper. To make them wear longer many of them are mounted upon cotton. The maps used by surveyors in the field are frequently mounted in sections so as to fold to fit the pocket. Maps and plans to the number of one hundred and fifty-three were mounted.

Topographical Maps

There has been under consideration the publication of a series of topographical maps of uniform scale and size of sheet, laid out in regular fashion so that sheets may be indexed. This series would embrace all areas regarding which sufficient data have been collected by surveyors employed by the Topographical Surveys Branch.

Miscellaneous Jobs

Next to township plans these are the most numerous. Under this heading may be noted five astronomical field tables, three maps to accompany Orders in Council, forty-five special editions of plans to accompany patents, eleven commissions and certificates for the Board of Examiners for Dominion Land Surveyors, seventy-three printing jobs consisting of small editions of forms, letters, etc., for office use, and one hundred and thirty-three other jobs of various kinds.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 25a

A New Dotting Pen

Of interest to surveyors is a new dotting pen invented by Mr. W. A. Birchall, of the Topographical Surveys drafting staff. This pen depends on a principle entirely new in dotting pens, the dots being produced on exactly the same principle by which dots are made from type or brass rule by the ordinary printing press. Type ink is distributed evenly on a plate glass slab by means of a small composition roller. The pen itself has a very small roller of similar composition which swings on an arm to two positions. When in the first position it is rolled over the ink already distributed on the slab, thereby receiving on its surface a thin coating of ink. The roller is then swung into the second position where it is held by a small spring so as to lightly touch the teeth of a small dotting wheel. The teeth of this wheel pick up the ink and transfer it to the drafting paper giving the required dotted line. By varying the character of the teeth on the dotting wheel, which is done by providing different wheels, an almost endless variety of dotted lines may be obtained. In addition, continuous lines can be drawn to represent different classes of roads, or two parallel lines can be laid down with cross ties to represent railroads. In operation the pen is held against a straight-edge or curved guide. As the dotting wheel is small, it operates quite freely around curves.

The pen has been used for some time by Mr. Birchall, more particularly in the drawing of the revised sectional maps of the West now being undertaken. On these the dotted lines representing section and quarter-section lines, and lines representing the different classes of roads, telegraph, and telephone lines, steam and electric railroads, as well as combinations of railroads, telegraph lines and telephone lines, have all been put down by this pen.

A patent has been taken out by a firm of instrument-makers who are putting the pen on the market. As pointed out above, the pen uses printers' type ink, necessitating the use of a slab and auxiliary roller for spreading the ink evenly. The inventor is working at the perfection of a felt roller suitable for use with an ink similar to that in use for the ordinary rubber stamp. With the adoption of this roller Mr. Birchall hopes to be able to eliminate the auxiliary roller and inking slab, and to be able to do more lines with one inking of the roller. In fact, it is thought that for ordinary work one inking of the felt roller may do for weeks.

SECTIONAL MAP DIVISION

Compiling

Until the present year the compilation of sectional maps has consisted of,—

1. Gathering information from plans, sketches, and reports of surveyors sent out by the branch on subdivision, base line and other surveys, and from maps and plans published by other branches of the Department of the Interior and also by other departments.
2. Reducing all plans to the common scale of two miles to one inch.
3. Transferring all information to accurate projections.

The "rough plans" thus prepared were photo-zincographed and prints made in light blue, which were used as bases for contours and also for the finished drawings.

Nine sheets were compiled by this method during the year and two others are in hand.

One of the defects of the maps produced in this way has been the lack of information about roads and trails, and it was realized that the only way to get this information was to send out survey parties to travel over the country covered by the maps which it was proposed to revise, and to classify the roads into four classes according to a prearranged standard. These parties would also note the positions of streams within the sections, bridges, houses and other buildings, wooded areas, telegraph and telephone lines, etc., and in addition would take numerous aneroid barometer readings with a view to working out contours for the sheets on their return to the office at the close of the season.

Five sheets were chosen for investigation in this way during the season of 1919, and on the return of the surveyors from the field in the fall, the compiling staff aided them in preparing revised plans of the districts investigated showing all information.

Surveyors' returns consisting of one hundred and fifty-three field books, thirty-four general reports, and 1,426 plots, sketches, and plans were examined with a view to preventing the duplication of names of topographical features, eliminating unsuitable names, and establishing spellings as approved by the rules of the Geographic Board.

Surveyors employed in the revision of sectional maps require with their instructions copies of the township plans covering the areas to be investigated. These plans must be brought up to date by the addition, by hand, of all surveys of roads, railroads, and water areas made since the last editions of the township plans were printed. The addition of this information to about 850 townships plans covering seven sectional maps was in hand at the close of the year.

Additional work included the drafting of letters to surveyors in regard to place-names, and to railway officials and others to secure information for sectional maps. A number of odd jobs in compiling and checking of maps were also undertaken.

Mapping

During the past year the general style of the sectional maps has been revised to comply as nearly as practicable with the regulations of the International Map Committee, and also to add more information useful to the public. Roads are being shown in four classes, according to their condition; isolated buildings are also being shown and their characters distinguished by symbols; these and several other items of useful information entail additional colours and the making of separate drawings for each colour.

The stamping of names that was adopted last year has proved satisfactory and is being continued, and the same method is being applied to the use of conventional symbols.

A great saving of time has been effected by the use of an improvement on dotting-wheels invented by Mr. W. A. Birchall of this branch, a description of which is given on page 33 of this report.

In addition to the sectional map work, the manuscript drawings of the additional portions of the boundary between the provinces of Alberta and British Columbia were completed for printing.

SPECIAL SURVEYS DIVISION

Governing Surveys

The only new surveys of governing lines made during the past year in addition to the establishment of a portion of the British Columbia-Alberta boundary were a few miles of the Manitoba-Saskatchewan boundary and a base closing.

Retracement of Governing Surveys.—As a result of the differences of latitude between the positions of monuments on the Principal meridian and those of corresponding monuments on the Second meridian, all lines closing on the Second meridian from the east carry deflections ranging from five to twenty-three chains. These surveys were made between 1870 and 1882 when the regulations provided that the bearings of all lines should be recorded as north, south, east, or west. The true bearings of these closing lines, with a few exceptions, are therefore unrecorded, and the difficulty of determining how the lines are on the ground necessitated some retracement. Correction lines as far north as township 10 have been retraced through two, or in some cases three ranges immediately east of the Second meridian.

Base line closings along the Second meridian south of township 32 have indicated that the chainage along this portion of the meridian is long. That this is so is further indicated by a tie to the North American Datum system at the international boundary. A retracement of the Second meridian from the international boundary to township 24 was begun.

Revision of Sectional Maps

It has been felt for some time that our sectional maps might be very much improved and their usefulness very materially enhanced by the addition of information obtainable at small extra expense. During the past season some parties have been engaged in the field in procuring additional information respecting roads, buildings, improvements, elevations, and other topographical features for the purpose of converting our sectional sheets into topographical maps. Instructions for this work were prepared in this division.

Control elevations for the necessary topographic work were provided principally from the records of the level work of this branch and from the railway profiles. The railway profiles when adjusted to mean sea-level datum provide the elevations of all road crossings and natural features along the railways; this work alone entailed the searching of records and the examination of railway plans and profiles over more than 3,200 miles of line. Besides the above, use was made of the levels run by the Geodetic Survey, the Reclamation Service, and the different provincial and municipal authorities.

In this way each surveyor was provided by the office with a very large number of known elevations which enabled him to dispense largely with the necessity for running spirit-levels and to rely upon his barometers, controlling them by very frequent checks upon known elevations.

Astronomical Work

Astronomical Field Tables.—The four sets of tables for the position of Polaris and the table giving the right ascension and declination of the sun were computed and printed as usual. Two of the former give the azimuth of Polaris for every twentieth township, while the other two give it for every second degree of latitude up to 56 degrees. The periods covered by these tables are:—

October 9 to December 19, 1920.

August 19 to October 11, 1921.

June 9 to August 24, 1922.

and

December 20, 1920, to March 14, 1921.

March 13 to June 8, 1922.

Magnetic Surveys

During the past season some thirty-five surveyors were instructed to observe for magnetic declination, and each surveyor was supplied with a list of stations founded previously in the neighbourhood of his work at which repeat observations might be made. Some nine hundred declination observations, including about fifty repeat observations, were obtained during the season. On the surveys of R. C. Purser, D.L.S., and G. H. Blanchet, D.L.S., observations for magnetic dip and total force were taken at twenty stations, including three repeat stations founded by the Carnegie Institution of Washington and the Topographical Surveys Branch.

These observations for magnetic dip and force with the results obtained from the repeat observations, and the repeat observations obtained at some sixty declination repeat stations taken during 1918 will appear in the Journal of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada.

All observations for declination, dip, and force have been reduced to International Magnetic Standard by direct comparison at the beginning and end of the season with the magnetic standards at the Magnetic Observatory, Agincourt, by courtesy of the Director of the Meteorological Service of Canada. The declination observations have been reduced to mean of month by direct comparison with the continuous declination magnetograms of the Magnetic Observatory at Meanook, Alberta, supplied by the Director of the Meteorological Service of Canada.

Considerable progress has been made in compiling a catalogue of magnetic observations made by this branch, which will be issued in monograph form.

A study covering deviation of magnetic declination in Western Canada has been made in an endeavour to correlate the magnetic deviation and the variation of geologic formations. A short abstract will appear in the Journal of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada.

Several hundred magnetic maps were distributed to applicants during the season, and many questions on magnetic subjects were answered for correspondents.

Considerable work in secular variation, deviations, disturbances, etc., has been accomplished.

Surveying Instruments

Repairs were made to sixty-nine transits, twenty-five levels, eight level rods, twenty-six aneroid barometers, ten kodaks, twenty-two instrument cases, eight tripods, and twenty-three miscellaneous instruments. Eleven siderial watches were overhauled and readjusted.

In connection with the inspection of instruments and outfitting of surveyors, two hundred and ninety-one cases aggregating seven tons (13,872 pounds) were shipped from this office, and two hundred and twenty-one cases weighing 12,374 pounds received.

A statement of instruments on hand on March 31, 1920, showing also the instruments purchased and sold during the year is given in appendix No. 5 to this report.

Miscellaneous Work

Engraved brass plates for concrete monuments were supplied for the Alberta-British Columbia interprovincial boundary survey as in previous years; also samples of our survey posts in different stages of manufacture were supplied to the Department of Lands, Forests, and Mines of Ontario, and the Department of Public Works of Manitoba, together with an explanation of various points in connection therewith.

A new nomogram was designed and published entitled "Nomogram showing Duration of Sunlight for Every Day in the Year for all Places between Latitudes 25° N. and 60° N.," which supersedes the one previously published extending from 40° to 60° N. An explanation and discussion of this kind of nomogram was published by this branch in the Journal of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, 1919.

A nomogram was designed and published entitled, "Nomogram for Use in Sunlight Engineering showing Azimuth and Length of Shadow for Any Time of Day for Any Day in the Year for Any Latitude."

The two above nomograms were distributed to members of the Canadian Town Planning Institute and other interested parties.

A nomogram was designed entitled, "Nomogram for Calculating Latitudes and Departures, giving Both Distances with One Setting of the Straight-Edge".

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 25a

A pamphlet entitled "Notes on Soils" was published, covering matter relevant to the soil survey being carried on by this branch.

SURVEYS LABORATORY

In previous reports attention has been drawn to the serious congestion, due to lack of space, at the Surveys Laboratory, which has greatly hampered the efficient performance of the testing and other work. Fortunately the opportunity recently presented itself of taking over some rooms in the building next door to the laboratory. It is intended to transfer the aneroid testing appliances to one of the new rooms which will be used exclusively for this important branch of the work. Another room will be devoted to thermometer testing and office space. The following is a short account of the work accomplished by the various sections in the period covered by this report.

Metrology

The base has been verified thirty-six times with the 4^m rule and the laboratory standard tapes and wires were compared with the base two hundred and thirteen and seventy-two times respectively. The long delayed 1^m invar rule arrived during the summer of 1919. Owing to the nature of invar and the unknown conditions to which the rule had been exposed in transit from France after its standardization at the International Bureau of Weights and Measures, it was deemed advisable to have the length of the rule verified at the Bureau of Standards, Washington, by comparison with the United States platinum iridium prototype metre. This test was made, the rule being taken to and from Washington by one of the staff in order to avoid shocks or other adverse treatment during the journey. Twelve comparisons of the 4^m rule with the 1^m rule were made. The length of the 4^m rule thus determined confirmed, within the limits of error previously considered probable, the length obtained from the verification of the standard tapes sent to Washington in previous years.

In anticipation of the arrival of the 1^m nickel and 1^m forty-two per cent nickel-steel rules on order, designs have been prepared and construction started on a new one-metre comparator. This comparator is necessary in order that the various rules may be studied and compared among themselves. It is also designed so that when completed, besides being used for the comparison of the lengths of two rules, absolute determinations of the coefficients of expansion of the rules can be made with it.

The lengths and weights of thirty tapes of all kinds were determined and twelve precise level rods and one sounding gauge were tested.

Transits, Levels, Etc.

Tests were made of ninety D.L.S. transits, forty-five levels, thirty-eight compasses, one hundred and thirty-five aneroid barometers, six surveying cameras, forty-three watches, eleven Abney levels, four stormographs, twelve telescopes, and two binoculars.

Thermometers

Further additions have been made to this section which is now equipped for the complete study and testing of thermometers in the range 0°C. to 350°C. to the highest limits of precision. An electrical resistance thermometer has been obtained which forms an important addition to the laboratory standards. The hypsometer has been received and set up and drawings were prepared for a high temperature, oil bath comparator of original design. This piece of apparatus is now constructed and it is hoped will soon be installed in the new room previously mentioned, which will house the thermometer testing section. A bulletin has been prepared and is now nearly ready for publication describing the tests conducted by this section.

Aneroids

The aneroid section has been fully employed during most of the year. Besides instruments for the Topographical Surveys Branch, a large number of aneroids were received for test and adjustment from other sources. In particular, a large amount of time was spent on testing and adjusting the aneroids of the Geodetic Survey of Canada. The results obtained with aneroids in the field amply justified the advantage of employing instruments carefully tested and adjusted, the constants of which were known. The policy of buying on approval was also proven to be founded on a sound basis. All aneroids are now purchased on condition that they will pass the laboratory tests, and the standard of the instruments issued to surveyors is thus maintained at a high level.

Watches

Further experiments have been devoted to the development of the short test. This test was used exclusively for the forty-three watches tested during the year. It was found that by suitably choosing the tolerances that the short test gave a reliable indication of the performance of the watch, with a great saving of the time taken up by the test. The whole test occupies only twenty days, the watch being rated two days in each of the five positions and at the three temperatures; an isochronism test is also included. This short test should be of immense service to interested parties who desire to know the qualities of watches purchased or in use by them.

Of the forty-three watches tested, ten, that is twenty-three per cent, passed.

PHOTOGRAPHIC OFFICE

During the year eight hundred and fifty photographic plates furnished by surveyors engaged on photo-topographical surveys were developed by the staff of general photographers. From the negatives, plotting enlargements were made and in addition two sets of contact prints which were mounted in albums and indexed.

An increase over the previous year in the number of films developed and contact prints made was due to the more general use of the small-size pocket kodak by surveyors in the field. All negatives were indexed and one set of prints mounted in albums for office use. Extra prints as required were furnished to the surveyors for the purpose of illustrating their general reports. A marked improvement is noted in the quality of the photographs taken by surveyors during the past season.

The staff of the photo-mechanical plant returned to more nearly a normal basis, one member resuming his duties after service overseas, and two apprentices having gained more experience and a more practical knowledge of the work. As a result the demands of the other divisions of the branch were more adequately met than was possible during the previous year.

The work of this branch of the office shows an increase over the previous year particularly in the output of photo-lithographic plates. The number of Vandyke and blueprints is considerably in excess of that turned out in any previous year owing chiefly to the number of blueprints of various maps, plans, etc., required for comparison with originals or rough copies prior to the making of the photo-lithographic plates.

Details and figures of the work executed are given in appendix No. 4.

LITHOGRAPHIC OFFICE

The main purpose of this division is to print township plans and sectional maps, but advantage is taken of its existence for printing numerous forms used on the surveys and at head office, the index map, skeleton forms to be inked in by draftsmen, a few topographical maps and general lithographic work for other branches and departments.

The numbers of township plans and sectional maps printed show increases of thirty-eight and thirty-one per cent respectively as compared with the previous year while, due to decreased production and a maximum reduction in the number of copies of small forms printed during the previous year, the stocks of which became depleted, the number of sundry jobs was increased three hundred and five per cent.

The estimated cost of this work for the last two years at Printing Bureau rates, or what it would have cost the Government to have the work done through the Bureau, is shown in the following table:—

ITEM	Number Printed		Cost at Bureau Rates
	1918-19	1919-20	1918-19	1919-20
			$ cts.	$ cts.
Township plans	736	1,020	22,619 50	42,251 42
Sectional maps	57	75	4,575 30	4,338 79
Sundry jobs	232	940	10,963 71	24,230 60
	1,025	2,035	38,158 51	70,820 81

Adding to this the cost of the paper and percentage for handling allowed by the Bureau ($4,174.45 and $6,125.80) would give totals of $42,332.96 and $76,946.61 respectively.

In calculating the actual cost to the department for maintenance of this division, it is necessary to take into account not only the actual payments by the department for salaries, materials, etc., but also general overhead expenses, such as rent, light, power, heat, cleaning, etc. An allowance must also be made for depreciation of the plant and interest on its value, also for fire insurance. The cost comes out as follows:

	1918-19	1919-20
	$ cts.	$ cts.
Process Photographers—
Chemicals, glass, stationery, etc	1,235 72	1,260 86

Interest and depreciation	2,772 61	2,772 61
Insurance	60 07	60 07
Wages	13,178 12	13,642 27
Total	24,056 44	23,527 28
SUMMARY
Process photographers	7,499 91	9,044 59
Lithographers	24,056 44	23,527 28
Total	31,556 35	32,571 87
Value of work at Bureau rates	42,332 96	76,946 61
Saving	10,776 61	44,374 74

It might be inferred from this large saving that the Printing Bureau pays too much to lithographic firms for their work and that their rates are too high, but diligent inquiry has shown that such is not the case. The Printing Bureau rates are, if anything, below the average commercial rates. The success of the Surveys' lithographic plant is due to efficiency of organization and the perfection of an equipment specially adapted to a restricted class of printing.

GEOGRAPHIC BOARD

The Geographic Board, of which the secretary is an officer of the Department of the Interior, published its sixteenth report containing the decisions between April 1, 1917, and March 31, 1919. The report is a supplement to the fifteenth report issued in 1917, which contained all decisions from the inauguration of the board to March 31, 1917.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS FOR DOMINION LAND SURVEYORS

The Board of Examiners for Dominion Land Surveyors held four meetings.

The first was a special meeting lasting from April 28, 1919, to May 15, 1919 (inclusive), during which examinations were held at Ottawa and Winnipeg, the second was a special meeting lasting from August 20, 1919, to September 1, 1919, and the third was a special meeting held on October 28, 1919. The fourth was the regular annual meeting called for by section 9 of the Dominion Lands Surveys Act. It began on Monday, February 9, 1920, and lasted until March 12, 1920. During this meeting examinations were held at Ottawa, Calgary, and Edmonton.

The total number of candidates who presented themselves at the examinations was forty-eight. Of these, eleven tried the full preliminary examination, sixteen tried the final examination, twenty tried the leveller's examination, and one tried the examination for Dominion topographical surveyors.

Four candidates were successful at the full preliminary examination, as follows:—

Currie, Percival Norman Wallace, Montreal, Que.
Forward, Francis Arthur, Ottawa, Ont.
Paterson, David Roy, Ottawa, Ont.
Roberts, Stanley Oxley, Ottawa, Ont.

Nine candidates were successful at the final examination as follows:—

Bannister, George William, Ottawa, Ont.
Biddell, Cecil Henry, Winnipeg, Man.
Bradley, Nicholas Hilburn, Calgary, Alta.
Calder, Leslie Raymond, Calgary, Alta.
Coughlan, John Q., Ottawa, Ont.
Gordon, Samuel Heber, Ottawa, Ont.
Robertson, Douglas Mills, Edmonton, Alta.
Sharpe, David Neville, Winnipeg, Man.
Van Patter, Hugh Stanley, Ottawa, Ont.

Nine candidates were successful at the leveller's examination as follows:—

Blair, Stanley Martin, Edmonton, Alta.
Carmichael, Harvey, Edmonton, Alta.
Hunter, Eldred T., Edmonton, Alta.
Jaffray, Stuart King, Edmonton, Alta.

Jarrett, George Sinclair, Edmonton, Alta.
McDonald, William Leslie, Edmonton, Alta.
McLeod, Donald, Edmonton, Alta.
Reid, Charles D., Edmonton, Alta.
Webb, Henry Randall, Edmonton, Alta.

One candidate was successful at the examination for Dominion topographical surveyors, namely:

Ratz, John Earl, Ottawa, Ont.

The time of the board during the meetings was largely taken up with the reading and valuation of the candidates' answer papers. The board was also occupied in framing amendments to the Dominion Lands Surveys Act and the Rules and Regulations of the Board of Examiners for Dominion Land Surveyors. A new program of subjects was drawn up and the respective text books for their preparation selected and recommended. Complete sets of question papers to be used at the following examination were also prepared. In addition to this the evidence submitted by candidates at the final examination in proof of their eligibility therefor had to be examined. This evidence consisted of certificates of provincial land surveyors and of affidavits of service under articles of apprenticeship.

Twelve commissions were issued to candidates who had passed the final examination and had furnished oaths of office and allegiance, and bonds for the sum of one thousand dollars as required by section 25 of the Dominion Lands Surveys Act.

Five certificates of preliminary examination were issued to successful candidates who had complied with the requirements of the law.

One certificate of Dominion topographical surveyor was issued to a candidate who had successfully passed the examination and complied with the requirements of the law.

Nine certificates as levellers were issued to candidates who had successfully passed the examination.

Section 35 of the Dominion Lands Surveys Act provides that every Dominion land surveyor shall be in possession of a subsidiary standard of length and that such standards are to be tested by the department at least once every four years. During the year nine new standards were issued to surveyors, and one new measure which had previously been supplied was tested by the department.

A new edition of the rules and regulations was prepared during the year. This new edition (tenth) contains many changes both in the regulations and subjects of the different examinations.

Examinations for levellers are now conducted under the jurisdiction of the board and levellers' certificates are issued by its direction.

APPENDIX No. 2

SCHEDULE of surveyors employed and work executed by them:—

Akins, J. R., Ottawa, Ontario—
Topographical mapping surveys for the revision of the Blackfoot sectional map, comprising townships 17 to 24, ranges 16 to 30 west of the Fourth meridian.

Alexander, J. B., Calgary, Alberta—
Levelling along the 7th base line from range 14 west of the Second meridian to the Fourth meridian; along the 7th base from range 12 to range 29 west of the Fourth meridian, 371 miles.

Bennett, G. A., Tillsonburg, Ontario—
Stadia surveys in tp. 15-19-Pr.; tps. 9 to 16-20-Pr.; tps. 9 to 16-21-Pr.; tps. 9 to 17-22-Pr.; tps. 9 to 17-23-Pr.; tps. 9 to 16-24-Pr.; tps. 9 to 16-25-Pr.; tps. 9 to 16-26-Pr.; tps. 9 to 16-27-Pr.; tps. 9 to 16-28-Pr.; tps. 9 to 16-29-Pr.; tps. 15 and 16-32-Pr.; tps. 14 to 16-33-Pr.; tps. 13 and 14-34-Pr.; tps. 13 to 16-1-2; tps. 13 to 16-2-2; tps. 13 to 17-3-2; tps. 13 to 16-4-2; tps. 13 to 16-5-2; tps. 15 and 16-6-2.

Berry, E. W., Meaford, Ontario—
Precise levelling along Canadian Pacific railway from Assiniboia to Moose Jaw, 68 miles. Levelling along 4th base line across ranges 7 to 28 west of the Second meridian, 132 miles.

Blanchet, G. H., Ottawa, Ontario—
Exploration and traverse of larger lakes and rivers of the district between Montreal lake and Ile-à-la-Crosse lake. Investigation of Dillon river valley. Location of the road from Big River to the Grand rapids on Beaver river; colonization road from La-Plonge to Big River; Montreal road from Montreal lake to Prince Albert.

Boulton, W. J., Wallaceburg, Ontario—
Topographical mapping survey for the revision of the Saskatoon sectional map, comprising townships 33 to 40 ranges 1 to 14 west of the Third meridian. Miscellaneous surveys in tp. 39-1-3 and tp. 40-14-3.

Bowman, E. P., West Montrose, Ontario—
Subdivision in Porcupine forest reserve of portions of tps. 43 and 44-2-2; tps. 43 and 44-3-2; tps. 41 to 44-8-2; tps. 43 and 44-9-2.

Brenot, L., Ottawa, Ontario—
Investigation of sixty-nine townships for soldier settlement purposes between Peace and Whitemud rivers west of the town of Peace River; also twenty-seven townships west of Grande Prairie settlement.

Bridgland, M. P., Calgary, Alberta—
Photo-topographical survey of the north part of Bow River forest reserve and the south part of Clearwater forest reserve.

Buchanan, J. A., Edmonton, Alberta—
Retracement of school lands in tps. 44 to 47-23-4; tps. 46 and 47-24-4; tps. 46 and 47-25-4; tps. 45 to 47-26-4; tps. 45 and 47-27-4; tp. 47-28-4. Subdivision in tp. 50-27-5.

Cautley, R. W., Edmonton, Alberta—
Survey of the 120th meridian (Interprovincial Boundary) through townships 74 and 78 to 84.

Christie, W., Prince Albert, Saskatchewan—
Investigation of lands for general settlement in sixty townships along the Canadian Northern railway westerly from Hudson Bay Junction.

Cote, J. M., Ottawa, Ontario—
Investigation and retracement of school lands in tp. 14-7-3; tps. 12 to 15, 17 and 18-12-3; tps. 12 to 14, 17 and 18-13-3; tps. 10, 12 to 15, 17 and 18-14-3.

Cowper, G. C., Ottawa, Ontario—

DEPUTY SUPERINTENDENT GENERAL OF INDIAN AFFAIRS

FOR THE YEAR ENDED MARCH 31, 1920.

REPORT OF THE DEPUTY SUPERINTENDENT GENERAL

OTTAWA, December 1, 1920.

Hon. Sir JAMES A. LOUGHEED, P.C., K.C.M.G., Superintendent General of Indian Affairs,
Ottawa.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit the report of the Department of Indian Affairs for the year ended March 31, 1920.

THE INDIANS OF CANADA

After a hundred years of civilization the Canadian Indian is a difficult subject to treat within the limit of a brief report. His vocations are so varied, his dwelling-places are scattered so about the broad Dominion that no generalities will serve; a positive statement here becomes a negative there; each fact requires a qualification. Asked to describe a Canadian Indian, one mibht choose between a medical graduate of McGill University, practising his profession with all the authority of the faculty, or a solitary hunter, making the round of his traps in the remote north country. Each portrait might be drawn to the life, the difference would be absolute, both would be truthful.

It may be conceded that the typical Canadian Indian is the hunter and trapper, and, when one thinks of him, buckskins and beadwork and feathers are still cloaking him with a sort of romance. But these are rarely seen, except in pageants and on holidays when the superior race must be amused by a glimpse of real savages in war-paint. The Indian hunter and trapper follows the craft of his ancestors, clothed in the same manner as other people; his wife and children likewise. His domestic surroundings grow less and less savage. The rabbit-skin robe yet holds its own, and the snowshoe; but the birch-bark canoe is supplanted by the basswood or cedar variety; as likely as not he has a sewing-machine and a gramophone in his tent. The aboriginal hunter is supreme no longer in his own craft; gone is the fiction that he is superior in these pursuits. The white man equals him as a trapper, and holds his own on the trail and in the canoe. But as the margin of the wilderness recedes, it is difficult for comparisons of this kind, to find the Indian of pure blood. There has been through all these years a great interfusion of white blood by lawful union, and by illicit intercourse; legally a man may be an Indian with but a small trace of native blood, if his Indian descent is through the male line. If an Indian woman marries a white man, she ceases to be an Indian in the eye of the law and her children take the status of their father.

Confidently it may be said that the Indian has justified the trust that the early missionaries placed in him, his mentality and temperament and constitution fitted him for progress, and he has valiantly borne the ordeal of contact with our boasted civilization. Although he has been wasted in the struggle, he has not been worsted, and the vestiges of the tribes that remain are of stronger stock as the years go by. For seventy years after the conquest of Canada, Indian administration was in the hands of the Imperial military authorities; it was not until 1845 that the responsibility was transferred to the province of Canada.

The military policy had looked upon the Indians as potential allies or foes, and, during the pioneer days, the feeling was balanced between hope and apprehension. They were kept quiet by presents of scarlet cloth, silver gorgets, brass kettles, and ammunition, with an occasional ration of rum. The fur-traders used the latter fluid as the most precious means of exchange and barter, and the restless, dejected people that were handed over to the province were indeed a problem. One Governor of Upper Canada, seeing them so wretched, resolved to send them back to nature for healing, and to remove them to hunting grounds where they might recuperate or die away unseen. But better counsels prevailed. The missionaries claimed them as material ready for evangelization, and protested that they were capable of lasting improvement. Upper and Lower Canada, not long after that, began a systematic endeavour to educate the Indians, supported by zealous missionary effort. This informal union between church and state still exists, and all Canadian Indian schools are conducted upon a joint agreement between the Government and the denominations as to finances and system. The method has proved successful, and the Indians of Ontario and Quebec, in the older regions of the provinces, are every day entering more and more into the general life of the country. They are farmers, clerks, artisans, teachers, and lumbermen. Some few have qualified as medical doctors, and surveyors; an increasing number are accepting enfranchisement and taking up the responsibilities of citizenship. Although there are reactionary elements among the best educated tribes, and stubborn paganism on the most progressive reserves, the irresistible movement is towards the goal of complete citizenship.

POPULATION

The Indian population of Canada is fairly stable at about one hundred thousand. Among the less civilized groups, the high birth rate balances the high death rate, but, in the civilized tribes, who have met and withstood the first shock of contact with civilization, there is an appreciable gain, not only in numbers, but in physical standards. These latter people have long ago proved their worth, and only need to develop and mature under protection until they, one and all, reach their destined goal, full British citizenship.

AGRICULTURE

ONTARIO

In previous reports I have outlined the manner in which the department supervises the agricultural activities of the Indians of Ontario by employing field agents who visit the various reserves and instruct the Indians in modern methods of farming. This policy has proved to be of great benefit to the farming Indians in this province. While at the reserves, the field agents make a general inspection of the schools, equipment, outbuildings, yards, etc., and also of the roads, bridges, drains, timber, and land.

Ploughing matches.—Ploughing matches have been organized at Deseronto, Muncey, Moravian, St. Regis, Sarnia, Cape Croker, and the Alnwick reserves. Prizes are given for competitions in sod in stubble for adults and for young boys. The prize winners were in some cases taken to the provincial matches at Hamilton and at Ste. Annes, Que. The ploughing matches are a decided factor in the improvement of the ploughing on the reserves where they have been held.

School Fairs.—School fairs have been organized at Six Nations, Muncey, Walpole Island, Rama, Cape Croker, Deseronto and New Credit reserves. Pure seed was furnished and also eggs to the children. The pure seed oats and potatoes supplied some time ago to the schools have already resulted in large fields of good crops.

Standing Crop Competitions.—Standing crop competitions have been organized on the Deseronto, St. Regis, Cape Croker, Moravian, Walpole Island, New Credit, Saugeen and Muncey reserves and vegetable garden competitions on the Muncey, Sarnia, Rama, Mud Lake, Rice Lake and Alnwick reserves. The crop competition is very helpful in bringing about the desired effect of better crops on the reserves, better seed is being planted, better methods of cultivation and fertilization are employed and a more determined effort on the part of the contestant to produce better results is noticeable.

Lectures in Agriculture.—During the spring a course of lectures was held on a number of the reserves. In most cases they were well attended and an interest in advanced methods of farming was evident throughout the meetings, the Indians often taking a most intelligent part in the discussions.

THE PRAIRIE PROVINCES

Nearly half a century ago the aboriginal title to the vast areas east of the Rocky mountains was extinguished by treaties; annual gifts of cash, special reserved lands, assistance in agriculture and education were promised by the Government. For a time the plains Indians had to be fed, owing to the disappearance of the buffalo, but gradually stock-raising and agriculture were introduced, and now hardly a pound of gratuitous food is issued.

Manitoba.—The following is a statement of the Indian crops this season in the province of Manitoba:—

	Acres	Bushels
Wheat	3,137	31,505
Oats	2,217	38,165
Barley	1,354	13,100
	6,708	82,760

It will be seen from the above figures that the average per acre for wheat was about 10 bushels; oats 17½ bushels, and barley 10 bushels. These averages are about equal with the yields throughout the Prairie Provinces. Early in June there was every indication of a heavy yield in this province, but the warm spell with hot winds did much damage and reduced the yield considerably.

The root crop in the province of Manitoba was fair; 266 acres of potatoes yielded 20,349 bushels; 38 acres of turnips yielded 1,031 bushels. In addition to these roots the Indians had in 39 acres of gardens.

Saskatchewan.—In the province of Saskatchewan the Indians had a large acreage sown, but, like the Indians of Manitoba, suffered considerably from drought and hot winds. This remark applies to all sections of the province.

The following crops were sown and harvested:—

	Acres	Bushels
Wheat	8,024	90,403
Oats	14,311	212,123
Barley	522	5,856
	22,857	308,382

The Indians of this province planted 61 acres of potatoes, which yielded them 8,028 bushels, 24 acres of turnips, which yielded 2,821 bushels, and in addition to this had 76 acres of gardens.

Alberta.—In Alberta the Indians fared much better than in the other two provinces, particularly those Indians living on the reserves in the southern part of Alberta, where there were periodical showers just at the most opportune times.

The following crops were sown and harvested:—

	Acres	Bushels
Wheat	9,700	155,510
Oats	6,779	142,923
Barley	611	15,027
	17,090	313,460

It will be noticed from the above figures that the yield was much higher per acre than in the other two provinces, above mentioned. The crop on the Blackfoot reserve was particularly good. The Indians of that band harvested 103,290 bushels of wheat and 24,000 bushels of oats. The crop here was a bumper one, and these Indians have never been in such good circumstances.

The Indians of the three western provinces broke 4,500 acres of land and summer-fallowed 15,735 acres, which was very satisfactory. Generally speaking, there has been a decided improvement in the class of work the Indians are doing. In addition to the work done on the land, the Indians have put up 65,550 tons of hay. A large proportion of this hay will be fed to their own stock, the balance will be sold.

The reports indicate that there will be no shortage of feed on any of the reserves in Western Canada this winter, as extra precautions were taken to see that a large quantity of feed was provided.

This year, up to the time of writing, the Indians have sold $64,000 of cattle, and it is expected that there will be a few thousand dollars' worth yet to sell. The Indians of the three provinces own 17,135 head of cattle. They should own more, and every effort is being made to substantially increase their herds. In addition to the cattle, they own 12,000 head of horses, the majority of which are of the working type. The pony is fast disappearing.

GOVERNMENT GREATER PRODUCTION FARMS ON INDIAN RESERVES

As it was found that in the Prairie Provinces there was a large area of good land on Indian reserves that had hitherto been unused, it was two years ago decided to establish Government Greater Production Farms. In order to expedite this work and utilize the services of the department's staff to the best advantage in connection therewith, Mr. W. M. Graham was appointed as commissioner for the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta. Mr. Graham has the sole charge of this work, subject to the approval of the Superintendent General. This plan of organization has been the means of placing large new areas under cultivation.

There has been harvested on these farms during the past season 378,000 bushels of wheat and oats, principally wheat. At one time it looked as if the crop would run to over 600,000 bushels, but the dry spell in Saskatchewan during the latter part of June reduced the yield considerably. Notwithstanding this, there has been a large and profitable crop. The Greater Production Farms in Alberta yielded at least three times as much per acre as did the Saskatchewan farms. On the Blackfoot reserve alone over 200,000 bushels of wheat was harvested.

In addition to the Greater Production work actually carried on by the department, lands have been leased on the reserves for the purpose of growing grain, and on these lands it is estimated that the lessees have raised about 371,000 bushels of grain.

The total amount of grain grown in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta on Indan reserves is estimated to be about 1,400,000 bushels.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Agriculture is each year taking a firmer hold among the Indians of British Columbia. As a rule the young men just out of school will not take kindly to work of any kind for a few years after attaining their freedom. But there are exceptions, and a change for the better is coming slowly but surely, and will be more rapid as time shows the success of the older men. On many reserves in the Dry Belt the limited amount of water available for irrigation purposes militates seriously against a large acreage being cultivated. Destructive insects and diseases in the orchards and crops are materially decreasing, in most instances being quite intelligently combatted by the owners who are learning to use the spramotor outfits supplied by the department to good purpose.

The number of exhibits placed by various bands in the different agricultural exhibitions is increasing yearly and steadily improving in quality. At the New Westminster exhibition the Indian exhibit and the variety and excellence of their garden products, bottled fruits, jams, bread, butter and various cakes and other samples of culinary and household art, as well as native manufactures was most creditable and beautifully put up and arranged.

MARITIME PROVINCES

There is an annual parliamentary appropriation for Nova Scotia and also for New Brunswick for the purchase of seed grain, and the encouragement of agriculture among the Indians. Assistance is also given to individual farmers where required in Prince Edward Island.

QUEBEC

The Indians living in agricultural districts in the province of Quebec are taking much greater interest in farming, especially in the Restigouche, Pointe Bleue, St. Regis, Maniwaki, and Oka agencies.

GENERAL

The following table shows an increase in the land under crop, and value of the products as compared with last year:—

INDIAN SOLDIER SETTLEMENT

There has been much activity in connection with Indian Soldier Settlement, 160 loans have been granted and there are a considerable number either authorized or under consideration. The total amount expended to date is $290,214.27, made up as follows:—

Acquiring of land	$126,723 00
Payment of encumbrances	6,685 89
Improvement of land	4,309 95
Erection of buildings	24,096 84
Purchase of live stock	45,641 64
Purchase of machinery and implements	27,322 30
Purchase of harness	4,968 19
Purchase of seed grain and provisions	14,455 44
Payment of premiums on insurance	1,981 15
Unclassified and sundry items	2,892 78

To this is added $31,136.17 of advanced cheques only partially accounted for.

It is estimated that all the loans in Canada to Indians will not exceed $1,000,000.

The department has exercised the greatest care in making these loans. Each applicant has been considered according to his merits and a loan was not granted if it was found that an applicant was unlikely to prove to be a successful farmer. Constant supervision over and inspection of work carried on by individuals was instituted with the result that only four Indians have proved unsuccessful farmers and in these instances immediate arrangements were made to have the land, implements and stock taken over by some other returned soldier without loss to the department.

The crops have, almost everywhere, been extremely good and the repayments have been more satisfactory than had been hoped for. A number of the settlers have taken advantage of the enfranchisement clause and same have turned over to the department the full amounts payable to them, thus materially reducing their loans. Repayments to date amount to $9,400, and by the time the crop is harvested it is expected that almost the full amount of instalment will be paid.

On the whole, the returned Indian soldiers who have been granted loans have worked in a most satisfactory manner and will be a credit to any community. The scheme has worked out to advantage not only to the individual but also to the other members of the band and the reserve itself. The settlers once given the opportunity to commence operations on the proper scale have demonstrated by industry and enthusiasm the benefits of modern farming operations. Others have followed their example. The result has been,—considerably increased prosperity and increase in value of the cultivated farms, as well as general increase in land values of many of the reserves.

Individual Savings.—Early during the war the department was called upon to administer the estates of Indians called overseas and to take charge of the pensions assigned pay, and separation allowances of a large number of Indians. Here again each case is considered on its merits.

The amounts paid by the Militia Department or the Board of Pension Commissioners are placed in individual savings accounts and withdrawals are made from time to time as necessary. It has been found possible in this way to effect a large saving, particularly in the cases of minor children who are maintained in departmental schools and whose pensions are funded for their future use. The net balance in this particular savings account is $38,478.54, which is more than one-third of the total individual savings held by the department.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 27

AMENDMENTS TO THE INDIAN ACT

Important amendments to the Indian Act with regard to the subject of enfranchisement and education were passed at the 1920 session of Parliament.

The amendments repealed sections 107 and 122. These clauses had been upon the statutes since 1857 and under them it was found possible to enfranchise only 65 Indian families of 102 persons since Confederation or during a period of 53 years. As the ultimate object of our Indian policy is to merge the natives in the citizenship of the country, it will be seen that these clauses were inadequate. Under these clauses, it took six years for an Indian to become enfranchised, and the applicant was wearied by this additional six years of tutelage before he was deemed fit to handle his own property and take his place among the citizens of the country.

At the session of 1918, Parliament passed an amendment to the Indian Act, which enables the Governor General in Council to enfranchise, on application, all Indians who have no land on reserves and who are willing to accept their share of the funds of the band and to give up any title to the lands on the reserve. This amendment has served to show that numbers of Indians desire to take the final step towards citizenship, as to date the department enfranchised 97 families of 258 individuals under its provisions. There is further evidence bearing in the same direction, consisting of individual applications for enfranchisement from Indians who are holders of property on reserves.

The new sections passed at the session of 1920 give the Superintendent General power to make inquiry and report from time to time as to the fitness of any Indian or Indians for enfranchisement. and they give the Governor General in Council authority, acting on such reports, to enfranchise an Indian and his wife and minor unmarried children forthwith. The clauses provide adequately for the protection of the individual interests in the lands and moneys of the band.

The amendment provides for the repeal of sections 9, 10 and 11 of the Act, and the substitution of the sections drafted. The department is thus enabled to establish a system of compulsory education at both day and residential schools. Prior to the passing of these amendments the Act did not give the Governor in Council power to make regulations enforcing the residence and attendance of Indian children at residential schools, as the department could only commit to a residential school when a day school is provided, and the child does not attend.

The recent amendments give the department control and remove from the Indian parent the responsibility for the care and education of his child, and the best interests of the Indians are promoted and fully protected. The clauses apply to every Indian child over the age of seven and under the age of fifteen.

If a day school is in effective operation, as is the case on many of the reserves in the eastern provinces, there will be no interruption of such parental sway as exists. Where a day school cannot be properly operated, the child may be assigned to the nearest available industrial or boarding school. All such schools are open to inspection and must be conducted according to a standard already in existence. A regular summer vacation is provided for, and the transportation expenses of the children are paid by the department.

EDUCATION

A total of 321 Indian schools of all classes were in operation during the year, namely, 247 day, 58 boarding, and 16 industrial. In the tabular statements in part II of this report will be found a list of these schools, giving the reserve, agency and province and the enrolment in each case.

As compared with the previous year there is a decrease of one school, which is in the day school class.

Several day schools were closed owing to lack of attendance or inability to secure teachers, while several schools in this class which had been closed for some time were reopened, and new schools started at several points.

The industrial school at Red Deer was closed from June 30, 1919, but, as it was in operation for a part of the fiscal year, it is included in the statistical statement. Operations are under way to erect a new school to replace it on a new site which has been obtained near the city of Edmonton.

The total enrolment for the year was 12,196 pupils, 6,020 boys and 6,176 girls. This, as compared with the preceding year, shows an increased enrolment of 244 pupils. There was an enrolment of 7,477 in the day schools, 3,081 in the boarding schools and 1,638 in the industrial schools.

The average attendance during the year at these three classes of schools was 7,629, which is practically the same as for the preceding year, when it was 7,532.

The percentage of attendance of the number enrolled during the year was 62·56.

In addition to the above there are about 125 Indian children, the greater number of whom are orphans, being provided for and educated in public and private residential schools throughout the Dominion, besides a number who are attending high schools.

The 321 schools, comprising day, boarding and industrial, in operation during the year, were conducted under the following auspices: Undenominational, 51 day and 1 industrial; Roman Catholic, 83 day, 32 boarding and 8 industrial; Church of England, 67 day, 16 boarding and 3 industrial; Methodist, 41 day, 3 boarding and 4 industrial; Presbyterian, 4 day and 7 boarding, and the Salvation Army, 1 day school.

The Indian schools in Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island are inspected semi-annually by the provincial, separate and public school inspectors under arrangements with the Department of Education in each province. In New Brunswick and British Columbia, Indian schools are inspected by officials appointed by the department. In Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and the Northwest Territories the schools are inspected by the inspectors for the different Indian agencies; regular visits are made and reports submitted to the department. In addition to this inspection, almost all the schools are under supervision of the different Indian agents, who are required to make monthly inspections and reports.

Qualified teachers with professional training are engaged whenever it is possible to obtain them. In the older settled portions of the different provinces the greater number of the teachers are so qualified. In the schools situated on the more remote reserves it is difficult to secure teachers with certificates. Many of our teachers who have not professional qualifications have, however, long experience and are meeting with a great measure of success in Indian school work.

Our school buildings in most cases compare favourably with white schools similarly situated, and also in the work performed in the class-room and in the equipment provided.

The course of study is that prescribed for the provincial public and separate schools and is strictly followed.

There is land for farming and gardening purposes provided at practically all the residential schools. The pupils are thus enabled to receive a general knowledge of agriculture, which should be of great benefit to them after leaving school.

The granting of assistance to graduates to encourage farming has been maintained. Upon leaving school a male ex-pupil may be given a grant of cattle, horses, implements or building material. During the past year 10 girls and 14 boys, ex-pupils, have been assisted to the extent of $3,199.28, and refunds on previous loans granted in the way of assistance to the extent of $691.25 have been received.

The expenditure on Indian education from Parliamentary Appropriation during the year amounted to $1,057,622.74. The following statement will show the expenditure for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1920, for Indian education from parliamentary appropriation:—

BUILDINGS

New Indian boarding schools have been built at Alberni, B.C., and Chapleau, Ont. A new boarding school is under course of construction at Fraser Lake, B.C. A day school is being built at Nanaimo and Sliammon, B.C. Alterations and repairs have been made to the heating systems at Old Suns and Sarcee schools. An Indian wing has been built to the Lady Minto Hospital, Cochrane. A teacher's residence has been built at Moraviantown. A horsebarn, implement shed, teachers' residence and workshop have been built in connection with the proposed new Indian boarding school at Edmonton. At Caughnawaga alterations and additions were carried out to the hospital. The schools have been repainted and a small fire-station erected.

ROADS, BRIDGES, DRAINAGE, WATERWORKS AND IRRIGATION SYSTEMS

The following is a summary of the works which have been carried out during the current year on the various Indian reserves.

ROADWORK

Repairs and improvements have been performed on main roads on the following reserves:—

Province of Ontario.—Tyendinaga, Six Nation, Sarnia, Rama and Cote.

Province of Quebec.—Caughnawaga, Abenakis and Doncaster.

Province of New Brunswick.—Tobique.

Province of Nova Scotia.—Whycocomagh, Richmond county and Middle River.

Prince Edward Island.—

Western Provinces.—Saddle Lake, Peguis, Fisher River.

The macadamizing of the following roads are in the course of construction: Shore Road, Tyendinaga Indian Reserve, Ont.; Huntingdon Road, Caughnawaga, Que.

BRIDGES

A new bridge has been completed over the Brokenhead river, Brokenhead Indian Reserve, Manitoba, and others are in the course of construction over the Boston creek, on the Six Nation Indian reserve; also over the Bitoubi creek and Gatineau road, on the Maniwaki Indian reserve, Quebec.

Repairs to bridges have been performed on the Peguis, Stella and Caughnawaga Indian reserves.

WATERWORKS

A complete system of water supply has been provided for the schools in Caughnawaga, and others are in course of completion at the Sechelt and Kamloops boarding schools.

IRRIGATION SYSTEMS

Irrigation works have been performed on the Kamloops Indian reserve.

DRAINS

A number of drains have been constructed on the Caughnawaga, Caradoc, Six Nation, St. Regis, Sarnia and Tyendinaga Indian reserves. These drains are required for the improvement of farming land and the maintenance of roads on these reserves.

SURVEYS

The following are the principal items of work in connection with the survey branch during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1920.

NOVA SCOTIA

At the request of the timber lessees, the limits of the Grand Lake Indian reserve, Halifax county, were re-traced as they had become much obliterated.

On account of alleged trespasses, the limits of the Indian reserve at New Germany, Lunenburg county, were resurveyed.

A resurvey was made of the Indian Brook reserve, Hants county, to define correctly the disputed limits of certain timber lands.

ONTARIO

A survey was made of Doran's island, in the St. Lawrence river, in connection with its sale to the Dominion Parks Branch, Department of the Interior.

Portions of blocks A and B, concessions 4 and 5, Chapleau, were surveyed for the Indian Industrial School.

A survey was made of certain flooded lands in the Indian reserve near Fort Frances.

MANITOBA

A road across block E of the Pas reserve has been surveyed to be opened for the convenience of an adjacent half-breed settlement.

A resurvey was made of a portion of the townplot of the Pas to replace a number of posts which had disappeared and for the preparation of a special plan required for registration. Also a revaluation was made of the unsold lots in the whole townplot.

Two small tracts, being reserves Nos. 20-B and 20-C, were surveyed in the Cumberland band.

The following reserves were surveyed for the Pelican Narrows band:—

The Amisk Lake reserve, No. 184, containing 5,121.6 acres.

Birch Portage reserve, No. 184-A, containing 4,557.2 acres.

Pelican Narrows reserve, No. 184-B, containing 1,297.8 acres.

Sandy Narrows reserve, No. 184-C, containing 2,662.8 acres.

Woody Lake reserve, No. 184-E, containing 1,847 acres.

Mirond Lake reserve, No. 184-E, containing 1,847 acres.

A preliminary survey was also made of the Pelican Narrows village.

Six hundred and forty acres were laid out in two tracts for the Pas band, in lieu of their interest in the surrendered Birch River reserve.

Three hundred and twenty-four acres were laid out at Rock Lake, to be known as Indian reserve No. 21-L, and the remainder to be known as Indian reserve No. 21-M, was laid out at a point on the Saskatchewan river, about forty-five miles down the river from the Pas. At this point another tract was surveyed to be given in exchange for the island the band desires to surrender.

The Poplar Point Indian reserve of the Chemawawin band was extended, making its total length two miles.

SASKATCHEWAN

A survey was completed of the townplot of Lakeview, at Regina Beach, and valuations made of the lots.

A survey was made in the Piapot reserve, of the uplands on the north side of the Qu'Appelle river, which have been surrendered for sale.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

A survey was made of the site for a boarding school in lot 81, Alberni.

LANDS

Sales of surrendered surveyed lands are shown in the tabular statement No. 1 herewith, and during the past year 114,819.07 acres were sold, realizing $1,088,898.73. During the year 533 Crown grants were issued and recorded under the provisions of the Indian Act, and forwarded either direct to the patentees or to the different registrars of titles for the district in which the lands patented were situate, in accordance with the Land Titles Act.

Returns of Crown grants to the number of 52 were prepared and forwarded to the registrars of the counties and districts in which the lands patented were situate, and four returns were made to the Provincial Secretary of Ontario covering lands patented within that province.

On the 12th of June, 1919, the Sarnia Band of Indians surrendered to the Crown 226.18 acres of land on their reserve, comprising lots 33-41 inclusive, River range, Sarnia, which were subsequently sold to Mary E. Oxenham, trustee, for $71,350.50.

On the 4th of June, 1919, the lands which were surrendered by the Indians on Indian Reserve No. 80A, north of Regina, and which were subdivided into lots, were offered for sale by public auction and a number of the lots were sold, realizing the sum of $8,280. The remaining undisposed of lands were subsequently placed in the hands of Mr. Commissioner Graham, Regina, for sale at upset prices.

The following lands on Indian reserves in the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta, having been surrendered by the Indians under and in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Act, were sold to the Soldier Settlement Board, as follows:—

	Acres
Crooked Lakes	2,223.56	$ 31,852 04
Piapot's	16,318.00	208,640 00

Mistawasis	15,900.40	198,576 00
Muskeg Lake	8,083.30	135,000 00

LOCATION TICKETS

Location tickets granting title under the provisions of the Indian Act, to individual owners, for lands on the reserves, were issued during the past year to the number of 196, and on the 31st of March last there were current 2,325 location tickets.

LEASES

Under the provisions of section 11 of the Regulations for the disposal of Indian lands, leases were issued, in triplicate, to white men, at the request of Indian locatees, and for the purposes of increased production, to the number of 126, and on the 31st of March last there were 1,278 leases current.

TIMBER

The quantity of timber cut on Indian reserves during the year, both under license and permit, was as follows:—

There were thirty-two licenses current on April 30, 1920, being seven more than the previous year, three having terminated and ten new licenses issued.

Estimates of timber and reports on land of sixteen reserves were prepared in the course of the usual administrative work, and this data has been added to the record of the natural resources of the Indians which is in course of preparation.

SUMMARY OF INDIAN AFFAIRS IN THE VARIOUS PROVINCES BASED ON THE REPORT OF THE DEPARTMENT'S AGENTS AND THE INSPECTORS FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDED MARCH 31, 1920.

The local administration of the Indian lands, on the reserves scattered throughout the Dominion, is conducted through the department's agencies, of which there are in all 114. The number of bands included in the agency varies from one to more than thirty. The staff of an agency usually includes various officers in adition to the agent, such as medical officer, clerk, farm instructor, field matron, constable, stockman, etc., according to the special requirements of the agency in question. At many of the smaller agencies in the older provinces, where the Indians are more advanced, the work is comparatively light, requiring only the services of an agent. The work of the agencies is supervised by the department's inspectors, each inspector having charge of a certain number of agencies.

ONTARIO

Agencies.—The following agencies are included in the province of Ontario: Alnwick, Bay of Quinte, Cape Croker, Chapleau, Chippewas, Munsees, and Oneidas of the Thames, Christian Island, Fort Frances, Georgina and Snake Islands, Golden Lake, Gore Bay, Kenora, Lake Superior (Eastern and Western Divisions), Manitowaning, Missassaguas of the Credit, Moravians of the Thames, Parry Sound, Rama, Rice and Mud Lakes, Sarnia, Saugeen, Scugog, Six Nations, Sturgeon Falls, Thessalon, and Walpole Island.

Tribal Origin.—The great majority of the Indians of Ontario are Ojibwas, and are of Algonkin stock. The Oneidas of the Thames, the Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte, the Mohawks of the Parry Sound district, and the Six Nations of Brantford are of Iroquoian stock. There is a band of Pottawattamies at Walpole island, and Delawares at the Caradoc agency; these are of Algonkin stock.

Occupations.—The principal occupation of the Indians in the eastern, central and southern parts of the province is mixed-farming, including grain-growing, stock-raising, vegetable gardening, and dairying. There has been a great improvement during the past few years in their methods of cultivation, which is largely due to the work of the department's field agents.

During the summer months the Indians find a profitable source of income in employment as guides and canoemen for tourists, surveyors, prospectors, and fire rangers. Some of them work as sailors and deckhands for navigation companies on the great lakes, and a number are employed on the railways in summer. In lumbering districts many of the Indians work in the lumber-shanties during the winter months, and at river driving in spring, and in the mills in summer.

Many of the Indians who live in the vicinity of the centres of population are employed as day labourers in the various local industries, such as canning factories, cement works, implement factories, oil refineries, iron works, box factories, brick and tile-making, flax-pulling, etc.

Some of the Indian women are employed as domestics; and many of them derive a considerable income making fancy-work and baskets. At Rice Lake and Savanne some of the women and children engage in berry and wild-rice picking. The Indians still find a profitable source of income in the making of mitts, moccasins, snowshoes, and canoes.

Health.—The health of the Indians of Ontario has, on the whole, been good during the past year. Tuberculosis is their worst enemy, and is responsible for many deaths among them each year.

Dwellings.—The great majority of the Ontario Indians have frame houses, which are in many cases well built and comfortable, and compare very favourably with those found in white communities. Some of the Indians have houses of stone or brick. At the Christian Island, Georgina and Snake Islands, Fort Frances, Gore Bay, Kenora, Savanne, Fort William, and Sturgeon Falls agencies the majority of the houses are still of log construction. In the districts included in the Chapleau and Fort William agencies many of the Indians continue to live in tepees.

NEW ONTARIO

Hunting and fishing are the chief sources of livelihood for the Indians of north-western Ontario and the James Bay district. Their only other source of income is acting as guides and canoemen in the summer months. These northern districts are not suitable for agriculture, but the Indians are beginning to raise potatoes with some measure of success. These Indians live in tents throughout the year.

They are very subject to tuberculosis, although their health is otherwise good.

QUEBEC

Agencies.—The following agencies are included in the province of Quebec: Becancour, Bersimis, Caughnawaga, Lake St. John, Lorette, Maria, Mingan, Oka, River Desert, Ristigouche, Seven Islands, St. Francis, St. Regis, Timiskaming and Viger.

Tribal Origin.—The principal tribes found in Quebec are: Iroquois at Caughnawaga, lake of Two Mountains, and St. Regis; the Hurons of Lorette are also of Iroquoian stock; the Montagnais, who are also of Algonkin stock, at Bersimis, Mingan, lake St. John, and Seven Islands; the Abenakis, also of Algonkin stock, at Becancour and St. Francis; the Micmacs, also of Algonkin stock, at Maria and Ristigouche; and the Malecites, also of Algonkin stock, at Viger.

Occupations.—In the agricultural districts of the province the Indians are displaying much keener interest in farming, and market gardening, and a marked improvement is observable in their methods of cultivation.

In the Gaspe peninsula and districts adjacent thereto the Indians are chiefly employed in the lumber shanties. In the Maniwaki and North Timiskaming agencies also a number of Indians work in the shanties.

One of the principal industries among the Indians of this province is the making of ash and sweet-grass baskets. A number of them spend the summer in the country resorts in the United States, where they sell baskets to tourists. The Indians also make lacrosse sticks, axe handles, racquets, and moccasins. Some of them are employed as guides to tourists and canoeists.

Health.—On the whole the health of the Indians of Quebec has been good during the past year. In this, as in every other province, tuberculosis is the disease which more than any other threatens the health of the Indians.

Dwellings.—In the settled parts of the province, the great majority of the Indians live in houses of frame construction, which are as a rule comfortable and well built. Some of them have good stone houses. In the more remote northern district many of the Indians continue to dwell in tents.

THE NORTH SHORE

The cod-fishing industry is being successfully developed among the Indians of Mingan, Natashkwan, Romaine, St. Augustine, and Moisie, under departmental supervision.

Although these Indians have always been considered of a naturally indolent disposition, they are rapidly becoming good fishermen, which is surprisingly satisfactory, in view of the arduous character of this industry as carried on in the gulf, where the fisherman's working day begins at three o'clock in the morning, and the last operation of salting is not completed until evening.

I regret to state that the general health of the gulf Indians has not been good during the past few years, and that in consequence their numbers are decreasing.

The Indians of these parts do scarcely any farming or gardening as the climate and soil are not suitable for agriculture. Some of them, however, are beginning to raise a few potatoes.

NEW BRUNSWICK

Agencies.—There are three agencies in the province of New Brunswick, the Northeastern located at Buctouche, the Northern located at Perth, and the Southwestern located at Fredericton.

Tribal Origin.—The majority of the Indians of New Brunswick belong to the Micmac race, which is of Algonkin stock. In addition to these there are some bands of Malecites, also of Algonkin stock.

Occupations.—In the northeastern division the Indians are engaged in fishing, hunting, trapping, and farming. A number work in the lumber woods during winter and at the lumber mills in summer. In the northern division the Indians work in the woods in winter, river drive in the spring, and are for the most part employed as farm labourers in the summer and fall. In the southeastern division the Indians support themselves chiefly by the sale of Indian wares. In all parts of the provinces the Indians are expert at making baskets, snowshoes, moccasins, and other Indian wares.

The Indians of this province are showing a greater interest in farming than formerly.

Health and Sanitation.—The health of the Indians has been good during the past year, with the exception of cases of tuberculosis. They are learning to pay more attention to sanitary conditions than in the past.

Dwellings.—The great majority of the Indians of New Brunswick live in small frame houses, which in most cases are well built and well cared for. A gradual improvement is observed from year to year in their dwellings and outbuildings.

NOVA SCOTIA

Agencies.—The following agencies are included in the province of Nova Scotia: Yarmouth, Digby, Annapolis, Queens, Shelburne, Lunenburg, Kings, Halifax, Cumberland, Colchester, Pictou, Richmond, Victoria, Inverness, Antigonish-Guysboro, two in Hants county (Windsor and Shubenacadie), and two in Cape Breton county (Eskasoni and Shubenacadie).

Tribal Origin.—The Indians of Nova Scotia are Micmacs, and are of Algonkin stock.

Occupations.—The great majority of the Indians who reside on reserves in Nova Scotia are farmers in a small way. Their principal agricultural products are hay, potatoes, and garden vegetables. They also raise horses and cattle, but no sheep and very few pigs. Between seed-time and harvest many of them go abroad and find employment in diverse occupations as day labourers. Those who do not live on reserves occupy themselves to a great extent with the manufacture of axe-handles, pick-handles, hockey sticks, butter tubs, baskets of various kinds, etc. A certain class, including some who reside on reserves and some who do not, make lumbering in its various branches their chief occupation. They assist in cutting the timber in the forests, in conveying it to the saw-mills, and finally in converting it into boards, deals, scantling, shingles, laths, etc. At certain seasons of the year, hunting, trapping, and acting as guides for sportsmen are also favourite occupations of a certain number, mostly of middle age.

Health and Sanitation.—Sanitary regulations are surprisingly well observed by these Indians, circumstances considered, and as a consequence an improvement in their general health is manifest. Tuberculosis is less prevalent than formerly.

Dwellings.—Most Indians in Nova Scotia live in small frame houses, well finished outside, but usually in the rough inside. However, the general tendency is decidedly towards improving their condition in this respect. Quite a number live in roomy, comfortable dwellings, well finished throughout and fairly well furnished.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

Agency.—One agency is sufficient for the purposes of the department in this province, as the total Indian population is only 292.

Tribal Origin.—The Indians of this province all belong to the Micmac tribe, which is of Algonkin stock.

Occupations.—Some of the Indians of Prince Edward Island work their land, but their principal occupations are fishing and basket-making. Some of the Indians own stock, which is of good quality, and well cared for.

The oyster fishing was this year a total failure, and the lobster fishing was less profitable than last season, and in consequence the income of the Indians has been reduced to a considerable extent.

MANITOBA

Agencies.—The following agencies are included in the province of Manitoba: Fisher River Clandeboye, Norway House, Griswold, Portage la Prairie and Manitowapah, Pas and Birtle.

Tribal Origin.—The majority of the Indians of Manitoba belong to the Ojibwa race, which is of Algonkin stock. Bands of Swampy Crees are found at the Norway House and Fisher River agencies and in the York Factory district; these are also of Algonkin stock. The Indians located at the Griswold agency are Sioux; there are also Sioux at the Birtle and Portage la Prairie agencies. There is a band of Chipiwyans at Fort Churchill; this tribe is of Athapascan stock.

Occupations.—In the agricultural parts of the province, wherein are situated the Birtle, Griswold, and Portage la Prairie agencies, the chief occupation of the Indians is grain-growing. In the Clandeboye, Fisher River, Norway House, Pas, and Manitowapah agencies, and throughout the northern districts the Indians continue to find their principal source of livelihood in hunting and fishing. The hunting and fishing Indians have not suffered from the increased cost of living, as the value of fish and fur has on an average since the beginning of the war been about double that during the five years prior to the war.

These Indians are expert guides and canoemen and many of them find employment at this work, for which they receive good wages.

In the more settled districts many of the young men receive high wages as farm labourers. Some also are employed at road-work, in mines and on railway construction, and in most cases their services have been found very satisfactory by their employers. Some of the more educated Indians work as clerks for traders and merchants, and most of them have proved to be very efficient in their work. They are not so successful, however, when they undertake to trade independently, owing to their tendency to give credit to excess.

Some of the young women are skilled needle-workers, and earn a good living sewing for white settlers. A number also are employed as domestics. Among some of the bands the women derive a considerable income from the sale of willow baskets, rag and straw mats, moccasins, bead-work, senega root, and wild fruits.

The majority of the bands in the province raise stock.

Health.—The health of the Indians throughout the province has been very good during the past year, and a marked improvement is observable. The Indians are learning to pay much greater attention to sanitation and personal cleanliness.

There is a marked difference between the methods of housekeeping followed on the reserves of the settled parts of the province and in the more outlying districts. At the Birtle agency, for example, the houses are furnished with good iron beds, side-boards, tables, chairs, and good kitchen utensils, whereas at the Pas agency the Indians in most cases still prefer to eat and sleep on the floor.

Dwellings.—Most of the Indian houses are of log construction. The Indians are expert axemen, and their log houses are usually well built and comfortable. The houses in the more northern districts are, however, still of a very primitive type, being roofed simply with poles and mud, and usually have only one room. In the more settled parts of the province the Indians are beginning to build frame houses. Many of the Manitoba Indians continue to live in tent during the summer months.

SASKATCHEWAN

Agencies.—The following agencies are included in the province of Saskatchewan: Assiniboine, Battleford, Carlton, Crooked Lake, Duck Lake, Moose Mountain, Onion Lake, Pelly, Qu'Appelle, and Touchwood Hills.

Tribal Origin.—The most numerous tribes among the Saskatchewan Indians are the Ojibwas, Swampy Crees and Plains Crees, which all belong to the great Algonkin stock. In addition to these, Sioux Indians are found at the Assiniboine, Moose Mountain, Qu'Appelle and Carlton agencies, and on the Moose Woods reserve. In the Onion Lake agency there is a band of Chipewyans, who are of Athapascan stock. There are also a few Chipewyan Indians in the Isle a la Cross district.

Occupations.—The principal occupations of the Indians of Saskatchewan are farming and stock-raising.

The great majority of the farming Indians are well provided with farm machinery and implements, and in most cases they take good care of them.

With very few exceptions the bands in this province own herds of horses and cattle. The Indians as a general rule care well for their stock, and some of it is of exceptionally fine quality.

Many of the Indians work for white farmers in the harvest season.

The Indians in this province derive considerable income from the sale of hay, wood, pickets, and senega root.

In the northern part of the province, hunting and fishing are still very important sources of income to the Indians.

Health.—The health of the Indians of Saskatchewan has on the whole been good during the past year, although there is always a considerable amount of tuberculosis and scrofula among them.

The officers of the department are giving most careful attention to the instruction of the Indians in the principles of hygiene and sanitation, and a marked improvement from year to year in these respects is observable on the reserves.

Dwellings.—The great majority of the Indian dwellings in this province are of log construction. In the more settled districts they are usually two-storied, shingle-roofed, and well built. On the reserves which are farther removed from the centres of civilization the old style one or two-roomed, mud or thatched roof shacks of a very primitive type still predominate. Many of the Indians live in tents in summer. Some of the more progressive Indians are beginning to erect frame houses.

ALBERTA

Agencies.—The following agencies are included in the province of Alberta: Blackfoot, Blood, Edmonton, Hobbema, Peigan, Saddle Lake, Sarcee, Stony, and Lesser Slave Lake.

Tribal Origin.—The Alberta Indians are of Algonkin stock, with the exception of the Sarcees near Calgary and the Beavers and Slaves in the Lesser Slave Lake agency, who are Athapascan, and the Paul's band in the Edmonton agency, who are Iroquoian, and the Stonies, who are of Siouan stock. The Algonkin Indians of Alberta are subdivided into Blackfoot nation, comprising the Indians of the Blackfoot, Blood and Peigan agencies, Plain Crees found in the Lesser Slave Lake, Saddle Lake, and Habbema agencies, and a band of Ojibbewas at Moberley Lake, in the Lesser Slave Lake agency.

Industries and Occupations.—The principal occupations of the Alberta Indians are farming and stock-raising in the settled parts of the province. In the more remote northern districts they continue to gain their livelihood almost entirely by hunting, fishing and trapping.

Practically all the bands in the province own herds of horses and cattle, and their stock is of very fine quality. The Blood Indians have the largest herds, comprising upwards of 4,000 head of the finest beef cattle in the west. The Indians, as a general rule, care for their stock well.

The Indian farmers are well supplied with modern machinery and implements, except in the Stony and Lesser Slave Lake agencies, where little farming is done.

Health and Sanitation.—Tuberculosis, pneumonia, and scrofula are the diseases most prevalent among the Indians of this province, and in some bands they are responsible for a heavy mortality.

The Indians are very conservative, and it is difficult to bring about changes in their habits of living. Every effort is being made, however, to make them realize the vital importance of sanitary conditions, and a gradual improvement is observed from year to year.

Buildings.—With the exception of those living in the more remote northern districts, the great majority of the Indians of Alberta have modern frame houses, which in many cases are well built, well lighted, and well ventilated. Many of them have good barns, implement sheds and stables. Some of the Indians still live in tents and tepees in summer.

NORTHWEST TERRITORIES

Agencies.—The department has only two agencies in the Northwest Territories, one being located at Simpson, and the other at Fort Smith.

Tribal Origin.—The principal tribes found in the Far North are the Slaves, Hares, Loucheux, Secanies, Dogribs, Yellow-knives, Chipewyans and Caribou Eaters.

All these tribes are of Athapascan stock. There are a few Crees in the neighbourhood of Chipewyan. These are of Algonkin stock. The most northerly tribes are the Tukudah, who extend to the Mackenzie Delta, and the Copper Mines, who are located along the Copper-mine river. The territory occupied by these two last-mentioned tribes is contiguous to that inhabited by the Eskimos.

Occupations.—These Indians are solely dependent upon fishing and hunting. In view of their nomadic mode of life it is difficult to induce them to take up agricultural pursuits, and they do no farming or gardening, with the exception of a few living in the vicinity of the forts, who raise some potatoes. In the summer some of the Indians are employed as pilots and deckhands on the steamers running on the Peace, Slave and Mackenzie rivers.

Health and Sanitation.—Tuberculosis and scrofula are the diseases most prevalent among the Indians of the Far North. Those who live in tents throughout the year are generally in better health than those who spend the winter in houses.

Every effort is being made by the officers of the department to make these Indians realize the value of hygiene and sanitation, but it is difficult to instruct them in these matters, as they are still in a very primitive stage of development.

Dwellings.—The majority of the northern Indians live in bark or skin tepees all the year round. Those who live in the vicinity of the posts have houses of a primitive type.

YUKON

Tribal Origin.—The Forty Mile, Blackstone, and Moosehide bands belong to the Takudh tribe. There is a band of Slavies at Lancing Creek who migrated from Fort Good Hope, on the Mackenzie river; another band of Slavies, called Nahanies, is located at the headwaters of the Pelly river. All these Indians are of Athapascan stock. At Mayo, Selkirk, Little Salmon and Carmacks there are bands belonging to the tribe known as Stick Indians. Bands belonging to the Tlinjit tribe are found at Whitehorse, Teslin Lake, Champagne Landing, and Carcross.

Occupations.—Hunting game, trapping furs, and fishing are the chief occupations of the Yukon Indians. The women also derive quite a revenue by the sale of moccasins and other articles made with either moose or caribou skin and ornamented with beads, silkwork, or dyed porcupine quills. Sleds and snowshoes are also made by the men and sold to the whites. The younger men work as deckhands on the steamers and in cutting cordwood; they occasionally act as guides and packers for hunting parties.

Owing to the nature of the country and climatic conditions very little is done in the way of farming.

Health and Sanitation.—The general health of the various bands has been fairly good throughout the year.

An epidemic of influenza broke out at Champagne's Landing last May; 125 Indians were affected and 11 deaths occurred; fortunately none of the other bands were affected at this time. Again on March 13 of this year the epidemic broke out at Carcross, first in the boarding school, and a few days later in the Indian village. There were 36 patients in the school with one death, and 12 in the village with two deaths. A small party of Indians at Upper LaBarge, 12 in number, were stricken with the same epidemic; three died and the others were removed to the hospital at Whitehorse. None of the other bands are affected up to date.

In spite of the efforts made to improve sanitary conditions I regret to say the progress is slow; however, I may say there is some improvement. The medical officers and the missionaries are doing all they can to deal with these matters. The indifference of the Indians is difficult to overcome but patient work is bound to tell in the long run.

The two medical officers have been diligent in their duties during the year and many Indians have been benefited by their efforts.

Dwellings.—Most of the Indians live in log cabins, especially those living near white settlements. Those that spend most of their time in the woods hunting live in tents for obvious reasons, they are constantly on the move from one place to another in search of game and furs.

Little has been done during the year in the way of building, new cabins materials being too expensive. There are some cabins at each of the centres one would like to see pulled down being unsuitable for dwellings; by degrees these are disappearing and larger, better lighted and properly ventilated cabins taking their place. More might have been done in this regard had material not been so costly.

Relief.—Due care has been exercised in issuing relief to the Indians, the amount given is not usually sufficient to support the recipient they are expected to try and help themselves. It is only the aged and infirm that receive assistance.

Temperance.—There has been considerable improvement in the matter of temperance during the year under review, due in some measure, no doubt, to the closing up of all the saloons and bars in the territory and the greater difficulty in obtaining liquor. Several convictions both against Indians and whites have been successfully made and either fines or imprisonment inflicted.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Agencies.—The following agencies are included in the province of British Columbia: Babine and Upper Skeena, Bella Coola, Cowichan, Kamloops, Kootenay, Kwawkewlth, Lytton, Nass, New Westminster, Okanagan, Queen Charlotte, Stickine, Stuart Lake, West Coast, and Williams Lake.

Tribal Origin.—The Indians of the Bella Coola, Cowichan, Kamloops, Lytton, New Westminster, and Okanagan agencies belong to the Salish tribe. The Kootenay tribe is located in the agency of the same name. The Kwakiutl-Nootka tribe is located in the Kwawkewlth and West Coast agencies; the Haidas, in the Queen Charlotte islands; the Tlingits, in the Stickine; and the Tsimshians, in the Nass agency. The Indians of the Babine, Stuart Lake and Williams Lake agencies belong to the Athapascan race.

In adition to these there are about 3,000 nomadic Indians in the province who cannot be correctly classified according to linguistic stock or tribal origin.

Industries and Occupations.—The principal occupation of the Indians living on the coast is fishing, at which they have had a very successful year. Many of these Indian fishermen have gasolene launches, which they often construct themselves with great skill and efficiency. The Haida Indians of the Queen Charlotte islands are particularly proficient and are considered to be among the best fishermen on the Pacific coast. Many Indians, including a large number of women, are employed in the canneries. The occupation of the coast Indians also include logging, teaming, boat-building and hunting.

Hop-picking is an important source of revenue to the Indians of the Kamloops, Lytton, Cowichan, West Coast and New Westminster agencies.

The Indians of the Lytton, Kamloops, Kootenay, Okanagan, and New Westminster agencies engage in farming, including the raising of grains, fruit and vegetables of all kinds. Marked progress has of late years characterized their agricultural efforts. They are well supplied with farm machinery and equipment, of which they take good care.

The Indians of the Kamloops, Kootenay, New Westminster and Okanagan agencies raise horses and cattle. They take good care of their stock, and are meeting with marked success in this industry. The Indians of the Kamloops agency own about 5,000 horses and about 2,000 head of cattle.

The Indians of the more remote northern districts still derive a livelihood from hunting and trapping.

The agents in all parts of the province report a constant improvement from year to year in sanitary conditions on the reserves, and the department is making every effort to educate the Indians in this respect.

Dwellings.—The great majority of the British Columbia Indians, except in the more outlying districts, now have modern, well-built, comfortable houses either of log or frame construction. This is an evidence of rapid progress, as a few years ago nearly all of them lived either in wretched little shacks, or herded together in the large barnlike unventilated and unsanitary structures, which are still in use in some of the more unsettled parts of the coast. The Haida Indians of the Queen Charlotte islands, who are remarkably progressive, build up-to-date frame houses that will compare favourably with those found in the average white community.

FINANCIAL

At the close of the twelve months ended March 31, 1920, the capital of the Indian Trust Fund, which at the end of the preceding year amounted to $9,238,786.67, had increased to $10,900,057.06.

The amounts expended from the Consolidated Revenue Fund were as follows: voted by Parliament for the purposes of the department, $2,243,207.65; and annuities by statute, $183,096.

On March 31 last, the balance to the credit of the Indian Savings Account for the funding of the annuities and earning of pupils at industrial schools, was $84,271.54. Deposits and interest during the twelve months aggregated $44,932.71 and withdrawals $27,531.59.

I have the honour to be, sir,

Your obedient servant,

DUNCAN C. SCOTT,

Deputy Superintendent General of Indian Affairs.

HEADQUARTERS,
OTTAWA, ONT., November 30, 1920.

The Hon. J. A. CALDER,
President of the Privy Council,
Ottawa.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit herewith the Annual Report of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police for the year ending September 31, 1920.

In November, 1919, an Act was passed to amend the Royal Northwest Mounted Police Act, which made changes of vital importance as follows:—

1. The name was changed to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

2. The headquarters could be established at any place in Canada.

3. Provision was made for the absorption of the Dominion Police by making service in that force count as service in the Mounted Police for pension.

4. The Commissioner was given control and management of the force under the minister.

By Order in Council passed on the 27th January, 1920, the above amendments were brought into force from the 1st February, 1920, and by an Order in Council of the 2nd February, 1920, the headquarters were transferred from Regina to Ottawa from the same date.

The above changes were made in pursuance of the policy adopted by the Government to have only one federal force controlled by a single head and exercising jurisdiction in every part of Canada.

The Mounted Police force was organized in 1873, with the specific purpose of establishing law and order in the new territories but recently acquired by Canada from the Hudson Bay Company. Its jurisdiction was limited to the Northwest Territories. It was the sole police force in those territories, and in the Yukon Territory until 1905, when the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan were erected, including in their boundaries all the settled portions of the territories.

The creation of the new provinces brought about an important change. The Department of Justice had hitherto administered the criminal law, and now the duty fell to the Attorneys General of the provinces. A temporary arrangement was entered into between these provinces and the Dominion whereby for a small annual payment by the provinces, the Dominion Government agreed to maintain the force and carry on as before except that in administration of the criminal law, the Attorneys General exercised their rights, powers and authority.

Later, when the boundaries of Manitoba were extended, a similar arrangement was made with that Government.

In 1916, owing to the exigencies of the war, the Dominion Government, with the concurrence and consent of the Provincial Governments concerned, terminated the agreement. The situation then was that the force was exercising criminal jurisdiction in the Northwest Territories and the Yukon Territory, and in Alberta and Saskatchewan was engaged in enforcing laws and Orders in Council brought into force by the war.

In December, 1918, the Government by Order in Council, extended the duties to the whole of Western Canada for the purpose of enforcing Dominion laws.

In July, 1919, an amendment was passed to the Act of which the following sections are important:—

> "Section 12, Subsection (3).—Every member of the force shall be a constable in every part of Canada for the purpose of carrying out the criminal and other laws of Canada and in the Northwest Territories and the Yukon Territory for carrying out any laws and ordinances in force therein.
> "Section 18.—It shall be the duty of members of the force subject to the orders of the Commissioner,—
> "(a) to perform all duties which now are or hereafter shall be assigned to constables in relation to the preservation of the peace, the prevention of crime, and of offences against the laws and ordinances in force in any province or territory or territories in which they may be employed, and the criminal and other laws of Canada, and the apprehension of criminals and offenders, and others who may be lawfully taken into custody."

The jurisdiction of the force was thus extended over every part of Canada. This jurisdiction is not exercised to the full extent except in the Northwest Territories, the Yukon Territory, and in the Dominion parks, where special arrangements have been entered into with the provincial authorities.

This legislation involved the amalgamation of the Dominion Police with the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, and it is appropriate in this connection to make a brief reference to the origin of this force and to some earlier passages in the history of the country.

EARLIER POLICE FORCES.

On several occasions during the last eighty years, Canadian Governments have felt the need of means of maintaining order and achieving the ends of justice. As long ago as 1839, Lord Durham took power by an enactment (2 Vic., Cap. 3), known at the time as the Police Ordinance, to raise a police force, both mounted and foot; this apparently was a copy of the London Police Act. Four years later, by the Statute 6 Vic., Cap. 14, this Ordinance was retained, while three other Ordinances relating to police forces were repealed. Not long afterwards, in 1845, disorders among the labourers engaged in the work of enlarging the Welland and St. Lawrence canals caused the legislature to pass an Act (8 Vic., Cap. 6) which, along with other provisions for the maintenance of public order, authorized the Governor in Council to raise "a body of men not exceeding 100 exclusive of officers, and to be called 'The Mounted Police.'" This force seems to have been raised and to have done service; it acted, under Captain John Wheeler, in a riot at Thorold. The serious riots in Montreal, during which the Parliament buildings were burned, caused the Government, in 1849, to raise a force of some 50 men, known as the Mounted Constabulary Force; it was commanded by two officers, Captain C. Wetherall and Captain W. K. McCord. Again, during the period of the Fenian raids, certain police forces were organized. In part these partook of the nature of secret service, a feature of the problem with which the Government of the day were confronted being the existence of numerous plots by secret societies both to attack British America by military means and to damage public works. It also was necessary to maintain uniformed constables to protect the parliamentary and departmental buildings. From these forces the Dominion Police arose.

SESSIONAL PAPER No. 28

The Dominion Police

The leading Act concerning this force (31 Vic., Cap. 71) was passed in 1868; it was amended in 1879, by 42 Vic., Cap. 37. At the time of the passing of the Act of 1868, there were two police officers of high rank, Mr. Charles J. Coursol at Montreal and Mr. Gilbert McMicken at Ottawa; Mr. Coursol also was a judge of sessions. At Montreal and Quebec there were police forces, which were under the superintendence of the judges of the sessions at those cities; these were gradually reduced, the number at Montreal standing at eight in 1869, and at two in 1874. Mr. Coursol was superannuated in 1876, and this branch of the force seems to have come to an end. By an Order in Council dated March 6, 1869, Mr. McMicken was appointed to command a force at Ottawa, designed for the protection of the parliamentary and departmental buildings, and limited in number to fifteen. Later in the same year, on November 23, an Order in Council was passed appointing Mr. McMicken and Mr. Coursol Commissioners of Police "for the whole Dominion of Canada," but assigning them separate jurisdictions, in Ontario and Quebec respectively. In 1871, Mr. McMicken was transferred to Manitoba, in connection with the troubles which attended the entry of that province into Confederation, to hold the posts of Assistant Receiver General and Stipendiary Magistrate; he was made Commissioner of Police for Manitoba and took with him two constables of the Dominion Police, and for several years he had from two to six policemen under him, this branch coming to an end in 1874. In addition, the "outside service" inherited from Fenian Raid days was continued for some years, standing at seven in 1870, and coming to an end in 1875.

On Mr. McMicken's departure for Manitoba the Deputy Minister of Justice, Colonel H. Bernard, C.M.G., was made acting Commissioner, the actual administration of the force falling largely into the hands of a Superintendent. In June, 1880, Mr. Augustus Keefer became Commissioner, and in 1882, Mr. Sherwood (now Colonel Sir Percy Sherwood, C.M.G., M.V.O., A.D.C.), joined the force as Superintendent. In 1885 Mr. Keefer died, and Sir Percy Sherwood became Commissioner. The force gradually increased in number from 20 in 1880 to about 150 in January, 1920. To its original duty of protecting the buildings owned by the Dominion Government at the capital, it gradually added sundry other duties, including the protection of the Navy Yards at Halifax and Esquimalt, the enforcing of certain specific laws, such as those against counterfeiting and the white slave traffic, the maintenance of a finger-print bureau, and the maintenance of a paroled prisoners' branch. During the Great War its responsibilities and duties were greatly increased, these principally taking the form of the supervision and regulation of enemy aliens, and the counteracting, by means of secret service, of enemy plots against the country. In carrying out this latter duty, aid was sought from the several municipal and other police forces of Canada, and this was most loyally given; Immigration, Customs, and other officials also acted as special agents, and the Military Intelligence Branch rendered assistance. A special corps, known as Dominion Police, was organized for the purposes of the Military Service Act; it was distinct in its organization and was under separate control, until December, 1918, when it came under the Chief Commissioner. Its duties were temporary, and it was disbanded in December, 1919.

In 1913, the Commissioner of the Dominion Police became the Chief Commissioner of Police, this change of title being accompanied by an arrangement whereby a number of commissioners of police in Eastern Canada, principally in the less settled districts, were subordinated to him, and made their returns to Government through him.

After a long and honourable career in the public service, Sir Percy Sherwood retired in May, 1919, on account of ill health.

A Federal Constabulary

The absorption of the Dominion Police into the Mounted Police was not free from difficulties. Their organization differed fundamentally. The former was organized and uniformed on the lines of a municipal police force, free to resign on short notice, and its discipline enforced by the civil courts. The latter was organized on military lines, its officers commissioned, clothed in scarlet, disciplined under powers conferred by its own Act, and engaged for a fixed term of service, which could not be terminated at will.

The conditions of engagement offered to all members of the Dominion Police were as follows:—

1. Every member to receive an amount equal to his present pay.
2. Term of engagement one or three years.
3. All non-commissioned officers and constables to receive equal rank in the Mounted Police and carrying at least the same rate of pay.
4. Service in the Dominion Police to count towards pension.

These terms were accepted and 152 were engaged in the service of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

I have dealt at length with the changes in the constitution and jurisdiction of the force as it at present stands, as it marks an important development in one of the essential organs of Government. It is the sole federal force, controlled by one minister with one executive head, and its duties may be summarized:—

(a) The enforcement, or assistance in enforcement, of all laws where the Government of Canada is directly interested or responsible.
(c) The protection of Navy Yards.
(d) The Intelligence Service.
(e) The maintenance of law and order in all territories and Dominion parks.
(f) Maintenance of finger-print bureaus.

ORGANIZATION

The removal of the headquarters from Regina to Ottawa, the absorption of the Dominion Police and the change in status of the Commissioner and Comptroller necessitated the consolidation of the Comptroller's office, the office of the Chief Commissioner of Dominion Police and the headquarters, and complete reorganization.

It was satisfactorily accomplished in a short time because of the ability and energy of all staffs and their determination to make it a success.

There are now four principal branches: the Criminal Investigation, the Financial, the Supply and the Adjutant's, with Central Registry, and all under a single administrative head.

The system of district commands was extended to the East, where four new districts were organized: Western Ontario, Eastern Ontario, Quebec, and the Maritime Provinces, making a total of 11. A commanding officer, solely responsible, was assigned to each district, and such strength in other ranks as was found necessary.

The former Dominion Police were organized in a single division designated "A" and a new mounted division designated "N" was formed at the depot, and moved to Ottawa. A Headquarters Division was organized, to which all officers and other ranks of the headquarters staff were posted.

The depot for training was continued at Regina.

The force is distributed in the way best suited to perform its many duties. It is found along the international boundary, where it aids in protecting the revenue and preventing the entrance into Canada of undesirables. It is located on or in the vincinity of Indian Reserves to maintain good order, and to aid in enforcement of the laws pertaining to our Indian population. It occupies many lonely posts in the North West Territories and Yukon Territory, and along the Arctic and Hudson Bay coasts. It is found in centres of population, and at points where industrial activities are vital to the welfare of the nation.

New outposts were established in the Far North: One at Port Burwell on the Hudson Straits, to act for the Department of Customs and collect duties on foreign vessels entering the waters of Hudson bay, and the other at Tree River, on Coronation Gulf, for ordinary duty. The latter is our most remote outpost, with which I shall deal later on in this report.

Total	10,808

The foregoing tables are compiled from returns for Western Canada from October 1, 1919, to January 31, 1920, and for the whole of Canada from February 1, to October 30, 1920.

There were 1,254 convictions for offences created by federal Statutes; 108 under the Criminal Code and 84 under local Statutes.

Eight thousand five hundred investigations were made for federal departments, the majority for the Secretary of State's Department in connection with naturalization of aliens.

Special attention has been given to the enforcement of the Opium and Drug Act.

The illegal traffic in narcotics is large and is extremely difficult to check. The most degraded and lowest criminals of the underworld are engaged in it. Too often they are aided and abetted by others belonging to honourable professions. The profits are enormous, so that the imposition of a fine has a very slight deterrent effect. Imprisonment without the option of a fine is the only punishment feared.

The situation along the international boundry is not satisfactory, because of the extensive traffic in intoxicating liquor from Canada into the United States, which, at certain points, has amounted almost to a state of lawlessness.

As far as the force was concerned, no action could be taken except in aiding the Customs and Immigration officials to enforce the laws.

The Indian population still maintains its well-deserved reputation—orderly and well-behaved. Cases of drunkenness are not infrequent, but they are usually induced by white degenerates.

In the territories and National Parks under our control, law and order prevail, except among the Eskimos, where we have had to deal with several cases of murder, which I venture to refer to in detail, as they illustrate the primitive customs and practices of the different tribes and throw some light on the difficulties encountered by the Force in policing the Sub-Arctic regions.

ALLEGED MURDERS NEAR BAKER LAKE

In the winter of 1919-20, Sergeant W. O. Douglas was in charge of the detachment at Fullerton. This detachment, over 400 miles farther north than Churchill, and 100 miles up the coast from Chesterfield Inlet, at this period was the centre of very active patrolling; from September, 1916, to January, 1919, the distance covered by patrols based on it was nearly 16,000 miles.

On December 19, 1919, Sergeant Douglas, with Constable Eyre and two natives left Fullerton for Chesterfield Inlet, arriving on December 22, after being delayed for a day by a blizzard. At the Hudson's Bay Company's post a letter was waiting for him from the manager of the Hudson's Bay Company's post at Baker Lake, 150 miles inland up Chesterfield Inlet, informing him that two of his hunters had been murdered by another native, that the murderer was at large, and that the native population of the region was badly frightened. Sergeant Douglas at once decided to go up the Inlet to Baker Lake. The necessary arrangements took some time, as it was necessary to get additional dog-feed, etc., from Fullerton, and on January 1, 1920, Sergeant Douglas, after sending Constable Eyre back to Fullerton, set out for Baker Lake; he had with him two natives and two dog teams. He arrived at Baker Lake on January 8.

The information obtainable was meagre. An Eskimo of the Paddlemuit tribe named Ou-ang-wak, living about 150 miles south, was reported to have shot dead two brothers, also of the same tribe, named Ang-alook-you-ak and Ale-cummick, and had appropriated the wife of the former. The other Eskimo were so afraid of Ou-ang-wak that they were keeping away from the Baker Lake post. Sergeant Douglas resolved to patrol to the scene of the murder, to investigate, and if necessary to arrest the accused. At once difficulties arose which delayed him for nearly three weeks, for the natives were afraid to accompany him. He reports:—

> "I experienced great difficulty in getting anyone to make the trip. At last I managed to get a native who assured me he knew the country, but refused to pull out with less than three sleds and four or five men. He said that he had heard that this native had said that he would never be taken alive by the Police. This he gave as a reason for wanting such a large outfit."

After much trouble, Sergeant Douglas got together a party of four Eskimo men and the wife of one of them, together with three dog trains, and left Baker Lake on January 27. An illustration of the difficulties of travel in these regions is afforded by the party's pre-occupation with dog-feed; none of this was carried on the journey and the animals on which their transport depended lived for the first four or five days on deer which were shot as the party went along, and for the rest of the time on an insufficient amount of "summer cache meat" which Sergeant Douglas managed to buy.

On February 5, they arrived at a native camp of two igloos, and found two lads of a tribe whose name is variously spelled as Shav-voc-toe and Shag-wak-toe. Sergeant Douglas' natives were so much afraid of Ou-ang-wak—they thought he might be there—that he had difficulty in inducing them to drive up to the igloos and see who the inhabitants were. "It caused much laughter amongst themselves when they found that one of the men was a guide's own brother-in-law." The news was that the object of the search was encamped about two days farther on, that he had been warned by some white men that the Police would be after him and would kill him, and that he was in a state of extreme nervousness. "When last seen by these two lads, he was sitting in his igloo with his hands over his face, and every few minutes getting up and going out to see if there were any strange sleds about."

All this increased the dread of Sergeant Douglas' natives, and they resolved to go home. He found that there was a native camp midway between the place where they were and Ou-ang-wak's camp, and he, in the end, persuaded his escort to proceed to this half-way house. They arrived there on the afternoon of February 7.

> "On our arrival at this camp we were met some distance from the igloos by a young lad who wished to find out all about us and report to the chief. After some delay he returned and told us that Edjogajuch, the chief of the tribe, wished to see us in his igloo. Negvic, the guide, Native Joe and myself returned with this man, the other two members of the party staying with sleds. After entering the igloo, I shook hands all around, took off my koolo-tang, sat up on the bench beside the chief and told him that we were hungry and would like to eat with him. He produced a frozen deer and several small butcher knives. We all sat around and ate. This put things on a better footing and all the natives started to talk, and our other two men came in. After we finished eating, I produced tobacco and matches and when every-body had got their pipes going, with Native Joe as an interpreter, I told them what I had come for.

"Edjogajuch replied saying he was sorry that I had come, and telling me that Ou-ang-wak was living one day's travel from his camp. He also warned me not to go there as he had just left this camp and was afraid that if a white man went there and tried to bring away Ou-ang-wak there would be shooting.

"This put the finishing touch to my natives and they refused point blank to go ahead another step."

Negotiations ensued.

"I had an igloo built and sent for Edjogajuch. I then told him through the interpreter that I had heard that one of his tribe, Ou-ang-wak had killed two men. He replied that this was so. I further told him that this was contrary to the white man's law, and I was down here to see that Ou-ang wak and that I was not going back without doing so. I then suggested that in the morning he take me to the camp across the lake. This he refused to do, as he said that he also might get shot.

"I tried again to get my natives to go with me to this camp, but without success. I sent again for Edjogajuch and told him that I looked upon him as a chief in this district, and it was up to him, either to take me to this camp or go there himself and bring this native Ou-ang-wak to me. He said that he would not go with me but would go alone and try and get him. I told him that I would wait here at this camp for three days and if at the end of that time he was not back, or had no word of him, I should come myself to look for Ou-ang-wak. He was much frightened as he undoubtedly believed that as soon as I saw Ou-ang-wak I should shoot him. I gave him my word that no harm would come to Ou-ang-wak or any other of the natives if they did what was right and showed no strife."

Accordingly, on February 8, Edjogajuch left his camp, and late in the afternoon of February 9 he returned with Ou-ang-wak and the woman.

"On their arrival at the camp," Sergeant Douglas says, "I sent for all the natives to come to my igloo where, through the interpreter, I gave Ou-ang-wak the usual warning in such cases before arrest. But I felt perfectly sure that this had no meaning whatever to him, as he was very frightened at the time, taking no notice of the interpreter, and never taking his eyes off me.

"I made full inquiries with reference to the two dead men, and noticed that frequently the natives questioned would address the accused for information."

Sergeant Douglas then arrested Ou-ang-wak.

"I then told him that he would have to come with me to the white man's land as the Big Chief there wanted to see him. He asked me what they were going to do with him and would they kill him. I told him that I had no idea, but I assured him that if he acted square with me he would be looked after well and taken outside to the Big White Chief. He at first did not wish to come, but I had another talk with the rest of the tribe, and explained to them that they were dependent entirely on the white man for all they got from the trade stores, and that if they did not obey the laws of the white man they would not be allowed to trade at the stores and in consequence would be in a very bad way. This had the desired effect, and the Chief informed me that Ou-ang-wak was ready to start any time I wanted him."

The question now arose as to the disposition of the woman in the case. The chief represented that her family lived at Churchill, that she had no relations in this region, and that unless she were taken back she would starve. She was very poorly dressed and in a very nervous condition, thinking that she was to be left in this camp far from her relations and with nobody to look after her. She asked to be taken to Churchill, and Sergeant Douglas decided to accede to her request.

Sergeant Douglas started on his return journey on February 11, and after experiencing some very bad weather arrived at Baker Lake post on February 18. He remained there for six days, paying off natives and preparing for the journey to Chesterfield, and left on February 24. Owing to an exceptionally bad storm, the trip took fifteen days instead of ten as in ordinary good weather. An incident of the journey was the finding of some natives at a place called Igloo suffering from starvation, a child being dead and two adults in bed too weak to stand; Sergeant Douglas left with them as much food as he could spare, and on arrival at Chesterfield he organized and despatched a relief party. He arrived at Chesterfield on March 8.

Sergeant Douglas' aim now was to place his prisoner at the disposal of the legal tribunals of the country. His problem was complicated by news of the severe illness of Constable Eyre at Fullerton, this necessitating a rapid journey to that post and back, accompanied by the prisoner; after this interlude he took Ou-ang-wak to Churchill, arriving there on April 13, after some very hard travel. Two of the natives, one of them Ou-ang-wak, suffered badly from snow blindness, and a dog was lost in a peculiar manner. "The last day into Churchill, one of the dogs played out. Not knowing exactly where we were, but being sure that we were close, I packed this dog on the sled. When coming in sight of the post, dark at night, the dogs started to run; the played-out dog fell off the sled, and was never seen afterwards. I sent a native back to look for him, but it was too dark to locate him. In all probability he was trapped or killed by wolves." Here there was much trouble over dog-feed, and the Police dogs were sent back to Fullerton. At Churchill, too, a statement was taken from the accused, with the aid of the Hudson's Bay Company's interpreter. The woman who was the innocent cause of the trouble was despatched under suitable escort to her own family, a day's march away from the post. By April 23, Sergeant Douglas and his prisoner were at Fort Nelson, and from that point he proceeded to The Pas. Here a preliminary trial was held before a Justice of the Peace, and the accused was then taken to Dauphin.

The statement made by Ou-ang-wak is so singular a document that it may be quoted:—

> "Taken this 17th day of April, 1920, at Fort Churchill, Man., by Sergeant W. O. Douglas, before the undersigned members of the Hudson's Bay Company. Interpreted by Alexander Oman, interpreter for the Hudson Bay Company, Fort Churchill.
> "My name is Ou-ang-wak. I am a Paddlemuit. I do not know how old I am, but I am old enough to have a wife.
> "My home is at 'Shekoligyouak,' in the Baker Lake district.
> "My mother and father are both dead and I make my home with my married sister. According to the custom of my tribe I was given a wife a long time ago, she is only a child yet and is still living with her people.
> "I did not like not having a woman old enough to live with as I am old enough to have a wife and I wanted one.
> "At my camp, I had four dogs belonging to a native named 'Apittuk.' The brothers called 'Angalookyouak' and 'Alecummick' wanted these dogs and were very angry because I would not give them the dogs.
> "I heard it said in the camp that 'Angalookyouak' would kill me.

"One morning early in the hot weather, the moon before the ice starts to make on the lakes, I went to 'Angalookyouak's' tent and looked in and saw that he was alone in the tent and that he was in his bed and asleep. I went back to my tent and got my rifle, a 38-55 Winchester, and went back to 'Angalookyouak's' tent and shot him through the top of the head while he was sleeping, he died quick.

"When I had killed 'Angalookyouak' I was afraid of his brother 'Alecummick,' so I ran quickly over to his tent which was quite close, opened up the flap and saw him sitting on his bed. I shot at him and hit him in the right shoulder, and he fell over dead.

"After I shot these two brothers they were left in their tents for five days, this being the custom of the tribe, and at the end of that time they were buried. I helped to bury them, and I left the rifle that I shot them with at the graveside.

"I did not know that it was wrong to shoot these men, and if I did so that the white men would come after me.

"I am sorry now that I did this and would not do so again.

"I have travelled a lot with these two brothers, deer hunting, winter and summer, and to the trade store at Baker Lake, during these trips I always got along with them very well, and there were never any angry words spoken.

"This was the first time that I ever had any trouble with them.

"After 'Angalookyouak' was dead I took his woman as I had no wife, and this woman had no people to go to close to, and all her people were at Churchill."

"The above is a true and correct interpretation of the statement of 'Ou-ang-wak' to the best of my knowledge and belief."

Bringing Ou-ang-wak to civilization did not solve all the difficulties of the case, and a trial in civilization presented grave difficulties. He is, of course, entitled to all the protection that British law affords, and this means that he must be tried with all the safeguards which are thrown about persons who are accused of crime. The alleged murder took place in the general neighbourhood of Baker Lake, and the witnesses, i.e. the fifteen or sixteen natives who were in camp at the time, live in that region; no capital case hitherto has been tried nearer the scene than Norway House. The solution which was proposed, and which was approved by the Department of Justice, was as follows:—

1. That an officer of the force, having the powers of a coroner, and such other ranks as appear advisable be sent to the Baker Lake District, for the purpose of holding an inquest and gathering the necessary evidence.

2. That the preliminary proceedings held before the Justice of the Peace at The Pas, Man., be quashed and the accused accompany the Police party back to Baker Lake and there be given a preliminary hearing after the inquest.

3. That the Police party, with the accused, return to Baker Lake by the Hudson's Bay Company's steamship Nascopie which will leave Montreal about the first week in July, on her annual trip to Chesterfield Inlet. The necessary investigations can then be carried out during the winter of 1920-1921.

4. That in July, 1921, a court with the necessary powers be convened and proceed to Chesterfield Inlet in the Nascopie on her annual trip and there dispose of the case, returning by the same boat. The round trip would occupy approximately ten weeks.

5. It is considered that the Police party will have sufficient time to gather all necessary evidence and be in a position to present the case to the court on its arrival at Chesterfield Inlet in August, 1921.

6. A jury panel of sufficient numbers can no doubt be secured from amongst the crew of the Nascopie.

The grounds upon which the recommendations were made were stated in the following terms:—

(a) That murders in the Northwest Territories amongst the natives are becoming alarmingly prevalent.

(b) That members of the tribes to which the murdered men belonged informed Sergeant Douglas that it was against their law for one Eskimo to kill another; that they had intended killing the accused for his crime but finally decided to leave him in the hands of the white men to be dealt with.

(c) It is therefore considered that the holding of a court and the disposing of this case at Chesterfield Inlet will have a beneficial and moral effect on the natives.

(d) That from a point of view of economy, it would, in all probability, be less expensive to have a court proceed to Chesterfield Inlet and dispose of the case, than to have all witnesses brought to civilization and held until the Nascopie made her annual trip in 1922.

Accordingly, Inspector Reames was despatched to Baker Lake before the close of navigation, and it is proposed to send the full court there in the summer of 1921.

THE BELCHER ISLANDS PATROL

Rumours of murders among the Eskimo living on the Belcher Islands caused a patrol to be sent there, consisting of Inspector J. W. Phillips and Sergeant A. H. Joy. The party left Haileybury on August 6, 1920, and proceeded by rail to Mattice, on the Canadian National Railway. They then descended the Missinaibi River to Moose Factory; from there they went, by sailing boat and gasoline launch, to the Belcher Islands and back; and they returned to Cochrane by ascending the Abitibi River. Inspector Phillips was in Haileybury again on the 19th October, the entire patrol having occupied 75 days. The distance traversed was 1,730 miles.

The actual descent of the Missinaibi began on August 8, and the party arrived at Moose Factory on August 14, the canoe journey thus taking seven days. The river was difficult, portages being numerous, and it often being necessary for members of the party to walk to lighten the canoe.

Inspector Phillips remarks that the Missinaibi River never was used to any extent by travellers to and from James Bay until the Hudson's Bay Company started it in 1919 as a direct line of communication between Mattice and Moose Factory; it has been reported unsatisfactory alike in summer and winter, and is likely to be abandoned.

"It is a small stream," he says, "varying in width from one hundred to two hundred and fifty yards, for the first hundred miles below Mattice, while the deepest channel in the river, with the exception of a few places, is not more than two feet, and is a bed of boulders. From the mouth of the Opazatika river down to the Bay it gradually widens by the addition of many creeks and three large rivers, to about three quarters of a mile, and for the last fifty miles is studded with islands.

"Rapids occur quite frequently the whole length of the river, but are not dangerous in the sense of rapids, but only from the many hidden rocks, which are liable to cause the loss of an outfit by smashing up a canoe.

"There are several falls, quite impassable at any stage of water, but at each of these places the portages are quite good.

"The banks of intermittent clay, rock and sand vary in height from a few feet to about three hundred feet for the first sixty miles below the railway, and from there down gradually fall off to fifteen or twenty feet of gravel, limestone and clay.

"The timber on the banks is composed almost entirely of spruce and poplar and is decidedly small. It has the appearance of having been burnt off about ten or twelve years ago, nearly as far down as the mouth of the Abitibi."

From Moose Factory, Inspector Phillips and the patrol were transported on August 19, by the Hudson's Bay Company to Charlton Island. The Nascopie arrived on August 21, bringing the supplies for the patrol sent around from Montreal. On August 26, Mr. E. E. LaDuke, a prospector, arrived with a gasoline lanch and Inspector Phillips effected an advantageous arrangement whereby he chartered this craft for the voyage to the islands; the bargain included the services of the master and the engineer of the boat. The start was made on August 29, the route following the east coast of James Bay to Jones Point and Lonf Island, and then going directly across to the group. Despite much wind and heavy seas, the party arrived at their destination on the morning of September 3, after five days' voyaging. There followed some travelling among the Islands, and at noon on September 5 the patrol arrived at an Eskimo camp of 15 tents and about 70 natives.

On September 10, Inspector Phillips moved to another camp, remaining there till September 12, when he went on to a third camp at the north end of the largest island of the group; these two camps had thirteen tents and about sixty natives. All were in a state of terrible destitution. During this part of his stay, he investigated the killing of a native named Ko-Okyauk.

The patrol left the third camp on September 15, on the return voyage. They were troubled by severe gales, being stormbound at the Belcher Islands for four days, and reached Charlton Island on September 27, and Moose Factory on October 1. This part of the patrol thus took thirty days, of which seven or eight were occupied in investigation work and five were lost through being windbound.

The return journey was made by the Abitibi River. Delay was caused by the absence of Indian guides at the settlement, but the start was made on October 7. The river was ascended, with many portages and minor mishaps, and Clute, near Cochrane, was reached on October 18. This part of the journey thus took twelve days.

"The Abitibi River," Inspector Phillips says, "is a much wider stream than the Missanaibi River, and is generally recognized as the best route to James Bay, in spite of the drawback of a large number of portages. The width of the river would average from one third to half a mile for the first eighty miles about the mouth, and it has a fast current. After passing the Long Portage, the river narrows down to the average width of about two hundred yards, and the current slackens to almost dead water.

"The timber on the river along the whole route covered by us is very good, and is composed largely of spruce, poplar and birch of considerable size.

"The banks are generally very low and rocky and only increase in height in the vicinity of rapids.

"Indications of coal appear quite frequently in places where the banks are above the average height."

How exceptional was the speed with which this patrol was carried out is shown by the fact that Inspector Phillips was expected to take the entire winter; the course which seemed most likely for him to pursue was to make his way along the east coast of Hudson Bay to Great Whale River and to winter there until the ice enabled him to cross to the islands. The opportune arrival of Mr. La Duke, and the availability of his boat, enabled Inspector Phillips to go and return in the period before navigation closed. Before Mr. La Duke appeared on the scene, Inspector Phillips was in treaty with the Hudson's Bay Company to charter a schooner it has there; this might have enabled the journey to be made before winter set in.

The Belcher Islands are extremely little known, even by persons who live on the adjacent mainland, though of late years prospectors have examined them for iron deposits. The coast line of the mainland is described as "solid granite and barren for many miles inland. The whole coast is a mass of barren rocky islands running many miles out to sea." As regards the islands, Inspector Phillips says:—

> "The formation of the Belcher Islands is very similar to that of the main coast north of Cape Jones, as far as I saw. It is of diabase composition and resembles in appearance vast mounds of large boulders cemented together. The highest point on the islands is estimated at four hundred feet and averages around one hundred and fifty. They are totally devoid of any vegetation other than moss.
> "The richest iron ore yet discovered there is on the northeast of the largest island and is practically all staked out in claims.
> "The west coast of the main islands is decidedly rough and dangerous to any kind of sea craft, on account of the reefs running miles out to sea."

Inspector Phillips travelled completely round the largest island. "This island," he says, "is at least seventy miles long, and contains a large fresh water lake over forty miles long and many miles wide, with a large river draining it from the southwest corner."

The Killing of Ketaushuk

The occasion of the patrol was the killing in the autumn of 1918, of an Eskimo named Ketaushuk, who belonged to the Belcher Islands, community. Inspector Phillips on his arrival conducted a strictly formal inquiry, he acting as coroner and the white crew of the gasoline launch, four in number, constituting a jury. The natives at first were much alarmed, but were induced to tell their story, their depositions being taken down and sworn to in the usual manner. The facts of the homicide were as follows:—

The deceased, Ketaushuk, was a member of the band, which is miserably poor, and barely able to subsist. He had the reputation of being "a bad man after the women." Though married, he became infatuated during the autumn of 1918, with a young woman named Ningeeoo, who is the wife of a man named Mukpooloo, and he took her by force from her husband. Contention followed, and Ketaushuk finally became desperate and threatened to shoot anybody who interfered or tried to take the girl away from him. The rest of the band were terrified by his threats and left him. He lived alone for some time in isolated places, with the two women, his wife and Ningeeoo, and became sulky and melancholy. This frame of mind was enough to convince these Eskimo, who are very primitive and superstitious, that he was insane. The band now found itself in a very serious plight, as the men were so alarmed that they were afraid to go abroad to hunt, and the community was threatened with starvation. After they had lived in fear for some weeks, a tribal council was held, those conferring being nine men, the heads of all the families of the camp.

It was decided that he was insane, that he was too dangerous to be allowed to live, and that he should be killed on the first opportunity by the first man who saw him. Accordingly, he was waylaid on his return to his camp from hunting by three men, one of them being Mukpooloo; the injured husband, however, apparently losing his nerve, went home before Ketaushuk arrived at his tent. The two others, Tukautauk and Awlarook, with the assistance of the two women, Ketaushuk's wife and his enforced paramour, took the outlaw unawares, and Tukautauk shot him dead. When he fired the shot Tukautauk was in Ketaushuk's tent, in company with Awlarook, and the deceased man's wife, while Ningeeoo acted as decoy. Ningeeoo afterwards helped to handle the body, which was buried near the scene of the killing; the grave was visited by the patrol and the body viewed. The entire community including Ketaushuk's nearest relations were in full accord with the deed, which seemed to them a proper and necessary step. During the period preceding his death, the whole band were in sore straits for food.

The verdict of the coroner's jury after finding that the deceased had been killed by Tukautauk, said:—

> "After careful consideration of the statements submitted, we have agreed that the deceased, Ketaushauk, although wilfully murdered by his fellow tribesmen, was killed for the common good and safety of the band, consisting of fifty or more souls.
> "The act, although deliberately committed, was done erroneously at the instance of a council composed of the entire male population (grown) of said land, and entirely without malice or intrigue on the part of the councillors for the following reasons:—
> "(1) Immediate starvation of at least the women and children.
> "(2) Being in actual fear of being killed, justified by constant threats from said Kataushuk, considered by the band to be non compos mentis.
> "We therefore strongly recommend, owing to the primitive existence and the total absence of all knowledge of law on the part of the natives of these islands; that no criminal charge be laid against any party to the act, nor any individual to be held responsible. We further recommend that a responsible representative of the Government be sent amongst these people to instruct them in the laws of the country."

In accordance with this verdict, Inspector Phillips contented himself, so far as this tragedy was concerned, with warning the tribe to refrain in future from taking the law into their own hands, and with explaining to them the course to pursue in the event of any crime being committed by any one of the band.

Inspector Phillips adds:—

> "These people are not criminals, naturally. Stealing and lying among them are unknown, and on making inquiries I am informed that it has been twenty, and some say forty years since any killing took place among the Belcher islands previous to 1918."

With reference to this remark, it may be noted that the very first witness examined was Tukautauk, and that he told the story of the homicide fully.

The Killing of Ko-Okyauk

While the investigation into the death of Ketaushuk was proceeding, Inspector Phillips learned that another native, named Ko-Okyauk, had come to his end in September, 1919. In this case, investigation disclosed a less excusable homicide, and confronted Inspector Phillips with a problem of some difficulty.

An inquest was held as in the other case, the viewing of the body being dispensed with. The depositions revealed a distressing tragedy.

Ko-Okyauk was a married man. He left his wife and family and ran off with a woman named Niveauseauk, his wife's sister. This matrimonial irregularity was taken by the band to indicate insanity, and caused much excitement. He stayed away from his wife and family for some weeks, and was supposed to have sent messages to the camp in which his wife was living, threatening to kill the people. He finally returned to the camp with his sister-in-law, but is said to have behaved strangely and to have told his wife that he intended to kill the others; she told the others, to their great alarm. The men of the community tried to reconcile him to the rest of the band. Later in the day, he left the camp with a gun, and is supposed to have told his wife that he intended to ambush and shoot some of the others. Two men followed him; when he saw them he got in a kayak and put to sea; they followed him out and in the course of the afternoon herded him back to camp. He again was asked to reform, and again was defiant.

The male adults of the camp then held a council, and decided that he should be tied up and put where he could do nobody harm. He was seized, bound hand and foot, and taken to a small island a short distance from the camp; the mode of transport was by laying him on two kayaks tied together. The unfortunate man was left all night without food or drink; in the evening he was visited by some of the men, who tightened the cords, to make sure that he did not escape. However, next afternoon he was seen walking about the island, having cut the cords on sharp stones. Towards evening, after some of the men had returned from hunting, they went again to the island to tie him up again; before leaving they were told by the headman of the camp again to ask him to change his ways, and, if he promised, to release him. At this point the evidence conflicted, some of the witnesses saying that he refused, and others that he was not asked the question. All accounts, however, united in stating that he had been tied up in such a way as to strangle him. He was, in brief, treated brutally and killed in a cruel manner.

A curious detail is that the widow in her testimony said that the first incident which made her regard her husband as crazy was that he told her on several occasions not to give food to other poor people in the camp. Among those who had taken part in the conversations in which Ko-Okyauk was asked to reform was his brotehr; he regarded him as insane.

The jury found that the deceased had come to his death at the hands of four men, who were named, "by being wilfully and maliciously tied with seal lines until death came by strangulation, without any just cause or apparent reason." The verdict continued:—

> "After careful consideration of the statements submitted we are agreed that the four persons named above be directly held responsible for the death of the said Ko-Okyauk.
> "We agree to point out that Tukautauk as the chief accessory to be proceeded against by criminal action, he being the old-man of the band and the one to whom the younger men looked for counsel in the primary cause of Ko-Okyauk's death.
> "After carefully considering the destitute condition of the natives of the Belcher Islands and their miserable means of subsistence, we strongly recommend that these men be not taken into custody at the present time; that their immediate arrest is not justified in face of certain starvation of their families, consisting of 25 or more persons, which in that event would deprive them of the only means by which they can exist."

Inspector Phillip's position as regards these homicides was embarrassing. He had started on his voyage with a month's provisions for his party, which consisted in all of six men; on his arrived he had been obliged to dip into his stores to feed the Eskimo, who had positively nothing to eat while the earlier investigation was in progress. The gasoline supply was running low, as the boat had had to contend with persistent head winds. To arrest the men, as the jury pointed out, would condemn their families to death by starvation; only two crippled men would have been left in the camp, which was quite destitute of food. Accordingly, he reluctantly accepted the suggestion put forward by the jury. At the same time, he took a severe view of the wanton nature of the killing, regarding the excuse as far less valid than in the case of Ketaushuk.

It was established that the natives really believed Ko-Okyauk to be deranged. In this connection, Inspector Phillips remarks that the natives, under the influence of their spiritual advisers, have come to regard sexual immorality as so heinous an offence as to constitute evidence of insanity. In this case it seems to have outweighed in guilt the taking of human life.

Impoverished Condition of the Band

Men	33
Women	34
Children	61
Total	128

Of the men, several have been crippled by gun accidents, and cannot help to provide food.

They live entirely on seals and fish, but the former are extremely scarce and are difficult to get because of the poor equipment of the band. As for fish, they are very short of nets, in some instances having only one net for several families. "I was informed," Inspector Phillips says, "that it is not an uncommon thing for these people to have resort to mice, roots and berries for many days at a stretch, to avoid starvation." Owing to the inferior quality of their boats, which are skin kayaks, they can fish and hunt only in the calmest weather—and the weather is almost constantly windy. They have a few firearms, muzzle-loading shot guns and Winchesters, but they can obtain in their trade so small a quantity of ammunition that these weapons are of little use to them.

Their clothing consists of seal skins, dog skins and bird skins. "The women and children are clothed in a combination garb of cotton, purchased in years when fur was plentiful, patched up with skins of everything procurable, and in many cases not enough to cover their bodies." They have very little bedding; in winter they sleep with their dogs in order to keep warm.

"Their real condition is inconceivable to one who has not seen," says Inspector Phillips.

These people are separated from Great Whale River, on the mainland, their nearest trading post, by 70 miles of open water. In summer, they cannot navigate their frail kayaks across this passage. In March this body of water usually freezes and they cross on the ice to trade; occasionally the ice fails, and they cannot trade. Apparently nobody ever visits the islands from the main land, apart from prospectors and miners interested in the mineral deposits.

Animal and bird life is scarce on the islands.

"These people are indeed the most destitute natives I have ever seen; not for the want of trying, I believe, but through the scarcity of food and their limited means of procuring same. Not many of them own more than two to five traps.

"Before leaving, these people asked me to approach the Government with a view to getting them a 40-foot schooner, by which they could move several families at one time from one hunting ground to another, also to enable them to make a trip to Great Whale River in the summer in addition to finding new hunting grounds further out to sea, which could not be done in a kayak. They also asked for tents, blankets, powder, shot, cartridges—size 44 Winchester; fish nets—2½ to 3-inch mesh and 6 feet deep, and gun caps as per specimen. I noticed particularly that they did not ask for any articles of food, but only the means which would enable them to catch it."

Inspector Phillips urgently recommends that these supplies be given them. They constantly are threatened with starvation.

DETACHMENT AT TREE RIVER

The trend of trade upon the Arctic coast for some time has set eastward. Herschel Island, formerly the commercial centre of this inhospitable region, now is comparatively deserted; Bernard Harbour, west of Coronation gulf, for a while was the easternmost trading place; now it has been passed, and not only is Port Epworth, near Tree River, a port of call, but there is a Hudson's Bay Company post at Agiak, 18 miles east of Tree River, while the Hudson's Bay Company schooner El Sueno spent the winter of 1919-20 at Kent Peninsula, and a white man lives there, trading on behalf of that company with the natives. These circumstances naturally entail an extension of Police supervision.

Already the murder of the two priests, Fathers Le Roux and Rouvier, on the Coppermine river, and of Messrs. Radford and Street at Bathurst Inlet have led to the despatch of two patrols which required much time and exceedingly arduous travelling. In 1919 it was decided to supplement the detachment at Herschel Island by a post at or near the mouth of the Coppermine River; such an establishment could extend our control over the coast as far east as Bathurst Inlet and Kent Peninsula, and northwards into Victoria Land. Accordingly, a party consisting of Staff-Sergeant S. G. Clay, Constable E. H. Cornelius, and Constable J. Brockie left Herschel Island on August 30 to carry out this plan. Staff-Sergeant Clay on September 9 established a detachment at Tree River on the shores of Coronation gulf, 65 miles east of the mouth of the Coppermine River, and a few miles from Port Epworth. The exact situation is 67′ 46″ north latitude and 111′ 59″ west longitude; the nearest post office is Fort MacPherson, N.W.T., over 600 miles away as the crow flies, and the nearest telegraph office is Dawson, some 500 miles still further away. The summer of 1920 brought reports which show the successful founding of the post in what seems a good situation.

The party was accompanied by four Eskimo, Sinnisiak, Uluksak, Kumik and Cayugana. The two first-named had been convicted of the murder of Fathers Le Roux and Rouvier and sentenced to death, but the sentence had been changed to imprisonment for life, and they later had been pardoned; Kumik and Cayugana had been charged with the murder of a native woman in the Coronation Gulf region, but had been acquitted; and Staff-Sergeant Clay's party undertook the duty of escorting these people back to their bands. It is characteristic of the Eskimo that the relations between them and the Police were excellent, and that on arrival at Tree Island, one of them, Sinnisiak entered the service as a special constable and did useful work as a guide, hunter, etc. Staff-Sergeant Clay remarks that "his now rather long acquaintance with the Police has had its advantages."

The original intention had been to establish the post at the mouth of the Coppermine, but on arriving there, Staff-Sergeant Clay decided to change to Tree River. The channel by which the Coppermine finds its way into the sea is so shallow and tortuous that a vessel drawing 6 feet would have difficulty in entering, while at Tree River the harbour is excellent, the anchorage is good and a vessel drawing 12 or 14 feet of water can come to within 300 yards of the detachment. Moreover, a few miles away is a spot where the Eskimo congregate from December to March, and at Hepburn Island, also in the general vicinity, is a place where these people assemble in November, before the sea is firmly frozen. There is a similar place of assembly at the Coppermine, but of the two Tree River seems the more advantageously situated for intercourse with the natives. "We are within easy travelling distances of the various bands of Copper Eskimo," Staff-Sergeant Clay wrote in his report, "and since our arrival here patrols have been made to the various bands on Victoria Land, Coppermine and Bathurst Inlet."

The journey from Herschel Island to Tree River was made by water, in the gasoline schooner Fort MacPherson. The party left Fort MacPherson on 21st July in the Police gasoline launch and arrived at Herschel Island six days later. Delay then ensued, owing to the non-appearance of sundry ships, and in particular of the Hudson's Bay Company's supply ship, Bender Brothers; the expedition relied upon the cargo of this ship for building materials and provisions, and was obliged to leave before she reached Herschel Island; it thus had to start with an inadequate supply of the former, and in consequence had to winter in temporary quarters. The Bender Brothers did not arrive at Herschel Island until some time in September. "A little lumber, some corrugated iron and some schooner sails were the only building material available at Herschel Island, and this, together with sleds, canoe, ten dogs, tools and what provisions could be secured at the island were shipped on board the gasoline schooner Fort MacPherson and on the 30th August we sailed for the eastward." The proper building materials were despatched eastward in the summer of 1920.

After being delayed by a bad gale from the southwest the schooner arrived on September 1 at Baillie Island, Cape Bathurst, and unloaded supplies for the Hudson's Bay Company's trading post. Here some additional stores and provisions were purchased. An interesting event here was the meeting with two schooners, the Sea Wolf from Nome and the Herman, the latter conveying a party comprising an American, Mr. J. Crawford, and some Alaskan natives; these people had been marooned on Banks Land for three years, the ice preventing vessels from reaching them with supplies. They were all well and had been able to get enough deer meat to keep them from starving.

On September 2, the schooner called at Booth Islands and landed some provisions for a trapper named Jacobson who intended to winter there. After experiencing some heavy weather the Fort MacPherson on September 4 arrived at Bernard Harbour. There is a Hudson's Bay Company post here, as well as a Church of England mission. Dogs, ammunition, and supplies were bought. Here the question of the situation of the proposed new post came up for discussion; Staff-Sergeant Clay's instructions, while giving him liberty of action, named the Coppermine River as his general objective and the stores were consigned to that place, but Mr. Hall, the district manager of the Hudson's Bay Company, stated that he could not send the Fort MacPherson there because of insufficient depth of water. Bernard Harbour being too far west for police purposes, Staff-Sergeant Clay fixed upon Tree River, 65 miles east of the Coppermine, and Mr. Hall willingly agreed to send the schooner there. Accordingly, the expedition left Bernard Harbour on September 8 and on September 9 Tree River was reached and the post was formally established.

The rapidity of the journey merits notice. Staff-Sergeant Clay remarks:—

> "We encountered very little ice on the way in here; a few loose cakes were seen off Herschel Island, but none was seen in the Dolphin and Union Strait, or in the Coronation Gulf.
> "I am told that this season was one that was most free from ice for many years."

It must be noted in this connection that ice conditions in some summers forbid travel beyond Paillie Island.

The founding of the post is thus described:—

"After locating a building site close to the harbour at Tree River, we at once proceeded with erecting the detachment, a building 18 feet by 20 with a lean-to warehouse 12 feet by 18.

"The material we had on hand, with the addition of some deerskins which I purchased from the natives sufficed for putting up quarters which are quite comfortable. The only stove we use for cooking and heating purposes is the cook stove purchased at Herschel Island. The strictest economy in coal is necessary as we have only a limited supply, and wood for fuel is not to be found in any quantity along this part of the coast.

"The four natives we brought in with us were anxious to work and help us prepare for the coming winter. I accordingly had two of them secure all the fish they could before freeze-up and the other two were engaged in gathering driftwood, digging meat house, hunting deer and other work incidental to the establishment of a detachment on this part of the coast.

"The building we are living in now will, if it is decided to put up a permanent detachment here, make an excellent store house."

As regards general conditions the report says:—

"Fish both for ourselves and dogs are easily obtained. (These should be put up during the summer months.)

"Deer are killed in large quantities in November and April and can be obtained the year around about 30 miles inland.

"Wood for fuel is very scarce; a few sticks can be found on the islands scattered through the gulf; it will therefore be necessary to supply this detachment with coal annually."

Here the detachment settled down to spend the winter. Staff-Sergeant Clay's report is dated February 1, 1920, and the diary shows the usual routine of an Arctic winter, the detachment doing much work in improving their quarters, making furniture, hunting, etc. One incident was the arrival on September 19, of the schooner Teddy Bear with Captain Bernard and two men from Taylor Island, southeast of Victoria Land, where they had spent two years, unable to leave because of the ice. Staff-Sergeant Clay issued trading and trapping licenses to the party. Several visits were received, both from white men and natives; indeed, there was a good deal of movement along the coast during the winter. Four long patrols were made to the Coppermine, to Bernard Harbour and Victoria Land, to Bathurst Inlet and to Kent Peninsula, with dog teams; the mileage of these being 1,044. "Our patrols were treated well by the various natives," Staff-Sergeant Clay reports, "and they seem to understand the purpose for which Police are being stationed in their district."

With regard to the Eskimo, Staff-Sergeant Clay makes the following observations:—

"The largest band of natives visited by us are those known as the Kelewiktomuit; these people live during the summer months on the mainland south of the Bathurst Inlet. In winter they are to be found after December on the ice in close proximity to the inlet.

"Here they engage in sealing until the months of April or May, returning then to the mainland for the summer. Some of these people travel overland during the summer as far west as Great Bear Lake, where they secure timber for making sleds, bows and arrows, and other wooden implements which they require.

"One of the next largest bands of natives visited were the Puiplirmuit on Victoria. These are apparently a prosperous people; they seem to want for nothing, they can easily and do secure all the game they require, but like other native bands these people are now equipped with modern rifles, and with them slaughter more game than they require or can consume. In former years these people could secure with the bow and arrow sufficient game for their needs, and the use of modern firearms will only be of temporary advantage to them, as the deer will become scarcer annually.

"Musk-ox are to be found inland from this detachment about twenty miles; at Cape Barrow, fifty miles east of here, large quantities were killed by the natives last year.

"It is hard to get the natives to discontinue hunting these animals, although we have pointed out to them that the hide is now of no value to them, as traders are not permitted to purchase them.

"The native has no purpose to which he puts the musk-ox hide so that it is reasonable to believe that now he is aware that the white man will not buy it from him, the practice of hunting these animals will be in future more or less discontinued.

"The result of our inquiries relative to the practice of the Copper Eskimo in murdering newly-born children go to show that it was indulged in until quite recently. When questioned on this matter they admit that it has been the practice of their people from time immemorial to dispose of newly-born children from time to time, but this was only done when they were hard pressed for food or in many instances when they were travelling in winter time and the mother found it next to impossible to care for and rear the baby. The presence of numbers of young children in the various villages visited goes to show that this vicious practice is dying out."

Staff-Sergeant Clay makes the remark that the money with which the detachment was supplied had no purchasing value in dealing with the natives, as he was compelled to resort to barter.

In the spring of 1920, Staff-Sergeant Clay and Constable Cornelius came out overland, their route being from Tree River west to the mouth of the Coppermine, thence up the Coppermine for 15 miles to Bloody Falls, thence west over the Barren Lands to Dismal Lake and Dease River, thence along the east side of the river to Dease Bay, Great Bear Lake, crossing to the west side of the lake, from there to Fort Norman on the Mackenzie River, and from there to Fort MacPherson by scow. The distance traversed was 1,040 miles, of which 560 were with dogs and 480 by boat. The party started on March 15, and they reached their destination on June 22.

This patrol was an illustration of the uncertainties, difficulties and dangers of travel in this region. The journey along the coast was made without trouble, and from the coast to Dease Bay the going was excellent. From there onwards, various delays were experienced, and at Fort Norman the shortage of supplies, particularly of dog-feed, was so acute that the party had to repair to Willow Lake, about 40 miles away, and spend nearly a month in fishing and hunting. The river was unusually late in breaking up, and unusual difficulties and mishaps were encountered, these including the destruction by a forest fire of a cache containing most of their outfit, and the temporary loss of their scow by an ice jam.

The patrols made by the detachment during the winter were as follows:—

Staff-Sergeant Clay, to the Coppermine River, November 18 to December 2	200	miles
Constables Cornelius and Brockie, to Bernard Harbour and Victoria Land, December 10 to January 7	334	"
Staff-Sergeant Clay, to Bathurst Inlet, January 9 to January 21	254	"
Costable Brockie, to Kent Peninsula, January 24 to February 8	256	"

In his first patrol to the Coppermine, Staff-Sergeant Clay was accompanied by Alulak, Komik and Cayugana, one of the purposes of the journey being to return the two Eskimo last named to their tribe. The sleds were heavily loaded, the two natives having "collected a miscellaneous assortment of odd and ends during their travels to and from Fort MacPherson." In his diary, Staff-Sergeant Clay remarks, in chronicling the return of these worthies to their tribe, "Am glad to see the last of them and their baggage." The relations between the two races, however, were good. The reunion was effected at a native village or rather encampment, called Ioktoon, about 10 miles north of the Coppermine, where about 25 native families were encamped. They seemed delighted at the return of their kinsmen.

"The natives here seemed to want to impress upon me that they were good people," Staff-Sergeant Clay writes, "and were anxious that I should report this to the proper authorities; and also their appreciation of the white man's leniency in its application to Natives Cayugana and Komik."

At the Coppermine, Staff-Sergeant Clay camped with Mr. Charles Klenkenberg, a former whaler who has been established at this place for three years as a trader. At the Kugaruak River between the Coppermine and the detachment, Captain Joseph Bernard, who was wintering in the Teddy Bear was visited. Captain Bernard had intended to make the Northeast passage, but was prevented from doing so for two years in succession by ice conditions, the vessel being frozen in on the south coast of Victoria Land, and when, in August, 1919, the conditions were favourable, his provisions were too low.

Large herds of caribou were seen on this patrol.

Constables Cornelius and Brockie in their subsequent patrol visited the places called at by Staff-Sergeant Clay, receiving a particularly hospitable welcome at Ioktoon, and went on to Bernard Harbour, where they spent Christmas. They then crossed the Dolphin and Union Strait to Victoria Island, and visited the Puiplirmuit Eskimo village. This was the home of Sinnisiak, the pardoned murderer, now the "forerunner" and guide of the patrol, and he was given a great welcome, which did not prevent him from continuing his services with the force. This band numbered about 125, and special mention is made of their prosperity. None the less, the absence of old people was noted. From here the patrol travelled southeasterly to Lady Franklin Point to a village of the Tuktotogmuit, where also they were cordially received; these natives they knew already, as they had spent the autumn and early winter on the mainland. From this place they returned to Tree River over the ice.

This patrol saw no game of any kind, and learned that practically no caribou had crossed from Victoria Land between Tree River and Bernard Harbour that winter; moreover, they had been getting scarcer annually for three or four years. Some of the inhabitants surmised that late "freeze-ups" were driving the animals eastward to find a crossing. Constable Cornelius remarks:—

"We were surprised to find what a great number of rifles had been distributed amongst the Eskimo during the short period the traders have been in the country. Practically every native on the mainland is the owner of a rifle now, and even on the southwest coast of Victoria Land there are but few bows and arrows still in use. Many bows and arrows were offered to us as curios, but we were unable to carry them.

"At the Eskimo villages which we visited on the Victoria Land coast we met a number of Eskimo fur runners who are employed by the traders on the mainland. Some of these fur runners are entrusted with an outfit amounting to four or five hundred dollars at outside prices, and so are able to do quite a business with their native friends."

Staff-Sergeant Clay's patrol to Bathurst Inlet was made to meet a band of Eskimo known as the Kelewiktomuit, whom the police hitherto had not encountered; these people were found at an island named Atonike, about 20 miles east of Cape Barrow. Staff-Sergeant Clay says:—

"Our party were received by this band with the greatest hospitality; they at once set about erecting a snow house for us, gave us food for the dogs and ourselves, and notwithstanding the fact that we were strangers to them, behaved in a remarkably courteous manner, that is sometimes not met with in civilized parts.

"These people were not a bit backward in giving me information that was required, the subject of which is contained in a separate report.

"They were, however, somewhat reticent when questioned by me as to the extent of child murder amongst them and kindred tribes.

"From their point of view infanticide is justifiable, it only being resorted to when hunger strikes the band, or they are on the move from one district to another, and it becomes an impossibility for the mother to care for and rear the child.

"This practice is without doubt becoming less common amongst them and with the advent of the missionary, and other aids to civilization will in short while be discontinued entirely.

"Some of the men with whom I talked led me to believe that the old custom of murdering the aged and infirm was very rarely now indulged in, although cases of this kind have occurred within recent years.

"This tribe (Kelewiktomuit) number between three and four hundred souls; the presence of quite a large number of young children seems to establish the fact that infanticide is not indulged in at the rate it was in former years."

Here again the people were found to have rifles, though as yet most of their meat was obtained by bow and arrow and spear. On this patrol, Staff-Sergeant Clay used snow houses, finding them a little more comfortable than tents. The two natives who accompanied him were good igloo builders, and could erect the night's camp in about half an hour. The primus stove is unsuited to an igloo, as it fouls the air, and a native lamp, using blubber, served better.

Constable Brockie's patrol to Kent Peninsula, where he found the El Sueno wintering and Mr. Peter Norberg established as a trader for the Hudson Bay Company, is chiefly noticeable for his friendly dealings with the Eskimo. He first met them at a native village called Nauhokgnaton. He says:—

"There were about eighteen to twenty families camped here, the men being engaged in sealing operations. As soon as they saw us pull into the village, they quit work and came into the camp.

"I found them a very happy and obliging lot of people, willing to assist us in every way. They helped us build our igloo.

"Here I was storm-bound for three days.

"The natives seemed to have plenty of food, and in stormy weather, when they don't go sealing, their time is occupied in dancing, a large igloo being used as a dance hall."

THE OIL REGION ON THE MACKENZIE RIVER

The reported discovery of oil near Fort Norman, on the Mackenzie river, will attract many prospectors to the Northwest Territories next year. Preparations have already been made to maintain good order and to prevent loss and suffering.

A party of one non-commissioned officer and two constables is now en route to that point to establish an outpost.

An Ordinance has been passed empowering the Mounted Police to prevent persons from entering the country improperly equipped and insufficiently provided with food. Regulations as to registration of all persons entering the Mackenzie district are now in force, which proved of great value in the Yukon rush of 1898.

SOCIAL UNREST

In common with the rest of the civilized world, Canada has still an element of unrest, but I venture to assert less than most. The extremists have been busy preaching dissatisfaction and advocating violent changes, but have made little progress.

TICKET OF LEAVE ACT

It is of interest to note that during the thirty-one years the Act has been in force, 11,675 sentences have been completed on parole.

CRIMINAL IDENTIFICATION

The establishment of a Finger-print Bureau for the purpose of having under Government control at Ottawa the criminal record of all persons convicted of indictable offences was recommended by the Chief Constables' Association of Canada in 1905. In 1906, a deputation from the Chief Constables' Association, headed by Colonel Sir Percy Sherwood, Chief Commissioner of Police for Canada, waited on the Minister of Justice, urging the adoption of a bureau to be maintained at Government expense under the jurisdiction of the Dominion Police, and this the minister approved, but it was not until April, 1908, that an Order in Council was passed legally authorizing the use of the finger-print system, and making the provisions of the Identification of Criminals Act passed in June, 1898, applicable to it, but notwithstanding this, the bureau was not officially opened until April, 1910. In March, 1911, an Order in Council was passed sanctioning the use of photographs as an additional means of identification for the purpose of the Identification of Criminals Act.

ROYAL CANADIAN MOUNTED POLICE CONTROL, FEBRUARY 1, 1920.

7951	899	4	9	747	2,241

This work is carried on entirely in the interests of the provinces at the expense of the Dominion Government, but I regret to say that it is not made use of to the full extent by some of the provincial authorities. The bureau contains only a partial record of convicted criminals, and it is obvious that it is not fully serving the purpose for which it was established.

SUPPRESSION OF COMMERCIALIZED VICE

The Reverend John Chisholm, of Montreal, is employed by this department to work in co-operation with the Officer Commanding, Quebec District, in connection with the suppression of commercialized vice in Canada. The most important branch of the work is to meet ocean liners arriving at Quebec and Montreal, and care for and advise unaccompanied female immigrants arriving in this country. With the assistance of lady social service workers, unaccompanied female passengers are interviewed with a view to making sure they are either proceeding to relatives, friends or employment previously arranged for. They are then instructed with regard to their baggage, the time their train departs, and are accompanied to the train, in order to make sure they actually board it.

Through the organization known as the "Dorchester Home," in Montreal, officials of the church at the point of destination of these unaccompanied females are communicated with, in order to make sure that they arrive safely and finally settle down in the country.

A number of attempts have been made to entice young girls away, and it is necessary to be continually on the alert for those unscrupulous individuals engaged in the traffic known as white slavery.

Mrs. Bessie Egan is employed by this department at Halifax and carries out a similar line of work to that of the Reverend John Chisholm. She has also been very successful in a number of cases with regard to boats arriving from Newfoundland and locating young girls who have been intimate with members of the crew. These she has had deported back to Newfoundland and placed in good hands at that point, and where necessary, has arranged for hospital treatment at Halifax before their deportation.

Five hundred and eighteen recruits were engaged during the year. It was found that a sufficient number of a suitable type were not coming forward to meet wastage and complete the establishment.

Authority was therefore given to secure recruits in Great Britain; 125 men of excellent type were secured on condition that they pay their own expenses to Canada.

HEALTH

The general health has been good. There were no epidemics.

It is with great regret that I have to record the death of two officers and eleven other ranks.

Assistant Commissioner Routledge and Superintendent Horrigan had long and honourable service and their loss was keenly felt by all ranks.

HORSES

The veterinary surgeon, who purchases the remounts and supervises the stabling and feeding, and is responsible for the health of the horses, reports as follows:—

During the year, 207 horses were purchased at an average cost of a fraction over $144. Forty of this number were purchased in Ontario, 4 in Manitoba, 40 in Saskatchewan, 102 in Alberta and 21 in British Columbia.

Three horses bred in the force were taken on the strength, and one horse and one pony were presented, the former by General Sir Arthur W. Currie, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., and the latter, a Siberian pony, by Major-General Elmsley, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O.

Sixty-eight horses were cast and sold, 11 died, 11 were destroyed, and 1 accidentally killed.

The winter of 1919-20 was a particularly hard one for stock of all kinds; pastures were eaten off bare before the snow came, while the supply of fodder was both scarce and of inferior quality, and while our horses did not suffer at any time for the want of food, they did not show their usual good condition in the spring.

Western horses put on fat very rapidly once they got the spring grass, and the remounts purchased in the West were in good condition when taken over; a few of the number, however, more especially the better bred, and consequently the more nervous lost flesh after being placed in strange surroundings.

The horses purchased in Ontario were all in fairly good condition, but even they showed the effects of a hard winter.

The type of horses offered in the West this year was on a par with those we have had to select from since the advent of the heavy draught stallion; here and there, however, a really good one put in an appearance, and I have no doubt there would have been many more, were more good light stallions available.

In the east, there appears to be a steady demand for high class saddle horses, for in nearly every town and village I visited while purchasing there I found buyers, most of whom were acting as agents for the big city dealers. I was informed that the best of those purchased found their way to the hunting field, or were added to strings of show horses, while a lower grade were absorbed by state and city mounted police on the American side of the line.

TRANSPORT

Owing to the general use of motor-cars, it has been found necessary to supply mechanical transport to a considerable extent replacing the old horse transport. The force is supplied with 33 motor-cars and trucks, and 28 motor-cycles. All commanding officers report favourably on the value of the mechanical transport.

Six power boats are in commission. The Chakawana, on the Pacific coast, which covered 7,000 miles in patrolling the isolated industrial points along these intricate waters; the*Victory,* on the Artic coast and the lower Mackenzie River; the Resolution, on Great Slave Lake; the Lady Borden, on Chesterfield Inlet; the Duncan, at Port Nelson, and the Blue Wing, in Halifax harbour.

A request has been made to the Air Board to share in an air service to Fort Norman from Peace river next summer. The force has placed at the disposal of the board suitable quarters at Peace river and storage and accommodation at all posts down the Mackenzie route.

I anticipate an extension of this service to other points in the Northwest Territories, which are very remote and difficult of access.

BUILDINGS

A very fine building known as Llangara school, beautifully situated on Shaughnessy Heights, Vancouver, was purchased. It has accommodation for 200 men. New stables for 140 horses are now under construction. Officers' quarters are required to complete. We shall then have a very fine post.

A new post for 4 men is being constructed at Chesterfield Inlet.

No other buildings have been constructed.

All barrack buildings were repainted and repaired where necessary.

A new post will have to be built at Fort Norman, Mackenzie River district, next year.

In Eastern Canada we are occuping temporary buildings, for which high rentals are paid, and which are not entirely satisfactory.

I strongly recommend that suitable buildings be erected or purchased at all points where the force is to be permanently stationed.

CLOTHING, ETC.

It has been difficult to secure satisfactory material to meet our wants, but there is steady improvement, and I expect there will be no further trouble, and that the cost will be very much less.

FORAGE

Prices for forage are very high. There has been an ample supply available, and our requirements have been easily secured.

HONOURS

On March 8 last, Sir George Perley, High Commissioner for Canada, cabled as follows:—

> "With His Majesty's approval Prince of Wales has graciously consented accept position Honorary Commandant Royal Canadian Mounted Police and His Royal Highness asks me tell you how pleased he is to be associated with force in this way."

On May 3, an Order in Council was passed making the appointment.

The force has been signally honoured by His Royal Highness, and it keenly appreciates the distinction conferred upon it.

I have the honour to be, sir,

Your obedient servant,

A. BOWEN PERRY,
Commissioner.

REPORT

OF THE

CORRESPONDENCE BRANCH

OTTAWA, April 1, 1920.

Secretary of State of Canada.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit for your information a report of the work of the Correspondence Branch of your department for the year 1919-20.

The volume of correspondence handled by the Correspondence Branch during the year exceeded that of any previous year except 1918. This branch conducts all the general correspondence of the department and is in charge of the registration, indexing and filing of all correspondence relating to matters dealt with in the Correspondence, Registrar's and Companies Branches.

In addition the branch is responsible for the administration of the Canada Temperance Act, Ticket of Leave Act, Boards of Trade Act, Trade Unions Act and War Charities Act. The operations under these Acts may be briefly noted.

THE CANADA TEMPERANCE ACT.

No elections were held under the Canada Temperance Act during the year, but a petition was received for the repeal of the Act in the county of Yarmouth, N.S., and action was taken thereon in accordance with the provisions of chapter 30, 7-8 George V, " An Act to amend an Act in aid of Provincial Legislation prohibiting or restricting the sale or use of intoxicating liquors," which provides for the suspension of the Act by Order in Council without the taking of a vote. The operation of the Act in the county of Yarmouth was suspended by an Order in Council passed in the 5th February, 1920.

An enlarged force and importance has been given the Canada Temperance Act by the amendment passed at the fall session of Parliament in the year 1919, which provides for the taking of plebiscites in the provinces upon the question of the importation of intoxicating liquors. The province of Saskatchewan has already forwarded a resolution asking that a vote be taken in that province. It is expected that other provinces will also ask for a vote. The administration of the amendment as of the original Act is charged upon the Secretary of State.

The Act is now in force in the following counties and cities:—

Ontario.—Counties of Peel, Huron, Perth, and District of Manitoulin.

Quebec.—City of Thetford Mines, city of Quebec, and counties of Brome, Stanstead, Compton, and Missisquoi.

Nova Scotia.—Counties of Digby and Guysborough.

Manitoba.—Lisgar and Marquette.

THE TICKET OF LEAVE ACT.

The work in connection with the administration of this Act shows a very considerable increase over that of previous years. Some 848 licenses or tickets-of-leave were granted and issued during the year. The amount of correspondence exchanged in connection with the numerous petitions received and cases dealt with was correspondingly heavy. As you are aware, the Ticket of Leave Act is administered jointly by the Department of Justice and this department. This department conducts the correspondence and communicates His Excellency's decisions to petitioners for clemency and others concerned. Similar functions are assigned the department under the Criminal Code in relation to capital cases and pardons conditional and unconditional (section 1076).

Owing to the increase of work in the Remission office it has been necessary to add one clerk to the staff during the year.

THE BOARDS OF TRADE AND TRADE UNIONS ACTS.

Operations under these Acts were normal during the year. Eight Boards of Trade and six Trade Unions were incorporated and registered.

WAR CHARITIES ACT, 1917.

Notwithstanding the fact that the war has been over for some time quite a number of societies were registered under the Act during the year. These societies are engaged in relieving hardship resulting from the war and particularly in assisting dependents of soldiers who fell in battle or were disabled. At the same time a large number of societies have concluded their work and have been removed from the register. Some 804 societies have been registered under the Act since its passage. Of these approximately 400 are still registered and active.

The following is a list of the societies registered during the year:—

It may be pertinent to add that the department has also had supervision of the administration of the Bankruptcy Act and has discharged certain important duties in connection therewith. All applications for appointment as trustees under section 14 of the Act and bonds of authorized trustees are filed and registered in the department. The General Rules were also drawn up, as you are aware, under your direction, and issued from the department. It is not expected, however, that the administration of the Act hereafter will require much departmental attention. The Act primarily concerns the courts.

I have the honour to be, sir,

Your obedient servant,

THOMAS MULVEY,
Under-Secretary of State.

REGISTRAR'S BRANCH.

[1]An annual statutory return of bonds is submitted to Parliament under section 32 of chapter 1, R.S.C., 1906, giving full particulars of the bonds registered in the branch since last return.

[2]Quarterly returns of these lands were sent to the registrar of each city and county in the province of Ontario, and to the ecretary-treasurer of each city and county in the province of Quebec in which patents were issued, and a copy of the several eturns in Ontario was also sent to the provincial secretary of Ontario.

During the year copies have been furnished of over 5,000 pages of documents, manuscripts and records.

The large number of inquiries and applications for copies of naturalization certificates during the year, has entailed a great deal of searching through the registers containing the lists of naturalized aliens.

The searching for names through the Dominion and provincial lists of incorporated companies in order to prevent duplication has also occupied much time.

A considerable amount of miscellaneous work has been performed, such as proof-reading, furnishing memoranda of various kinds, and supplying information from the indices and records.

A list of public officers to whom commissions have been issued, and a list of Boards of Trade and Trade Unions registered since the last list published (Annual Report, 1915-16) are also submitted herewith.

I have the honour to be, sir,

Your obedient servant,

THOMAS MULVEY,
Deputy Registrar General of Canada.

REPORT OF THE COMPANIES BRANCH

OTTAWA, April 1, 1920.

Secretary of State of Canada.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit for your information the following report of the work of the Companies Branch of your department for the year 1919-20.

I may point out, for purposes of record, that the Companies Branch was organized early in the year just closed and a solicitor appointed to direct its operations. By the establishment of this branch it has been possible to centralize the work connected with the administration of the Companies Act and to cope more effectively with the large increase in the number of applications received during the year.

The number of companies incorporated under the Companies Act and amending Acts during the fiscal year 1919-20 was 991 (including 27 corporations without share capital), with a total capitalization of $603,210,850, and the number of existing companies to which supplementary letters patent were issued was 165, of which 88 increased their capital stock to the amount of $85,187,750, 10 decreased their capital stock, $19,530,000, the remaining 67 being granted supplementary letters patent for various purposes such as changing names, extending powers, etc., making a total of 1,156 charters and supplementary charters issued during the year, an increase of 490 over the previous year, and the maximum for any year in the department's history; while the total capitalization of new companies and the net increased capital of existing companies amounted to $668,868,600, the maximum total. The usual synopses (with index thereto) giving full particulars of all companies incorporated, as well as of all existing companies to which supplementary letters patent were granted during the fiscal year, is appended thereto.

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

THOMAS MULVEY,
Under-Secretary of State.

LIST OF COMPANIES WHICH HAVE SUBMITTED THE RETURN PRESCRIBED BY SECTION 106 OF THE COMPANIES ACT, FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDED MARCH 31, 1919.

The total number of companies which have submitted the summary prescribed by section 106 of the Companies Act for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1919, up to and including March 31, 1920, is 2,325, which indicates an increase of 725, when compared with the number (1,590) submitted during the previous fiscal year.

During the fiscal year ended March 31, 1920, 735 delinquent returns for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1918, were also received, making a total of 3,060 returns received during the past fiscal year.

Improvement is noted in the manner in which the requirements of section 106 of the Companies Act are being observed. Many companies, however, are still in default and should comply with the law without further delay.

The Act provides a penalty of twenty dollars a day for default in submitting the summary to this department, and every director and manager of a company who knowingly and wilfully authorizes or permits such default is also liable to the penalty, which may be recovered on summary conviction.

Furthermore, subsection 8 of section 106 of the Act prescribes that the name of a company which, for three consecutive years, has omitted to sumbit the return may be given in whole or in part to a new company, subject to certain provisos.

REPORT OF THE NATURALIZATION BRANCH

Secretary of State of Canada

SIR,—I have the honour to submit, for your information, the following statement of the Naturalization Branch of your department, for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1920.

The total number of certificates granted under the Naturalization Acts, 1914 and 1919, for the twelve months ended March 31, 1920, was 3,004.

A schedule showing the certificate number, name, former nationality, date of oath of allegiance, occupation and present residence of persons naturalized under the Naturalization Act, 1914 and the Naturalization Act, 1919, as registered in this branch during the fiscal years ended March 31, 1916, 1917, 1918, 1919 and 1920, follows.

Following the above schedule will be found a further schedule showing under the heading of country of origin the number of persons naturalized during the above years.

I have the honour to be, sir,

Your obedient servant,

THOMAS MULVEY,
Under-Secretary of State.

The Naturalization Act, 1914

List of Aliens to Whom Certificates of Naturalization Under Section 2 of the Naturalization Act, 1914, were Granted by the Secretary of State of Canada and Whose Oaths of Allegiance were Registered in the Office of the Secretary of State of Canada during the Fiscal Year ended March 31, 1916.

Sundry	136 84
Total	$387,633 32

Of the foregoing amount, the sum of $39,927.50 was transferred to the King's Printer for advertising notices of Letters Patent under The Companies Act in the Canada Gazette, $16,111.95 was refunded upon applications withdrawn or not granted and $52 was transferred to other departments, leaving a net amount of $331,593.87.

The net revenue exceeded the expenditure of the department for salaries and contingencies by $234,931.66, and after providing for the customary expenditure under The Naturalization Acts, the cost of supplying the Library of the High Commissioner's office in London with Canadian books and periodicals, expenses under The Canada Temperance Act, etc., left a credit balance of $212,194.15.

I have the honour to be, sir,

Your obedient servant,

THOMAS MULVEY,
Under-Secretary of State.
